The wall collapsed, and the gateman's shack was the only structure that remained on the three-acre site.

The sight was especially melancholy to a reporter who had seen the non - levelled stages alive with the bright lights of film making. For more than 40 years the studio had clung to life. It finally died to make way for that symbol of modern times, the shopping centre.

In 1910, King Vidor built a barn stage on the property next to what now is Goldwyn Studios, in 1925, Educational Films, backed by the Hudson's Bay Company, took over the place and created a modern film studio.

MADE COMMERCIAL FILMS

Educational had started making commercials at first, but turned out to be anything but what its name connoted.

"We were struck with it," says Jack White, onetime studio head and now retired in Palm Springs. He converted Educational in to a fun factory that produced two - reel comedies with such figures as Larry Beman, Thelma Todd, Al St. John, Lupton Lane and Lloyd Hamilton.

CBS News President Will Boycott Awards of Emmys

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's biggest mystery is why did CBS News President Fred W. Friendly decide Tuesday to boycott the industry's Emmy awards.

Friendly, producer of CBS Reports until his elevation seven weeks ago, says he long has been concerned about the Emmys' growing importance as the industry's top awards.

"This came home to me again when I saw the ballot and it made absolutely no sense," he said. "I decided that it was important to do something about it, and I did."

Without clearing the matter with his superiors, Friendly said he wrote a memorandum to his program producers ordering the boycott of the May 25 awards show. It will be telecast by rival NBC.

All of Friendly's criticisms are familiar. His two main points were that many award categories are unfair catch-alls for dissimilar programs and that many academy voters fail to see many nominated programs.

ABC Television also has announced its withdrawal of support from the academy. NBC is remaining loyal. It is studiously trying to produce a 90-minute awards special that suddenly seems shorn of glamour.

No word has come that the entire CBS television network will follow Friendly.

Income Tax Explained

By C. A. MILLER

Any taxpayer who reaches 65 in the taxation year, may claim the additional $500 exemption. It does not matter what time in the year he attains that age, even if his birthday was on Dec. 31 he could claim an exemption of $1,500.

This increased exemption applies only if the taxpayer himself and not to anyone claimed as a dependant. If a taxpayer and his wife are both over 65 and the wife has no income, the taxpayer could only claim a total exemption of $2,500. If the taxpayers wife is 70 or over and is in receipt of the old age security pension, his exemption on her behalf must be reduced.

A wife may have an income of $250 before it will affect the husbands allowance for her. As the old age pension for 1963 totals $810 the exemption for a wife receiving it is only $470. This is arrived at by deducting the $810 she receives from $1,250. There is space provided for this calculation on the income tax return.

Single taxpayers who have been claiming the exemption if married status $1,000 will not be sent all often make an error by claiming $1,500 for it when the parent reaches 65. In other cases where a married taxpayer has been claiming $550 for a parent will often err by increasing the $550 to $1,050 when the parent becomes 65 years of age.

The point to bear in mind is that the additional $500 exemption applies only to the taxpayer who has reached that age. If he taxpayer has failed to claim this additional exemption, and many have, they should write their district income tax office (not Ottawa) and request an adjustment for those years in which the omission occurred.

Other personal replies pertaining to income tax problems, please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and address and 25 cents in coin for each question you wish answered.

Question: I am 65 years of age in November 1963. Can I claim the extra $500 exemption for all year or just part of it covering the period after my birthday?

Answer: No. The additional $500 applies only to the taxpayer it does not apply to dependant.

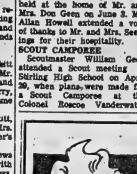
Several projects are planned such as height judging, compass reading, water boiling, fire lighting and the making of various gadgets for use around the campsite.



The Scouts are to provide their own food and a small registration fee will be charged to defray some miscellaneous expenses.

On Sunday, May 17, Capt. James Thompson of Madoc will conduct a religious service at the camp ground for the boys of the Protestant faith while arrangements are to be made for those of the Roman Catholic faith to attend Mass at one of the local churches.

Hospital Council Proposed by Health Minister

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Ontario Health Minister Matthew Dymond suggested Tuesday that a hospital council of public-spirited citizens should be established in every area with more than one hospital.

Speaking here at the opening of a new wing at St. Joseph's General Hospital, he said the council's duties would be to screen and assess the whole area and decide upon its needs.

The council would be composed of persons who do not hold a seat on a hospital board.

Dr. Dymond warned that hospital costs should be watched so that, as well as providing adequate patient care, "we are doing everything possible to run as economical a show as we can."

France to Keep Nuclear Weapon Secrets to Itself

THE HAGUE (AP)—France promised the United States and Britain Tuesday night to keep its nuclear weapons and secrets to itself, French sources said.

LIBERALS' WIN IN SASK. CONFIRMED

Restrict Food, Medicine For Cuba

Eastern Cuban Port Is Raided By Guerrillas

Say War of Sabotage Now Just Beginning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commerce department ordered today restrictions on shipment of food and medicine to Cuba.

Under existing orders, these were the only two categories of goods which could be shipped to the Communist - dominated island without specific U.S. government permission.

The commerce department now will require a specific license for the sale of food and medicines as well as any other item. The only exception will be gift parcels.

"This is not an embargo," a department spokesman said. "We merely want to put these things under surveillance."

However, such orders can be used to impose a total embargo if the government wishes.

Under the license requirement a U.S. businessman who wants to sell food to Cuba would have to formally request and obtain approval of the sale by the commerce department.

It was disclosed Wednesday that Cubana have approached U.S. companies about the possible purchase of millions of dollars worth of goods.

The commerce department said the order requiring specific export licenses for shipments of food and medicines does not mean that such shipments are precluded. Rather, the department wishes to be informed of all intended trade with Cuba and thereby be in a position to act according to the national interest of the United States. Each decision will be made in the light of all relevant circumstances."

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Exile forces say their attack on a railroad mill and port in eastern Cuba is just the beginning in their war of sabotage and nerves aimed at toppling Fidel Castro's Communist regime.

The Revolutionary Recovery Movement, a military action group, said in its "first war communique" Wednesday that a combined raid by seaborne commandos and guerrillas already in the hills gained control of the port of Pilon for three hours and left the sugar mill burning. It said other raids would come soon.

Premier Castro in a statement acknowledged the attack, but said it came from a ship standing at sea and not from ground forces.

Castro's angry comment was broadcast by Havana radio about 1 hour after the attack which the exiles said took place at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday.

The communique did not give the number of the attacking force but listed commandos, frogmen, combat engineers, signal corps and torpedo units as well as guerrillas, as participants.

REDS SUFFER LOSSES

The exiles claimed they suffered no losses "but said there was heavy fighting" with "a numerically superior Communist army." A spokesman for the invaders said Castro forces suffered considerable losses.

Manuel Artime, head of Revolutionary Recovery Movement, accompanied Wednesday's raiding party, spokesmen said. He was one of 1,100 prisoners of the Bay of Pigs invasion who were

Uneasy Peace in Cambridge Maintained by National Guard

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — National Guard troops with bayonets at the ready continued to maintain uneasy peace in Cambridge, twice halting demonstrations and once standing firm between gatherings of Negroes and white persons.

At least a dozen bottles were thrown—smashing in the street—when about 150 Negroes and 300 white persons gathered on opposite sides of a cordon of 50 guardsmen in Race Street late Wednesday night.

"Let's get back," Negro leaders said. "You don't want to fight the tear gas." Both groups eventually drifted away.

Tear gas was used Monday night to break up a melee in this community of 12,000. Ten persons were injured and 13 arrests made.

There has been no violence the last two nights, despite a series of showdown meetings.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cool northerly winds will give cloudy skies in southern sections followed by clearing this evening. With a high pressure area over the entire province by tonight, skies will be clear and temperatures will dip to near the 40 degree mark. Friday will give moderating temperatures with sunny skies in all but northwestern regions.

Elsewhere, a student demonstration at the U.S. Army supply shop in Madison, N.J., and some progress appeared in the making Wednesday as a day of calm on the civil rights bill in Washington.

Mississippian James Sessions of Drew University and three Negro students were taken into custody at Madison after they tried to get hair cuts at a barber shop.

The streets followed weeks of picketing at five of the town's seven barber shops where barbers have refused to cut the hair of Negroes.

Sessions, of Waco, Tex., and the three students were each charged with disorderly conduct. They were released on $50 bail.

In Washington, Senate leaders reached complete agreement on a package of compromise amendments designed to produce enough support to halt the flood of oratory over the civil rights bill.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, who drew up the original package of 70 amendments, said a good agreement was achieved. Now, he said, the job is for the leaders to get the support to senators of both parties.

"We have done nothing to hurt the major objectives of the bill," said Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the Democratic whip.

Attorney - General Robert F. Kennedy, speaking for the administration, told reporters "this bill is perfectly satisfactory to me" with the changes proposed.

Khrushchev and Nasser Push Button To Divert Nile Into New Channel

ASWAN (AP)—Triumphantly pushing a button, Premier Khrushchev and President Nasser initiated the course of the Nile today and sent it surging into a diversion channel around the site of the Soviet-financed Aswan high Dam.

Joining the leaders in the ceremony marking completion of the first stage of the $1,200,000,000 irrigation and hydro-electric project were Presidents Abdel Salam Aref of Iraq and Abdullah Salal of Yemen.

Khrushchev jubilantly joined hands with the Arab leaders as they gazed down on the rushing waters from a richly carpeted pavilion.

The button set off a 353-pound dynamite charge that blew out a plug of rock and earth and allowed the Nile to flow into the channel cut through granite. Fireworks shot into the sky. Some of them formed the flags of the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic.

The ceremony marked a milestone in the project begun four years ago and for which the Soviet Union has loaned more than $270,000,000 in credits and supplied several thousand engineers and technicians. It is Russia's greatest aid venture in Africa.

Before pressing the button, Khrushchev and Nasser raised their arms in salute to more than 25,000 spectators ringing the cliffs towering above the dam site.

In a jubilant speech, Khrushchev recalled his long association with Nasser.

"All these things are giving me the right to call you comrade," he said.

"I am happy to declare here on this historic occasion that the Soviet Union has decided today to present Gamal Abdel Nasser the highest decoration as a Hero of the Soviet Union."

Khrushchev also made Egyptian Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer a Hero of the Soviet Union. Amer negotiated most of the arms deals between the U.A.R. and the Soviet Union.

Diversion of the Nile will permit work to go forward on the high dam itself, a rock fill structure 2.6 miles long and 436 feet wide. To be completed in another five years, it will harness the Nile for power development, flood control and increased irrigation.

The ceremony in brilliant sunlight 400 miles south of Cairo marked the dramatic peak of Khrushchev's 17-day state visit to Egypt, his first trip to Africa.

Six Die In Fire At Hull

HULL, Que. (CP)—A 30-year-old unemployed laborer, Yvon Wooden, and his five children perished in a fire early today when an early-morning fire trapped them in their second-storey flat here.

The mother, Mrs. Denise Wooden, also 30, escaped death by leaping out a window to the sidewalk below. She was treated for shock and bruises and released from hospital.

The dead children are Yvon Jr., 2, twin girls Louise and Lise, 4, Robert, 3, and Andre, 7.

Fire gutted the second storey of the old frame house in west-end Hull shortly after 7 a.m. EDT and was put out quickly by firemen from three stations.

The Wooden family moved into the flat last July.

TEN OTHERS ESCAPE

Occupants of the downstairs flat, Clermont L. Mc, and Mrs. Charles Woodford and their eight children, escaped unhurt.

Mrs. Jacqueline Woodford, a half-sister of Mrs. Wooden, was treated at hospital for shock and released.

Mr. Woodford, 30, told reporters he heard glass breaking and cries for help as he was getting up about 7:05 o'clock.

Mrs. Wooden was shouting, "Baby, baby," her nickname for Mr. Woodford) fire, fire, get my children out."

Mr. Woodford, who bought the house only three days ago after being a tenant for eight years, went up the only stairway leading to the upstairs flat but could get up in because of dense smoke.

Mrs. Wooden then jumped out of a window and was pulled to her husband to throw the children to her through the same window, but there was no reply.

Fire chief Roger Poitras said the father and the children apparently died of asphyxiation in the heavy smoke.

FATHER IN TEARS

"We found the children in bed and the father was lying on the floor," he said.

"I guess he tried to get them out."

The temperature was a chilly 46 degrees when Mrs. Woodford called the fire department about 7:05 a.m. Then Mr. Woodford ran to a nearby alarm box and a neighbor called firemen about 7:10 a.m.

The Woodfords roused their children and evacuated the house quickly. There was heavy water damage downstairs but no fire damage.

The children are twins Pierre and Pierrette, Suzanne, 14 Michael, 11, Richard, 11, Robert, 10, Claude, 9, and Carol, 8.

Mr. Woodford said he tried vainly to find a ladder to get into the five-room second-storey flat.

Firemen are continuing their investigation into the cause of the outbreak. The Woodens had an electric stove.

Nationalist China Prepares Troops for Harassing Raids

TAIPEI (Reuters) — The United States has given tacit approval to Nationalist China to prepare troops for "harassing raids" against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam, reliable sources said today.

The sources predicted Formosa might likely offer South Viet Nam contingents of well-trained special forces, but not regular troops.

If actually employed the Formosan "Rangers" would probably operate under the command of Chinese Nationalists officers, according to the sources.

One of the reasons for the "Rangers" operation under Nationalist command was because of U.S. strict policy of avoiding its guerrilla warfare against the Communists on the mainland.

Another reason was that the troops fighting alone or with the South Vietnamese would not compromise the U.S. policy not to encourage the Nationalists to take offensive operations.

For several years Formosa has been intensifying training for special forces units designed to carry out "harassing" warfare on the Chinese mainland, according to informed sources.

The training program, conducted secretly with assistance of American instructors in rugged mountains in Taiwan, was little known to public.

According to acanty information available, the training program included such courses as parachuting, surveying ability, sabotage, guerrilla warfare in the jungle and on rugged terrain, leadership in citing revolts and so forth.

Tories Putting Popularity To Test in Four By-elections

LONDON (CP)—The government is putting its current popularity to the test today with four by-elections in scattered parts of Britain.

All four were formerly Conservative seats.

Recent political trends in local government elections indicate the Tories will almost certainly hold Winchester — majority of 12,792 in the last election—and probably lose the Glasgow industrial seat of Hamilton. They held Rutherglen by a sender 1,522 majority in 1959.

The big guns of the major parties are thus out in force in the two remaining battlefields—Bury St. Edmunds in Suffolk and the Wiltshire constituency of Devizes.

In Bury St. Edmunds, Conservative candidate Eldon Griffiths, a former journalist who now writes speeches for top Tories, is defending a 7,952 majority.

The real doorstep-to-doorstep contest is in Devizes, a peaceful market town where the constituency boundaries embrace both rich Tory farming country and a chunk of the industrial centre of Swindon.

The government's 1959 majority of 2,833 in Devizes could be erased by a swing of about five per cent, recent national opinion polls give Labor's lead as anything from eight to 17 per cent.

With barely five months to go before the October general election, Tory chiefs desperately hope to keep Devizes and Bury bear out their claims that the tide has turned in Conservative party fortunes.

Four more byelections are pending, one created by the recent death of Canadian - born Tory MP Sir Beverley Baxter. The standing of the House now is: Conservatives 355; Labor 258; Liberals seven; Independents two; vacancies eight.

Figures in the last general election were:

Devizes — Conservatives 20,862; labor 16,844; independent 7,707.

Winchester — Conservatives 24,824; Labor 12,132.

Rutherglen — Conservatives 19,146; Labor 17,624.

Canada's Proposal Accepted

THE HAGUE (CP)—Canada's plan for a NATO mediation role between Greece and Turkey over Cyprus has been generally accepted, it was learned today as the North Atlantic Alliance ministerial meeting drew to a close.

Wording of the agreement has yet to be worked out but a source emerged from the conference room to say that Greece and Turkey had agreed to a mediation role by Secretary-General Dirk Stikker of The Netherlands.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada had put forward the plan on the basis of a 1956 formula evolved by NATO's "three wise men" — Canada's Lester Pearson, Italy's Gaetano Martino and Norway's Halvard Lange.

The formula, now part of Article 1 of the NATO charter, provides that on request the secretary-general can mediate between disputing NATO members.

It is stressed here that NATO does not propose any mediation role in Cyprus itself—that is an affair for the United Nations, but only between Greece and Turkey.

Cyprus was one of the key issues up for discussion among members of the 15-nation alliance on the final day of their three - day ministerial meeting here.

Stikker retires as NATO secretary-general Aug. 1. He recently visited Athens and Ankara for talks with ministers there.

No Turnovers Show Up In Final Count

Leader Wants Mandate Honored Immediately

REGINA (CP) — The Liberal party's victory in last month's Saskatchewan general election was confirmed Wednesday night when returning officers made a final count of the ballots.

Liberal control of the 59-seat legislature was assured near midnight here when the re-election of party supporter D. J. Steuart was confirmed in Prince Albert.

It brought to 30 the number of confirmed Liberal victories in the April 22 election. At the same time the CCF, in power for 20 years, had 19 seats confirmed and the election of the Progressive Conservative was assured.

There were no turnovers from election-night results in the 49 seats which were counted Wednesday.

Results April 22 gave the Liberals 28 seats, the CCF 20 and the Conservatives one.

REMAIN UNCOUNTED

Of the remaining two seats still being counted, six are held by the CCF and three by Liberals. Final count in the five-member Saskatoon riding probably won't be ready for a few days.

The next move is up to Premier Woodrow Lloyd, who entered the first CCF cabinet in 1944 and took over the party leadership in 1961.

Premier Lloyd said he was waiting to see the official results before commenting.

Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher, 47, said the Liberal mandate "should be honored at the earliest opportunity."

When the legislature was dissolved in March for Mr. Lloyd's first election campaign as premier, the CCF held 34 seats compared with 25 for the Liberals. The new legislature will have four additional seats.

The campaign was the second for Mr. Thatcher since he took over the Liberal leadership in 1959. He sat in Parliament as a member until he left the party in 1955.

The final count confirmed the Judicial Inquiry Soon Ends

WHITE RIVER, Ont. (CP)—A judicial inquiry ended abruptly Wednesday after spectators ignored repeated appeals from the bench for evidence concerning misconduct in the affairs of White River.

Finally, Judge James F. Ross of Thunder Bay said the citizens of White River would have no one but themselves to blame if the contents of his report were not to their satisfaction.

Proceedings began Wednesday with lawyer John Ryan of Sudbury withdrawing an earlier submission on points he wanted covered.

The inquiry was ordered by the Liberal government improvement district of White River area run by Chairman Naido Brazet in his personal gains.

Mr. Ryan said he acted on behalf of Father John Kapteln, local Roman Catholic priest, and Rev. Michael Dumville of Cobalt, former Anglican minister in White River. The clergymen were acting 123 citizens who signed a petition for an inquiry.

TO ATTEND

About 75 persons attended the hearing's opening session Wednesday after a preliminary sitting in February. There are 160 residents in the community 150 miles northwest of Sault Ste. Marie.

John Wintermeyer, former leader of the Ontario Liberal party, said during last fall's provincial election campaign that Mr. Bracci, chairman of the board of trustees and president of the White River Progressive Conservative Association, used his public office to further his financial position. He also said Mr. Bracci owned most of the commercial property in the community and ruled the real-

LOS ANGELES (AP)—At the bright and bubbly age of two, merry Maribel stands in her crib and throws kisses at the whole, wide, wonderful world.

That she can do so is a medical miracle.

Maribel has been through hell —a living death with half her upper torso slowly rotting from a mysterious infection.

Two hundred physicians—half the staff of Charitable Children's Hospital—mobilized their talents after Maribel's parents were flown here Oct. 15 from Yuma, Ariz.

Maribel was dying. Her heart was "in failure," as doctors say, scarcely beating. Her left side was black and arm and lower lip were swollen grotesquely and black.

A few days earlier at their home in San Luis 15 miles below the Mexican border Maribel fell ill and feverish. Her left arm began to swell from a mass of small blues. Two marks appeared on her lower lip.

The attack, apparently by some insect or reptile, was not witnessed. Maribel was too young to talk about it. But glis monsters, lizards up to two feet long, had been seen in the neighborhood. Some species are venomous.

The village doctors could only tell Mrs. Olea the child was dying.

Mrs. Olea hitched a ride to Yuma. After emergency treatment, Maribel's life was moved to Childrens Hospital.

By that time all traces of the original poison had disappeared. Whatever it was, the poison had caused blood vessels to constrict, shutting off oxygen and nutriments. Gangrene—tissue death had set in.

Maribel was given antibiotics to fight secondary infections, blood transfusions to fight anemia, glucose to give her fighting heart, and food.

Special nurses around the clock began a painstaking routine of preparing the tortured body for skin grafts.

Wet bandages soaking the infected crust soft while new flesh formed underneath. By Nov. 15, one month after she entered hospital, Maribel was ready for her first operation. Six more followed.

The gangrene was whipped, but doctors faced a new problem. The area was so large that scar tissue threatened to immobilize the child's left side. X-ray therapy, to discourage growth of scar tissue, was instituted.

Maribel learned to smile, even to laugh, when gifts came in from all over the United States, Canada and Mexico.

Maribel goes home soon to Sail Cofa to rejoin sisters Gabrella, 8, and Marsa, 1, and brother Carlos, 6. Her mother works there as a waitress to support the fatherless family.

Headlights and Front-End Alignment Trouble Most Frequent Faults in Check

Improperly aimed headlights and front end alignment troubles are the two most frequent faults found in cars passing through the Department of Transport vehicle safety check now in operation on the city market square.

The safety check service operated by the provincial department with the co-operation of city police and city garage operators, will be in the city until May 22 and officials expect lineups of waiting motorists for the entire period. There will be no testing on the holiday on Monday.

Headlights, mile-alignment and burned out rear marker lights are the most common vehicle faults, but safety check service officials will not say what percentage of cars taking the test are found completely safe.

The tests are free and voluntary and a high percentage of motorists show every co-operation in getting vehicle faults remedied.

The estimate is that 90 per cent of motorists whose vehicles show some safety fault will go immediately to a garage and have things corrected.

In any case the interest of local motorists in having their vehicles safety checked is showing no decrease with long lineups at waiting vehicles continuing.

"We are surprised and happy with the interest in the tests," stated Police Chief J. B. McLaughlin. "The lineups show local motorists are taking full advantage of the opportunity of having their cars checked."

"The pigs were wandering everywhere inside and we have two weeks of cleaning up ahead of us," said Capt. Treffle Chamberland of Valley Junction, Que.

The company is using the farm, with its five houses, as a command post.

Chairman Says Mayor Beat 'The Gun'

By GUY RONDEAU

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Mayor Rosaire Gauthier of Chicoutimi said Wednesday night it is unacceptable to French-speaking people that their language and aspirations should continue to be subjugated in Canada, when for they have contributed so much to the country's progress.

He made the statement at a brief talk to members of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, whom he welcomed to this centre 100 miles north of Quebec City.

The royal commission holds a regional meet in Chicoutimi today, and Mayor Gauthier said it is urgent for citizens to meet and discuss their problems openly.

He said it might improve mutual understanding if the teaching of French were made compulsory in all provinces.

Cultural and artistic exchanges between provinces would help, and some revision of the Canadian constitution was necessary.

Andre Laurendeau, co-chairman of the royal commission, remarked that the mayor had "jumped the gun" on today's hearing by making his views known early.

Peter Findlay, research and liaison officer for the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism, said Wednesday in Ottawa the commission has not yet decided how it is going to hold hearings in Toronto, Montreal and other large cities.

The question of how a group of 10 representatives of the commission can receive representative groups of people in large cities is a major problem.

He said he does not expect the commission to make a final report for at least four years.

A 17-year-old Tranton boy pleaded guilty to drunk driving before being involved in an accident near Stirling last weekend.

Donald Paul Scott was charged after the car he was driving swerved off Highway 14 and police alleged - - took out 10 guardposts.

The youth told Magistrate T. G. Wills he believed seven of the posts had been bowled over in a previous accident and that became carried in a loose wire what he swerved to avoid an oncoming car.

Remanding him a week for sentence, the magistrate noted it was "an unusual case - - a 17-year-old boy not only consuming alcohol but driving a car and having an accident.

Council Adopts 'Go Slow' Policy On City Land

A move to have city - owned property in the St. Paul Street district turned over to the city parks board for development as a bayshore parks area was deferred by city council Tuesday.

The property which the parks board wants is that which was turned down yesterday as the site for the new city public works building.

Alderman Donald Jose as chairman of the parks board made the request, noting the industry in the area along with labor were prepared to co-operate in the development of property as a parks area.

But council adopted a "go slow" policy it being pointed out that since ownership of the property was turned over to the parks board the city would lose complete control.

So the motion was deferred pending council decision as to whether the city had any immediate need for the property.

Council Decides to Build P. W. Barn on Coleman Flats Against Advice of Engineer

City's proposed new $175,000 public works barn to be built on Coleman Flats instead of on city-owned property on the St. Paul-Newberry Street area as was originally planned.

This was the decision of city council at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon as city fathers disregarded a recommendation of last week against the wishes of city engineer, Wilbur Purcell, voted to build the works barn, on Coleman Flats instead.

However, the engineer's project did not appeal to either the public utilities or the transit commission, and plans were prepared for the works barn only.

However, plans call for installation of the city weigh scales in conjunction with the city barn project.

ENGINEER GIVES VIEWS

City Engineer Purcell told council at the beginning of yesterday's discussion that he favored the St. Paul Street site because of its better location for city work.

He said the St. Paul Street location allowed much better access to all parts of the city and was more central.

He said the Coleman Flats area would require construction of an access road and a public utilities service would have to be filled.

"I investigated the Coleman Flats site and still recommend the St. Paul Street location," he said.

But the majority of council members had different ideas and following a lengthy discussion approved by a 10-4 vote a recommendation from Alderman Jack Allin to build on Coleman Flats.

Favoring the Coleman Flats location were: Aldermen Allin, Boyle, David, Dascos, Hargason, Jarvis, Jose, Mayor Whalen and Williams.

Opposed were Aldermen Bailey, Corke and Rayburn. Five opposed.

CHANGED MINDS

Alderman Allin and Alderman Knox David, both members of last year's council, said that they approved of St. Paul Street location last year, but had now changed their minds.

In contrast to the thinking of the city engineer, several members of council supporting the Coleman Flats location, felt that site would be more suitable for city purposes.

Alderman Doug Boyle felt that the opinion of the city parks engineer should be sought before deciding on the location of the city barns.

Alderman Jose Corke said his only concern was that the Coleman Flats area might ultimately be used to better advantage than a site for the city barns.

He felt this area was more suitable for industry or wholesale warehousing. He, on the other hand the St. Paul Street site would be little other use than a site for a city barn.

MIGHT SPOIL EFFECT

But other aldermen favoring the Coleman Flats site felt the harbour area should be reserved for park use and visualized a future parkway along the waterfront.

Plans for the city barn permit call for a two-storey public works building, 77 feet by 142, providing office space, garage, repairs and stock rooms with a separate open garage and a weigh scales building.

Mr. Purcell said choice of the Coleman St. location would not necessitate any change in plans although a change in orientation might be necessary.

Council gave third reading to the by-law authorizing the city engineer to call tenders for construction of the works building project.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Five persons died when an F-105 fighter plane plunged into a new housing development where bouncing children were hanging out laundry and children were at play.

Moments after takeoff Wednesday from nearby Nellis Air Force Base, the jet lost altitude, swerved and then smiled into the tract. The plane exploded, and fire swept over a wide area. Seven dwellings were destroyed.

A few blocks away, 800 children were attending classes in the Lincoln elementary school. They were in no danger.

The plane plummeted to earth at the far edge of the development, just beyond a cleared area the pilot was fighting to reach.

The dead:

Lieut. Raynor L. Hebert, 26, pilot of Fort Arthur, Tex.; Betty Lou le Dane, 31, and her daughter, Teresa, 3; two children of the Paul Lowry family; Derwent, 3, and Josephine, three months. Aside from Hebert, all were residents of the tract.

WARNED BUILDERS

Two weeks ago, in an interview, Brig. - - Boyd Hubbard, Nellis commander, had warned contractors that building houses close to the air base was "courting disaster." The development is seven miles away but in the path of runways, those on the scene said. His homes are in the $15,000 price range.

Vincent Rohde, an eyewitness, said that when the plane hit "it was like a bubble filled with water. It was just a big splash. I saw two women hanging out clothes where it hit. They disappeared. I heard a woman scream. There was a tremendous heat wave. I'll never forget that scream."

Authorities evacuated a 20-square-block area upon learning the plane carried six small practice bombs and 1,000 20-millimetre cannon rounds.

The pilot had no opportunity to jettison his fuel.

"When th - re heavy like that they sink pretty fast," Gen. Hubbard said. "They glide like a brick."

NARCOTIC ADDICTS

The federal health department estimated there were at least 3,656 narcotic addicts in Canada in 1962.

Paint Chips Matched Says Cpl. Howting

A Stirling man today pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident in which a hit-n-hiker was left injured by the roadside in the Oak Hills, March 23.

Harvey Frank Haggerty went to trial this afternoon before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in a case that expected to bear from at least a dozen witnesses.

Mr. Haggerty was charged after 51-year-old Clifton Gray, of Marmora, received two broken legs after he was hit by a car on Highway 14. He was found by the roadside some times later by a woman motorist.

Much of this morning's testimony was confined to evidence from OPP Corporal Harold Howting, identification officer at Belleville district headquarters.

The corporal told of finding paint chips at the scene which he later matched to a car owned by Haggerty.

Horticultural Soc. Hears Talk On Use of Spraying Materials

One of the most successful meetings of the Belleville Horticultural Society was attended by an overflow audience recently to hear Mr. Byron Beeler of the Ontario Department of Agriculture at Picton.

Speaking on the use of spraying material, Mr. Beeler drew to the listeners' attention the problems involved. Among these, the first is the distinction between the terms insecticides, fungicide and herbicide. They are, as their names imply designed for specific purposes — the killing of insects, the removal of fungus, or the killing of broad-leaved weeds respectively. Care must be taken and caution exercised in keeping the sprayers reserved for specific purposes, and even greater care and caution used in following the specific directions on the label. "Do not take chances, nor use your own better judgment."

The manufacturers know best in this war of nature, and since poisons are being used, we must protect ourselves, our children and in some instances pets. Prune a purely practical point of view, flowering shrubs or trees should not be sprayed during the blooming period since the bees working in the blossoms are frequently killed, and whole hives have been wiped out. Among fruit and vegetable crops this loss is magnified since the chance of pollination are also wiped out. So again the warning is common sense and caution."

MANY INSECTICIDES

Among the insecticides malathion is perhaps the most toxic spray available to home gardens. In varying proportions it is used to control red mites on white cedar in May.

Dieldrin may be used for the weevil eating bark and foliage of Japanese Yew, for the wood borer. This insect is hard to kill.

CARE OF ROSES

For roses, sulphur may be applied as a dust to prevent mildew and plealtan used according to manufacturer's directions for black spot; this can be done every week, and a knapsack sprayer the most effective kind.

On the business side of the meeting volunteers were called for planting the altar around the industrial signs now in bloom with tulips. Early plans were also mentioned concerning a September flower show, and publicity concerning a bus trip to Ottawa under the auspices of the IODE.

SWAP NIGHT

It was "Swap Night" for the members who wished to exchange any extra plants. This annual "swap" was a feature performance, with the interested participants most satisfied with their exchanges.

As planned, too, the members each received three seedlings of Colorado Blue Spruce free. Extra trees were available at a low fee of three for a quarter. In this connection, those members who were not able to procure their trees may do so by calling at 11 Strachan St. for their free trees and any citizen may get them at the regular price by calling at the same address.

URGES TREE PLANTING

Mr. Phil Dodds, a powerful force in Prince Edward County horticulture and a member of the Provincial executive addressed the meeting and brought genuine encouragement. Noted for his devotion to tree planting he urged his listeners to carry on the present program and spread out in all directions possible.

At the end of the meeting the usual question and answer period brought out many interesting and informative remarks. Since poisons were the theme, the poison central centre at the Belleville General Hospital was publicized. The availability of a product used for killing present growth but which leaves a toxic residue in the soil and permits immediate resowing is an interesting matter. Of equal importance is the use of a soil drench for plants up to 6' tall and also the new systemic poisons which enter the sap stream of the plants. Always though, the idea of care, caution and knowledgeable use.

CONDUCT AUCTION

To conclude the meeting, an auction conducted by Mr. S. W. Hodgson, saw two ladies of the audience purchase a white rose and an interesting window planter, ready to use with permanent plantings. The interesting evening closed on a note struck by Mr. Phil Dodds, "Make the world a little more beautiful and a little bit better, because you have lived in it."

...Says Offer Inducement Not Bribe

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Gerard Girouard (PC — Labelle) said Wednesday he considered the offer of a fat election campaign fund as a temptation or an inducement—but not a bribe—to get him to join Liberal ranks in Parliament.

The tall young lawyer, who switched last month to the Progressive Conservative party from Social Credit, repeated to the Commons privileges committee the complaints which resulted in the Commons' decision to have an investigation.

In testimony sprinkled with refusals to reply and complaints that questions were out of order Mr. Girouard said Liberal National Organizer Keith Davey tried to recruit him with the fund offer and other benefits.

He named four Liberal MPs —Maurice Moreau (York—Scarborough), Herb Gray (Essex West), Jean McNulty (Leeds) and Joe Macaluso (Hamilton West) — as witnesses to the attempt after displaying initial reluctance to bring their names into the matter publicly.

Mr. Girouard, testifying under oath, spent almost two hours telling the story which sparked the committee inquiry and undergoing cross - examination from Conservative, New Democratic and Creditiste MPs.

MEMBER OBJECTS

Ron Basford (L-Vancouver - Burrard), objected to Mr. Girouard's refusal to answer questions were out of order and Chairman Larry Pennell (L—Brant-Haldimand) cautioned him several times to let the chair decide such points.

The committee, whose proceedings have been marked by frequent procedural wrangles, finally got the inquiry under way after a one - day delay through lack of shorthand reporters able to take a verbatim report of testimony in French, the language used most of the time by Mr. Girouard in his testimony. Two were on hand Wednesday.

In a brief opening statement, Mr. Girouard said it was a "gross personal calumny" against him for Mr. Davey to state publicly that Mr. Girouard was a "Liberal reject."

That had caused him to complain in the Commons and to deny he had ever tried to join the Liberals. Then he repeated his Commons' account of meeting Mr. Davey at Mr. Moreau's request and of being asked to join the Liberals.

TOOK NOTES

Mr. Davey, present after the committee overwhelmingly rejected a motion by Reid Scott (NDP — Toronto Danforth) that he be excluded during Mr. Girouard's testimony, sat taking notes as Mr. Girouard testified.

He has denied in a public statement that money or election funds were mentioned in his talk with Mr. Girouard last February. He is to be called as a witness after Mr. Girouard finishes on the stand.

Mr Girouard said he met the four MPs in a hotel grill in neighboring Hull. Mr. Moreau he described him as "the most sincere Liberal member" — arranged a meeting with Mr. Davey although Mr. Girouard told them he intended to join the Conservatives, not the Liberals. He went to the meeting in Mr. Moreau's office out of consideration to the four who were his friends.

He said Mr. Davey raised the question of benefits, including the election funds, and he (Mr. Girouard) had asked no details.

FISHER ASKS

Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) asked whether Mr. Girouard considered the "benefits" were in the nature of an inducement?

"If you mean a bribe, no," replied Mr. Girouard. "Otherwise, yes."

Later, in reply to Mr. Scott he replied "certainly," when the New Democratic MP asked whether Mr. Girouard interpreted the offer as an attempt to influence him as an MP in the position he would occupy in the Commons.

He said this applied not only to the election fund but such other benefits as that of being a member of the party in power, and Mr. Davey saying he "would take care of the Liberal candidate" in Mr. Girouard's western Quebec constituency.

Mrs. T. Bata Opens Home For Bazaar

TRENTON—Mrs. Thomas Bata graciously opened her home yesterday afternoon for the Business and Professional Women's Mayfime Tea and Bazaar and assisted the president of the Trenton club, Mrs. Doris Webb, in greeting the 200 some guests, who motored to the Bata home, or were brought to the spot by buses from the Bata plant, below in the valley. Mrs. Bata is an honorary member of the Trenton club.

Guests were shown through the house, which has been featured recently in a number of "Homes" magazines, and were served tea in a tent . . . a little smaller than a circus tent . . . erected on the grounds for the occasion. Of special interest was a large tapestry in the living room, worked by a Jesuit priest in France.

Co-convenors for what must be considered "the event of the social season" in local circles, were Mrs. Jeanne Gould and Mrs. Doris Stewart.

In charge of the various bazaar tables were: Miss Isabelle McCrodan, baking; Miss Alice Wilson, sewing and arts and crafts; Mrs. Alice Hayes, White Elephant table; Miss Ellen Whitehouse, tea tables and servers.

Tea table decorations were the responsibility of Mrs. Mary Thompson and Miss Elizabeth Blackledge.

Tea pourers were: Miss Olevia Wilson, Miss Anne Johnson, Mrs. Nellie Bain, Mrs. Miss Sprung, Miss Hazel Farley, Miss Ellen Whitehouse and Miss Lelia Jordan.

On the special Ways and Means Committee were: Mrs. Jeanne Gould, chairman; Mrs. Sprung, Mrs. Ila Hart, Mrs. Slewart, Mrs. Dorothy Dobbin and Mrs. Joyce Gould.

All B. and P. members participated in the event in some way, and contributed to the success of the tea.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Euchre At Meeting

TRENTON — Twenty-two members of the Trenton Senior Citizens' Club attended the regular meeting in the Recreation hall on Ontario Street, Tuesday night. Mrs. Celia Rosenplot convened the meeting in the absence of the club president, Mrs. E. E. Panter. Mrs. Panter had the misfortune to break her hip last week and is in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

It was announced that the club members will join with members of the Marmora club to celebrate Senior Citizens' Week on June 10.

Five tables of euchre were played with prizes going to Mrs. E. Gibson, Mrs. A. Chouinard, Mrs. Hogus and Mr. F. Tyler.

The lucky ticket draw was won by Bruce Hamilton. and the holders of tickets numbered 235 and 231. As the holders of these tickets were not at the meeting and are not known to the club executive, the prizes will be passed on to other ticket holders unless claimed within two weeks. Prizes may be claimed by phoning EX. 2-3446.

South Grenville Board Supported In Its Action

TRENTON — Recently, the high school board at South Grenville, Ont., resigned in a body when the school was "pink listed" by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation because of a dispute between the board and the federation. The school principal had been asked to step down to head the mathematics' department at the school. Thirteen teachers of the 30-teacher staff have resigned. However, only one or two of the resignations can be attributed to the actions of the board.

The members of the Trenton Board of Education voted this week to uphold the action of the South Grenville board to the extent where defecting teachers from South Grenville will not be considered as potential employees at Trenton until a satisfactory relationship has been restored between the South Grenville board and the OSSTF.

Four years ago the Trenton board found itself in a somewhat similar situation when the school was "pink listed" by the federation. At that time, 16 teachers and the school principal resigned when the Trenton board brought in a vote of non-confidence in the principal, E. S. McIlwain. Mr. McIlwain went on to become a department head in the secondary school at Sault Ste. Marie.

Poland Provides Key

The "Kennedy Round" of trade talks at Geneva has already produced a sensation, in the proposal by Poland that it subscribe to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and that, instead of lowering tariffs as proposed in the Kennedy Round, it guarantee the acceptance of fixed amounts of imports.

The importance of this proposal lies in the fact that the Poles appear to have discovered a key which will unlock the trade barrier between capitalistic and socialistic countries.

Generally speaking, capitalistic countries control trade through tariffs. Socialistic states sometimes have tariffs, too, but these have little meaning. The real control over the flow of trade is much more direct—only the state buys from abroad, and only the state sells abroad. A communist state could eliminate its tariffs entirely and this would not necessarily permit its capitalistic neighbor to sell it so much as a pocket handkerchief or a pound of subsidized butter.

Nothing may come of the present Polish proposal—but if extensive trade between capitalistic and socialistic countries ever develops it will almost certainly be essential to follow the pattern Poland proposes—a guarantee by the socialistic state to accept a fixed amount of imports, in return for action by the capitalistic state to lower certain tariffs.

A Potent Drink

An issue of an American magazine, Escapade, has been withdrawn in Canada, because the federal food and drug directorate says it advised its readers, in effect, to poison themselves. The magazine said that certain pages had been treated with a powerful hallucinogen and that if its readers dissolved two pages in methyl alcohol and then drank the solution they would see visions.

The food and drug directorate was worried because methyl alcohol is a poison.

It seems to us, though, that the nature of the solvent is not the whole problem. What if some process was devised which would make newsprint palatable to Napoleon brandy? Surely the food and drug directorate could not, with a good conscience recommend readers to refrain from imbibing the results. Yet consider the possible results if each publication produced a drink with a character all its own. Imagine a town in which the village idiot went around talking like the London Times. Imagine Tories talking like the Toronto Star and Grits sounding like the Toronto Telegram or, even worse, the Montreal Gazette. An Orangeman who had chanced to acquire a copy of Le Devoir would be drummed out of the lodge, while a single copy of the Orange Sentinel would be enough to unfrock all the priests in Christendom. Imagine what would happen if Premier Thompson quaffed Pravda—or Mr. K. sat down with a bottle of vodka and The Ontario Intelligencer.

Adults Fail Teen-Agers

Four teen-agers told the annual conference of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies that adults have failed them.

If we admit they were right—in fact we are certain they are right, because the teen-agers produced proof.

"They (adults) tell us not to read filthy books, not to attend unpleasant movies or watch sexy shows on TV," the teen-agers said. "Yet all these things are produced by adults. Do they think they can teach us by the rule of saying one thing and then doing the exact opposite themselves? If they wish us to have better examples, let them stop producing such rot."

The rot whose production worries us are statements like that quoted. Adults have indeed failed teen-agers if the latter cannot discern the flaw in such arguments. Ever since time began, some adults have urged teen-agers to cling to high moral standards and some adults have sought to foster a low standard of morals for their own pecuniary benefit. There is no inconsistency now facing teen-agers which their fathers and older generations did not also face when they were young. But it used to be that teen-agers were taught that they should not condemn all adults because of the base actions of a few. How does it happen that this is no longer made plain to teen-agers? What is the cause of their failure to recognize that an adult "should be treated as an individual, not as a cog in a machine"?

The quotation? Oh, that is a statement by the four teen-age panelists—although, of course, it was teen-agers rather than adults, for whom they were requesting the right, which they certainly deserve, of being treated as individuals.

Freshman Phrase-Maker Delights House of Commons

By RICHARD JACKSON
Press/ The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — To its surprised delight, the Commons has discovered a new and brightly-shining phrase-maker in the House. He is Grant Deachman, freshman Liberal MP from Vancouver Quadra.

Of course, he should have an appealing way with words, for Public Relations is his profession.

But how many times this high law student has tripped in the words-work on the West Coast, it glimmered dimly here on Parliament Hill for 11 personally uneventful months.

Since last year's election, Grant Deachman has sat in the House almost -- for an MP, anyway -- silently, speaking briefly only 17 times in the preceding Session and then mostly about West Coast affairs.

Then he went to Montreal to speak to the Kiwanis Club, and suddenly Parliament awakened to the happy fact that it had a "sleeper" on its hands, an MP who had been sitting like a bump on the backbench when all the time he could have been up on the forward firing line trading political pot-shots with the Opposition snipers.

He wouldn't of course, be in the Frontbench line-up with the Cabinet, but he could -- - - do a little "needling" on his own, if for no other reason than to throw some of the political enemy's attention from the beleaguered ministers on Parliament Hill.

He has a mastermen's keen eye, and his verbal shots -- at least on the Kiwanians' range at Montreal -- have recently been right on centre of target.

Listen to what he says about two of the controversial Ottawa bosses, External Affairs Minister Martin and Transport Minister Pickersgill:

He was explaining the fine art of the "no-answer" in the Commons. "Take Mr. Martin," a Cabinet Minister can evade the sharpest Opposition questions by asserting that the matter is sub judice, while actually telling nothing.

"Nobody," says Grant Deachman, "understands the art better or practises it more deftly than Jack Pickersgill, although his approach and technique are a shambles.

"His arguments are models of intransigence and ingenuity."

"Give Jack Pickersgill some steel wool and he would knit you a sweater."

Neat, what?

And of Coon Paul, the Vancouver phrase-maker has this to say:

"Paul Martin's technique is different. He is the master of the circumlocutious phrase."

"He is the master of the circumlocutious phrase."

Grant Deachman's diction hasn't heard as good a thumb-nailing since Paul "neatly stripped Diefenbaker of death with marshmallows" and Coon Paul "deftly disposed of Pickersgill by treating you a stove with steel wool."

POSTSCRIPT:

Of Paul Martin, the old master of what Grant Deachman calls the "circumlocutious phrase," Conservative Leader Diefenbaker has had a different description.

Of all the Scraps on the Liberal side of the Commons, nobody in recent years has given Died as much trouble as Coon Paul.

He "stoned them to death with marshmallows" when he was in Opposition, and now that he is back in Opposition benches, he hasn't changed a bit.

Died has been driven almost to distraction by Coon Paul's cunningly-devised and unreformative "no answers," and still can't cope with them except to call him, at one time, the other day: "That's fluff, pure guff."

Grant Deachman has a nearly incisive thumb - nailing, too, of the Backbenchers who sit in the House. The Backbencher receives hooked onto swift ears, listening to the simultaneous English - French translations of the drone of debate.

Sometimes (say the MPs) they throw up their hands at the puzzling, hearing and understanding, and wandered off to Hull where they felt they were more appreciated. Today they stay in the House -- - - - waiting for a suitable moment to pop up."

And why did Grant Deachman go down to Montreal and take his light from under his bushel to a Kiwanis Club function? Gee, that glittering brightly like this in the House?

"It lifts my spirits," he says, "to see an audience that stays and listens to a speaker instead of dashing out into the lobbies for a smoke as soon as a Back-bencher rises to his feet."

Strictly Personal

Man's Memory Is Based On Vanity

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: A man's memory is based on vanity, and a woman's on nostalgia — he never forgets a victory; she never forgets a missed opportunity.

Speaking of vanity, the best epitaph on Napoleon's ceaseless self-assertion that ended in self-defeat was Victor Hugo's terse comment: "Finally, God was bored with him."

Life is a continual struggle between the two seeming opposites of "fulfillment" and "frustration"; yet the paradox is that the heart of the matter is that we cannot achieve fulfillment of any lasting sort without accepting frustration — a truth that the relentless seekers after "self-expression" seem incapable of recognizing or acting on.

There is a tenacious logic even in insanity; for instance, the miser feels "poor" at the very good reason that he has decided to hoard his pile, it no longer belongs to him, for he can't spend it. Hence he is "poor," because only what we are free to use belongs to us.

The art of being a successful public man consists to a large extent of knowing what the people want just a moment before they know it themselves, and how to know it so soon is as fatal as to know it too late.

The great gulf between subject and object in human society is measured in time — more clearly revealed than in the banal fact that while we are willing to tell an hour a day for twenty times, we are unwilling to hear the same story more than once.

Mediocrity cannot appreciate excellence, just as the base cannot really understand the noble, for the reason succinctly given by Amiel: "A man only comprehends what it is in order to nothing already existing in himself."

Everyone has remarked that when we acquire a telephone and mention it to others, it is surprising to learn how many others are similarly afflicted; and might not the same be found to be true if we were as free in recognizing our mental perturbations and emotional indispositions?

Whom the gods wish to destroy they give talent without judgment.

A misogynist is someone who thinks of woman as the unfair sex.

The end of contemplation should be action, and the end of action should be the enjoyment of contemplation — but only this circle is rarely closed, except in the rarest and most extraordinary of personalities.

It is the irony of our time that the man who is loudest in his protestations of "individualism" is often the one most heavily dependent upon corporate benevolence.

Edward Jenner made his first successful experiment in vaccination 168 years ago today — in 1796. Jenner spoke of "inoculation for the cow pox" rather than referring to it as vaccination. For nearly 80 years, Jennerian vaccination was the only successful immunization procedure against smallpox, except for inoculation with or exposure to the disease.

A recommendation that government assistance be provided to young rural residents wishing to establish themselves on farms in the post - war period was presented before a committee of the Ontario Agricultural Commission of Inquiry which sat in Kingston, to hear briefs from communities of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and Leeds.

The above brief was presented by Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, secretary - treasurer of the Hastings County Federation of Agriculture and stressed that while veterans of the present war will be able to commence farming under reasonable circumstances, there will be thousands of rural youths who have not been overseas provided they had financial assistance. Col. Vanderwater suggested the establishment of heavy farm equipment to be operated on a reasonable charge basis to give aid to struggling young farmers unable to purchase their own equipment. Seed and some stock could also be cooperatively supplied under contract requiring returns to be made within three to five years.

He expected there would be losses through such a system but these would not exceed the expenditure of thousands of dollars by provinces toward schools and hospitals to provide training for young men and women in order that they get a start in professional life.

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

Since this is an issue began, I have heard so much about the glories performed under the Union Jack and quite right being one of the reasons the Legion and the I.O.D.E. want it included in our national flag. They say that to drop it would be an insult to our "glorious" past. Well I think it is about time the other side of the story is told.

The British attitude towards freedom is symbolized by two sentences in Mrs. Howe's first letter. In one sentence she says that there is freedom under the Union Jack and in the next sentence she says that anyone who doesn't like it should leave the country. In other words the freedom under the Union Jack is applied only to Englishmen to a degree. "Englishmen" by "subjects" in India, the Far East, and Africa can attest. And don't think British justice was applied to those peoples comparable to the "glorious" imperial army. The first clause is the fact that the cross of St. Patrick is included in the Union Jack) does not save us from British "justice" after centuries of suppression and injustice. Under that flag thousands of Boer women and children were starved to death in South African concentration camps, invented by the British. Under that flag a war was fought with the Chinese to force them to keep open the market for British opium when the Emperor wanted to stop because of the terrible effect on his people. And under that flag in 1919, 300 Indians demonstrating peacefully for independence, were rounded up and shot because the British officer in charge didn't like demonstrations against His Majesty's government. This was known as the Amritsar massacre. In our own nation the Union Jack is an intolerable symbol of suppression to French Canadian patriots and the reason is well explained by Mrs. Howes' own words, "Read the first verse of the Maple Leaf Forever". Herter Asking Us To Dig Own Grave?

Ontario Intelligencer,
Belleville, Ont.

Not for nothing, it would appear, has Mr. Christian Herter been made the United States top level negotiator.

As you noted in your editorial entitled "What Does the World Want?" Mr. Herter starts out by painting a pretty picture of the market opportunities that would accrue to agricultural and Canadian manufacturers through introduction of free trade between this country and the U.S. Yet when it comes to the U.S. advantages of such a deal, we get off into the realm of access to raw materials.

Clearly, if Mr. Herter is talking in terms of U.S. access to raw materials, he is obviously not counting on domestic increased competition from the manufactured goods produced from these raw materials. This is the U.S. market opportunities which are expected to accrue to Canadian producers through free trade are, by the terms of his own argument, largely illusory.

What makes Mr. Herter a shrewd negotiator is that within the framework of his argument he manages to suggest that Canada would be foolish indeed to bring about free trade. This is a very charming way of asking us to dig our own economic grave.

Sincerely,
R. J. Wyse,

Reasons for Being 'Proud Canadian'

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

If find this "Proud Canadian" issue most interesting; may I add my "two bits" worth?

I don't doubt that Mrs. Pronovost knows what school days are nor does Thos. Trait. Failure to unite possible for two different people to be proud of the same thing, and yet have different points of view.

Personally, I am proud of our democratic system, of my freedom to express my opinion publicly or living among some twenty millions of good will and good faith, of the people that made our history, of the sense of respect, justice and friendliness that Canada represents to many countries throughout the world. The many more reasons not mentioned also include those deep feelings of pride that can not easily be expressed on a piece of paper.

Mr. "T. T." why shouldn't Mrs. Howe be proud of her letter? I doubt if it was written for one to publicly express an opinion of which he is ashamed. Do you know of any Canadians governing national pride? What thought or word is there in: God Save The Queen, that makes it "the Canadian anthem and more than: O Canada".

Since you mention Indian pole as the only strictly Canadian, why not add a totem pole to our flag? Then we're at it a Fleur de Lys to represent our French heritage? Ridiculous will you say? Not if inclined to go along with you. I "Can't" for I am proud to hand under unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to Canada, the things that are Canada's.

Yours truly,
Paul F. Roszy,

Dozen-Digit Phone Coming

Thomas Times-Journal

People who are upset about having to memorize seven numbers just for a local telephone call ought to consider what their children and grandchildren will be up against when another 24-hour-world calling becomes commonplace.

There are more than 140 million telephones in use in the world today, an increase of 18 per cent in the last three years. At more millions are added the need for international dialing will begin to be important.

In 1961, representatives from every nation in the world met to form the Consultative Committee on International Telegraph and Telephone. One of the committee's acts was to recommend that a standard maximum of 12 digits in a world telephone number. The recommendation will be voted on during the next meeting to be held in Geneva late in 1964.

The dozen - digit figure does not include the dial code giving access to the international network. This could require another three digits of the dial.

To Your Good Health

Change Attitude Towards Food Way to Stay Slim

By JOSEPH C. HOLMES, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is very heavy and tried diets without avail. What is your advice on the subject? — Mrs. E. K.

There are all manner of diets, some foolish, some grossly unbalanced, some sensible. Some allow for the usual three meals a day, some call for as many as six a day.

Getting rid of excess fluid can be helpful, indeed necessary to health in some cases, but as a sheer method of reducing weight it brings no permanent progress. It is, however, psychologically encouraging to a dieter to see a sharp loss at first, because water is heavy.

In recent years there has been quite a bit of experimentation with extreme diets — starvation diets, is fact. These must be used only under close medical supervision.

People too often do not realize the errors after being specifically told by doctors under what circumstances methods — that taking off weight does not get good results they learn to know it.

"The central, inescapable essential in weight reduction is to take in fewer calories than are used up. For some hard workers, this may mean as much as as much as 2,000 calories. Most usually it is 1,000 to 12,500 a day. Occasionally, there's no home remedy or doctor-applied method of changing the features.

Note to "Janie": If the Fallopian tubes are closed, they can still often be opened and thus make pregnancy possible. It is delicate work but not what a one would call an operation.

English-Canadians still treat them as a conquered race — people who have no rights — as if they were still paying for the defeat of 1759 and the revolt of 1837.

Then you can see that there is another side of the Union Jack — a side bloodied and disgraced. Of course this latter deals only with bad incidents in British history but the proponents of the Red Ensign only tell the so-called "glorious" incidents and I felt that this was misleading and that they were glossing over important history in order to make it seem that the Union Jack was such a "glorious" emblem. I know I will be criticized for this letter, but I feel the Union Jack is going to be included in our national flag then it should be given a careful study so it means to people of other nationalities than British and do have rights as such.

Dentists Want Dental Care Insurance Plan

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario dentists want a dental care insurance plan, but feel there is no point in starting one unless it can be made to work, Dr. F. E. Johns of Kingston, newly-elected president of the Ontario Dental Association, said Wednesday.

Dr. Johns told a press conference that because of a shortage of dentists and their unequal distribution across the provinces, any plan would entail enormous difficulties.

He said, however, that if a government medical plan was implemented, dentists feel they would have to co-operate with it in the best interests of the public.

Dr. Johns said that dental disease is occurring 64 times faster than dentists can combat it.

AREAS UNDERSTAFFED

He said that about half Ontario's dentists are located in Toronto, leaving other areas, particularly rural ones, understaffed or without dental care.

Steps, including attempts to establish a new dental school, are being taken to alleviate the shortage, he said.

Dr. Wesley Philip, retiring president of the association, urged dentists to back a report that calls for re-organization of their professional societies.

The report, prepared by a firm of management consultants commissioned last year by the association and the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, proposes sweeping changes.

It suggests among other things that the college concern itself only with matters related to protection of the public, which would mean relinquishing interest in the Canadian Dental Association, the Ontario dental welfare plan, and all matters concerning insurance, pensions or investment plans.

SIXTEEN TROPHIES for the Ontario Underwater Council rally to be held near the Outlet this weekend are made pantry-shelf wood from a wrecked ship. Quinte Aqua Divers' members Ron Chapman and Edward Imhoff made the trophies, last week, using wood from the two-masted schooner Olive Branch, which went down off Prince Edward County in 1878. Divers will revisit the ship during the rally, being organized by the Quinte Aqua Divers and the R.C.A.F. Station Trenton Flying Frogmen. About 150 registrations for the rally have already been received, a total of about 300 divers are expected to attend. In the picture, Ron Chapman works on one of the small trophies while Edward Imhoff paints the biggest one.

Nasser's Socialism Running Into Woes on Egypt's Farms

CAIRO (AP)—President Nasser's socialism is running into trouble down on the Egyptian farm.

Production isn't fast enough and the Egyptian peasant is showing himself to be a stubborn fellow when it comes to change.

The problems may force the Egyptian leader to shift his ground from his present policy of private farm ownership to a policy of big state or collective farms.

Heikal suggested that new land now being reclaimed from the desert should be turned into giant collectives or state-run farms.

These, he said, should specialize in hard-currency crops. An acre planted in cereals earns only about $100 a year on the local market, Heikal claimed, while the same land put to such a crop as flowers—yes, flowers —would earn 20 times as many dollars.

In the same article, Heikal said that the increase in agricultural production in Egypt had levelled off at three per cent—somewhat different from official figures which put the increase at five to 10 per cent.

MILIONS LANDLESS

Perhaps two-thirds of Egypt's 26,000,000 people still live on the farms or in tiny villages. These are the people who have mainly benefitted from Nasser's sweeping land reform programs.

The county now has about 6,000,000 acres under cultivation. Ownership is limited to 200 acres and will be cut to 100 acres by 1970. Some 80 per cent of this land was held by a handful of people when Nasser overthrew King Farouk 13 years ago.

Millions are still landless. Thsss naturally have an eye on the 1,000,000 acres that will be made available by irrigation water from the giant Aswan dam within a decade. These will be hurt if Nasser now shifts to big state farms in place of the three- to five-acre parcels being doled out under present schemes.

CRIME WAS UP

Council Defers Decision on Plea It Share Marker Air-Strip Costs

City council yesterday deferred a request from local flying enthusiast James Marker that the city contribute to maintenance costs for his private-owned flying strip east of the city.

Costs to the city will be investigated and a recommendation from the Traffic Committee of the local Chamber of Commerce will be sought.

Mr. Marker said he had opened his airstrip east of the city in 1961 after repeated attempts had failed to secure landing rights at Mountain View or Trenton.

He felt there was a definite need at Belleville for a small airstrip to service industry. Maintenance costs on which Mr. Marker asked city assistance covered such items as vegetation control, snow plowing, rolling the airstrip, improvement of an access road and better building facilities for airstrip users.

At the same time, however, Murray Clapp, president of the Prince Edward Flying Club at Picton, said his club had leased landing rights at Mountain View Airport only nine miles south of Belleville and was prepared to serve Belleville.

Council generally agreed that aircraft landing facilities were a necessity if industry was to be attracted.

Several councillors commended Mr. Marker for what he had accomplished in opening an airstrip east of the city.

At the same time, however, it was felt the Picton club should be supported in its project at Mountain View.

POLICEMAN LOSES

OTTAWA (CP)—A civil jury Wednesday assessed an Ottawa police constable damages totalling $3,415.96 for assaulting an intoxicated man on Christmas Day, 1962. The jury deliberated two hours in the Supreme Court action brought against Const. Ronald Harris by George Richards, 36. It dismissed a claim for damages against a second policeman, Const. James McLarthy, who was driver of the cruiser in which the assault occurred.

Hubby's Weakness Showed In Stag Party Behavior

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband belongs to a national organization which is well known. I will not mention the name of the outfit because I don't want to give all the members a black eye.

Last night my husband went to a meeting. He usually gets home from these meetings by midnight and I always wait up for him. By 2:00 a.m. I was worried sick and was sure that he had had an accident. I was just about to phone the police and start checking hospitals, when I heard his key in the lock.

He said the fellows liked the entertainment so well they wouldn't let the girls leave. When he told me that two of the dancers arrived wearing only coats I was shocked. There was lipstick on his face and I let him know it. He claims the girls went around kissing all the men and that there was nothing personal about it.

My husband swore he didn't care for the entertainment himself but he was afraid to leave for fear the fellows would make fun of him. Do you believe it? Please help me straighten around my thinking. I am — DAZED.

DEAR DAZED — Yes, I believe it, and I hope you will, too. But let him know you are disappointed in him for not having the courage to walk out.

Most men would take a quick look to see what it was all about but one look should be plenty. Only a man with gutter-level taste would hang around and ogle a cheap little bimbo whose major talent is parading at stags in the altogether.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have a wonderful cleaning woman who likes to drink a little during the day. She may be an alcoholic but this is not my business and I don't want to get mixed up in her personal life. All I know is that she is a terrific cleaning woman and I want to keep her if I can.

If she would just help herself to the liquor she wants and leave the rest alone I wouldn't mind. But she tries to cover up her drinking by filling the the Bourbon bottle with what is left of the Scotch. Sometimes she adds the left-over Vodka to the Gin — thinking that so long as it is the same color nobody will know.

I don't want to tell her to drink all she wants and leave to get rest of the liquor alone because then she would surely get drunk on the job. What do you suggest? — WITHOUT A CLUE.

DEAR WITHOUT — Have you ever heard of a lock? So get one for your liquor cabinet. End problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I have been going with a very nice woman for the past five years. We are not able to get married for a while for reasons I won't explain here.

Miss B and I exchange birthday gifts, Christmas gifts and on Valentine's Day we remember one another, too. St. Patrick's Day has special meaning to us because we are both Irish — so that's another gift.

Four years ago when I asked Miss B what she wanted for her birthday she said, "Give me money and let me buy what I like." I gave her $25 in cash and she was pleased. Since that time I've given her cash for all these special days. She never tells me what she buys with the money and I am beginning to resent it. I think she just socks it away. As close as I can figure, she must have at least $400 of my money.

I'd like your opinion on this. — MR. SHELL-OUT.

DEAR MR. What do you mean your money? You gave it to her, didn't you?

If you don't want Miss B to sock it away, why don't you buy something you think she'll like and stop beefing?

A Barbecue Supper On Victoria Day

by Mary Moore

Included in today's column is the method for barbecuing a whole capon on your kettle barbecue. My neighbor, Bruce, Eleanor's husband, roasted one last week. He was assisting a relative so he kept track of the time and method for me, for your benefit. There are an increasing number of masculine barbecuing and he (and I) think you will welcome his method.

But most backyard cooks feel lucky to have a simple stone barbecue with a grill under which they burn a bag of charcoal. To include the majority of us I am giving a festive method for our old friend ground beef cakes that is worthy of Queen Victoria's Birthday.

THURSDAY

Dinner Menus

Pot Roast of Beef; Rich Brown Gravy; Mashed Potatoes; Julienne Green Beans; Tossed Salad with Asparagus (see Monday); Raspberry Jelly Dessert with Sliced Bananas; Tea.

VICTORIA DAY

HAMBURGERS (makes 6):

1 lb. ground beef or hamburg, 1 egg, ½ cup crumbled Blue cheese (or grated Cheddar), 1/3 cup very finely chopped celery, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons catsup, 2 tablespoons water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Combine all ingredients. Shape into 6 flattish patties, using approximately ½ cup meat mixture per patty. Over glowing coals roast patties quickly, turning them to brown on both sides. Do not overcook. Cut 6 large hamburg buns in half, and heat while meat is cooking. Place cooked patties between bun halves. Serve hot with relish or mustard sauce.

BARBECUED CAPON (7 lbs.) (an unstarched rotisserie barbecue):

Buy 1 bag (20c) charcoal briquets. You will need all of them. Build your fire at the back of the fire pan; using ½ of the bag and let it burn until coals are glowing — about 30 minutes. Before suspending chicken (legs and wings tied securely to body) over fire pan, arrange a small pan (or heavy duty foil) at centre front of fire pan to catch dripping barbecue sauce. While fire is subsiding prepare Barbecue Sauce: Chop one chopped onion, ½ cup butter, one 10½-oz. can tomato soup, undiluted, ½ teaspoon chili powder, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 3 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 cup water. Melt the butter in butter and add rest of ingredients. Simmer 10 mins. For barbecuing chicken or ribs. (Or buy bottled Barbecue Sauce). When coals are glowing, skewer whole chicken at centre of turnspit and adjust and tighten clamps and thumbscrews. Fit turnspit into middle position on sidewalls of barbecue hood. Plug in motor and start turnspit rotating. Brush on Barbecue Sauce with basting brush frequently and often again. The 7-lb. capon required 5 hours of barbecuing so it was basted about 5 times and fire was replenished each time.

Women's Institutes

RYLSTONE W.I.

RYLSTONE — The Rylstone Women's Institute held their historical research meeting in the Sunday School room of Zion United Church, Fetherich's Corners, on Wednesday, evening with a good attendance of members and visitors. The new president, Mrs. Lindsay Anderson was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. Stanley Kerr was hostess. There were nine grand mothers in attendance and each was presented with a potted petunia. Mrs. Carl Reid gave a reading. Several other items on the program were held till a later date to allow more time for the special speaker, Mr. F. M. Rutherford, who with Mrs. Rutherford and their daughters lived at Rylstone for many years. Mrs. Rutherford was also a member and officer in Rylstone Women's Institute. Mr. Rutherford, or "Fred" as he is known by the community gave a splendid talk and display of antiques. He displayed several articles from his log cabin museum, built beside his summer cottage at Crowe Bay on the Trent River. His talk was interesting, informative and amusing and much enjoyed by all. At the completion of the program there was a lengthy discussion on antiques and old times which brought a very pleasant evening to a close.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee. Mr. and Mrs. Rutherford have invited the Institute members to visit them at their cottage in September. There will be a June Institute meeting in the Sunday School room of Zion Church. Hostess will be Mrs. Carl Reid.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

MAIL CALL

Question: Is it permissible to type envelopes containing formal wedding invitations and announcements? I'm having a large wedding with many close two hundred guests, and plan to send out as many announcements. The job would be much easier if I farm it out to a secretarial service and let them type the envelopes for me. — F. R., Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Envelopes for both invitations and announcements should be written by hand. If you and your female relatives and attendants can't handle the job among you, then it would be practical to hire a social secretary for the duration and make sure the job is done correctly.

Question: In a restaurant, when someone stops at your table to say hello, is it necessary to ask him to sit down? A friend of my husband dropped by while we were dining out, and both I and my husband felt a good five minutes and talk. I think he disrupts the conversation was prolonged, my husband should have invited him to sit down instead of both standing so long and so conspicuously. Don't you agree? — Mrs. G. L., Trenton, N. J.

Answer: Yes. When a conversation is so long drawn-out, the visitor should be asked to sit down. If someone just says hello and then leaves right away, of course, it's not necessary to do so.

Art Exhibition Presented By Women's Guild Group

The Friendship group of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Women's Guild sponsored an exhibition of paintings by Allan and Donnah Cameron at the church hall on Wednesday evening.

Although the walls presented some problems the pictures were well arranged and showed to advantage in the large hall. Most of the paintings were done in oils, but there were some water colors and one print. In addition to those of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, their two daughters exhibited a few pictures, Donnah age 12 and Miss Maiel Radner.

Allan Cameron showed some excellent portraits with characteristics strongly defined. His land and sea scapes were done with dramatic effect, and a favorite that received much comment was the Anglican church at Point Anne. He still His picture had strongly vivid colors that radiated from the canvas. Many familiar scenes of local interest gave them special appeal to the hundreds of viewers. Several abstracts gave variety to the show.

Donnah Cameron's forte is flowers and she endows them with a special quality of color. Her cyclamen, trillium, waterlilies, geranium, roses and Chinese lanterns are all done with polished artistry and a true feeling for color.

Mrs. Robert Park, 53 Crestview Ave. was the winner of of flowers done in an abstract the door prize, an oil painting style which one viewer described as a "class compromise" between formal and abstract pioting.

Coffee and cake were served by the members of the group. A table of home baking was sold out completely.

The tea table was attractively appointed with a silver bowl of lily of the valley, light and dark shades of tulips and narcissus. Twin silver candelabra each held three white candles.

Mrs. A. Laurie Sutherland, wife of the minister of the church and Mrs. H. Scott, group leader welcomed the guests as they entered. Mrs. E. Elliott and Mrs. G. Bennett were treasurers for the evening.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. J. Smoke, Mrs. M. Ward, Mrs. E. Sisler, Mrs. G. Wasdorf, Mrs. G. Durno and Mrs. H. Scott.

The social conveners were Mrs. N. Williamson and Mrs. R. White.

Yacht Club Is Attractive Setting for Annual Bridge

One of the pleasant events of the social season each year is the annual bridge game at the Belleville Yacht club sponsored by the ladies' auxiliary of the club. This year it was in the form of a luncheon party and individual salad plates were served to an estimated 150 players on Wednesday afternoon.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. O. Hales, president of the Auxiliary, and Mrs. O. Pinkston, wife of the Commodore of the Yacht Club. All members participated in serving the plates and coffee and looking after the tables.

Mixed bouquets of spring flowers with yellow predominating were placed about the room, and pieces of driftwood added to the decorative scheme.

The winners of the bridge were: first, Mrs. R. Townsend; second, Mrs. D. Gill; low, Mrs. R. Hledel; hidden score, Mrs. D. Stanton. The door prize was won by Mrs. R. Scally.

Special Service On Mothers' Day

SYLTONE — At the Mothers' Day service at Sylstone United Church, on Sunday morning, Mrs. Pillen paid tribute to the memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Spencer in whose memory a crown has been hung behind the altar in the church. The cross was made and installed by their grandson, John D. Spencer, for all the Spencer family.

Also on display at morning church service, was a silver communion service, consisting of a silver chalice and two silver goblets, given to the church by the late Mr. and Mrs. John Spencer, when the present church was built, in 1893.

The Communion set is to be put in a suitable cabinet and kept in the home of one of the elders, where it can be brought to the church and put on display for special occasions.

The choir rendered a lovely anthem and Mr. Pillen gave a splendid address on family life and young people today, and how their elders have failed them.

Jack Spencer, superintendent of the Sunday School was in charge of the service of worship for Christian family Sunday.

Successful Bridge, Euchre Given by P. C. Women

Pale yellow snapdragons and carnations tinted a pale green made an attractive table centrepiece at the dessert bridge and euchre held at St. Thomas' Parish Hall on Wednesday afternoon by the ladies of the Progressive Conservative Association. Green candles added to the harmonious effect. Mrs. S. Mulholland was responsible for the decorations.

Mrs. R. Howell, president of the association, and Mrs. E. Sandercock received the guests as they arrived. The conveners for this occasion were Mrs. Hugh McKay and Mrs. George Gibbons, with all the members co-conveners. Mrs. S. McKenzie and Mrs. Reale Locke with other members of the club convened the kitchen arrangements.

Treasurers for the afternoon were Mrs. Ade Young and Mrs. H. Rollins.

The home cooking table was in charge of Mrs. H. Yorke and Mrs. F. Murray, assisted by other members.

Bridge prizes were won by: first, Mrs. R. Messenger; second, Mrs. Doris Whittemore; hidden score, Mrs. Kay Varley; low, Mrs. Jina Hutchison.

Euchre prizes were: first, Mrs. Pearl Holmes; second, Mrs. E. Barlow; hidden score, Mrs. Taylor; low, Mrs. Mitchell.

The officers of the club expressed their appreciation to all who contributed or helped to make the bridge and euchre a fine success.

The president, Mrs. Murray Mason opened the meeting with prayer and extended a warm welcome to all.

The purpose of this study will be to help persons learn more of the meaning of "The Old and New Covenant and grow in their understanding of the nature and mission of the church and examine for themselves the responsibility and obligations of membership."

A film strip on "The Covenant" was shown with commentary by Mrs. Thompson. This was followed by a question and answer period.

The secretary, Mrs. Lorne Bailey read the correspondence. The Springbrook UCW are invited to a come and go tea at Hoard's on May 13, and to join with the Starwood UCW at their meeting on May 20th.

A school is being held for United Church Women at Albert College from July 20-29.

Club Activities

B. B. C. CLUB

The last regular meeting of the B. B. C. Club was held at the home of Ronald and Romona Burr, Foxboro, with an attendance of 22 members.

Warner McFaul, president, called the meeting to order with George and Rena Cunningham taking charge of the devotion.

Ellen Burr read the minutes and Jean Root gave the treasurer's report. It was decided to donate money to Cancer Fund, Blind Fund, and Prince Edward County Children's Aid Society. The executive held a previous meeting at Rodney and Ellen Burr's and the summer activities were planned. As soon as dates are completed a summer program will be sent to each couple. In May there will be bowling at the Bowling Lane on No. 2 Highway and a tour of General Motors, Oshawa, date and time to be set; in July will be the annual picnic at same place; and in August a tour of the Aluminum Plant, Kingston, date and time to be set later. In September a corn roast will be held at Leonard and Jean Root's on September 19. The regular meeting will start at Warner and Phyllis McFaul's, October 21st.

Warner called on Barb Ferguson and on behalf of the club she presented Romona with a Canadian handicraft Blue Mountain pair of horses. She is joining her husband in New Brunswick. Ronald and Romona attended the club occasionally and prior to purchasing their new home at Foxboro were great workers in the club.

Romona, taken greatly by surprise, thanked the club and expressed how pleased she was, as no doubt it would be the last opportunity she would have to meet with the club as she and the children are moving in May.

Warner and Phyllis took charge of recreation conducting contests and quiz. A delicious lunch was served and Warner thanked Romona for her hospitality.

Successful Living

Woman Who Leaves Children Is Totally Overwhelmed

DEAR DORIS — In regard to M.K., there is another side to her story. That so-called 56-year-old, really 45-year-old, man I believe is my father. I admit my father is no angel, but neither is my mother. In the past years my mother has always been right and never wrong.

For instance, on summer Mom was sick and almost died. Dad did everything in his power to make things easier for her, but what did she do? She accused him of being out with other women if he wasn't there to see her.

Regarding that cover-girl, it is really me. I have been going to see my family since she left home. When she was there I was forbidden, by her, to even enter the yard.

DORIS CLARK

What do you really think of a woman who walks out on 11 children left to a man's care? — A VERY MIXED UP TWENTY-YEAR-OLD.

DEAR TWENTY-YEAR-OLD — I'm afraid you have guessed wrongly. M.K.'s letter was not from your mother — but I'm sure it would be revealing of faults on the other side if we were to get a letter from the real Mr. M.K.!

What do I think of a woman who leaves 11 children? That she is either completely overwhelmed and running for cover, or incapable of feeling anything any more.

DEAR DORIS — Kindly let me know whether corn oil or vegetable oil is non-fattening. — MODEL

DEAR MODEL — No. They are fattening; anything which contains fat, either vegetable or animal, is.

DEAR DORIS — Last summer a boy started coming up to see me. Although I didn't want him to be persisted. I even told him in a nice way that I would never accept a date from him.

Now I am going with another boy whom I love very much and still this other boy keeps calling. He comes up almost every time my boy friend does and sits in a corner and sulks. Lately he has even started threatening my steady. I've tried to be rude but I just can't do it. — D.L.D.

DEAD D.L.D. — Some people are hounds for punishment! Write him a registered letter to say that while you like him as a person, you don't want him as a boy friend; and even less as a goomberry!

Next time he call, meet him at the door and excuse yourself from inviting him in by saying that you have an engagement with somebody else. This is not rudeness. A lady learns, sooner or later, how to avoid being a Gal Who don't Say No.

CONFIDENTIAL TO P.R.L. — Obviously your friend does not want you to go steady, nor do I. He is too offhand to be taken seriously at present.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DESPERATE — Just go right ahead and make friends with the other girl. Be friendly with both. There is no point in the first one thinking she has a mortgage on you.

DEAR DORIS — My parents are very good to my sister and me but are cruel to each other. There is hardly a day goes by without some argument. They fight mainly about money and about who should do this or that.

They have hardly any friends and don't have any fun anymore. My mother works and my father doesn't want her to. I think he is this way because he hates his job and wants to provide us with a lot more than we have now. We aren't poor.

I love them both very much and can't stand to see them this way any longer. Could I talk to a counsellor and try to get them to one? — IN BETWEEN.

DEAR IN BETWEEN — Harsh words between a man and a woman may not carry the hate which they appear to, to the helpless third party looking on. Also, couples often fall into habits of rudeness and complaint towards each other and, like as not, make up in private.

The most I can say for this kind of carrying on is that it's better than bottling up resentments to explode disastrously at some future moment. Best of all would be a new, positive approach to marital bliss. This can be done.

Seldom do such antagonists sense the anguish they cause their loving offspring! Tell them about it. And if you need moral support, talk it over with an understanding older friend, or a skilled counsellor, first.

DEAR DORIS — My house always seems to be untidy and I never seem to be done. I just don't know where to begin or how to cope with the confusion of things around. I am very sentimental and keep too much stuff.

But I can't bring myself to destroy articles the children have made, plus the schoolwork. Have you any suggestions? — CLUTTERED.

DEAR CLUTTERED — Did you read Thankful's Tips for Harassed Homemakers? If you missed them, write in for a copy.

Among other things she thinks the little ones should share the work. Not just for your good, but for their delight in being a part of things.

Don't be a hoarder. Select samples of the children's best work and make up a scrap book, with their help. Throw away all but Grade A Masterpieces! Do you want your children to be hoarders too?

Confidential to "FRIGHTENED" — You need all the help you can get and you have a perfect right to it. But you must be prepared to go after it, whether you like it or not. Be honest and frank with your parents, teachers and the doctor and let them help; then co-operate with all you've got!

Confidential to WORRIED MIND — So you "need so much to be loved!" Who doesn't? Yet your excitement with life may be well-nigh overwhelming at 13. You simply must resist the impulse to call up the boys because you are feeling desperate at the moment. Learn to handle these new sensations. You can. Millions of others, just as desperate, have!

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

A newspaper story raised important questions about the place of hope in human life. A mid-western American daily reported:

"Twelve days ago, Mrs. Helen Hopke lay in bed fighting to stay alive to see her daughter's wedding.

"Incurably ill for the past five years, Mrs. Hopke had been intensely responsible for the meeting about a year ago of her daughter Rose Marie, 30, and the girl's intended husband Arthur Woodrow Hudson, 26. Rose Marie had acted as nurse and housekeeper to her bedfast mother. While buying medicine she met Hudson, a pharmacist in a local drug store. Friends say it was the girl's first romance.

"They also said that all that kept Mrs. Hopke alive in recent months was the thought of the impending marriage.

"The 56-year-old mother heard the couple enter the house laughing and talking about the April 4th wedding. She heard them enter the next room.

"Their chatter ended in three blasts from a shotgun.

NO WEDDING

"Police said Mr. Hopke, opposed to the marriage, wanted his daughter to continue to care for his wife. He became enraged at reading the wedding notice in the paper, shot the couple and then turned the gun on himself.

"Rose Marie was taken to one hospital where she is recovering. Her mother was taken to another.

"Tuesday night, Mrs. Hopke died."

Hope for man? The fatalists cry no. The realists cry no. The realists sound their cautious against "wishful thinking". And the cynics and pessimists call it a snare and a delusion. Said Nietzsche: "Hope is the worst of evils, for it prolongs the torment of man."

The Greeks largely considered hope to be an evil — not a blessing to man, in the familiar myth of Pandora, we have been bequeathed their confused interpretation of the place of hope in human life. Zeus has made Pandora his agent of wrath; her curiosity was to lead her to open the box from which all of the world's evils were to spring. Once the box was pried open, biting creatures flew out into the air, attacking man. Yet remaining behind was one little sprite, man's consolation, Hope. Yet if Hope was to be a blessing why did she remain in the box? And if, conversely, she was an evil, like all the rest — and perhaps the worst of all the evils — why did she not fly out and join them in their attack upon hapless man.

MATERIAL PROOF

Recently, however, even some of those scientists who seem always to require material proofs of spiritual qualities were given something new to ponder when a psychobiologist reported his astonishing findings. He experimented with rats, placing them in mazes and traps which permitted them no chance for escape. In such situations, even the most rigorous of these animals gave up their efforts and fairly soon succumbed to death But when he constructed his traps in ways which seemed to offer avenues of escape something strange and "wonderful" happened. Dr. Curt Richter of John Hopkins University, then reported: "After elimination of the hopelessness feature, the rats do not die. Indeed, the speed of their recovery is remarkable. A rat that would quite certainly have died in another minute or two becomes normally active and aggressive." It is the loss of hope, this scientist concluded, which alone explains the difference. When the rats "gave up" they died. When they could still "hope" to escape, they never gave up, and they lived.

BLIGHTS CURED

Hope may not be a cure-all. But lacking it, none of our blights will be cured. Indeed, hopefulness, far from being a delusion and therefore an evil, may still be our most potent inner defence against the fatalism, the cynicism and the "realism" of our days.

W.I. Branches in Far North Topic at River Valley Meet

RIVER VALLEY — Last Thursday 19 members of River Valley Women's Institute and four pre school children gathered at the home of Mrs. Percy Craighead where they viewed a large array of spring blooms in her attractive flower garden, before the meeting.

Mrs. Vernon Harry presided and Mrs. Ernest Carr gave full report to date which included the April executive meeting. The treasurer sent her report. The correspondence included thank-you cards, a letter from Toronto re the short courses for the home economics program for 1964. This will be discussed at the June meeting. A letter from Miss E. Spoose told of Achievement Day for sleeping garments at the Moira Secondary school, Belleville on Saturday, May 23. The Institute members are especially invited to attend. Personal thanks was extended by two members for a card and a life membership. The district director or her alternate were unable to attend the conference at Guelph, thus the pooling fee will be returned.

Reports of the standing committees were given by Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. Roy Tucker, Mrs. Roy Irven and Mrs. K. Myers. An historical workshop is being held at the museum and Mrs. Roy Bush gave a brief message about it.

AREA CONVENTION PLANS

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, public relations officer gave a descriptive account of the plans for the area convention which will be held at Club Canara, Belleville on Monday and Tuesday, September 14th and 15th. The theme is "Friendship is the only means that will hold the world together." A new Institute has been organized at West Gwillimbury in the Peterborough district and she displayed a scrap book of pictures made by her two youngest grandchildren which will later be forwarded to the Eskimo branch in the Yukon where all members are Eskimos.

Several pieces of copper tooling were on display by those who had attended the course at River Valley school kitchen.

Mrs. Roy Tucker reported for the Friendship Pennies fund and she read an article from the Countryman Magazine re shelvered workshops.

Delegates appointed to the Hastings West district annual were Mrs. Vernon Harry, Mrs. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Percy MacMullen with Mrs. George Heasman as alternate.

PROGRAM ON CITIZENSHIP

The program based on citizenship was opened by Mrs. Malcolm McMullen who read an article on that theme. Mrs. Roy Tucker gave the motto on the subject "Keep your word with your children the same as you do with your banker." Mrs. Kenneth Myers read a poem in keeping with Mother's Day, and Mrs. Alex Bush, co-convener of the program, read an article on education, while Mrs. George Heasman read a poem.

The topic was given by Mrs. Percy MacMullen and she gave a descriptive account of the Institutes in the Northwest Territories and the one in the Yukon. The ones in the Mackenzie district are named Aklavik Discovery, Fort Good Hope, Fort McPherson, Fort Norman, Fort Providence, Fort Simpson, Coppowets, Delta and Takhino. Mrs. Annes Haggerty, president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, organized the Eskimo branch at Tuktoyaktuk which is named Tuk for short and is perhaps the most northerly Institute in the world unless Greenland, Canada, can boast a better claim.

FIELD WORK IN NORTH

Mrs. MacMullen gave a descriptive account of the work of Miss Florence Eadie, a field worker in Northern Canada. She told of the trip of Mrs. Haggerty and read a special tribute written by Mrs. Van Beekhoff, president of ACWW. She gave an account of the women who are president and secretaries of these 11 Institutes, of Indian handicrafts, clean up campaigns to make Canada lovelier, kindergarten schools, recipe books of northland cookery and Tweedsmuir history books are all special features of their work in the north. Destruction Bay W. I. in the Yukon, north of Haines Junction, made a quilt and used the money to buy a UNESCO coupon, and thus help new development in the north. Their president is Mrs. Trudy Bakker who has lived on the Alaska Highway since 1942. Fort Simpson W.I. has forwarded crafts to the Montreal Exhibition and Discovery W.I. has sent their history book to Ottawa. They probably have the youngest president in Canada, she is 22.

The hostess conducted an apple contest with winners: Mrs. V. Harry, Mrs. Roy Irven and Mrs. Roy Bush. She also conducted a name contest with Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Percy MacMullen winning the awards.

Mrs. Malcolm McMullen will be hostess for the June meeting.

By JEAN SHARP

In this era of tall, thin fashion ideals, there are no short, chubby dummies. It would be hard to find clothes to fit an 1890 mannequin, with her hour-glass figure. She would look startlingly out of place with wide-eyed stare, over-long eyelashes and tiny pink mouth.

Until the 1930s display mannequins were made of wax and had a tendency to lose their charms if things got too hot for them.

Around Eaton's they still talk about the time in the 1920s following a steaming long summer weekend when the display staff arrived to find a surrealistic horror waiting in the windows. The mannequins had melted and sagged in the heat, their arms elongated strands of wax.

Display artist Jack Clarke recalls that the wigs on the wax mannequins were made of real hair and had to be dressed with hot curling tongs.

"I can still smell the burned wax and singed hair," he says.

SHOULD 'LIVE'

Since the 1930s mannequins have been formed of wood, paper mache, plaster, glass fibre and plastic. There have been experiments with mechanical mannequins, but they are difficult to work with.

"High fashion mannequins are still plaster," Mr. Clarke says, "because you can get a better sculpturing job. The best mannequins should live a little."

Originals are molded in clay by sculptors working from live models — sometimes well-known fashion models or women who look like them. Copies are made from the originals in as many as a dozen poses.

"Every mannequin is picked for a particular area and to do a particular job," Mr. Clarke says. "You don't just phone a manufacturer and say send 200 mannequins. We have different poses and actions for sports or high fashion."

Mannequin styles start in major fashion centres just as clothing styles do. Europeans were the first to use the black velvet and wire forms now popular for ultra high fashion displays. In New York, some Negro mannequins are being turned out.

Most of the dummies have several wigs now, sometimes dressed by the store display staff, sometimes by experts who earn a living dressing wigs and refinishing mannequins.

Like real girls, they need a makeup job occasionally. Unlike real girls, they can get a complete change of face and expression.

A good mannequin, which costs $165 or more, lasts about three or four years with retreads every six months or so. Mr. Clarke estimates Eaton's store in Toronto always has 200 or 400 mannequins in use.

Like some real-life fashion-conscious females, mannequins can be costly and troublesome. But male mannequins are at least as bothersome, Mr. Clarke says.

It is as difficult to make a fashion plate out of a male dummy as it is with a real male, Mr. Clarke says. They have painted hair because wigs just don't look right and "they always look unbending."

New Courses Stressed at OECTA Meet

The final meeting of the Teachers of District Four, O.E.C.T.A., was held on Tuesday evening, in Nicholson Catholic College.

Following the business, Mr. E. J. Neville, Inspector of Separate Schools, addressed the teachers. In his remarks Mr. Neville stressed the importance of the new curricula in mathematics and urged all teachers to be prepared to accept these courses either by attending a summer school or an in-service training program. Special emphasis was placed on the guidance of grade eight students re the correct choice of courses in secondary schools.

An excellent report on the library convention held in the Statler Hotel, Detroit, during Easter week, was given by Sister Mary Andrew, Principal of St. Michael's Academy, Sister Mary, James, Principal of Holy Rosary School, reported on the O.E.C.T.A. Easter convention.

The guest speaker for the meeting, Rev. P. F. Murphy, P.P., Sacred Heart Church, Bedford, was introduced by Sister Mary Teresa, Principal of Nicholson Catholic College.

Father Murphy challenged the teachers to take thought of their own personal lives and to assess their vocation in its true light. "You have been touched in a special way by the finger of God; you are here to mirror back to God the glory that is His," the speaker said. Father reminded the teachers that, in a special way, God expects them to be a faithful mirror of Himself; that they must mould the children under their care in such a way that they, too, may become replicas of God and reflect back to Him the glory that is His.

The appreciation of the teachers was expressed by Mrs. Cantin.

Sister Mary Fiorentia, retiring president, reported on the activities of her two-year term of office and expressed the gratitude of the executive to all who had helped to make the meetings interesting and profitable.

Sister Mary Timothy, on behalf of all the teachers, paid glowing tribute to the work done by the retiring president and her executive.

Mr. Jack Thorne presented the new slate of officers for the 1964-1965 term:

The door prize was won by Sister Mary Carthagh, Superior of St. Michael's Convent.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served in the cafeteria of the College.

Women's Club Against Curbing Italy's Romeos

ROME (AP) — The American Women's Club of Rome rallied today to the defence of Italian sidewalk wolves. It warned that official plans to curb them would take much of the romance out of romantic Italy for women tourists.

Italian officials announced recently they would take steps against the flocks of accompanied foreign women complained they had been molested.

The women's association, which includes hundreds of wives of U.S. diplomats and businessmen, defended the romantic tendencies of the Italian male in an unsigned article in its newspaper.

The article, titled A Pinch of Romance, declared the amorous tweaks and "carefree leers of Italian men" were an integral part of Italy's appeal for the visiting woman.

"Every woman over 30 views a trip to Italy with flutters of excitement which owe nothing to the anticipation of viewing ruins," said the article. "What is the first question confronting the returned female tourist in the suburbs? Certainly not 'did you see the Sistine chapel?' But 'did you get pinched?' . . .

"For an American woman, by nature, responding to a world product who is accustomed to walking a street as if invisible . . . the fact that Italian men aged 17 to 80 will, without exception, turn their heads as she passes, is a thing of wonder and joy.

"It may take a bit of getting used to but it's a refreshment women are willing to make. The Italian attitude is the ingredient missing. 'You're a woman and therefore worthy of admiration' is so charmingly un-American.

"Let the tourist bureau control prices and museum hours, but let the exercise of any unesthetic handling of the Italian Romeos."

FASHION SHOWS — GOOD OR BAD?

I have received a long letter, far too long to print even in part, complaining bitterly about fashion shows. The essence of this writer's complaint is that most fashion shows are not geared to the audience. She says she dislikes seeing Paris collections because neither she, nor anyone in the audience, could afford to buy these imports.

Of course, the main idea behind the showing of a Paris collection is that advance trends are being shown. This part of any fashion show is the icing on the cake. There is never a great deal of it and if it is rich, it is spread thinly over the more nourishing body of the cake — the show itself. As for no one in the audience buying these Paris gowns, quite frequently, they are not for sale.

Another complaint is that often fashion show commentators are too detailed and talkative. It is thought to be unnecessary for us to be told that this is a red dress, when the audience can see that it is red. I think most Canadian commentators do tend to be a little chatty, but if red is an important color for the season, should the fact not be emphasized? I do think that many commentators could point out the virtues of certain silhouettes and styles as being flattering or attractive or designated figure types.

Still another complaint was about fashion shows dealing only with sportswear. (Apparently the writer of this letter never reads sportswear.) She says that she can never tell from the announced title of a show whether it will feature sportswear exclusively. A show called "Fashions for Summer" should contain all summer fashions — dresses, light coats, sweaters about fashion shows featuring only active sportswear, but announced under ambiguous titles, are justified.

INFORMATION OF FABRICS

The writer of this letter also needed information about fabrics and materials used in the fashion she sees on the runway. She would like to have the fabric content spelled out. If it has a trade name, she wants to know it also, along with the special features of this fabric. She also says very firmly that she is not interested in knowing how the fabric is made. If it is a man-made material, that is fine with her. She does not want to be told all about the intricate processes it must go through before she buys it.

Her idea of more shows with an informative theme is good. She likes accessories and knows that their correct use is the backbone of good fashion. She complains that many fashion shows do not even mention accessories, let alone instruct the audience on the necessity of a tailored bag, hat and shoes worn with a softly tailored suit. It is sometimes a little difficult to stage such a scene as the model must be a good actress in order to present this successfully. It can be done if this scene is rehearsed and coordinated with care.

If you have a question on fashion, just write Pegg Rogers care of this paper.

Club Activities

WHITE CANE CLUB

On Tuesday evening the members of the White Cane Club and their escorts met at Kiwanis Centre for its monthly recreation meeting. Arlis Scott presided in the absence of president Helen Wardaugh, and extended a warm welcome to all.

Clarence Morris read the names of the members of the Club celebrating birthdays in May.

Mr. Clifford Templer was present with three students from BCIVS. Roger Scriven played three selections on his cornet, which was much enjoyed by everyone present.

Mary Beth Folwell delighted her audience with several humorous readings. The vocal selections by Murdock McFarlane, accompanied by Mr. Templer at the piano were deeply appreciated. Clarence Morris extended the sincere thanks of the club to the entertainers who had added so much enjoyment to the evening.

Mr. Nokrand Sprague, Trenton, chairman of the Hastings County Advisory Board to the Blind, was welcomed and spoke briefly.

Mrs. H. Robins read an interesting article describing the only year-round recreational and training centre for the blind in Canada. The lodge is situated on British Columbia's Bowen Island, surrounded by the sparkling waters of Howe Sound and the Straits of Georgia. It offers a perfect blend of summer holidays and therapy.

Lou Chandler spoke about the radio broadcasts for the blind from the Belleville and Kingston stations on Sunday afternoon.

The oral contest conducted by Clarence Morris was won by Artie Scott.

The Kiwanis ladies served a delicious lunch for which Charlie Dolan expressed grateful thanks.

FORMER McINTOSH - McKENZIE HOUSE
Located on South Front Street

Behind the commercial facade of the MacKenzie Feed Store on South Front Street lies a well-proportioned house of great dignity. One of the best of Belleville's old buildings, and perhaps its first to be erected in the new Loyalist style that followed the Georgian, it dates to about 1818.

Upper Canada bustled with activity during the war of 1812. The task of supplying a standing army brought prosperity to farmers, artisans, and merchants like Captain John McIntosh. Capt. McIntosh was one of Belleville's earliest and most ambitious citizens. He ran a store, operated sailing vessels, was appointed Town Clerk and served as a Militia Officer.

In 1800, he along with 3 others undertook to provide the Hastings Militia with uniforms — "red coats with blue facings, long yellow buttons and white linings".

After the war Capt. McIntosh was wealthy enough to turn his thoughts to the erection of a spacious and important new house on Belleville's main street.

Unfortunately he was drowned in 1815, when one of his boats floundered in the Bay, and his widow Martha, was left to complete his building plans.

When Martha McIntosh built her house the bold plain lines of the Georgian style of her youth had been succeded by the Loyalist. It differed from the Georgian in the gentle pitch of its roof, and in the delicacy of its trim. The eave and skill lavished on small details can be seen in the bracket blocks under the eaves. They are small in scale and ankle-cut to conform to the slope of the gable ends.

Loyalist houses were symmetrically-arranged rectangles, with a central door and 9 windows across the front, 4 downstairs and 5 up. The kitchen was relegated to a rear wing, where the hot and smoky job of cooking over an open fire could be carried out far from the main living quarters.

The fire-place, with its bake-oven, is still in place in the kitchen wing at the back of the MacKenzie Store.

These early buildings are of the post-and-beam construction. To the big square timbers of the frame, clapboard was nailed on the outside and lath on the inside. The space between was filled with bricks and mortar. The hand-split lath was backed with an axe to make a jagged surface for the plaster to stick to.

The sheds at the back of the lot enclose a portion of the original stables. The parking lot on the north side of the house was once an intricately laid-out sunken garden, whose paths and shrubbery are marked on an 1878 map of the city.

White clapboard Loyalist houses appeared all over Upper Canada in the 2 decades after the peace of 1814. Modern builders call them "Colonial" and attempt to reproduce them. Scornful British travellers of the 1820's declared them "showy and clean but without neatness, proportion or substantiality". Maybe McIntosh just enjoyed being for its comfort and convenience, a far cry from the log cabin she had lived in as an early settler.

She sold it in 1828 to George Neville Ridley, a doctor newly arrived from England. Older Bellevillians still refer to it as the Ridley House an unintentional slight to Capt. McIntosh and his wife, who bought the first touch of gracious living to the hamlet at the mouth of the Moira.

Bushy-Tailed Squirrels Take Over in Metro

TORONTO (CP) — Suburban Etobicoke women involved in a battle with an increasing squirrel population are discovering that the law and the odds are on the side of the bushy-tailed animals.

Police say it's against the law to shoot them and the only action township board of control will take is to lend the women some traps. The women say they don't know how to use them.

"Besides," one said, "we don't want to hurt them. We just want them to go away."

The women say they are afraid to put their children outdoors to play for fear of them being bitten. The squirrels, they add, have torn up lawns, ruined fruit trees, eaten away bird houses and carried off the eggs.

One woman said she called a rodent control firm and that she was told that if a squirrel got into her attic it could be removed at a cost of $40.

Canada's

was the first major accomplishment of the meeting. Other major political problems remain after being debated during the first two days of the meeting.

Martin urged greater co-operation between both sides of the Atlantic as "the only sensible policy" for NATO's future.

During Wednesday's close door debate on the state of the alliance, the Canadian external affairs minister sought to find a middle position between "the two main asserted points of view" in NATO.

French President de Gaulle is opposed to the NATO defence organization, calling for the pooling of national forces into an integrated whole. France wants less dependence on the United States.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Mcrville told the conference that France solidly supports the alliance's political aims, but he does not like its military setup.

Because of his adamant stand toward military integration, de Gaulle has been frequently accused of wrecking NATO, but Martin said after Wednesday's session that he had never heard Couve de Murville make a "stronger statement on the need for the alliance than I heard him make today."

Martin said the alliance has not strayed from its basic purpose to resist Communist aggression in Europe, the aim that brought its 15 members together 15 years ago, but differences among free countries are normal and there should be no hesitation in facing realities in the NATO council.

Canada would resist any division within the alliance toward North American or European continentalism.

"It would be inconceivable" for Canada to choose between two sides of the Atlantic because of Canada's historic role in Europe while at the same time she is a North American country, Martin said.

"So greater co-operation between the two sides of the Atlantic is the only sensible policy if the alliance is to evolve as a partnership of like-minded nations."

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk appealed for allied unity at a time when Cyprus as well as Gaullist policies are straining NATO.

Rusk asked France to come forward with any changes de Gaulle wants in the alliance structure. He declared the U.S. is determined to maintain its commitments to defend Western Europe from possible Communist aggression, a point de Gaulle questions.

Rusk supported Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak of Belgium who earlier called on de Gaulle to speak out about changes France wants in NATO.

Couve de Murville said the important thing is for members of NATO to stand together in moments of great international stress the way de Gaulle supported president Kennedy in the crisis over Soviet missiles in Cuba in 1962.

But there was no need for a complete identity of views on all points by the 15 member governments.

Conference sources said Couve de Murville pleaded for "tolerance and a sense of reality."

Judge Defends Motorcyclists In Address

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Those black - jacketed, goggle - wearing, black-booted teenagers who roar along Ontario highways on powerful motorcycles aren't all bad. Their foul image is all the fault of Marlon Brando.

Judge Bruce J. S. Macdonald, himself a toughened veteran of the motorcycle saddle, defended the majority of motorcyclists in an address here Wednesday to the Juvenile Officers' Association of Michigan and Ontario.

"They've got a bad image," Judge Macdonald said in a diversion from his prepared text. "Blame it all on Marlon Brando."

The judge cited a movie starring Brando called The Wild One, blaming the actor for creating the hoodlum concept people generally attach to motorcycle riders.

"I think we should avoid labelling the motorcycle riderz," the judge said. "Certainly there have been instances of tough motorcycle gangs running afoul of the law, But most of them are law-abiding enthusiasts who only want to enjoy the thrill of the sport."

released in exchange for $33,000,000 ransom.

Artime's group is regarded by exile sources as having good relations with the Central Intelligence Agency. Havana radio said the CIA maintained operations in Florida, Puerto Rico and Central America for strikes against Cuba.

By tradition, the CIA never comments on such charges, but the state department said in Washington the U.S. government had no connection with the raid and no information about it.

Exile organizations have been talking of plans to send attack forces into Cuba.

Manuel Ray, head of the revolutionary junta, has promised to be fighting on Cuban soil by May 20, Cuba's independence anniversary.

PORT SAID (AP) — Cranes and divers worked around the clock Thursday to clear the Suez Canal of a sunken barge blocking the passage north of more than 100 loaded supertankers from the Persian Gulf. Waves from a passing ship sank the cement-loaded barge a week ago about three miles south of the halfway point in the canal.

Mr. Bracci had also asked for the inquiry to clear his name.

Mr. Ryan's submission had been agreed upon by a court as the basis for conducting the investigation. Even after it was withdrawn Judge Ross said it would remain as such.

Judge Ross said withdrawal of the submission left Mr. Ryan and T. C. Murphy, a lawyer representing the taxpayers, without legal status at the hearing.

NOTHING HIDDEN

Judge Ross said the public should be assured that nothing was being done to hide any facts. "We are not whitewashing anything and nothing is being concealed."

"Are you ready to support the unsupported allegations made in the petition or in the press?" he asked the spectators, who included the two clergymen.

"This inquiry was an opportunity for everyone to stand up and be counted, and yes the citizens of White River will have no one to blame but yourselves when the report is made."

Davis Mossop, counsel for Mr. Bracci, said Mr. Ryan had made allegations against his client but was not prepared to stand behind them with evidence.

"If he is unable to condemn Mr. Bracci by evidence you should not allow him to condemn high through argument," he said.

"When 120 or so persons signed this petition and not one of them came forward we must assume that they were influenced by certain members of the community," said Mr. Mossop.

CALLS WITNESSES

The charges against Mr. Bracci were dealt with by witnesses called by Mr. Mossop.

Charles Hillaire, a supervisor of the administration branch of the department of municipal affairs, said Mr. Bracci had intentionally avoided a possibility of a conflict of interest by selling his interest in a land development in August, 1963.

An official of Norder Investments, said Mr. Bracci had bought a $4,000 interest in the company only when it was necessary to keep Norder interested in subdividing and building homes at White River.

The hearing was also told that land Mr. Wintermeyer said Mr. Bracci had purchased along the proposed Trans - Canada Highway route had been in the Bracci family since 1926.

Witnesses to dispute charges made against the improvement district were called by James Usher, counsel for the district.

DEFEND BYLAW

Municipal affairs department officials said that a bylaw passed to allow the encroachment of a store owned by Mr. Bracci was a valid move. They said the store projected only one inch into the street and the bylaw was necessary to complete a mortgage agreement.

Municipal affairs officials also said they had approved a $2,000 loan from the district toward construction of a curling club since the rink, to be built by the Lions Club, was to be turned over to the community when paid for.

Mr. Bracci said he had guaranteed a $18,000 mortgage on the club when the Lions Club fell short of its campaign objective.

Other testimony dealt with a charge that extra expense was incurred by having the district's banking done at Marathon, about 60 miles west of here.

Witnesses said there was no bank in White River when the district was set up in 1956. After a bank was established here, the account was moved to a local branch.

similar to that taken a few weeks ago when the Cuban government sought to buy $2,000,000 worth of lard from the United States and ship it through Canadian traders. At that time, the commerce department placed an order requiring specific authority to ship lard to Cuba.

The United States since October, 1960, has banned exports to Cuba of all items except food and medicine.

OLD EGG CUP SOLD

LONDON (AP)—An egg cup said Thursday for $10 ($24.500). The egg cup was an Elizabeth I silver-gilt ostrich one made in 1564. It was bought by a silver dealer, S. J. Phillips of London, at a Sotheby's auction.

Man in Grey Suit Delivers Banning Orders of Vorster

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — That knock at the door could be the milkman, the postman—or a man in a plain grey suit with another of the banning orders issued by South African Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster.

The man now known as Vorster's Grey Suits started coming around five years ago. Few of the recipients of banning orders realized that they could be separated from their families, sent to jail or confined to their homes from dusk to dawn for years under South Africa's strict suppression of communism and other security laws.

Today at least 330 whites, blacks, Indians and coloreds (people of mixed blood) have been listed for suspected pro-Red activities.

The banning orders often hit where it hurts most—at home.

In one case a mother could not attend her daughter's 10th birthday party because the mother, Adelaine Main of South Africa's Liberal party, was not allowed to attend gatherings. The girl's grandmother lit the candles and led the party games.

PLAYED POOL

A six-months suspended jail sentence was imposed on a banned white man for playing pool with a friend. A magistrate found that Peter Donald Hjul, 33, and his opponent constituted a "gathering." If ever he goes to a gathering again, the suspended jail sentence can be put in.

When 21-year-old Toni Bernstein was banned, apparently because she once belonged to a Liberal movement, it meant she could not see or speak to her father. This was one of her penalties for being a "listed" person.

Her father, Leonard Bernstein, has been brought to trial with others for allegedly belonging to a communistic cell aimed at the overthrow of Premier Hendrik Verwoerd's all - white government. Bernstein is also banned. The order against him forbids his talking to or communicating in any way with any other listed person.

This law knows no color barriers. An African, confined to an African segregated township near Johannesburg in terms of his banning order, could not attend the funeral of his baby son in another nearby African township.

The banning orders can deprive people almost entirely of personal freedom. The justice minister need give no explanation for his actions and normally there is no recourse to the courts.

The law allows senior police officers to hold for questioning anyone they suspect may know of subversive activities. These detainees can be held 90 days at a time. The 90-day periods can be repeated almost indefinitely.

Repeated protests have been made against recent bannings of large numbers of trade union leaders, white and non-white. Among them are the vice-president and the assistant general secretary of the South African Congress of Trade Unions. No reasons for these bannings have been given.

Even normally broad-minded people are inclined to shun anyone with pronounced liberal associations and to steer clear of people on Vorster's list. They never know when one of his men in a grey suit might be watching and listening.

PLEADS GUILTY

TORONTO (CP)—Howard A. Brown, 19, son of Toronto alderman Horace Brown, pleaded guilty Wednesday to stealing his father's wallet containing $40 and taking his father's car without his consent. He was remanded to May 20 for a presentence report. The charges were laid by his father.

Cross-Canada Survey

After Record Wheat Sales Comes Undiluted Optimism

By ALEXANDER FARRELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Confidence is almost as abundant a commodity as grain at Canada's major deep-sea ports this spring.

Following one of the busiest winters on record, stimulated by the nation's big sale of wheat and flour to the Soviet Union, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press found most port officials facing the 1964 summer season with undiluted optimism.

Shipping prospects in Quebec City are "excellent", said port manager Paul Bousquet.

Montreal got off to a flying start in the spring and faces "another quite good summer", said Capt. F. C. Oppen, assistant port manager.

Vancouver was looking forward to increased activity.

Even in Saint John, N.B., and Halifax, where warm weather means a slack period, there were expectations of some improvement.

The Saint John port and industrial development commission, one of the most active promotional groups at any port in the country, said "we are quite optimistic about the chances for better than average summer business."

SHIP MORE OIL

Port manager J. R. Mitchell of Halifax said that, while there is no reason to expect "any great change" in the seasonal pattern of light summer traffic after a busy winter, the outlook is fairly good for increased trade in grain, lumber, gypsum and oil.

In Churchill, Man., the most northerly of the ports operated by the National Harbors Board, officials were expecting "an all-out movement" of grain.

The grain trade figured prominently in the prospects of most ports. It was expected to take until the end of July to clean up the shipments of grain sold to Russia last year and, by that time, the new crop year will be under way.

Some 118,000,000 bushels of the 230,000,000 sold to Russia remained to be exported when the current season got under way early in the spring.

Although official figures were not available, Capt. Oppen said Montreal's freight traffic appeared to take a big climb in the first part of the spring. The rush started in the third week of March and since then more ships had called in port than in any previous spring for a number of years.

"There are chances of more grain sales that will keep the level of traffic high right through the late summer and fall," he said.

SULPHUR IS UP

Vancouver, the nation's most active year-round port, was looking forward to substantial increases in bulk cargoes such as grain, potash, coal, sulphur and lumber.

A spokesman for one shipping company said sulphur exports may go as high as 500,000 tons, compared with 240,000 tons last year.

Vancouver officials expected heavy grain and flour shipments to Russia and China to continue.

In Quebec City grain elevator facilities are being expanded but this work will not be completed until next spring.

Mr. Bousquet said "grain movements will be substantial this year and general cargo should be rather good, probably a record."

Increases could be expected in grain, newsprint and asbestos exports and oil imports.

Officials in Saint John reported the port was benefitting from an unusually good demand for lumber in Britain. Wheat exports to Russia were also continuing at a steady pace.

Halifax was "going great blast" in early spring, Mr. Mitchell said, but its activity was expected to level off to the summer norm before mid-May.

Recent construction of a second oil refinery at Eastern Passage, across the harbor from downtown Halifax, was expected to bring about a considerable boost in tanker traffic.

MAY HELP VICTIMS

SARNIA (CP)—Mayor Henry Ross said Tuesday he will investigate whether $3,000 left over from Sarnia's tornado fund 11 years ago can be used to aid victims of Friday's tornado in Anchor Bay, Mich. The money was to be held for 10 years and then given to other relief groups at the discretion of the trustees of the fund.

TRUDY

"Why can't he be satisfied with just a bedtime story, like other kids?"

Football Player Turned R.C. Priest No Saint as Youngster

"He liked to box and roughhouse around," recalls the mother of the 31-year-old former professional athlete.

Now known as Brother Sweeney, Leo played football with the University of British Columbia in 1951 and found he had a flair for the game. He signed a contract with Calgary Stampeders for the 1952-53 season, then joined British Columbia Lions for their opening season the next year.

Later he decided to become a priest and entered Holy Rosary Scholasticate in Ottawa in 1957 for his training. He will be ordained here June 20 by Most Rev. Martin Johnson, Roman Catholic archbishop of Vancouver.

"We didn't bring him up to be a priest or an athlete," says his mother, Mary Sweeney. "Leo was a regular youngster. He and his brothers got into the normal amount of mischief."

STILL PUZZLED

She is still just a little puzzled over how she came to have two sons enter the priesthood. Leo's eldest brother William is priest administrator of Prince George Roman Catholic College in the British Columbia north.

"We are just an ordinary Catholic family," she says. "We don't sit in church all day. But the boys just seem to feel that only by serving God could their lives be real.

"We always told them, 'We don't care what you do. Dig ditches if you like. But whatever you decide, do it as well as you possibly can. Then you'll be happy and, you'll make us happy, too.'"

Believe Tshombe Finished as Political Figure

ELISABETHVILLE (AP) — The big question in The Congo is: What will Moise Tshombe go ing to do?

The flamboyant Katangan political leader, who saw his scheme of carving a separate state out of The Congo smashed by the United Nations, broods in Spain.

Thousands of his followers wait for his next move in the poverty and misery he helped to create. A ragged remnant of his Katangan army, perhaps 2,000 men, awaits his orders across the border of Portuguese Angola. There are a few white mercenaries with them.

Thousands more of Tshombe's undisciplined gendarmes live precariously in the bush with their rifles. Tshombe imported 25,000 rifles for his army after Congolese independence in 1960. Only about 8,000 were turned in after the Tshombe rebellion ended in January, 1963, and he fled to Europe.

The fateful date is June 30, when the last United Nations soldier will have left The Congo. The Katangans, the foreign consuls here, the business men, the 14,000 Belgians who have returned, all await somewhat apprehensively for the day.

CONGOLESE SUFFERING

There is no question that the Africans in the old province of Katanga, now divided into three smaller provinces, are suffering. The price of a bag of corn meal, the staple diet for Africans, has risen to 1,850 francs from 65 francs before independence. Wages have risen only 25 per cent despite devaluation of the currency from 50 francs to the dollar to 150 francs.

Once a tidy little city, ablaze with flowering trees and famed in central Africa for its good living and good food, Elisabethville is fading away into a tawdry collection of empty shops and rutted, unrepaired streets. The departure of the United Nations contingent will be one more blow to the economy.

Units of the Congolese national army have taken over the six sectors of Katanga, particularly the mining centres of Elisabethville, Jadotville, Kolwezi and Kipushi. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, commander of the Congolese army, plans to have nine battalions in Katanga by June 30, including the 3rd Commando Battalion now keeping the peace in Stanleyville.

This will give the Communist-supported Committee of National Liberation opportunity to spread terrorism over remote regions of The Congo.

Tshombe's political is still the dominant political party in Eastern Katanga. But the Tshombe, his family and followers who continue to pledge their undying loyalty to him, is finished as a political figure in The Congo.

Retired Pres. of Exchequer Court Throws Support to Ombudsman Plan in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. J. T. Thorson, retired president of the Exchequer Court of Canada, Wednesday threw his support behind a campaign to introduce the ombudsman system in Canada.

The outspoken Canadian jurist took his stand in an interview at the annual meeting of the Canadian Citizenship Council following a panel discussion on how the system works in other countries and the need for it in Canada.

Mr. Thorson, president-elect of the council for 1964-65, said he supports fully the introduction in Canada of ombudsmen—officers of Parliament or the legislatures who investigate complaints by individuals against unfair administrative decisions and, when necessary, recommended remedial action.

Mr. Thorson said he considers the campaign to introduce ombudsmen in Canada the next challenge in his long life as a public figure. The system has proved itself in Sweden and other countries and would be a major victory in safeguarding civil liberties if introduced in Canada.

He agreed with panelist Donald C. Rowat, professor of political science at Ottawa's Carleton University, that the Canadian judiciary would still retain objections to the campaign. However, he felt that with persistence the judiciary could be won eventually would agree that the ombudsman system would make a major contribution to the preservation of civil liberties.

The panel which discussed the ombudsman system decided to present a recommendation to the council urging introduction of the system in Canada.

Prof. Rowat said Canadians are living under an illusion that their rights are protected under the law. Powers of government administrators and government boards and agencies had reached a dangerous point and some system was required to protect the individual against unfair and arbitrary decisions.

The court were no longer adequate to control the powers of the executive or government administrators. There were too many instances where the individual had no appeal against such decisions.

Prof. Rowat said there also is too much secrecy in government in Canada. All government documents should be public information except those which could harm individuals or the state if they were made public.

The citizenship council reported that it was unable to find any organization worthy of receiving its 1964 Citizenship Award.

Alan Clarke, executive director od the council, said only two organizations were nominated for the award by the council's citizenship awards committee.

William McGrath, executive director of the Canadian Corrections Association, said Canada's prisons are made to concentrated effort to interpret the meaning of the law to teenagers.

"The law represents the authority of society and any authority to be effective must be understood," he said.

The school system should help the family unit in giving youth a proper interpretation of the laws of the land. It was the only agency that reached all children over a considerable period of time.

Khrushchev Appears to Be Scoring Triumph in Egypt

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

By carefully cultivating and exploiting almost every Arabian dream, Soviet Premier Khrushchev appears to be scoring a major personal triumph in Egypt.

His presence there causes uneasiness in some parts of the Western camp, where officials fear that inflation of the Arabian ego may lead to new turmoil and bloodshed in clashes with Israelis.

Khrushchev is well aware how explosive such a mixture can be. He has loudly advocated peaceful co-existence between East and West on and off for a time when he faced a grain crisis at home, he seemed bent on a program of world revolution.

Now, apparently, his grain fields are in better shape and his eye on other and wider horizons, particularly the Middle East and Africa where race hatred and disillusionment with Western style of democracy provide fertile ground for political and military upheaval.

Some American analysts have suggest Khrushchev's current tour is essentially to lessen the influence of the Red Chinese who had been there before.

But the Soviet leader knows he could bid the Chinese in seeking Arab support.

Yet Khrushchev knows the U.S. endorsed Israel's proposed diversion of Jordan waters. By digging his heels against Israel he not only gains approval of Nasser's United Arab Republic but those in the Washington position.

Despite the embarrassment his statements have caused the U.S., the American government is cheered by the fact that so far the Soviet arms supply to the U.A.R. has been modest. Moscow has apparently engaged in an arms race in the past. Any sudden move on one side would force the other with counter moves, merely force the other side to outpace the enemy.

Aside from its acquisition of Soviet arms, the Nasser regime also has engaged a number of private German technicians to develop rockets which Egypt or may not be of a nuclear capacity. Israel has been getting some Americans to help it, but maintains this is nothing more than an attempt to balance the arms stockpile in that area.

In the current spirit of warm cordiality, it would appear that Nasser would merely have to ask to receive. If Khrushchev intends to heat up the cold war, the Middle East could provide plenty of room for exploration. The area is about 40,000,000 people; Israel has about 2,000,000.

The Russians tend to be sharp realists. When former president Harry Truman referred to the late Joseph Stalin the world would be angered if the Russians called Truman mad. Truman said Stalin remarked: "And how many divisions has the pope?"

It is highly unlikely, however, the U.S. would stand aside if Khrushchev, under the Kremlin, unleashed a new attack against tiny Israel. Nevertheless Khrushchev might be more inclined to exploit the Middle East by promising the Arabs a lot—and not fulfilling all his promises.

Judge Upholds Parliament's Right to Put Ship Unions Under the Trustees' Act

MONTREAL (CP)—Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet upheld Wednesday Parliament's constitutional right to put Canadian shipping unions under trusteeship and said Donald Rey Smith, secretary - treasurer of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.), who filed the injunction petition, did not come to court with clean hands."

In the petition heard in Superior Court last November, SIU lawyers said the Trustees Act was an invasion by Parliament of the "property and civil rights" field of legislation restricted to provincial legislatures. under the terms of the British North America Act.

Mr. Swail, 35, who said he was elected by ballot in 1960, said in his testimony "We have lost our constitutional rights over our buildings and property. Also we have lost our right to engage counsel and take legal action without the permission of the trustees."

Mr. Justice Ouimet based his views primarily on the preamble to the Trustees Act which referred to the Norris shipping inquiry report as indicating an "emergency situation" had developed and was endangering navigation and shipping in Canadian waters.

The introduction of the act's preamble and of the Norris inquiry report were opposed by SIU lawyers John Ahern and Joseph Nuss. These objections, taken under reserve, were formally rejected in Wednesday's judgment.

The court said the Norris inquiry report "shows that there existed, at the time of the passing of the act in question, an unquestionable emergency situation, affecting the shipping industry in Canada with consequent threat to the economy and the international relations of the country, and to peace, order, and good government all across the St. Lawrence Seaway and throughout relevant Canadian ports."

Mr. Justice Ouimet added that as a petitioner for the injunction Mr. Swail's own conduct in the matter had to be considered.

The petitioner, himself," Mr. Justice Ouimet said, "by electing and supporting officers of a union which operates as are described at length in the Norris report, had both instrumental in creating the said emergency and, consequently, does not come to court with clean hands."

In concluding his judgment, Mr. Justice Ouimet specified the Trustees act was not only within Parliament's constitutional powers, but that it neither infringed the provisions of the Bill of Rights, "nor of any international instrument achieved to in pursuance of the principles there in recited."

RESIGNS DISCONTENTED

W. J. Richardson, registrar of the real estate and business brokers act, said Monday he has resigned from his office because of his growing dissatisfaction with the attorney-general's department. He has held his post for five years. He said the immediate cause of his resignation was the way in which amendments to the act were made with practically no consideration being given to views of those who would administer the act.

Construction Roundup

By Andy Turnbull

NEW SUBDIVISIONS

Belleville subdividers went northward this week, with two new developments, north and south of the city. Gerald Joyce handled the arrangements.

South of the city, Fenwood Gardens is three miles from the city, between Highway 14 and the old Picton Highway. There are 50 lots in the development, most of them with trees, and a central water system is being provided. Water works on this development are finished now, and construction is about to start.

Greenfield Park is three miles north of the city, on the River Road Northwest of Consyrville. Some of the lots in the plan have river frontage; others will have the use of a riverside park, included in the plan. Eight lots of this development have been sold so far, according to Mr. Joyce, and two houses have been started. One of the houses is nearly finished.

BAY HEDGER MOTORS

Steel for the roof of the service area and for the second floor of the office section of the new Bay Hedger Motors building was erected last week. Bricklayers are now laying brick for the second floor of the office, and may be through by the end of the week. Then the roofers will finish off the roof of the office next week, and if all goes well the building will be closed in for the winter by now. Planned opening date, according to Ray Hedger, is about the second week of June.

BELL BUILDING

Painting, plastering and laying tile floors are proceeding in the new office building for Bell Telephone at Victoria and Pinnacle streets. Electrical work will be finished in two or three weeks, according to supervisor Howard Lewis is handling same. The building are cantilever design, perhaps the first such design in the Belleville area in the city. Foley Machine made them, and they were installed last week. The building has provisi a for an elevator, but none will be installed for the time being.

SMITH TRANSPORT

Albert Marucia has taken over temporarily at the Smith Transport terminal, being built by the Thomas Co. He is finishing up interior details while Howard Lewis is handling same work at Stephens - Adamson. Lewis may return to the terminal before the building is ready, the section is ready to be poured, in a few weeks.

BAXTER CANNERY

Tatham's poured the final section of the warehouse floor at the new Baxter Cannery in Bloomfield Monday. The job, including about 250 cubic yards of concrete, was finished by 1 p.m., according to Jack Tatham. Finishing crews worked last. Equipment is being installed in the pl and some of it may be in operation by now. The boiler, though, is dismantled for cleaning.

BUILDING PERMITS

Nine permits were issued during the past week, by the city building inspector's office. One of the permits for a fire escape at Aluminum Goods, another for a $9,000 addition to the Jehovah's Witnesses' hall at 89 Yeoman St. The rest of the permits were for single houses, or additions to houses.

MONUMENT

For people who like old gravestones, (and quite a few people do, it seems), the new Quaker monument at Hay Bay should be of interest. All the gravestones in the original cemetery were dug up, cleaned, and mounted in the crescent - shaped monument. Frank Edwards of Coleman of the Bradshaw Construction, the firm that finished the job last week.

Turned Over Part of Robbery Money to Mayor

MONTREAL (CP)—A witness testified Wednesday he took part in a $22,783 armed robbery in a Montreal amusement park nearly four years ago and then turned part of the money over to J. A. Remillard, former mayor of Jacques Cartier, for safekeeping.

Leonard Desmarais made the statement during preliminary hearing of several men who police say were members of a gang run by alain gangster Rocky Pilotte.

Desmarais, charged with the June 6, 1960 robbery at Belmont Park on the north shore of Montreal Island, went through a detailed account of the robbery.

He said he turned over his share of the booty to Mr. Remillard, who was deposed as mayor two years ago through legislation proposed by the Quebec government.

Gerin-Lajoie Named First Quebec Education Minister

QUEBEC (CP)—To no one's surprise, Paul Gerin-Lajoie, a kinky-haired constitutional expert, has been named Quebec's first minister of education.

His swearing in Wednesday as the province's new power in that could divide his political future.

That Mr. Gerin-Lajoie could go far in politics, few people doubt. Soon after the Liberal administration took power in 1960 he was dubbed "Le Dauphin," the French equivalent of the crown prince.

And that he is determined to make sweeping changes in education was underlined in the speech that Liberals took office, June 5, 1960. Among the first acts of the new government was an order-in-council putting all education services under the youth department and the Gerin-Lajoie.

Now the youth department has disappeared and the education department stands in its place with Mr. Gerin-Lajoie at its head. He has greater power over education in the province than any layman has ever had before.

COULD DECIDE FUTURE

That fact alone could decide the personal future of the 44-year-old minister, one of Premier Jean Lesage's closest cabinet advisers. Now, for the first time angry parents, disgruntled teachers and troubled school boards will know who to turn to—the man at the top of the system.

Mr. Gerin - Lajoie said at much himself last summer as he campaigned across the province selling the legislation that created the education department.

One of his recurrent themes was that responsibility for education was split among various groups with no co - ordinating authority. He told audiences from the Gaspe to the Abitibi country that parents with a problem didn't know where to turn.

Now they do and Mr. Gerin-Lajoie agrees it will require skill and tact to handle them. He will also need skill and tact to assuage the fears of some Quebecers that a new education department will mean the end of religious teaching in schools, one of the main arguments against the new department.

AVOIDS TROUBLE

But in nearly four years of Liberal administration he has shown an amazing capacity for avoiding trouble or getting out of it smoothly.

A neat, conservative dresser, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie has a reputation for being aloof, even coolly unsympathetic. He has been criticized by his colleagues for his lack of flair as an impassive mask. He watches his questions publishingly and then an answer comes cool, calmly, without heat, apparently effortlessly.

But he's a man who puts in 10- and 12-hour days and expects as much of his staff to do the same.

A Rhodes Scholar and brilliant lawyer, Mr. Gerin-Lajoie has been a constitutional expert because he wanted to do something for education in Quebec. But it took two tries before he was elected member for Vaudreuil-Soulanges, a semi-rural constituency just west of Montreal Island.

He was defeated in 1956 and 1957. Old political hands said his boyish appearance was against him. But in 1960 he won a seat and was immediately named to the cabinet.

FATHER AT 63

NEW YORK (AP)—Ed Begley, the 63-year-old veteran of stage and screen who won the Academy Award last year as best supporting actor in a new father. Begley's New York office announced Wednesday that his wife Helen, 38, gave birth to a daughter in Dublin, where the couple has been visiting relatives of the actor. The baby, to be named Maureen, was four months premature. The child is the first for the Begleys, who were married last year.

East German Trapeze Artist Lured Back

BERLIN (AP)—An East German trapeze artist who crawled a high tension line to West Berlin 17 months ago was lured back by his wife and now is in a Communist prison, a close relative said today.

The wife has divorced him and married another man.

Klein, known as the circus performer, Horst Klein, went back to East Berlin last July after receiving letters from his wife, Sylvia, who said she could not go on living without him.

He did not know that a bad check he was arrested and last December was sentenced to 30 months at hard labor. "He is alive, who asked not to be named, said in an interview.

"The worst thing is Horst's wife obtained a divorce in February and last month she remarried."

Klein, who was 38, escaped to West Berlin in November, 1962, after he was forbidden to work in a circus because he was too friendly with the Communist.

Klein climbed a pylon supporting power cables spanning the barbed wire barricades and the Teltow Canal.

He didn't know that 110,000-volt line no longer was in use. Fearful of being electrocuted, he used his acrobatic agility to leap from the pylon to familiar ors and then from the insulators to the cable.

Occupational Therapy Used Extensively in Hospitals

The role of the occupational therapist, providing rehabilitation services for the physically and mentally ill or disabled, is one which is seeing increasing use in the modern hospital.

It is but one of the many hospital career opportunities open to our young people looking for positions in the hospital service fields.

The occupational therapist consults with physicians, nurses, physiotherapists, social workers, speech therapists, vocational consultants and other professional personnel in order to correlate her services with the other treatments being carried out.

Working under the direction of a physician, she organizes, plans and conducts the occupational therapy program of patients in hospitals, clinics and rehabilitation centres; she evaluates patient's progress and reactions and writes reports describing their conditions and progress.

A career in the field of occupational therapy is highly stimulating and absorbing because each individual patient presents a new problem and a new challenge.

The student who enters this profession must have an enduring interest in medicine, a well-developed and well-adjusted personality and a sympathetic but practical attitude toward illness and disability.

A university course of two or three years is required.

Graduates have to comply with internship regulations set by their professional associations, in order to qualify for registration. This is in addition to university requirements and varies from two to six months.

What? No Vino?

NICOSIA (CP) — Mosaic Brandy, Gin and Whisky, three tall hits in the vicinity of strategic Kyrenia Pass in Cyprus, have their names to Maj. Frederick Tremblay of Chicoutimi, Que.

Maj. Tremblay, commander of Company, Royal 22nd Regiment, said he got tired of referring to them by numbers.

"One morning I took out my map and said this one will be Brandy, this one Whisky and that one Gin."

There is no evidence that the names have been accepted by geographers but they have found favor with the troops, mostly Canadian, who have been trying to re establish peace in the tense mountainous area between Nicosia and the north coast of the island.

Maj. Tremblay's company was assigned to a sector eight miles long and five miles wide including the pass itself, and has personally covered almost every yard of it either by jeep or on foot.

The Kyrenia Pass is important because it is one part of the island where Turkish-Cypriot were really able to entrench themselves. A number clashes there between Greek and Turkish-Cypriots have been frequent and bloody.

Driver Claims He Was Forced Off Highway

PICTON (Staff) — A Picton man was miraculously uninjured when the car he was driving left Highway 41 at 11.00 p.m., Tuesday near the Wilkes Chapel, took out three guard rails, flipped over at least once before ending up in a small creek that crosses under the road.

Provincial Constable Arnold Besteman, who investigated the one car mishap, said that William C. Reckman, 22, 406 Main St., Picton was coming into Picton, claimed he was forced off the road by an unidentified car.

The car, a 1956 model was a complete and total wreck.

SMOKING WAS FATAL

At one time, the smoking of tobacco was punishable by death in parts of Germany, Persia and Russia.

The new 14-room motel being erected by Hepburn Bros. at the Picton Bay Marina is rapidly taking shape, and it is hoped it will be ready for occupancy when the tourist season opens for the summer.

Huge Chimney At Cement Plant Excellent Guide

PICTON (Staff) — The books on navigation put out by the Canadian Power Squadron and the Boating Federation are very fine publications, but there is a wonderful aid to navigation in and around the Picton waterways.

It is the huge chimney at the Lake Ontario Portland Cement plant on the high shore road about five miles from Picton. Day and night, seven days a week, the dust, or smoke or whatever it is called, gives the sailor a feeling of security as it can be seen for many miles in almost any direction.

On Wednesday, the north wind made a turmoil out of the Bay of Quinte, piling three foot waves in the path of north bound boats, but your reporter, and another reporter just had to try out the former's cruiser after the long winter.

The tide tested about an hour, as the wind and waves drove them back in, and so that the trip would not be considered a feeling of security as sed wasted, pictures of the LOPC from the water were taken showing the smoke travelling out in almost a straight line, the breeze was that strong.

Wildey Night Observed by I.O.O.F. Lodges

CAMPBELLFORD — Members of Campbellford Lodge, No. 246, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, their wives and those of Lock Lomond Rebekah Lodge and a number of distinguished visitors enjoyed a pot-luck supper in the Lodge rooms on Saturday night.

The occasion was the visit of the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, Bro. Earl Fox and the celebrations of Wildey Night. Noble Grand Harry Bennett of the Campbellford Lodge presided for the program.

Preceding the supper, a toast to the Queen was followed by the singing of the National Anthem with Bro. George W. Locy at the piano.

A toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by Past D.D.G.M. Bro. Chris. Newman and replied to by Grand Master Earl Fox.

In a thought-provoking address, Bro. Fox stated that he was pleased to come home to Campbellford, where he had spent the first 19 years of his life, to meet old friends and make new ones. He brought greetings from the Grand Lodge and exhorted the members to go out and support every worthwhile endeavor in the community in which they lived. "We must live up to our obligation as Odd Fellows," the speaker said, "to visit the sick, relieve the distressed, educate the orphan and reverence the dead. Everywhere he went all over the province, he found Oddfellowship on the move. The C.P. and T. fund had provided over a million dollars to purchase wheel chairs, crutches and hospital beds, which are loaned without charge where they are needed in various communities throughout the province.

Past D.D.G.M. Bro. Jos. Poulton Jr., gave an interesting address on Thomas Wildey, the founder of Oddfellowship.

PRESENTATION

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of several jewels to members of the Order by the Grand Master, as follows: Fifty year jewels to Bros. Jack Fox of Toronto and Bro. George W. Locy of the Campbellford Lodge. Bro. Jack Fox is the father of the Grand Master, and it was a unique occasion that the latter should have the privilege of presenting a 50-year jewel to his father. A 40-year jewel was presented to Bro. Jos. Poulton Jr. and 25-year jewels to Bros. Morley Fessing and Clarence Nicholas. Bro. James Hafilton and George Stephens were not present to receive their 40-year jewels.

Short addresses were given by Bro. Bradshaw, Grand Messenger of the Grand Lodge of Stirling and the District Deputy Grand Master Jack Atkinson, of Madoc.

The group was entertained by magician Ted Bradshaw of Peterborough, assisted by Mrs. Bradshaw. The mystifying feats of magic were enjoyed by all and the couple was thanked by O.D.D.G.M. Bro. Roy Loucks.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

Head table guests were Grand Master Earl Fox and Mrs. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fox of Toronto, D.D.G.M. Jack Atkinson of Madoc, Mrs. Atkinson of Madoc, Grand Messenger Guy Bradshaw and Mrs. Bradshaw of Stirling, Noble Grand Harry Bennett and Mrs. Bennett of Campbellford.

N.G. Harry Bennett presented the Grand Master with a gift of cuff links in commemoration of his visit to the Campbellford Lodge, and Mrs. Fox received a corsage.

DISTILLED RUM

The first Canadian distillery, at Quebec City in 1769 and at Montreal in 1797, distilled rum from molasses imported from the West Indies.

Rotarians Hear Talk on Shakespeare

CAMPBELLFORD — "Shakespeare's time, one of the most turbulent in world history, provided an exciting and inspirational setting for the greatest of all Englishmen to make his mark on the coming generation." This was the introduction by Mr. Jack Clynoweth on Monday to his brief and interesting talk to Rotarians concerning their guests of English literature.

Mr. Clynoweth spoke vividly and with authority, as he had visited Shakespeare's birthplace recently.

"Imagine," said the speaker, "fifty years in history between 1564 and 1616—the span of Shakespeare's life. Then it was that the Huguenots were massacred in France; Ivan the Terrible ravaged Eastern Europe; the Turks lay siege to Malta; Drake, Frobisher and Champlain made their great explorations; Queen Elizabeth died, succeeded by James I; the Bible was translated into English; many great inventions were perfected and the world of mathematics was extended by the invention of logarithms. It was an interesting time."

Shakespeare was born about April 23rd, 1564, at Stratford, where his home still exists as a museum.

He was probably educated in the free grammar school where he received an education equivalent to the present day university.

He was well versed in Greek, Latin, English, history and mythology.

Most of his life, an unwritten book, is the subject of conjecture, since despite his proficiency with words, he never wrote about himself.

In 1582 he married Ann Hathaway. She was the daughter of a prosperous gentleman and was somewhat older than William, who was 18. They had four children. About 1592, he, it is said, was jailed with others by Sir George Lucy for poaching. He left his family and went to London. There it was said that he was a playwright, poet and actor. Shrewd in business, he became part owner in a theatrical company. He wrote 36 plays, many sonnets and verses of all kinds.

"Though we do not recollect it, many of his words are in daily use. The speaker quoted many phrases used by Shakespeare and in common use today in our conversations.

Visitors were impressed with the new equipment purchased during the past year, the lighting in the operating room and a portable X-ray machine.

Tea was served at the conclusion of the tour in the dining room by members of the Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. Jesse Locke and her committee. The tea room was appropriately decorated with spring flowers and home baking and bazaar articles were offered for sale.

The draw for the card tournament was made by Mrs. W. F. Scott and Russell Rowe, M.P., with the winners as follows: Mrs. Ken Cairns; $15, Harold Little; $10, Miss Jill Smith. Prize winners for the card tournament were as follows: bridge — Miss Nell Davidson, Mr. Bob Bennett; euchre — Mrs. Harry Cassidy, Mrs. Hilton Beatty and Mr. Anthony Cauley.

The following entertained for the card tournament: Mrs. W. Murray, Mrs. H. Bryans (Trent River), Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Davidson, Century Bridge Club, Catholic Women's League, Mrs. R. Douglas and Mrs. E. Walker.

Standings to date are: Ward 1, $230.76; Ward 2, $198.05; Ward 3, $119.55; Ward 4, $167; totalling $715.35. Outside donations have been received in the amount of $643.50 bringing the total to $1428.85.

This year ambassadors from 100 countries were present as the banner at Stratford was raised to his memory. During the fall of his plays will be presented in the Shakespearian theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

The speaker was introduced by Gordon Whitehorne and was thanked by Lorne Caughill.

100 Attend 'Open House' At Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD — More than 100 guests attended the "Open House at Campbellford" Memorial Hospital on Saturday afternoon. They were welcomed by Mrs. C. H. Davidson, wife of the chairman of the hospital board, and Mrs. W. F. Scott, president of the Hospital Auxiliary. Tours of the hospital were under the direction of the nursing staff and members of the local branch of the Red Cross.

Johnson Almost No-Hits Willie ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Colts Hop, Skip, Jump Over Giants 2-1

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ken Johnson has given everyone fits — no-hit strikes again, including Willie Mays.

Johnson, Houston Colts' hard-luck right hander who hadn't won in a month despite pitching a no-hitter, wound up the winner Wednesday as the Colts made the most of two bad-hop hits in a 2-1 victory over the National League-leading San Francisco Giants.

For six innings, Johnson was even better than he was April 23 when he set Cincinnati Reds down without a hit but lost 1-0 on two errors in the ninth inning. This time, Johnson was leading 1-0 and working on a perfect game.

So perfect fouling out and striking out. Then, in the seventh, Jesus Alou smacked Johnson's first pitch for a double and Matty Alou followed with a single, bringing up Mays.

Mays, however, couldn't get it out of the infield this time either, hitting a grounder that trapped Jesus Alou in a rundown. Johnson then got out of the jam and got a couple of breaks in the bottom of the inning.

With two out, a shot by Ron Hunt Agreemonte ricocheted off first baseman Orlando Cepeda for a double and Rusty Staub sent him to third by lining a drive that skipped past short-stop Jose Pagan. Ron Herbel came on in relief of Bob Bandy at this point and proceeded to wildpitch the decisive run across.

Johnson left in the eighth, but eventually wound up with his first victory since April 18.

And Mays, faced with his first hitless performance since the third game of the season, eventually wound up with his only hit in four trips, singling off Hal Woodeshick in the ninth. That extended his hitting streak to 20 games, although his batting average dropped 10 points to .468.

Only one other National League game was played, New York Mets defeating Milwaukee Braves 5-3. Three games were rained out — Los Angeles at Chicago, St. Louis at Philadelphia and Cincinnati at Pittsburgh.

In American League action, Chicago White Sox whipped Kansas City Athletics 5-1, Cleveland Indians defeated Boston Red Sox 3-0 in a game held to six innings by rain and in a twi-nighter Los Angeles Angels won the Opener from Kansas City 2-0 before the Athletics took the nightcap 3-2.

RAIN HALTS GAME

New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers were locked in a 1-1 tie after six innings when rain broke up their game. Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senator also were rained out.

Johnson had nursed a 1-0 lead since Skandy's homer put the colts in front in the fourth inning. But he tired in the eighth when the Giants scored on a pinch-hit double by Duke Snider and Jesus Alou's single. That ended the hapless hitting drive, as relly ruled errors by the official scorer, decisive.

Dave Nicholson hit a three-run homer and Pete Ward drove in two runs with a double for the White Sox while Juan Pizarro held the Twins to four hits.

Pizarro, now 3-0, held the American League's leading hitting crew, Tony Oliva, to one for trips, lowering his average to .429, but lost his shutout when Bob Allison homered in the ninth.

MAKES FIRST START

Ward, the Montreal - born third baseman who was rumored up for the rookie-of-the-year honors last season, was making his first start of the year after suffering a training-camp injury. He picked up a single later in the game to go with his first-inning double.

Dick Donovan, who had to leave after he was hit by a pitch in the third inning, and Sonny Siebert combined to limit the Red Sox to two hits in the rain-shortened game at Cleveland.

Barry Latman pitched a seven - hitter for the Angels in the opener and Lee Thomas and Jim Fregosi each hit a homer for the Halo home runs.

In the nightcap, Orlando Pena and John Wyatt collaborated on a four-hitter for the Athletics while Doc Edwards and Ed Charles drove in the runs off Bo Belinsky.

Pinch Hitting

By Curry Alexander

Fifteen or so of this city's youngsters, members of MacCormack's peewee all-star hockey team, listened with pride in their eyes the other evening when a shy, young graduate of their own ranks, Dennis Hull, spoke briefly of his hockey hopes and ambitions.

"Outside of playing in the NHL, I guess that's the hope of every boy who ever played hockey, my strongest ambition is to become a member of Canada's national team," Hull replied to one of the boy's questions.

DENNIS HULL . . . used to send out for a second helping of hot dogs for those hungry Hull boys from Point Anne.

Tagged "Dennis the Menace" by some OHA Junior "A" writers this past winter, due to his hell-bent-for-leather rushes and all round rugged style of play, the youngest male member of the Point Anne Hull family appeared far from threatening across the banquet table. He was obviously nervous when he rose to address the boys, team officials and guests.

He helped snap the tension for himself: "First off, fellows, I want to tell you that I don't use that greasy kid-stuff any more." Hull smiled a little and recalled a few years ago when "I was also attending these minor hockey dinners in Belleville and Mel Richards here used to send out for a second helping of hot dogs for those hungry Hull boys from Point Anne."

"A few years from now some of you boys will be invited to attend hockey camps. You will find it one of your biggest thrills, but always remember that there is a lot more to life than hockey," he continued along more serious lines, "so I would advise you all to get as much education as possible." He said later that players striving to secure their education while travelling with a hockey club do not have it easy but "we had four or five on our team this year who are completing grade 13 and doing O.K., and I think it is worth the extra effort."

Right now hockey is Hull's life and according to those close to the scene it will be for a good many years. Playing his third year with St. Catharines Black Hawks, the husky left-winger was named to the first all-star squad following a 46-goal season and was also honored when St. Kitts' fans voted him their "most popular player" in an annual poll.

Dennis was to have had a shot at the parent Chicago lineup late this season but an injury ruined this plan. He was to have played against the Maple Leafs in Toronto on a Saturday night but suffered a shoulder injury in a junior exhibition game the night before.

Asked if he expected to earn a regular job with Chicago next fall, he said, "well, I have been invited to their camp and I guess the rest is up to me." He is eligible for one more year of junior hockey.

"If Chicago does not turn out pro right away I sure would like to try and play with the Canadian national team," he offered. "I was invited to attend the Olympic tryouts this past winter and I would have liked to have played with Father Bauer's club but I guess it just wasn't in the plans," he continued. "I would be mighty proud to play for Canada, Olympics or World Tournament, but my bosses felt that St. Kitts had a good chance at the Memorial Cup so they did not see fit to let me go."

There was no bitterness in the statement, just a trace of disappointment. There was a good deal of publicity earlier when the Montreal Canadiens organization had also refused to permit one of their junior stars to leave his regular club to join the Olympics.

Dennis spoke with high praise for several of his team mates and opposing junior "A" stars. "Bobby Orr (high-scoring defence star with Oshawa Generals) makes some moves right now that few make in the NHL." He is going to be one of the great ones." In answer to a youngster's question, Hull named Toronto's Rod Selling as the outstanding defenceman in the league this winter, "but they were all tough for me to get around," he added. He also rated Yvan Cournoyer, of Montreal as "something special, a really terrific player."

Dennis will be working on brother Bobby's farm again this summer, as well as playing a little golf and softball, the latter for either Point Anne or Belleville Jilts Juniors.

Young Mr. Hull has a great deal of respect for brother Robert and hesitated not a moment before calling Chicago to win the Stanley Cup next year.

The admiration is mutual. Robert, now a seasoned NHL veteran, is giving Dennis guidance wherever possible.

But as a Chicago source put it earlier this year: "The fact that Dennis' last name was Hull made us take a good look, but that young fellow will make the National League strictly on ability, a quality of which he has plenty."

Six Go To The Barrier

Hill Rise, Dancer Eye $124,200

By ORLO ROBERTSON

BALTIMORE (AP) — It cost six trainers $1,000 each today to write the names of Northern Dancer, Hill Rise, The Scoundrel, Roman Brother, Quadrangle and Big Pete.

That is the entry fee for the six three-year-olds scheduled to match strides Saturday at 5:45 p.m. EDT, in the 88th running of the Preakness at Pimlico, second leg of racing's Triple Crown. It'll cost another $1,000 to get into the starting lineup.

To the $12,000 and the nomination fees of $14,700 for the original list of 147, the Maryland Jockey Club adds $150,000 for a total value of $176,000. The first horse to hit the finish line at the end of the 1 3-16 miles will get $124,200. To the runner-up goes $30,000 with the third horse picking up $15,000 and the fourth-place finisher $7,500. That means only two of the starters will fail to pay their expenses.

The crowd probably will not number more than 30,000 compared to the estimated 100,000 who jammed Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby May 2. Pimlico is a much smaller plant than the Downs.

IS ON CBC

The race will be televised by the CBC national network starting at 5:30 p.m.

The Preakness gets its name from a thoroughbred sold for $2,000 at a yearling sale in 1870, raced with great success in the United States and England.

History, however, will mean nothing when the six thoroughbreds break from the gate and Hill Rise from George A. Pope Jr.'s El Peco Ranch of California attempts to avenge defeat with Northern Dancer from the Windfields Farm of Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor. The Dancer beat Hill Rise by a neck in the 1¼ miles of the Kentucky Derby.

Hill Rise, who'll be ridden by Willie Shoemaker, again has been shaded by Northern Dancer in the betting line with Ray Ellsworth's The Scoundrel third.

Baseball Club Meets Tonight

With wet grounds causing postponement of Friday's scheduled senior baseball practice at the Fairgrounds, a meeting for team managers and all others interested parties has been arranged for this evening.

The meeting has been called for Maher's Shoe Store at 7.00 p.m. when the club hopes to more or less complete plans for the season.

And the team is still looking for help on an executive level so all those able to help out in any way are requested to attend.

Next Year, That Is

Probably Fight Liston - Clay

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he'll probably fight Sonny Liston next, but not until 1965 because of the tax situation.

"If somebody can show me how I can get $200,000 for fighting him this year, I'll fight him," said Clay, who prefers his new name of Muhammad Ali.

Clay estimated that his take-home pay from his title-winning fight with Liston at Miami Beach last winter was about $175 000. His gross take was estimated at about $630,000. The undefeated, champion said Liston would be harder to beat in a return fight.

"He was overconfident the first time," he said. "He'll be tougher the next time."

He listed the four top contenders, as Doug Jones, Liston, Eddie Machen and Ernie Terrell.

Clay met with reporters Thursday after attending an African bazaar sponsored by the Black Muslims, of which he is a member.

Four Classes; Opens Monday

Minor Baseball 'All Set'

The Belleville Minor Baseball Association, operating with Tyke, Peewee and Bantam schedules and an exhibition series for the city's Midget team, will open the 1964 season here on Monday.

H.M.R. president Ron Lupi-netta and his committee, consisting of G. Burnette, R. Ashton, D. Eves and K. Sprackett announced the association's plans during the other day.

Assumber of city merchants and business men have contributed financially, enabling the teams to be sponsored this season. Each player will be equipped with a sweater, bearing the sponsor's name, and a cap for regular season play.

Each club in the O.B.A. playdown teams to be fully equipped with uniforms and sponsored by a group of merchants.

The Peewee and Bantam schedules will open on the holiday, Monday, May 18th with the Tyke group commencing play on Tuesday. Players are requested to watch this space or paper's "Sports Calendar" for scheduled games.

H.M.R. executive include Mel Barrigye Landscapers, Belleville Jaycees, Boiler's Little Giants, Lions Club, Quinte Construction, Fountain Park Drive-In, C.N.R. Firemen Lodge No. 66, Boy Scout Group and Antiques. Others who have helped greatly include The Ontario Intelligencer and Maurice Rollins Construction.

Hydroplanes May Turn Down 'Railroad Week'

Permission of city council to the Quinte Hydroplane Racing Club to hold a special regatta off Zwicks Island in June may have been a waste of time after all.

Club president Doug Storey said the regatta was planned to be held in connection with Belleville's "Railroad Week."

However a refusal of the city Parks Board to permit the racing club to operate off Victoria Park this summer may have an effect on the June regatta, says Mr. Storey.

Timing of the park was supposed to be warm-up trials for the June regatta. Mr. Storey said, "but the refusal of the board may cause the boys to change their mind about the regatta."

It is reported that complaints of residents regarding the noise by the hydroplanes was one of the factors in the refusal to allow racing off Victoria Park.

Leafs Hurler Files Million Court Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Rudolph, pitcher formerly with Washington Senators and now with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League, has filed a $1,000,000 Superior Court suit against Police Chief William H. Parker, two detectives and the City of Los Angeles.

The complaint filed Tuesday charges police with illegal search and seizure, false arrest and malicious prosecution.

Rudolph alleges that detectives searched his home without a warrant and threatened and cursed him before arresting him last Dec. 5.

Police said Rudolph was taken into custody for investigation of grand theft, but he was not booked for lack of evidence.

Fred Glover Named MVP Of A. H. L.

CLEVELAN D (AP) — Fred Glover, who led Cleveland Barons to the Calder Cup championship as coach and leading scorer, today was named the American Hockey League's Most Valuable Player.

In winning his third MVP award in five years, Glover had competition from Warren Godfrey of Gump Worsley of Quebec Aces, who polled 32 votes to Glover's 27 from the coaches, players, radio and television representatives.

Glover, along with the Leslie Cunningham Plaque, received a $500 bonus in addition to the $200 he earned for being named to the second all-star team.

The only other player to win the award three times was Johnny Bower, who won it three consecutive years starting in 1954 while guarding the nets for the Barons.

BOMBER HITS 50

NEW YORK (CP)—Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion Wednesday celebrated his 50th birthday in a suite on the 50th floor of a mid-town hotel. Sticking to his guns, Louis reiterated his belief that a healthy Sonny Liston can whip champion Cassius Clay in a return bout for the title Liston lost to Clay early this year.

Hoak Leads Parade

Oklahoma Field Led By Palmer

Palmer won the event in 1958. Other former winners back for a try at the $6,600 top money are defending champion Don Fairfield, Fred Hawkins, 1956 titlist, and Gene Littler, 1960 champion.

Palmer and Littler share the tournament record for low winning score, 273. Both Fairfield and Doug Sanders, the 1962 winner, won with 280s. Par for the 7,042-yard course is 36-35—71.

SOCCER SERIES TIED

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden and the Soviet Union tied 1-1 Wednesday in the first of their two-game quarter-final of the European Cup tournament for national soccer teams. The second game will be played in Moscow May 27.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two years ago Don Hoak dressed slowly in the Pittsburgh clubhouse, the only player still remaining. A messenger came in and told Hoak his wife, singer Jil Corey, was waiting for him outside.

"I hate to have her wait in the rain," said Hoak, "but the guys who hustle in and out of the clubhouse usually wind up hustling themselves out of baseball."

Hoak, 36, may have come to the end of the line anyway.

Ago and a rookie third baseman named Richie Allen probably have ended his 11-year major league career despite the self-imposed conservation program to store his hustle until game time.

Hoak was one of three players cut by Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday in order to get down to the mandatory 25-man player limit by the mid-night deadline.

23 PLAYERS SHUFFLED

In all, 23 players from 13 were involved in the last-minute shuffling by the major league clubs. Seven teams already had reached the limit.

Among the other veterans cut were Baltimore Orioles pitcher Mike McCormick, outfielder Gene Cimoli of Kansas City Athletics, Boston Red Sox outfielder Gary Geiger and Cincinnati Reds pitcher Al Worthington. Phillies sold relief specialist Ryne Duren to Cincinnati for more than the $30,000 waiver price and sent pitcher John Boozer to Arkansas of the Pacific Coast League.

The complete list of cutdowns:

National League

Cincinnati — Sent pitchers Worthington and Jim Kirkpatrick to San Diego, Pacific Coast League.

Pittsburgh—Optioned pitchers Tom Sisk and Frank Bork and outfielder Rex Johnston to Columbus, International League.

New York—Optioned first baseman-outfielder Ed Kranepool, shortstop Al Moran and outfielder Larry Elliot to Buffalo.

St. Louis—Optioned pitcher Paul Speckenbach to Rock Hill, S.C., western Carolina League.

Philadelphia—Sold Duren to Cincinnati, asked waivers on Hoak and sent Boozer to Arkansas.

American League

Minnesota — Sent pitcher Dwight Siebler and outfielder Joe Nossek to Atlants, IL.

Kansas City—Released Cimoli.

New York—Sent first baseman-outfielder Harry Bright to Richmond, IL.

Washington — Sold pitcher Howie Koplitz and optioned catcher Ken Retzer to Toronto, IL.

Cleveland—Optioned pitcher Jerry Walker to Jacksonville, IL.

Baltimore — Optioned McCormick to Rochester.

Habs Front Office Post For Rocket?

MONTREAL (CP)—La Presse says Maurice Richard, former Montreal Canadiens' star, will take up a management post with the National Hockey League club.

Announcement of his new job —exactly what it will be is still in the speculative stage—will be made at a press conference Friday, the newspaper says.

Richard, who played 18 seasons up to 1960 with Canadiens, declined to confirm the report when reached at his home.

Kenny Reardon resigned as a club vice-president last Friday.

LEAFS OPTION PAIR

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the International Baseball League Wednesday released catcher Harry Chiti and optioned outfielder Barry Shetrone to Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League.

Has 4-1 Mark, Two Shutouts

Fischer Heads For Stardom

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Fischer, Milwaukee's young right hander, probably didn't mean it as an indictment of the New York Mets' hitting, but after pitching a three-hit 7-0 shutout against them he told Bobby Bragan, his manager, "I didn't have it tonight."

The 24-year-old pitcher from Yonkers, N.Y., is the leading Braves' pitcher with a 4-1 record. The shutout Tuesday night was his second of the season.

A year ago this time he was pitching for Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League.

Brought up to the Braves later he did most of his work in the bullpenand he wasn't too impressive at that.

To what does he owe his improvement?

"Two things," replied the young man, who received a bonus of $50,000 to sign a Braves contract back in 1959. "Confidence and control."

The confidence began when he learned last winter that the Braves had traded off two pitchers to make room for their young pitchers, including Fischer, of course.

And the control?

"This spring I came to camp right days early and started working on my control. With the help of Whitlow Wyatt, our pitching coach, I worked on getting on top of the hitter and staying ahead of him.

"You notice I didn't strike out many Mets—just two," Fischer added. "But more important, I didn't walk any."

TRACK EXHIBITION SET

CALGARY (CP)—Three Canadian track stars will run in exhibition races at McMahon Stadium July 4, the Calgary Stampeder football Club and Calgary Track Club announced Wednesday. Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers of Toronto and Harry Jerome of Vancouver will be taking part in the half-time entertainment at the annual Stampeder Red and White intrasquad game.

Nicklaus Will Play In Open

MONTREAL (CP) — Jack Nicklaus, golf's No. 1 money winner this year, has agreed to play in the Canadian Open here July 30-Aug. 2, it was announced Wednesday.

Nicklaus is the first top star to sign for the 60th anniversary of the Open, to be held at the Pinegrove Country Club, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River opposite Montreal.

The Open carries a $50,000 purse.

It will be Nicklaus' second appearance in the Canadian Open. He finished fifth when it was played here two years ago.

AUSSIES SWEEP TENNIS

ROME (AP) — Australia's Margaret Smith added three titles and a five-pound silver cup to her luggage Wednesday as she wound up the Italian international tennis championships with a mixed doubles victory. The 21-year-old teamed with John Newcombe, teen-age Australian star, to defeat and sweep the mixed doubles by beating Maria Bueno and Thomas Koch of Brazil 3-6, 7-5, 6-2.

UP AND OVER the running high jump goes a grade nine Quinte student during field day exercises held at Quinte Secondary School yesterday, one of the many events which were held throughout the afternoon.

Teacher Races Horse

Quinte Holds Field Day

By ROBERT SNEFFELLA

Wednesday was the day on which all the boys and three-quarters of the girls at Quinte Secondary School donned shorts and flexed their muscles in the sunshine, for their 3rd annual Field Day.

Participating were 1,000 students, who each entered three events.

There was a wide variety of events to choose from. Included were the 100 yard dash, the 440, the 880, broad jump, high jump, shotput, basketball throw, softball throw, 100 yard walk and the backward race.

For laughs there was the teachers' relay race, in which the Science, Language, Technical and Math and Commerce Wings took part. The Science Wing came out on top, and all the teachers showed they can still jog.

To top everything, Mr. Jack Sisson, the head of the Physical Education Dept. raced a horse ridden by Jill Tripp. To avoid humiliating anyone it will not be said who lost, but just that the horse won.

The class with the best result in the school was 9C, closely followed by 9K and 9B.

The grade winners were: 9C, 10C and G (tie), 11G, and in grades, 13 and 13, 12A.

The verdict—a successful Field Day.

Canadian amateur hockey officials should watch out. Bunny Ahearne is heading this way.

He'll step off an ocean liner this weekend and into the midst of some indignant hockey men. They feel that Canada's Olympic team was "robbed" of a third - place bronze medal in Austria last February and that Bunny put the finger on our young guys.

Canada finished fourth, the lowest placing in Olympic history, and the rap is that Ahearne did us wrong. He'll be expected to answer that charge at the golden jubilee meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in Ottawa starting Monday.

No one intimidates this Dub-lin-born man who has been European representative of the CAHA for 25 years or so. Now, as president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, he is the most powerful amateur hockey official in the world and Canadians know it.

EMERGED UNSCATHED

The effervescent, 63-year-old Irishman who his lived in England almost all of his life has been up to his double chin in trouble with the CAHA before. And he has come out of the skirmishes without a mark on him.

"I'll fry him," warned Art Potter of Edmonton, CAHA president, following the Austria Olympics. Potter was there and he made it plain the issue would be thrashed out at the association's annual meeting.

"I'll be there," chuckled Ahearne. "I'm not worried. Why should I be?"

The controversy is a little involved and boils down to interpretation of IIHF rules pertaining to final placings in the eight - country round - robin tournament. Ahearne saw it one way, Potter, coach Rev. David Bauer of the Canadian team and his players, another way.

Here's the background:

Three days before the tournament ended, the IIHF met in Innsbruck and drew up rules that would apply if two or more teams were tied in points at conclusion of the seven-game championships. Ahearne spelled these out for reporters after the meeting, which was attended by Potter, a member of the IIHF executive council.

Ahearne said that in event of a three-way point tie, placings would be decided on the basis of goal spread—the difference between goals scored and allowed — involving the seven games. It turned out later that Potter calculated the tie-breaking mathematics on the basis of games involving only the top four teams.

Canada, Sweden and Czechoslovakia ended in a three-way tie for second place behind gold medal-winning Russia.

The Swedes, with a 31-goal spread, won the second-place silver. The Czechs, with a spread of 19, won the bronze and Canada's spread of 12 put the team into fourth place. This was taken on the basis of seven games.

Had the four - team system been used, Canada would have received the bronze medal.

Of course, there was haggling. A hastily called meeting of the IIHF board of directors—CAHA needs this move - faced held while the final game of the tournament between the Swedes and Czechs was being played—defeated by a vote of 6 to 3 a motion by Potter to use his system.

Canada was supported only by Russia and Czechoslovakia. POTTER ANGRY

The meeting ended 10 minutes before Sweden won 8-3, and too late to inform Father Bauer and his players. They had left admirably and drew up rules adore hotel party to go to the arena and get their bronze medals.

They left in a huff before the centre-ice medal presentations. Potter blew his top. It wasn't the first time a CAHA president had vowed to get Bunny.

In 1952, immediately after the Winter Games in Oslo when Edmonton won the hockey gold medal, Doug Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., traded punches with Bunny over the team's pre - Games exhibition tour of Europe. It involved the financial setup. The brawl occurred in a downtown hotel lobby and Grimston declared he would have Bunny tossed out of hockey.

The CAHA annual meeting was held three months later at Minaki, Ont. Grimston and Bunny were there. "I wouldn't have missed this meeting for the world," Ahearne said at the time

The fist-swinging wasn't even mentioned at the open meeting. His status with the CAHA didn't come up and Bunny went back to London chuckling.

The Ottawa safari should be another easy time for him. He wields the big stick in hockey matters in Europe and the CAHA needs this move - faced man to set up Canadian tours.

This is another meeting he wouldn't miss.

High Among All-Time Greats
Mays, King Of Modern Centre Fielders

BY JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays has wiped out all remaining doubts concerning his place among the all - time baseball greats. He is the acknowledged king of centre fielders today. There is hardly a dissenting voice.

Even diehard veterans, always loyal to their contemporaries, agree that the San Francisco special rates high among the all-time greats.

This was put into greater focus by Mays' tremendous getaway this season, a scorching start that threatens to bring new and greater honors to the player who has been the heartbeat of the Giants through 12 brilliant seasons.

At his current pace, Willie, ever the spectacular fielder and base runner, not only threatens to become baseball's first .400 hitter in 33 years, but has a chance to surpass the home run record of Babe Ruth and Roger Maris.

Septuagenarian Casey Stengel, who has seen all the great centre fielders of the last 50 years, speaks of Mays in the same breath with Tris Speaker and Joe DiMaggio.

Hall - of - Famers Frankie Frisch, Carl Hubbell and Paul Waner rate Mays on top of the list. George Sisler, one of the few to achieve a .400 batting average, ranks Mays as the best in the game today.

"I can't make a choice between them," he said. "I'd break my neck to have either one on my team."

Hubbell also called it a photo finish between DiMaggio and Mays.

"Putting everything together," said the former New York Giants' screwball artist," I'd have to say Mays is the greatest I've ever seen."

"Mays is the most spectacular player I've ever seen," said Waner, one of the greatest stars in Pittsburgh Pirates' history. "He is the only player who could be rated excellent in every department. I'd rate him and DiMaggio even - Stephen in everything but speed. Mays is faster."

"I have always considered Speaker the greatest centre fielder I have ever seen," said Sisler. "I agree with those who say Mays is the best today."

Moore, Happy Felsch and Jigger Statz.

"Mays has a chance to wind up with DiMaggio and Speaker. He's got all the points. He can field, run, throw, hit and hit with power . . . and he makes it look easy. There never was a player who made it look easier except DiMaggio.

Frisch, a staunch defender of the past, found it hard to choose between DiMaggio and Mays for top rating among the centre fielders.

"I can't make a choice between them," he said. "I'd break my neck to have either one on my team."

"Putting everything together," said the former New York Giants' screwball artist," I'd have to say Mays is the greatest I've ever seen."

"Mays is the most spectacular player I've ever seen," said Waner, one of the greatest stars in Pittsburgh Pirates' history. "He is the only player who could be rated excellent in every department. I'd rate him and DiMaggio even - Stephen in everything but speed. Mays is faster."

"I have always considered Speaker the greatest centre fielder I have ever seen," said Sisler. "I agree with those who say Mays is the best today."

Green Gaels Get Goalie

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Lacrosse Association Wednesday night granted permission to Oshawa Green Gaels, last year's Minto Cup winners, to use Merv Marshall for the 1964 season if he moves to Oshawa.

Marshall, Gaels' goaltender and the most valuable player last year in the Minto Cup finals, was claimed this year by Guelph Mohawks and Brampton Armstrongs.

A resident of Acton, Marshall journeyed to Oshawa for the club's games during the last two seasons and was a permanent resident during the summer months. He was claimed by Brampton and Guelph on the residence rule.

The OLA executive under president Jim Nash, stipulated that Marshall must move to Oshawa within seven days and take up residence to play with the Gaels this season.

Oshawa will open the season Monday night at home against Guelph.

Battle of Baby Banks Warming up in Senate

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—The battle of the baby banks is warming up in the Senate and the outcome is far from predictable.

The senators, many of whom are connected with the eight "old" banks and other financial houses, now are wrestling with private bills to incorporate three new banks. One senator predicts there might be as many as a dozen applications before long.

The Senate gave second reading — approval in principle — Wednesday to the incorporation of the Vancouver-based Laurentide Bank of Canada over some objections and sent the legislation to the banking committee for public hearings.

Today, the spotlight turns to the proposed Bank of British Columbia, which also would have headquarters in Vancouver and would be backed to the tune of $25,000,000 by the Social Credit government of Premier W. A. C. Bennett. The bank's capital stock would total $100,000,000.

The banking committee opened hearings earlier on the application of the Bank of Western Canada, which would be based in Winnipeg and backed by a group of Toronto financiers including James E. Coyne, former Bank of Canada Governor.

WORK ON BID

Meanwhile, a Montreal group headed by financier Jean-Louis Levesque has a team of lawyers at work on its application for still another bank, which would concentrate on Quebec and the Maritimes.

Several senators on both sides of the upper chamber are pressing the banking committee to hold up all applications until late next fall at least, when the government is scheduled to introduce the decennia revision of the Bank Act.

The Bank of British Columbia would dwarf the three other baby banks, all of which are seeking a capital stock of $10,000,000. Both the Bank of B.C. and the Laurentide Bank plan to open branches across Canada.

The Bank of Western Canada and the Levesque Bank would be largely regional in scope.

Senator Frederick M. Blois (PC—Nova Scotia) said Wednesday that Canadians have enough banks as it is. New ones might not be as sturdy as the eight banks that have covered the field since 1825.

CITES FAILURES

Senator A. N. McLean (L—New Brunswick), a former bank manager, said 28 banks failed in Canada between 1867 and 1923 and another 38 were taken over by big banks after faring badly. Depositors had lost $15,000,000.

This high mortality rate had been caused by the regional scope of the banks and by the lack of experienced administrators and managers.

Senator Blois said the Senate might receive up to a dozen bids for bank charters from narrow-based groups of financiers attracted by the prospect that the government may lift the six-per-cent interest ceiling on consumer loans by chartered banks.

He said the Laurentide Bank would be controlled by Power Corporation of Canada Limited, a Montreal holding company with four directors who are connected with existing banks.

This was "absolutely wrong" and contrary to Canadian practice. Banks should have a wide base of shareholders and be free of control by any single group of financiers.

CADET KILLED

WINNIPEG (CP)—An RCAF officer cadet, Paul Douglas Sankey, 21, was killed Wednesday when a T-33 jet trainer crashed near Arborg, 20 miles north of here. A student pilot, he was the son of a retired Flying Officer Douglas Sankey of Ottawa.

Brazil Breaks Relations With Fidel Castro

The action by Latin America's largest country left only four countries — Bolivia, Chile, Mexico and Uruguay—that recognize Cuba in the Organization of American States.

A foreign office statement accused the government of Fidel Castro of using its relations with Brazil to "cover the propaganda activities of its agents."

In North Bay, North Bay lawyer Richard P. Donnelly was nominated by the Progressive Conservative association to contest the byelection.

Eating Breakfast With Lion Can Give Inferiority Complex

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eating breakfast with a lion—a real one—can give you an inferiority complex.

Especially, when you learn this 500-pound beast, only seven years old, earns $75,000 a year.

It was Tony Randall's idea.

"I want you to meet the star of our picture," said Randall. "Shirley Jones and I are just co-stars. This is the first time I refused to fight over billing."

Zamba, as friendly a lion as one will ever meet, was brought to the U.S. when only four weeks old. He was found on the banks of the Zambezi River in Rhodesia, Africa. Hence his name.

Zamba is the star of the movie Flipty. It's the title role but not his first starring part. A couple of years ago, 20th Century-Fox took him back to Africa to star in The Lion.

It seems a Hollywood lion takes directions better than the native breed.

KOSHER LION

A Jewish press agent asked him: "Is it a kosher lion. It won't eat bacon for breakfast." That was encouraging.

All in all, 34 people showed up to watch the feast. All of them hid in nearby cabanas around a poolside location on the Universal back lot. That was discouraging.

Helfer brought the lion to our table.

I assume he's filled with tranquillizers," I asked.

"He's never had a tranquillizer in his life," said the trainer.

Then load us with some," said Randall, somewhat hysterically.

But it was too late. The lion was eager — almost as eager as his guests—to get on with the meal.

And this lion has real teeth. Sharp, too.

LIKE ANGRY BOAT

Helfer told us not to worry about a sound the lion kept making as we did him piece of raw meat. It sounded like a speedboat taking off in the Gold Cup.

"It's just like a friendly purr," said Helfer.

Then, as an afterthought, while I was handing Zamba a piece of meat, Helfer added:

"Don't pull your hand back fast."

I asked why.

"If you do, answered the trainer, "you'll have to learn to write with your left hand."

Producer of Two Dramatic Series Moving Cast to West

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Dust kicked up by the three-cornered battle of words over television's tattered Emmy has obscured an important move.

The producer of two of television's fine dramatic series shot in New York has taken his staff and cast to California. The shows are CBS' The Defenders and The Nurses. The transfer was forced by a strike of a New York independent union of scenic and costume designers, making it impossible to continue shooting fall episodes on schedule.

The strike also halted production of CBS' new series The Reporter. The other two New York-based series, CBS' Dick Powell show and ABC's Patty Duke show, are not in production.

Michael Dann, CBS programming vice - president, said it could mean the end of New York production of dramatic shows.

Chuck Connors, whose contracts with Universal and Revue Studios (the former movies and the latter TV shows) had a long time to run, has terminated both "by mutual agreement," as they always say.

Connors was under Revue contract for Arrest and Trial, which recently died miserably and undeservedly in a bad Sunday night ABC time spot, and was under a seven-year contract to make one theatre film a year.

Even Blackstone Magic Powerless Against TV!

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The wild shock of hair is thinner, the frame seems slighter than it did when covered by satin robes. But the hands of Blackstone the Magician remain as supple and steady as when they baffled audiences from coast to coast.

At 73, Harry Blackstone appears to be a smaller version of the formidable wizard who decorated signboards during his 50 years on the stage. He lives in Hollywood now and still keeps in touch with his magical art.

"I'm not retired—just tired," he says.

Blackstone is a survivor of the great era of magic that also produced such names as Houdini, Keller and Thurston. Blackstone was the last to leave the field.

"I quit eight years ago," he said. "I lost $35,000 one year, $60,000 the next and $90,000 the next. About that time I figured I'd had enough.

"I just couldn't buck television. People didn't want to pay $5.50 a seat to watch magic when they could stay at home for nothing and watch television and drink beer."

Of late he has been selling the tricks to professional and amateur magicians—one Hollywood figure has bought several.

Blackstone timed those tricks to the split-second and cherished each one yet he parts with them without regret. He looks cheerfully back on a life and career that were full and gratifying.

"I loved magic and I loved people," he says. "If I had any secret of success, it was because I was always on friendly terms with the audience. I kidded with them all the time, and they enjoyed it."

In his prime he travelled with a troup of 37 and earned as much as $6,000 a day.

HIT BY BOMBS

MADRID (AP)—Minor bombings continued in Madrid Wednesday. Officials said the bombings, together with a strike in the mining areas of Asturias, appeared to be leftist inspired. A total of 15 bombs have exploded since Sunday night but there have been only two minor injuries and practically no damage.

By SYDNEY OMARR

For May 15

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): All aspects now in your favor. Take advantage of this "prime factor" by spreading influence. Best done at social affair tonight. Also by enlisting aid of friends. Unexpected gain indicated.

Cancer (June 21 to July 23): Events begin moving at a swift pace. Circumstances change. Hold fast to basic beliefs. Associates may display signs of acting too hastily. If you are steady, reliable . . . you can make sizeable gains.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): Behind - the - scenes activity works in your favor. One in your career has been singing your praises. Don't let him down! Express your opinions. But be diplomatic. Tonight be especially charming.

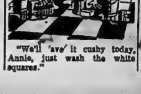
Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): One close to you may seek advice regarding professional activities. Advocate the surprise move. Encourage the unorthodox. For yourself — display flair for the dramatic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Your best bet today is that of the observer. Permit events to "work themselves out." Don't attempt to guide or twist circumstances. Be alert. But hold back on direct action.



Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Be careful of details. Key is moderation. Good to entertain at home. Be an excellent host. Better to have visitors than to be a visitor. Show family member that indeed you do care.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Don't wear heart on sleeve. Hold back where emotions are concerned. Means be interested — but not completely giving. There are some vital factors yet to be revealed. Be sure rather than sorry!

If today is your birthday . . . you possess great sense of harmony. You wish to carry this over into your everyday affairs. Generally you are loyal and lovable. But you can also be quite stubborn!

Conservatives Win 3 Out Of 4 British Seats

Thursday's Byelection Results Prove Surprise

LONDON (CP) — The ruling Conservative party retained the seat in Bury St. Edmunds, an East Anglia district, to win its third seat in four parliamentary byelections held Thursday.

It was the last major electoral test before the fall general election and boded well for Prime Minister Sir Douglas Home's government which had slipped badly in recent byelections.

The Conservatives lost the Scottish constituency of Rutherglen to Labor as expected but surprised experts by holding on to its margin seat at Devizes, in southern England. The other Tory victory came in the safe government seat of Winchester.

Conservative candidate Eldon Griffiths retained the seat in Bury St. Edmonds, the fourth to be declared in the three general election. Griffiths polled 22,141 votes while Noel Hinge, the Labor candidate, got 19,682 and Richard Aitos, Libera, 3,337.

MARRIED WITH 'Mac'

Griffiths, a farmer, formerly was correspondent for News week magazine in Britain and once worked as a speechwriter for former prime minister Harold Macmillan.

The Conservative majority was 2,459 votes compared with 7,962 in the 1959 general election when the seat was also elected in a straight Tory-Labor clash.

The victory in Devizes embarrassed opposition candidate Irving Rogers, who predicted he would win the seat by 2,000 votes. Instead, he trailed by 1,670. The Conservative majority in 1959 was 3,838.

Liberal leader Charles Morrison captured Devizes with 19,554 votes. Rogers had 17,884 and Mrs. Michael Fogarty 4,281.

But at Rutherglen, Labor won with double the majority scored by the Conservatives in 1959.

Labor candidates J. Gregor Mackenzie received 18,885 votes to Conservative Ian Sproat's 15,738. Mackenzie's margin was 3,747.

In the 1959 election the Conservatives had a 1,522 margin in

Thatcher Requests Action

REGINA (CP) —The victorious Liberal party, their April 22 Saskatchewan general election triumph confirmed in a final count of ballots, waited to day for word from Premier Woodrow Lloyd on when it will be given to government reins.

Premier Lloyd gave no indication he was ready to make way for the Liberals despite a call by Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher for early action on the mandate given his party.

Mr. Lloyd said before the final counts began Wednesday in all 32 constituencies that his CCF government—in power for 20 years—would remain in office until the results of the election were official.

At least one defeated CCF candidate said he will seek a recount and the possibility loomed of similar action by others, both Liberal and CCF.

A candidate has eight days in which to apply for a recount.

The final count completed Wednesday and Thursday in all ridings except the five-member Saskatoon constituency confirmed election of 32 Liberals, 21 CCP and one Progressive Conservative candidate.

In eight ridings the margin was less than 100 and in three recounts loomed strongest.

Leon Lamontagne, defeated CCF candidate in Prince Albert, said Thursday he would seek a recount of ballots which gave D. G. Steuart an 80-vote victory.

ALSO CONSIDER RECOUNTS

Liberals William McHugh in Kelsey, Ross Barrie in Pelly and Franklin Foley in Turtleford said they were considering recounts. Each lost by less than 100 votes.

Four of five CCF cabinet ministers defeated in the election

Headless Bodies of Two Soldiers Are Buried With Military Honors

ADEN (AP) — The remains of two British soldiers whose heads were hacked off by rebel tribesmen are being buried in Aden today with full military honors.

The headless bodies of Capt. Robin Edwardes and Pte. John Wartgbutt were discovered in the Radfan Mountains 50 miles north of Aden by troops of the British - protected Federation of South Arabia, British army authorities announced Thursday night.

The shallow graves near the Yemen frontier were within a few hundreds of where Edwardes' nine-man patrol ran into more than 100 rebels April 30.

An intelligence report said the severed heads were buried just across the Yemen border in Qalabe.

Four days later, the British Middle East commander said the heads had been displayed in Taiz, the seat of Yemen's two capitals, for the pro-Communist British public opinion.

U.S. officials at Taiz reported that the heads had not been displayed there. Leaders of Britain's opposition Labor party criticized the Conservative government for putting out an unverified report.

In London, Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas - Home told the House of Commons Thursday that the Middle East is ready to erupt into war. Just why his government had no intention of intervening in the struggle between Yemen's republican and royalist factions, Douglas-Home said Britain's only objective is to protect its military bases and to carry out its treaty obligations to the South Arabian Federation, which is supported by the tribesmen supported by the Yemeni republicans and President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Nasser has called on the Arab world to expel Britain from the Middle East. Thursday, Iraqi President Abdel Salam Aref, a guest of Nasser at the Aswan Dam ceremonies, advised Britain to leave the Arabian peninsula "before it is engulfed by the rising revolutionary fight of the Arabs."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The holiday weekend weather will get off to a good start with mainly sunny skies and temperatures near or just above the seasonal average. The outlook for the remainder of the weekend is for the fair weather and mild temperatures to continue.

Farewell to Pinnacle Street Tracks

A locomotive similar to the one depicted here will be seen at a railway display which has been planned by Canadian National to mark the lifting of tracks from the centre of Belleville. To be held June 22-28, the display will consist of an array of steam and diesel locomotives, freight and passenger equipment and a number of special excursions pulled by a steam locomotive. One of the specials will operate June 27 to Peterborough and another the following day to Cobourg Beach. The display will tie in with the lifting of tracks on Pinnacle Street which have been in place for nearly a century. Other attractions will include horse racing, military and name dance bands, motor cycle racing, a live radio show featuring well known personalities and a Hootenanny.

CNR and City Plan Week-Long Railway Exhibit and Program

Mayor Jack Ellis and Canadian National Rideau Area Manager C. B. Hunt have announced that an important railway exhibit is being planned from June 22-28, which will mark the lifting of tracks, dating back to nearly a century, from Pinnacle Street.

Ken. Fleming, Rideau Area Passenger Sales Manager and Chairman of the Railway Committee, said that there will be three different displays open to the public at the station. The first will be the steam and diesel locomotives, the second will show a selection of freight cars including a steel caboose, and the third will feature the very latest of passenger equipment. As an extra attraction throughout the school week, a special train pulled by a steam locomotive will be operating twice daily on a round trip excursion to Anson Junction.

Mr. Hunt has explained that the locomotive will show the evolution of motor power from the days of the woodburner to the diesel locomotive. He has added that visitors will be able to sit in the cab of a very famous steam locomotive as well as inspect a freight diesel in its close detail.

The Area's Freight Sales Manager, Bob Reid, commenting on the display, has said that the freight equipment show will highlight various types of cars, such as the now famous yellow door box car used to transport Canadian newsprint, a tri-level auto carrier, and others.

Mr. Fleming said that the passenger display will include a coach-lounge, a sleeping car, a luxurious parlor lounge car and a baggage car fitted with displays.

Giving further details about the locomotives which will be especially positioned for photographers, Mr. W. G. Monk, Superintendent of Equipment, so that they will include No. 40, built in 1872 for the Grand Trunk Railway, and the only woodburner type locomotive used for exhibition purposes in Canada. It operated most of its life between Portland, Maine and White River, Ont., until 1903, when it was sold to a lumber company in PEI.

Liberals Deny Charge

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — The fight over redistribution of parliamentary constituencies flared up again in the Commons Thursday when two Conservatives MPs suggested that the Liberals were trying to rig the process. Two cabinet ministers flatly denied the charge.

Shouts of "lies," "discrimination" and "gerrymander" rang across the chamber as the House concluded a three - part debate on a Conservative motion calling for publication of various electoral maps being drawn up by Representation Commissioner Castonguay.

The 51 Conservatives present drew support only from nine Creditistes and the motion was defeated 101 to 65. The move was opposed by 84 Liberals, 11 New Democrats and six Social Credit MPs.

Louis - Joseph Pigeon (PC—Joliette - L'Assomption - Montcalm) charged that the cabinet has agreed secretly to demands by Liberal backbenchers that maps prepared by Mr. Castonguay be revised to give a vote advantage to the Liberal party.

He said two Liberal MPs—whom he declined to name—told him the "deal" was made at a caucus meeting May 6. Many Liberals had objected strongly to the way Mr. Castonguay's maps altered their ridings and the cabinet had invited recommendations for changes from MPs.

A LIE, HE SAYS

"That's a lie, a falsehood," replied Justice Minister Favreau.

He said the changes were most serious and should be supported by evidence or be withdrawn. Mr. Pigeon refused to withdraw them or to identify sources.

Privy Council President Mcllraith said Mr. Pigeon's remarks were entirely inaccurate

Citizenship Council Adopts Plan to Protect Liberties

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Citizenship Council warned Thursday that Canadians must act to arrest increasing threats to their individual liberties.

The council adopted an eight-point program at its annual meeting here to stop this erosion and decided to study the spread of hate propaganda in this country.

A resolution adopted at the closing session of the two-day meeting said that citizens are disturbed over the position of individuals in today's society and lack of protection for individual rights.

The tremendous expansion of administrative authority giving vast power to the executive arm of government has resulted in an ever-increasing number of boards and agencies carrying with them authority over the person and property of the private citizen," the council said.

Establishment by Parliament of the office of ombudsman was the main recommendation in the eight-point program. This official's job would be to investigate complaints by individuals against arbitrary decisions by government officials and agencies and to recommend remedial action.

Deep concern was expressed by the council over what it termed the apparent lack of protection in the Criminal Code against the vilification or hatred or religious groups." It said that has been highlighted by the recent spread in this country of hate literature directed against Negroes and Jews.

The council's second recommendation called for entrenchment of a bill of rights in the British North America Act. It said the present Bill of Rights was merely an act of Parliament which could be amended or repealed.

Other council recommendations:

1. Broadening of grounds of appeals to the courts.

2. Enactment of a law on procedures spelling out the rules

Two Sets Of Taxes Is Charge

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — A bilingual Conservative MP from Western Canada charged in the Commons Thursday that the Liberal government is setting up two classes of taxpayers in Canada—one in Quebec and the other in the remaining nine pr.vinces.

And an English-speaking New Democratic MP, Douglas Fisher of Port Arthur, accused Prime Minister Pearson of being personally responsible for a deterioration in French - English relations since the Liberals took office 14 months ago.

Marcel Lambert (PC — Edmonton West) levelled his accusation after Finance Minister Gordon announced he is delaying action on amendment to the Income Tax Act arising from the extension of family allowances forecast in his budget last March.

In his budget Mr. Pearson said the government will pay a $10 - a - month allowance to 16- and 17-year-olds who stay in school. That's 32 more than the present top family allowance rate which ends on the 16th birthday.

Prime Minister Pearson was expected to tell the Commons today when the government intends to introduce the revised allowances bill. He also planned to outline the legislation the government hopes will be dealt with during the rest of the second session of the 26th Parliament.

SKIP LUNCH

The Commons was to begin today's sitting at 10 a.m. EDT and sit for four hours without a lunch break before taking a long Victoria Day weekend, its first holiday since the session began Feb. 18.

Thursday's sitting was devoted mainly to debate on a bill to implement income tax changes announced in the Commons. It received second read-

Say Ladybird's Sharecroppers Deplorably Poor

Two Republicans Tell Of Visit to Alabama

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an indirect attack on the administration's anti-poverty program, two Republican congressmen reported today they found "deplorable poverty" among tenants on Al.a.ma's farmland owned by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Representative Dave Martin of Nebraska and M. G. (Gene) Snyder of Kentucky implied the wife of the president is a callous landlord. And they said President Johnson ought to follow the Christian admonition to "put your house in order" before preaching the gospel of his anti-poverty program.

Both Martin and Snyder are members of the House of Representatives education and labor committee considering the Johnson bill. Both oppose it.

Snyder, said he and Martin toured the Alabama property last weekend at the expense of the Republican Congressional committee. They took photographs of six of its Negro tenant and sharecropper families, and Thursday they told a press conference:

"We saw nothing here that could not easily be corrected by the Johnsons themselves, without a nickel of federal funds or a single federal program—if, of course, they really cared."

SECRETARY REPLIES

At the White House, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter, press secretary for Mrs. Johnson, said the wife of the president would receive far more profit from the land if there were no tenants or sharecroppers and she could convert it into timber crop land.

But, Mrs. Carpenter said, Mrs. Johnson, for humanitarian reasons, has refused to evict the tenants and sharecroppers from the land.

The property is part of a 3,700-acre farm in Autauga county, Alabama, just north of Montgomery.

"There are only five houses left on the land and only four of these are used by tenants of Mrs. Johnson," said Mrs. Carpenter. "Two pay a cash rent of $5 per month, which is about sufficient to cover taxes and the general management ex-

Committee Saved By MP-Witness

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons privileges committee was saved Thursday from having to complain to the Commons about an MP-witness when the witness reversed his refusal to reply to a question while testifying under oath.

Gerard Giroard (PC — Lapointe) admitted before the committee that he discussed with some of his former Social Credit colleagues an attempt to get him to join the Liberal party last August.

Mr. Giroard, who joined the Progressive Conservatives last March, has accused Liberal National Organizer Keith Davey of attempting to recruit him and offering a fat election campaign fund among other "benefits" of joining the Liberals who are in a minority in the Commons.

The question about who Mr. Giroard discussed the matter with threw the committee into a minor flap when Mr. Giroard refused to reply on the ground he didn't want to involve anyone else in the committee inquiry.

No sounds were made that he be reported to the Commons, and Mr. Giroard said outside the committee he'd go to jail if necessary to defend his stand.

READS NOTE

Some three hours later Committee Chairman Larry Pennell (L — Brant-Haldimand) read into the record a note from Mr. Giroard, stating that Mr. Giroard's former Social Credit colleagues had given him permission to reply to the question.

A considerable part of Mr. Giroard's testimony was repetition of his account of meeting four Liberal MPs, going at their invitation the next day to meet Mr. Davey, follow them and Mr. Davey of his intention to

Chicoutimi Biculturalism Meet Disrupted by Noisy Separatists

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Separatists disrupted a hearing of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism Thursday night.

Calls to order had to be issued a number of times.

The hecklers and their supporters appeared to number about 50 in a crowd of 400 attending the session.

At one point, Rev. Eric Caulfield, an Anglican minister from Alma, Que., rose to speak in English.

From the audience, came the derisive shout in English:

"Speak white."

Earlier in Vancouver, French-speaking members appointed to the commission they were sneered at for speaking their mother tongue and told to "speak white."

Paul Lacoste, co - secretary of the commission, moderated the Thursday night session in the Lake St. John community.

He issued a call for order after the shouted remark, saying it was out of place.

Mr. Caulfield continued, making no mention of the incident. He said English-speaking Canadians in the Lake St. John region are aware French is the principal language in the area and none wish to contest the fact or even oppose it.

Prolonged applause followed his declaration.

Earlier, the note that underscored deliberations was:

Separatists from provincial cultures co-exist on an equal footing."

Some speakers said equality is impossible. Others suggested ways to rectify what they described as a situation detrimental to French-speaking Canadians.

Some speakers were obviously separatist in philosophy, their feelings best expressed by one delegate who argued for an independent Quebec rather than Quebec as a member of the Confederation.

They said cultural equality is possible only in a utopia.

To escape political and economic domination and conserve their culture, French - speaking Canada had no alternative to independence.

Confederation was impossible because they did not have the same philosophy, the same concept of life as the English-speaking Canadian.

The separatists contended it is prevalent, stating that no nations with a common market.

Those who felt co-existence is possible said constitutional amendments are needed to give the French language equal recognition across the country.

Cross-Canada network coverage for radio and television in both French and English languages was suggested as one way to provide for greater understanding between the two main ethnic groups.

Canadians Are Challenged To Build Dynamic Nation Based on Human Values

MONTREAL (CP)—A committee of seven young Montreal intellectuals has published a manifesto challenging Canadians to build a more dynamic nation, based on human values.

The committee, calling itself the Committee for Political Realism, says Canada and Quebec—need policies "better adapted to our world and our times."

Rejecting the idea of an independent Quebec, the committee says "we refuse to let ourselves be locked into a constitutional frame smaller than Canada."

However, it says: "Canada today is a country in search of a purpose. Emphasis on regional interests and the absence of leadership from the central government risk the utter disintegration of the federal state."

The manifesto appears in the original French in the current issue of Cite Libre (Free City) and in English in the current issue of the Canadian Forum and Thursday's editions of the Montreal Star.

SEVEN AUTHORS

The authors are professors Albert Breton, economist, and Pierre-Juillet Trudeau, political scientist, of the University of Montreal; professors Raymond Breton and Maurice Pinard, both sociologists, of McGill University; Dr. Yvon Gauthier, a psychiatrist at Ste. Justine's Children's Hospital; and lawyers Claude Bruneau and Marc Lalonde.

They say they do not attach any sacred or eternal meaning to the existence of Canada "but it is an historical fact."

"To make it apart would require an enormous expenditure of energy and gain no proven advantage. It would be to run away from the real and important tasks, that lie ahead."

Most important than political was "the opening of the cultural frontiers of Canadian society."

"The most valid trends today are toward more enlightened humanism, toward various forms of political, social and economic universalism. Canada is a reproduction on a smaller and simpler scale of this universal phenomenon."

DISCARD ATTITUDES

"The challenge is for a number of ethnic groups to learn to live together. If Canadiens cannot make a success of a country such as theirs, how can they contribute in any way to the elaboration of humanism, to the formulation of the international political structures of tomorrow?"

The authors call upon Canadians to discard attitudes based on regional or ethnic prejudice.

"It is not on the basis of human criteria," their 10,000-word manifesto says, "that we demand policies better adapted to our world and our times. This is our only motivation."

They say the cornerstone of the social and political order must be the attributes men hold in common, and those that differentiate them."

They describe absence of leadership in political affairs as one of the country's gravest problems.

UNEMPLOYMENT EVADED

The committee is also severely critical of governments in Canada for evading the problems of "unemployment and of the "plainly unacceptable" distribution of wealth and income among Canada's different regions and social groups.

It criticizes the administration of justice in Canadian society as antiquated and inadequate.

The committee calls for action to ensure that all citizens have access to adequate medical care, regardless of their economic status.

The committee blames nationalism, in Quebec and Canada as a whole, for distracting attention from such problems.

It describes Quebec separatism as "not only a waste of time but a step backward."

Nationalist thinking was superficial with emphasis not concerned with appearances than reality, and had led to an archaic emphasis on constitutional problems.

The Canadian constitution was a relatively unimportant cause of current problems and changing it would accomplish little.

LONDON (Reuters) — The external affairs minister of the United Republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar will collect damages from a British newspaper for an article describing him as "Moscow's boss in East Africa," it was agreed Thursday. The Daily Telegraph, in a front-page article Jan. 22, suggested that Oscar Kambona was a Communist agent.

Curling Club Elects Directors, Receive Reports

Reports were received and directors elected at the annual meeting of the Quinte Curling Club held last evening at the clubhouse on the fairgrounds. Everett Black, president of the club, presided and expressed his thanks to the various committees for the excellent job done during the past year and hoped for the new board of directors much success in the coming season.

Ken Pinder, chairman of the canteen committee, Ron Bann, chairman of the rinks, James Walker for mixed curling, Al McCullan for the games committee all reported successful years. Bonspiels were a topic of discussion and it was felt that more outside rinks should be competing with the local curlers at the one-day spiels. Archie Howe and Ken McLean, umpires for the many spiels held during the year, were presented with suitable gifts by the directorate.

The men's curling draws will be continued with a likely a mixing of skips and players will be drawn by one who is not known by any players that might be involved.

Club was reported in sound financial condition with approximately $5,000 being owned on the mortgage. All this has been accomplished in the past seven years. Past President Ev Hudson, convenor of the nominating committees, proposed the set of directors and Bob Alexander, Ted Bateman, Cowley, Bill Gault, Cec. Kirkwood, Bill Meagher, Fred Maund, Ken Pinder and Jim Walker were all elected and from this board, the president will be chosen. "Pat" Houston announced that next year a league of the 50-year-old upwards be set up, which would give all of them more recreation and not so heavy strain on curling. The members stood in silence for a moment in memory of Ross Hartwell and Huditen, who died suddenly in Toronto on Monday. A suggestion was made to the new directors that the employment of a manager be considered.

A social evening closed the annual meeting.

Commodore Up for Lease

The old Commodore is singing the blues in the night in a different key these days.

This is not the way of reporting a marine disaster. It is merely to announce that the Club Commodore at the Bay of Quinte has remained dark—and idle—for three months now and it looks as if it might stay that way.

There are mourners. For many there are fond memories of the days when the building, erected during the fair days, provided a needed centre of attraction at night social activities for the young and old alike and who wished they could still enjoy a dance hall, the Club Commodore is the first blues in a different — and more romantic — key.

Now the Board of Parks Management is offering to lease it. With a little imagination it ought to be possible to convert the building for use for one of the dozen or more community activities continually being advocated by various groups. Youth centre, recreation hall, lecture hall, dance hall — its possible uses appear many. Anybody interested should contact Lloyd (Red) Doran, the city recreational director, who belongs to the Belleville generation which has fond memories of the Commodore and who can expound on its possibilities.

Will to Plan Is of First Importance Says Speaker

Following dessert-and-coffee, at a joint meeting of the CPAC and the Horticultural Society, Michael Rugg-Brunt, assistant professor of town and regional Planning at the University of Toronto, addressed a large and appreciative audience in the Pinnacle Room of the Hotel Quinte, Tuesday evening. His topic was "Thoughts on Contemporary Planning." There was very little in his address that could apply directly to Belleville.

The Belleville and Suburban Area is growing at the rate of a centage of Ontario communities that are actually planning, that have a planning board and a professional planning director.

Prof. Brunt's willingness about "no limitations" and "many unintelligent speculations" obviously were not meant to apply here. Still, as in all places, the dramatic solution to the planning problem tends to elude us. The regional planning that is so often spoken of in these days is hardly possible anywhere. Annexation is lacking, and all plans require the will to plan.

The will to plan, though, is of first importance, claims Prof. Brunt. He cited the example of Strawberry Banks, a section of Portsmouth, N.H., now under redevelopment treatment. (He should know, for he helped inspire that scheme. His company, Rugg-Brunt, was to visit Portsmouth at Christmas time and found people bubbling with enthusiasm there about Brunt.

SMALLER THAN CITY

Portsmouth is a city a little smaller than Belleville. Faced with the sudden loss of a major industry, the city has been forced to realize that their old buildings were one of thier greatest assets. The heart of the city, Prof. Brunt addressed the Rotary Club and together, with their enthusiasm, developed a plan to revitalize a small district of historic buildings. The effect of this redevelopment has already begun to spread to other areas of the city.

The metamorphosis of Stratford, Ont., beginning with Tom Patterson's dream, has stimulated fantastic commercial development. Now, at Stratford, there is an industrial conference on civic design, studying the arrangement of buildings to create beauty. "Beauty is not something that can be sold," says Prof. Brunt. Schemes like Portsmouth's and Stratford's can add a third or more to a city's income.

A plan is a statement of policy for ordered future growth. A planning board is a method of producing minimum standards with maximum effort.

It is necessary, says a planner to think in terms of twenty years into the future. Professor Brunt gave an example by extending from Quebec City to Niagara Falls, similar to that which is formally planning Philadelphia to Boston. We must look at a whole region — not just a particular city. A county and balance forestry with urban needs.

SLIDES SHOWN

Prof. Brunt showed slides to illustrate the planning of an ideal community, Cumberland, between Glasgow and Edinburgh.

He described the jobs of the economists, statisticians, surveyors, architects, engineers, who would be involved in planning such an area. Only briefly lamented, the traffic engineers get in first, and the result is something like Los Angeles. Cumbernauld is wisely planned to separate pedestrians and automobiles. The central business district is within a quarter of mile of all residents, and all of them are pedestrians.

Le Corbuzier has said that the trouble with out communities is that they are of low density; it takes too long to traverse our suburbs to get to work. Better a 17-storey apartment, where everyone gets light and a view, and the town can be compact because only a small ground area is occupied, "in Ontario," says Brunt, "one imagine that low-density development represents a rural pattern; and of course it does not present our laissez-faire heritage and our thinking on the rights of the individual. "But," observes Brunt, we are now developing a new interest in dense living patterns.

MAPS SHOWN

In amusing fashion, Prof. Brunt showed by maps how the ancient Roman grid pattern was brought by settlers in Massachusetts and Ontario from their old homes in Essex and Kent and Middlesex in England. The gridiron pattern was commonly chosen even before the settlers set foot on land, and the lots chosen by lot. This type of plan seldom suited the actual terrain at all.

Bay of Quinte Conference to Meet in Kingston

Upwards of 400 delegates, ministers and laity in equal numbers, representing over 40 charges, will meet at Queen's University, Kingston for the 64th consecutive year for a three day Conference of the United Church of Canada, Bay of Quinte Division. The Conference convening five days of business, discussion, decisions and ordinations, will survey the past year's work, and will engage in the contemporary soul-searching as to what is the Church, its function in the rapid change and cross-currents of ideologies and fashion today, and what of the future.

The delegates meeting in business sessions concerning the work of the United Church of Canada represent an area touching Brockville, Kingston, Belleville, Cobourg, Oshawa, Lindsay, Peterborough, Madoc, Perth, Smiths Falls, Napanee, Picton, Renfrew, Arnprior, Pembroke, Chalk River and the great rural centres and areas of middle eastern Ontario.

with sales, nothing for lady to buy, nothing to sell, nothing that might blow down sometime onto someone's car. Instead, there is room for a big commercial area at its best; the great chain stores surrounded by a little group of snappy druggists and shoemakers.

BAD PLANNING CLAIM

Yorkdale shopping centre is a classic example of bad city planning on an impressive scale, Brunt thought. It looks attractive; Don Mills offers a fine setting, and a beautiful environment. Standard facades are seldom beautiful; a fountain and sculpture, by contrast, shows a variety of imagination hardly overplayed for the pleasure of the shoppers who are enfcouraged to take time to sit and stare.

In closing, Prof. Brunt referred once again to the wealth of recreational and commercial possibilities in the Bay of Quinte downtown. The river and bay shores in particular, he thought, should be made accessible, with a system of pedestrian walkways, united with the city's paving system and penetrating deeply into the commercial area. With Centennial celebrations in the wind, something permanent should be done to stimulate the better use of the water front.

Mrs. D. Cain, chairman of the CPAC, had begun the meeting with a welcome to visitors on behalf of the Community Planning Association and the Horticultural Society; Mr. F. Wigand had introduced Prof. Brunt with a speech, and T. S. Ransom thanked him. Thanks were also extended to Mr. Kneisel of the Hotel Quinte and to an anonymous ed person who helped make the dessert and coffee party possible.

Pearson Will Present Case For New Flag

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson will present his case for a distinctive Canadian flag before the Dominion council and the Royal Canadian Legion—strong advocates of the Red Ensign—when he speaks to that organization in Winnipeg Sunday.

Sources close to the prime minister say he regards it as an "extremely important" speech.

The legion has come out strongly in favor of the ensign —"This is Canada's flag: keep it flying"—and Mr. Pearson is anxious to present a sound case in favor of a distinctive flag.

Sixteen Members of Van Doos Lifted to Whisky Peak Atop the Kyrenia Mountains

By GERARD ALARIE

KYRENIA - P A S S, Cyprus (CP) — Wine-cracking as they went, 16 Canadian troops were lifted onto a barren peak between Turkish and Greek Cypriots atop the Kyrenia Mountains Thursday.

The area is described as being most desolate-looking.

Flt. Lt. Stanley Lilley, the British helicopter pilot who ferried the Canadians, said the volcanic mountain "looked like the surface of the moon."

The stile is just out of the line of fire between Greek- and Turkish - Cypriots. The Greeks man what is known as Gin Peak and the Turks hold Brandy Peak.

The Canadians, led by 2nd Lieut. Michael Perreten of Williams Lake, B.C., are on Whisky Peak.

The sporadic shooting between the Cypriot combatants petered out as the helicopter shuttled back and forth between the peak and the plain below, carrying men, supplies and arms. The operation took one hour.

FIGHTERS WATCH

"The combatants up there must be busy watching what we was going to bother firing," said Sig. Philippe Plouffe of Quebec City, member of a company, Royal 22nd Regiment.

The men took the operation—planned for three weeks—in their stride.

"We are supposed to stay up there for the next 24 days," Perreten, "Sure the way of life will change a little from the front line. We slept and ate in houses in Nicosia but this adventure is exciting."

"We'll have a better view of Cyprus from there than on the green line," said Pte. Richard Mallette of Shippigan, N.B., as he boarded the helicopter.

The Canadians flew chimed in Royal Desmoreaux of Ottawa, "is small beer."

WILL VISIT

Maj. Plouffe said the Canadians plan to visit the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots dug in on Gin and Brandy to in an effort to get them to lay down their arms.

The Canadians also sent a squad of 10 on foot to the lower peaks overlooking a Turkish-Cypriot-controlled area which threatens the Greek-Cypriot villages of Pano Dhikomo and Kato Dhikomo.

This completed redeployment of the Van Doo into key spots in this tension-ridden area, 15 miles north of Nicosia, where Turkish-Cypriots are holding out against the Cypriot government's desire to recover control and open up the whole area leading to the coast.

The top of Whisky Peak is constantly wind-swept and covered with tough thorns that can pierce even paratroopers' boots.

Said Maj. Plouffe as he dispatched the troops:

"They've seen worse duty."

Govt. to Rent Lots on Bottom Of North Sea

LONDON (AP)—The British government opened up land office today to rent lots on the bed of the North Sea for oil prospecting.

Frederick Errol, minister of power, hopes it will prove to be "a little Texas off our shores."

Applications are being invited for exploration and production licences for about 100,000 square miles of the North Sea, an area extending from the Straits of Dover to the neighborhood of the Shetland Islands and halfway across.

For licensing purposes, it has been cut into blocks of nearly 100 square miles, bounded by lines of latitude and longitude except where near the coast.

The plan followed Britain's ratification of the continental shelf convention, which defines the sovereign rights of states over their coastal shelves.

More than 20 oil concerns, some of which already are exploring the sea bed, are expected to apply for lots.

Broker Shoots Self With Gun In His Office

NEW YORK (AP) — Vernon C. Walston, a Wall Street broker, killed himself Thursday night in his office with a shotgun blast through the mouth, police said.

Walston, head of Walston and Company and a member of the New York Stock Exchange, was among brokers who loaned money to save two firms suspended temporarily from the exchange as a result of the recent vegetable oil scandal.

Police gave only a tentative identification of the dead man as Walston, because the large-bore shells from a double-barrelled shotgun almost blew off his head.

The 57-year-old Walston was described as having been despondent.

Walston's firm and another last December loaned $500,000 to the firm of J. R. Williston and Beane after Williston and Beane and Ira Haupt and Company had been suspended for two days from the exchange.

Walston and Company at that time consolidated with Williston and Beane.

The two suspended firms had failed to meet minimum capital requirements of the exchange after a customer firm, Allied Crude Vegetable Oil Refining Company of Bayonne, N.J., spoiled for bankruptcy when it was unable to meet margin calls.

Overtime Pay for Police Officers Yet to Be Resolved

TRENTON — The chairman of the Ontario Police Commission, Percy Milligan and another commission member, Magistrate Thomas Graham, were in Trenton yesterday for "an informal meeting" with town council. The two commission members from Toronto spent more than two hours in the council chambers, while reporters could their heels in the corridor, hoping for a statement . . . from somebody.

At the close of the meeting, the commission members were whisked away in their car, and Mayor Aylles MacDonald made the informal statement to the effect this had been a "get-acquainted" meeting and no decisions re the Trenton Police Department or the Trenton Police Commission set-up had been made.

The mayor said, however, that the question of a deputy magistrate to serve Trenton, and presumably replace Magistrate W. R. Philp of Peterborough on the police commission, had been touched on briefly. The decision regarding the appointment of a local magistrate would be the perogative of the Attorney General.

An arrangement re overtime pay for Trenton police officers has yet to be resolved. Recent pay checks, issued from the town office, made no allowance for the overtime pay. Officers granted the right to a 40-hour week more than a year ago, have continued to work 42 hours, and have, up until three weeks ago, received overtime pay for the extra two hours. The members of the police association have agreed to wait two weeks before taking action to collect the overtime. Mayor MacDonald has promised to get the issue settled before then. Council claims that the department was notified that the overtime pay would not be forthcoming after a certain date. It is the opinion of council that a 40 - hour week could be instituted without adding to the present force.

Police Chief F. J. Taylor, backed by two members of the police commission, Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville and Magistrate W. R. Philp of Peterborough, claims that two extra men are needed on the force if the chief's men are to be expected to do the same work and cover the same territory. With annexation of parts of Murray and Sidney Township, Jan. 1, this year, the department has an additional 500 acres (approx.) to cover.

Meanwhile, a Trenton Police Commission meeting, scheduled for last night, was cancelled when Mayor MacDonald, chairman, found it impossible to make the meeting.

Miss Lucille Peszat, hospital career counsellor from the Ontario Hospital Association spoke briefly to the girls and they were shown a film, "Helping Hands for Julie."

The students were taken on tours of the hospital in groups of ten by hospital auxiliary volunteers and enjoyed refreshments in the staff dining room after the tours.

Masons Greet Members of Trenton Lodge

TRENTON—On Tuesday evening, Trent Masonic Lodge A.F. and A.M. No. 32, held its regular meeting with attendance of 62 members present, W.M., J. A. Webb, conducted the meeting of general business including conferring the Fellowcraft Degree on two members. Mr. Shaw McEwen whose mother lodge is Trenton, is now Master of Bay of Quinte Lodge A.F.A.M. No. 620 Toronto and two of his officers were present.

The business of the lodge being completed, W.M. J. A. Webb called on Mr. Shaw McEwen. He expressed his pleasure to have the privilege and opportunity to attend the meeting. He expressed thanks for himself, the officers and members a total of 40 for the wonderful hospitality received on the fraternal visit with the lodge March 31st. At that meeting Rt. Wor. Bro. Doug Mitchell presented them with a copy of the Trenton Quinte Sun dated March 10, 1921 which contained the names of the 160 charter members, when it was instituted in 1922.

Mr. McEwen had photostat copies of the paper made in Toronto and the original paper will now be an important addition to their archives. The name Bay of Quinte Lodge was suggested at since most of its members originated in the Bay of Quinte district.

FULLS SURPRISE

Mr. McEwen pulled a surprise when he presented it to Trenton, March 31st, when he presented a Directors of Ceremonies apron, hand engraved to the Master J. A. Webb. The Master requested Mr. McEwen to present it to Past Master, Clifford Baker, who is Director of Ceremonies this year.

In conclusion Mr. McEwen, confirmed the arrangements made in March for a return fraternal and fellowship visit. It from Trenton Lodge May 30th is looked forward to with anticipation and hope for at least 40 members from Trenton. The members will leave the Masonic Temple at 3 p.m. Saturday, May-30th.

Invitations have been sent to a number of Masonic Lodges in this District to attend, also including the D.D.G.M.A. Clare McFaul. This will be a very memorable get-together renewing personal and Masonic friendships.

School Expansion in 5 Years To Cost a Million Dollars

TRENTON — Close to a million dollars will be spent on school expansion in Trenton during the next five years, according to an estimate released this week by the Trenton Board of Education. Trenton council has been advised of the estimates for capital expenditures compiled by the board.

Capital cost for public schools for 1964 total $90,000; for 1965, $250,000; for 1966 and 1967, $80,000 each year.

These are projected figures. Increased public school population in east Trenton indicates that a new school must be ready for occupancy by Sept., 1963. Land in the North Byron St. area has already been acquired.

Secondary school expansion will take another $300,000 by 1968 or 1969. A second high school might even have to be built by 1967, according to one board official. However, there has been some conjecture about where a second high school might be built, with some east Trenton spokesmen holding out for the erection of the school on the east side of the river.

Anglicans Plan Pilgrimage To Kingston

Whitsunday will be observed with a pilgrimage May 17 to St. George's Cathedral at Kingston. Following the pilgrimage, Anglicans will present in a common offering, the money raised in the Diocese of Ontario for the Anglican World Mission Fund.

Canon John L. Hutchinson said today the diocese has pledged itself to a minimum of $10,000 a year for five years.

Twenty-four bursaries will be provided annually, each in the amount of $75, for post-ordination study at Trinity College in Nairobi, Kenya.

The regular Sunday evening service at the cathedral is to be withdrawn to enable the pilgrimage from all sectors of the diocese.

Arrangements have been completed for the Rt. Rev. J. A. Watton, Bishop of Moosonee, to preach at the 7 p.m. service which will be largely missionary in character.

The 49-year-old Anglican cleric was born at Southampton, Ont., and elected the seventh bishop of Moosonee on March 28, 1963.

He was consecrated May 1 in St. Matthew's Cathedral at Timmins, Bishop Watton's home is at Schumacher, Ont.

Anglican church officials feel a generous offering will be made this year.

Some of the parishes have set aside their Lenten Easter offerings for this purpose; others will make their local offerings as a special effort before Whitsun.

Parishes from the diocese will be represented by their church wardens and parishioners, commented Canon Hutchinson.

The Future of Nato

NATO is probably on its last legs. Like many schiffer organization before it, it has been too successful to give it much chance of enjoying a long life.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization was organised fifteen years ago, in 1949, at a time when it still appeared that the insatiable Stalin might try to gobble up more territory.

Vis-a-vis the U.S., Russia is more powerful today than it was when NATO was born, but with this new power has come an altered outlook. Khrushchev's appetite may be as big as Stalin's, but he is displaying a much acuter awareness of the possible penalties of gorging. This, and perhaps too the familiarity which comes from living under the guns of the Russians for a decade and a half, have dispelled the notions of most European countries that they have any real reason to fear a direct military attack by the Soviet Union.

With the loss of this fear, NATO has lost what U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk has called its cohesive element. The direct military threat will no longer—or not much longer—suffice to hold NATO together. Rusk dreams of substituting some other form of glue.

Probably, though, this will be applied too late. NATO is already coming apart at the seams. Two NATO lands, Greece and Turkey, seem about to renew an age-old enmity, with Cyprus providing the excuse. The implacable Adenauer has gone into retirement in West Germany and Erhard is unlikely to be able to match him in what friends would term far-sighted tenacity and foes' stubborn stupidity. Many of the continental lands, notably Portugal, have reached an accommodation with their former Russian masters and are wielding an alliance which looks remarkably permissive and co-operative. Led by the visionary de Gaulle, France is marching away to the ends of the earth in search of glory. The Belgians are quarrelling about medicare and the Dutch over a mixture of royalty and religion. The British seem about to swallow a second dose of the inevitability of gradualness in socialism and, having managed to break up their Empire during the first draught of this elixir, may this time go to the extreme of declaring their independence of the United States of America.

A conglomeration like this will need some rather powerful cohesive element and it is unlikely that the U.S. will be able to provide it by preaching a crusade against a group of underfed and overtaxed Asian peasants who have been deluded into thinking that Marx and Lenin have forged the key to liberty. Nor are many of the NATO countries likely to consider it worth while to starve all Cubans in order that Fidel Castro's beard may be suitably singed.

Mr. Rusk's efforts are almost certain to be rewarded by considerable lip service, but in only one case is the support accorded likely to be more than this. Canada will provide solid backing—not because Canada is a satellite of the U.S. but because its present prime minister, Lester B. Pearson, was preaching the need for NATO to become something more than a military alliance many years ago—back in the days when this might have been achieved, but was not yet essential because the Russian military threat still loomed large.

NATO is over the hill. It may have many years of life left it, but it is like a man dreaming of a new life at fifty—it is a possibility, but the probability is a few quiet years and then a pension.

Red As Midnight

The South African Press Commission has analyzed reports to overseas papers.

With the apparently sole exception of the Chicago Tribune, whose dispatches were described as "good," these papers were ill-served by their correspondents, in the opinion of the Commission.

Reports to the New York Herald Tribune were all "very bad" and the New York Times had 90 per cent of the despatches it received placed in the same category.

The Toronto Star's despatches were from a correspondent described as "rabidly partisan," those of the Toronto Telegram were "such as might be expected from leftists and communist sympathisers" and the Montreal Star's correspondent was "unscrupulously tendentious."

The Commission, naturally, has no use for the tendentious. It would never dream of advancing a definite point of view without regard to the facts. There is a nice variety to its criticisms. And anybody, of course, will appreciate the sure touch with which the Commission selects the Toronto Telegram, as the paper publishing views "such as might be expected from leftists and communist sympathisers."

Can Be Hurt By What We Do Not Know

By STONEY J. HARRIS

Of all the general maxims that people live by — and often die by — I can think of few that is more dangerously false than the familiar adage: "What you don't know can't hurt you."

It is false on every level — the practical, the philosophical, and, perhaps most crucially, the psychological. On this last level it is precisely what you don't know that hurts you most of all.

Indeed, the great merit of dynamic psychology in the last 30 years has been the "unfreezing of the pipes" that is, showing people how to release unconscious feelings into consciousness, how to recognize and accept what they had previously ignored or denied about themselves.

What we don't know about our inner drives and hidden conflicts is exactly what prevents them from becoming resolved. Many persons live their whole lives, from birth to death, as strangers to themselves; unaware of why they do what they do, and thus unable to control or reshape the pattern of their conduct.

Socrates' famous dictum, "Know thyself," was the first step in the right direction, but it was only in our own era that scientific discoveries are donating cairns to the Kiwanis Club. They will keep the calves until fall when they will be auctioned off at a group auction with the money to go for operating expenses at the clinic. Already approximately thirty calves have been pledged to the Kiwanis Club for auctioning.

Altogether it is expected there will be about 50 calves pledged before the time for the auction next fall. A good percentage of the calves are from thoroughbred herds and it is expected good prices will be realized.

Again demonstrating the well-established fact of the generosity of Belleville and district residents toward a really worthwhile cause, Chapter No. 109 Order of the Eastern Star, announced that $670 had been collected by taggers during the last day proposored by the unit in Belleville. Elected for the unit's various branches of star work, the money will be used to buy candies for the boys overseas, for contributions toward mobile canteens and for shoes for evacuated children.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Says North Is Not Rich

Winnipeg Tribune

A Canadian geographer has picked Edmonton as a good place to do some downgrading. He suggests claims about the wealth there is for the taking in Canada's northland. Dr. J. Warkentin, head of the Department of geography, University of British Columbia, who has completed a study for Dominion government during the last year to study the Northwest Territories, told an Edmonton audience that Canadians should stop deluding themselves about the north.

He said that it is incorrect to talk about the vast mineral resources as if they existed in fact when it is not yet known how to get them to do. He listed a number of other myths that in his view need downgrading.

Agriculture: There is no developed soil.

Forestry: The area is treeless.

Fishing: There are Arctic char, but many of them.

Water power: This is the driest part of Canada. The average precipitation is 10 inches, less than the driest part of the prairies.

Fur trade: The only fur available above the tree line is white fox. For reasons unknown to naturalists this fur is only abundant every four years.

Dr. Robinson was undoubtedly in good voice in Edmonton and perhaps a useful people. But we weren't aware that any one really living or thinking about the soil resources and the agricultural potentialities of the Arctic. Nor has anyone seriously advanced the theory that the Arctic offered much of a future for farming operations.

As for minerals, a few scratched here and there in the Arctic have uncovered coal, iron, nickel, copper and gold. Even an iconoclast has to admit that that's not bad.

Laos Chaos Orderly Kind

Christian Science Monitor

To most Westerners the situation in Laos is a mess. They are inured to one dismal, uninteresting headline after another. The latest incident seems merely one of a kind. It is a good kind.

Two things are happening, both clear, both constructive.

And the United States is supporting the popular forces in Laos. This drives the native radicals into unpopular and extreme position.

This is not bad. Compare it with what the situation was three years ago. There was a big power agreement, dating from 1954, but it had broken down. The United States was supporting a group it had bought with dollars, on the open market of international intrigue. The result was such irritation with American "imperialism"—for what was the conduct of the pro-Communist forces launched and paid to exploit it. They nearly pushed the Americans, puppets and advisers right out of the country. The military effort was completely futile.

At that point, an 'on-call' number of Americans referred to member Kennedy sent some 5,000 troops into Thailand and up to the southern border of Laos. He served notice on Moscow, Peking and Hanoi that this assault on the sovereignty of Laos had to stop. He made it clear he threatened the use of nuclear weapons.

So the big powers met again, two years ago, and reimposed the truce. It has since been slipping as expected, but not disastrously. The recent maneuvers were a timely jockeying for position of all parties. Once again the big power control is working, and given a once again the United States has supported the popular neutralist premier in the sight of all Asia.

This is not the chaos that it seems to be. This is a fairly orderly means of keeping a country independent—as long as the Communists do not get a word of support now and then by the American people.

Canadians' Jobs Change

Brantford Expositor

The ways in which Canadians earn a living have changed significantly in the last half century. Some types of job have disappeared. Where, for instance, are the coachman, the buggy whip maker and the lamplighter? While the changes over the next 50 years can only be guessed at, it is certain that many a child starting school next fall will enter the work force in a job which is an occupation that did not exist when his father left school.

These occupational changes between the censuses of 1911 and 1961. Men on farms in 1911 numbered 34% of every 100 employed men. In 1961 they were down to 11 in every 100. Also on the decrease is work in logging, fishing, hunting, trapping, mining and quarrying. These occupations now employ more than two per cent of the labour force. The demand for laborers is only half what it was as machines take over more and more shovelling, lifting and heaving. Service work offers the poorest prospect of earning a living.

To Your Good Health
Whiplashing Can Paralyze And Sometimes Cause Death

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Your column on whiplash injuries was thorough up to a point. I feel that you neglected the serious-nest of this type of injury.

Two members of my family, teen-age girls, received such injuries when their automobiles were struck from the rear.

One girl after three years of severe known therapy still suffers great pain and mental anguish. Her doctor says she is permanently injured and must curtail all activities that cause stress and strain. The other has made better progress and only occasionally suffers muscular discomfort.

Is there a chance of permanent cure for whiplash? Has anything new been discovered? — M. J. P.

Whiplash is a neck injury which comes from a certain type of stress — usually a whipping of the head forward or back. It is not necessarily the same injury in all cases. Most decidedly it is not the same in severity, either.

As to seriousness, it can be as you describe. It can be worse. It can paralyze or kill.

It also can be one of the more annoyance for a few days.

Muscles, bones, nerves or cartilage can be damaged, or some combination of these.

Year by year new methods of therapy are being developed for the treatment of whiplash not specifically for whiplash cases. Surgical and other care is steadily improving for wounds, but not for those from any single source. Basic improvements are not limited to wound happiest to be from a stab, a bullet, or being impaled.

By the same token, care of neck injuries applies as much to a person who is injured by diving into shallow water as to one who is hurt in an automobile accident.

Unhappily, I have even had acquaintanceship with people who, from the moment they heard the word whiplash, began having — or thought they had — symptoms of it. I suspect it's nothing to do with the neck injury.

Sometimes the most searching neurological tests are required to separate the real from the pretended. Such tests, in some cases, have finally caused the injured persons to give up trying to press lawsuits for large sums. (And, incidentally, they then recovered with astonishing speed.)

I by no means imply that whiplash injury is not necessarily a matter of serious. It can be, I simply plead that the word whiplash be accepted for what it is. Just calling the injury whiplash might, indeed, be better for everybody.

Dear Dr. Molner: Which are better, natural vitamins or synthetic ones? Please send me your pamphlet, "Vitamins — The Kind of Foods in Which They Are Found." — Mrs. B. Z.

Chemically the vitamins are precisely the same. Scientists learned first that certain foods, when eaten, could prevent "deficiency diseases." Gradually the important portions of these foods were isolated, and ultimately the vitamins themselves. At that point it became possible to make the vitamins synthetically.

Note to Mrs. F. M.: The cause of muscular dystrophy is not known, but hereditary factors are strongly suspected.

Mississippi City's Tank

The Reporter

Various preparations are being made in Mississippi for summer as hundreds of out-of-state residents will be moving in to set up freedom schools there. In Jackson, the state capital, city officials not long ago acquired at a price in the vicinity of $20,000 a custom-made vehicle that must rank as one of the most awesome machines ever owned by a community. Proudly called "Mississippi's Tank" (for Mayor Allen Thompson), it looks like an elongated armored car with a double-thick walls of 12-gauge steel, 10 policemen can sit in air-conditioned comfort in the rows of bucket seats. The windows are bullet-proof and the engine is encased in a steel armor plate civil-righters should be optimistic enough to try to tip it over. Jagged extrusions of steel rim the bottom.

Inside, a shotgun is positioned by every seat, together with tear-gas grenades, ammunition, and, as a finishing touch, a machine-gun. There are portholes just big enough for the gun barrels, and a cupola with a small trap doors open out of the roof for hurling the grenades. Floodlights adorn the top. The vehicle is painted robin's-egg blue.

It was with considerable anticipation on all sides that Mississippi Tank got its first testing last month. A crowd throwing demonstration broke out near Jackson when College (Negro) in protest over the city's failure to install a traffic light at a dangerous intersection. Things were getting a little rough when, according to a bystander's account, the armored vehicle lumbered out of the police. Demonstrators drew back while it moved slowly into position. There was a respectful silence as the portholes popped open and gun barrels slid out.

Nobody knows exactly what happened next. Apparently one of the policemen inside accidentally dropped a tear-gas grenade. Soon a thick cloud began to billow from the top of the tank, the door burst open, and the 10 occupants rushed out, gasping and coughing.

There were no explanations, but after the air had cleared, the men climbed back inside and the great vehicle headed into town. The demonstrators seemed more bewildered than frightened. Pondering the meaning of this latest manifestation of police power, one of them remarked pithily, "If only some of us could have gotten hold of that thing, we could have ruled Mississippi."

Centenarian Looks at Life

Milwaukee Journal

An example of how an alert person reflects on a century of life is an essay written by Albert P. Davis, of Binghamton, N.Y., who died last year at the age of 104.

The one who lives to a real old age finds himself in a strange and unique situation, Davis, a photographer, wrote at the age of 100. "With little to strive for, so few ties to life is concerned, his problem is how to employ the little time he has left.

"Well, his is a time for introspection. It is a time for inventory of himself, to evaluate the mistakes made and opportunities lost, to recognize and appreciate the many virtues of others that he has been privileged with.

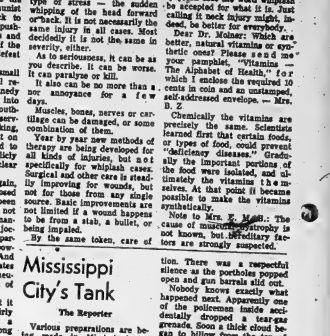
"It is also a time for retrospection, and here begins the real second childhood. To many this is a comforting and rewarding period. He now begins to relive his life backward. He is astonished to see so much beauty in nature, and also in people he has bypassed.

"He finds it more difficult to recall quite recent incidents than those which occurred further back, that the further he goes into the memory become until he reaches early childhood when everything becomes bright."

Slain Negro Triumphs

Windsor Star

In his home town of Greenwood, Miss., Byran De La Beckwith received a warm welcome after his second trial for the murder of Negro leader, Mr. Medgar Evers, ended in a hung jury.



It is difficult to judge whether the jubilation of Mr. Beckwith's friends sprang from joy that he had been exonerated or from satisfaction that the killing of a Negro leader had gone unavenged. If the latter is the case, it is a false satisfaction.

Witness the attitude of Mr. Evers' brother, who has taken up the slain man's difficult and dangerous work for civil rights. He urged Negroes not to resort to violence. Someone (neither Medgar nor I would want you to do so.

While this attitude persists, Medgar Evers' life work is proven worthwhile.

BCI Students Honor E. A. Orr At Assembly

In a special Wednesday morning assembly with the program presented by the special commercial class — 12F, students of the Belleville Collegiate Institute paid tribute to their principal, Mr. E. A. Orr.

In June, Mr. Orr will leave Belleville Collegiate Institute to assume his new position as superintendent of Secondary Schools for the city of Belleville.

With a "This is Your Life" format, the surprised Mr. Orr was led on stage amid much applause from the audience of students and teachers. Peter Mitchell — master of ceremonies — read from an album prepared by the students of 12F, containing a brief review of Mr. Orr's life and some pictures of activities at Belleville Collegiate. This album was presented to Mr. Orr at the end of the assembly. The guests, Mrs. E. A. Orr, Mr. Bert Orr, Mr. Kenneth Hill and Mr. Alec Gordon, each gave their time to appear in the assembly, to remind Mr. Orr of some of his activities a few years ago. Pictures from Mrs. Orr's family album showed Mr. Orr as a schoolboy and a member of his MacMaster hockey team.

In Mr. Orr's final speech, he thanked the Student Council for the gifts presented to him. He said he would miss the daily visits to the office from "devoutangry students" and would sincerely meet BCIVS. Certainly it will seem different at Bayside Collegiate without Mr. Orr.

Bush Is Dry North of Tweed

Victoria Day is a holiday for most people, but it will probably mean more work than usual for Lands and Forests department in the Tweed district. Most years, the Victoria Day weekend spawns two or three fires. Carelessness is the main cause.

Heavy rains Wednesday night have reduced the hazard south of Tweed, but the bush in the north is dry according to a Department of Lands and Forest spokesman. The fire hazard is considered normal for this time of the year over most of the area.

Four brush fires have been extinguished in the Tweed district so far this month. Last year, there were only seven fires during the whole month.

THE WALLS ARE UNFINISHED but the Baxter Canning Factory in Bloomfield is in operation this week. A temporary line has been set up to produce lemonade concentrate. In the picture, the production line operates in the foreground, in the background an unfinished wall of the factory provides a fine view of the street. An office will be built in the open space.

Not-Yet-Finished Baxter Factory at Bloomfield Sets Up Temporary Canning Line

Production began Wednesday at the not-yet-finished Baxter canning factory in Bloomfield. There are no doors on the factory yet, power supply is only temporary and part of the roof is missing, but a temporary canning line is packing common lemonade concentrate. Concentrated lemon juice, imported from Italy, is mixed with lemon pulp and sugar, and the mixture is canned. Cases of the canned product—each case contains enough concentrate to make 48 gallons of lemonade—are shipped immediately to Trenton, where they are quick-frozen and stored in the freezer for 48 hours.

The production setup in the factory now is purely temporary, although many of the machines will later be incorporated into Baxter's permanent lemonade line. For the time being it is set up on sheets of plywood (to protect the new concrete floor), with far more manual work required than will the permanent installation. Temporary 220-volt power runs most of the machinery and a portable compressor on loan from Tatham's supplies compressed air. Another compressor was a last-minute addition, supplied up by Tatham's from Picton when Baxter's discovered the 220 volt unit they had set up for the temporary line did not supply enough air.

The line was set up by Steve Bowerman, of the American Can Co. in Belleville and Baxter's manager, Earl Smith, with a crew of regular Baxter employees, to fill a rush order for 30,000 cases of the concentrate, needed in Montreal and Toronto by the end of the month. Stocks of the concentrate around the country are running dangerously low, with the hot weather coming and production had to begin—whether in a partly finished building or not. The line will be working night and day for about a month, employing a dozen people per shift.

Construction work on the site continues, and Tatham says that they will have everything ready to begin a canning of peas, probably about the middle of June.

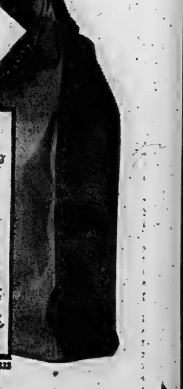
Child Killed Near His Home, Runs Into Truck

An inquest has been called for next Thursday into the traffic death of a 4½-year-old Belleville boy outside his home.

Luke Joseph Lapace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Lapace, 91 Geddes Street, died instantly when he ran into the side of a delivery truck. He was the city's second traffic victim this year.

The fatal accident happened immediately across the street from his home minutes before 5 p.m.

The vehicle — a platform van was being driven by Donald Charles Bird, 22 Edgehill Road for Bridge Delivery Service. Police say the impact dropped the boy in his tracks.



Born in Montreal, he came to Belleville when his father was transferred by the RCAF to Trenton. Besides his parents, he is survived by a younger sister, Mary Lynn.

An inquest was ordered today by coroner Dr. Sam Cronk.

Funeral arrangements held tomorrow for the Legace victim when a Mass of the Angels will be said at Holy Rosary Church.

Remember when Bonded Stock Whisky came in that plain old bottle?

Well it doesn't anymore.
That fine old bottle has launched its last sip. We've designed a new container for Gooderham's Bonded Stock. Tall and refined with classic lines.
(Our whisky's now in the best shape ever).
And we age Bonded Stock longer now as well.
To make every drop just a little more mellow.
One thing though. Bonded Stock's smooth lightness we don't change.
Our blenders know a good thing when they taste it.
Judging from the number of people who buy Bonded Stock Whisky, so does the rest of the country.

Rights Vs. Influence

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

During the days of prohibition, many people contended for the right to drink. This was guaranteed them by the repeal of the 18th amendment, which, however, did not solve many of the problems related to the use of alcohol. No informed person can deny that the consumption of alcohol produces many serious problems in our society. There is the growing number of alcoholics. Alcohol often opens the floodgates to poverty and crime. An amazing number of highway accidents are directly attributable to alcohol. Alcohol, like tobacco, is tied up to a profit-making industry that exercises tremendous political power.

This is a day when people are quick to demand their rights. But often one-right must be balanced against another one. For, as the Apostle Paul reminds us, "No one lives to himself" alone. (Romans 14:7) What one person does publicly affects all others. One must think not only of his own desires, but of his possible influence on others.

JEOPARDIZING OTHERS

Does one, for example, have the right to jeopardize the lives of others on the highway by driving after drinking only a few cocktails? This is a day of excessive speeds. A woman is said to have called an airline office to ask how long it takes to get by jet from Chicago to Seattle. The clerk was not quite sure, so she reached for a timetable, she said, "Just a minute." To her surprise, the woman said, "Thank you," and hung up. We cannot yet travel that fast. But we do drive at 60 and 70 miles per hour on some of our highways. At that rate of speed, even the slightest slowing of our reactions can be serious.

This is a highly-competitive world. It calls for the clearest kind of thinking. This is true of the scientist in his laboratory, the diplomat at the conference table, the pilot at the controls of his plane, the mechanic at his lathe. It is true in almost every area of life. Does one have the right to jeopardize his efficiency when a clear head or a steady hand are an absolute requirement for success in what he is doing?

PROBLEM DRINKERS

No one starts out to be a problem drinker, yet many, because of psychological reasons, do drink to excess. Since all people live in a society, and most people live in a family, this can have tragic results for those depending on his earning capacity, and on his love and understanding. Does one have the right to jeopardize his family's welfare and happiness by indulging in a habit he sees he will have difficulty to control?

A friend pays and pays for another. They would ask whether a person has a right to jeopardize his influence. A lawyer friend was asked to represent a liquor firm in a case where the free enterprise system was on trial. He refused. A physician friend was asked to sign an ad in which a well-known actress was advertising liquor. He refused. Both of these men have built up a reputation for integrity among their fellowmen. They have influence with many people, and with others like him.

BIBLE POSTS WARNING

While the Bible nowhere specifically says, "Thou shalt not drink," it does repeatedly warn against the dangers of strong drink. Proverbs 20:1; 23:29-35; Isaiah 5:11, 22; 7:5; Romans 14:21) Jesus did not abstain himself specifically to the problem of drinking. He did stress the importance of the "weightier things" recognizing that temptations in this world are inevitable. He issued a clear warning to those by whom the temptation comes." (Matthew 18:5-7) Particularly true of those who would seek to make a child of faith compromise with his conscience. For it is to corrupt such a person, said Jesus, is to invite heaven's fiercest wrath.

The Apostle Paul also stresses the seriousness of putting "a stumbling block or hindrance in the way of a brother." (Romans 14:13) The answer is not to condemn people who drink. The Apostle urges us to be charitable in our judgments of others. (Romans 14:10-13) We must study the reasons why people drink. Especially, we must seek to know and solve the social and psychological reasons that lead people to drink to excess.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 27: "Alcohol in a Complex Society." Proverbs 23:29 - 35; Matthew 18:5-14; Romans 13:11 through 14:22.

NEED CLEAR HEADS

During World War II, a leading general in the Pentagon building publicly expressed concern lest at some Washington party, high-ranking government officials, under the influence of a few cocktails, might unwittingly divulge some of the highly classified information they carried in their minds. This general would say that no person has the right to jeopardize the security of his country by drinking at a time when he needs all the mental alertness at his command to keep the closest guard on military or diplomatic secrets stored in his memory.

Judge Wants Commission To Eradicate 'Untouchables'

MONTREAL (CP) — Judge Claude Wagner Thursday demanded a royal commission to eradicate the "untouchables" that he said control crime in Montreal, even though they lead outwardly respectable lives.

At the same time, the royal commission could look into all aspects of crime, including the whole structure of justice.

A royal commission into crime would "force the faces from their dens" said the 39-year-old Criminal Court judge and allow all segments of the population to be heard.

"The inquiry commission," he told a service club in suburban Verdun, "would have the chance to bring to light the actions, transactions, finances, investments and the facades under which these 'gentlemen' camouflage themselves."

"I am certain that the results would have an immediate effect of obstructing the aims of organized crime."

Judge Wagner said the "untouchables" are the real crime leaders in Montreal.

LET SMALL FRY PAY

"While the small fry and the insignificants are caught at their foul deeds, the untouchables escape and collect their profits."

They had "an empire" built on narcotics rings, prostitution, gambling, protection rackets, arson rings, fraud and car theft gangs.

"They have managed to penetrate the fields of entertainment, sports, notably boxing, and affiliated themselves with organizations overseas to veil their activities. These persons are people who always pretend to be honest businessmen—a front to cover the illegal commerce of products of robberies and burglaries."

"They live in the most select surroundings, sending their children to the best schools in the land," said the judge. "Not only that, they are pillars of the community and prominent workers for charity and hide behind this facade of honesty, hoping their true faces will not be spotted."

"We must get at the untouchables collectively . . . we must show them we are not afraid of them . . . they must learn that courts of justice are running the show and that those who violate the law have no hope."

ber company near Quebec City. In 1940 it was moved to the CN property at Jackman Manitoba. Also on display will be a very famous locomotive, No. 6400, which operated on the railway through Belleville and in 1930, was the centre of attraction at the New York World's Fair. It also pulled the Royal Train that year. The tender of the locomotive holds 18 tons of coal and 11,700 gallons of water. Another specially famous locomotive, marked for display will be No. 6700, fastest steamer ever operated by the Railway and for many years assigned to the afternoon flyer between Montreal and Toronto. The baby of the lot is No. 347, built in 1904 for the Grand Trunk Railway and used in yard service.

Two diesel locomotives will be open for inspection as well. One will be similar to those pulling the CN's Super Continental over the 2,324 miles between Montreal and Vancouver, while the other will be a 1750 HP Road Switcher type used in high speed freight service.

'RAIL FAN' EXTRA

PLANNED

While the excursion specials during the week will be catering to the school children in a body and the vicinity of Belleville, a "rail-fan" extra has been arranged for Saturday, June 27th to Peterborough and it will be open to local residents as well. There will be photo-stops en-route at points especially suited for their accuracy. It is expected that a large number of United States visitors, some also from as far away as California, will be here for this trip. The following day, a similar excursion has been arranged in the form of a moonlight cruise to Cobourg Beach. Alderman Frank C. Murray, of Bath special trains will be pulled by the steam locomotive, chairman of the Civic Organization said that a wide variety of activities have been arranged during Railway Week.

These include the Tommy Hunter Show with Gordie Tapp, the Haymes Sisters and Bert Niosi and his band; an appearance by Miss Diamond and his fourteen piece orchestra; a giant Hootenany with Gordon Lightfoot, Joe and Malka, Ted and Marion—Charlotte Valle, and the Allan Ward Trio. Also scheduled are a Western Horse Show, motorcycle races, inboard and outboard motor boat races and harness racing event. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band will be presenting a special concert. Airplane and helicopter sight-seeing trips will be available from the 25th to the 28th inclusive.

What'll be—an exciting week in Belleville, Alderman Murray said, which should attract people from all over the Quinte District and beyond.

A full program of events will be available in all Belleville retail stores, hotels and motels early in June.

Copies may also be obtained by writing to Alderman Frank C. Murray, City Hall, Belleville, or Mr. Ken Fleming, passenger sales manager, Ridean Area, Canadian National Railways, Belleville.

Service Clubs Assisting in S. A. Drive

PICTON (Staff) — The Salvation Army Red Shield blitz will be held in Picton and Bloomfield next Tuesday night.

Representatives of various service clubs are assisting the Salvation Army in the drive. It would be a help to the canvassers if people were to have their donation ready, and it would also be appreciated if people would light their porch lights for the evening, to further assist the canvassers.

The Red Shield campaign has been heartily endorsed by Mr. Douglas Aikenbrack, M.P., and by Norris Whitney, MPP.

Little Cause for U.S.-Britain Rejoicing in Dam Jubilation

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The sounds of jubilation marking the completion of the first stage of the building of the Aswan High Dam will provide small cause for rejoicing in Britain and the United States.

As President Khrushchev and President Nasser exchange compliments, there are some who wonder whether it was ever really necessary to have pushed the Russian and Egyptian leaders into such a close embrace.

In London, the Daily Mail strikes a common note when it asks whether the dam should be called "Nasser's dream" or "Dulles' folly" — a reference to the abrupt way in which the late U.S. state secretary John Foster Dulles withdrew offers of financial aid in constructing the dam.

In a fit of pique, Nasser then seized the Suez Canal, provoking the Anglo-Suez intervention of 1956 that threatened to unleash full-scale war.

Some now see Dulles as the original villain of Suez, and former prime minister Sir Anthony Eden merely as the man who became the scapegoat. But there is also strong feeling that Britain has a tendency to be emotional — a wound about Egypt, and to view everything Nasser does with irrational eyes.

When the Suez crisis was at its height, a fierce correspondence raged in the British press. Retired colonels condemned Nasserites as "wogs," said they would never be able to run the canal and doubted their capacities as dam-builders.

At a reunion dinner in Derby in December, 1956, a brigadier said the politicians don't know anything about the Middle East, the Far East, or any other East.

"They don't know Orientals like we do — they don't know that the only way to deal with them is to kick their backsides."

As it turned out, the Suez Canal is still functioning and the first stage of the Aswan dam has been completed, on schedule to the day.

"Our agitation in Britain about Egyptians is chronic," comments the Manchester Guardian.

The way Britons feel about Egypt, in fact, seems a reasonable facsimile in the American approach to Cuba. At the NATO meeting in The Hague, State Secretary Dean Rusk of the United States renewed the U.S. appeal for a restriction on trade with Cuba. Comments The Spectator, a London weekly:

"The Americans are behaving over Cuba much as some Britons would like to behave over Egypt."

The magazine sees little hope of any change until after this fall's British and American elections.

He repeated a previous government statement that three sets of "sketch maps" showing boundaries drawn at 10.30 and 25 per cent are being prepared by Mr Castonguay's staff for each province.

These maps were not final and would serve only as working papers for the 10 independent provincial commissions that would be named later to redraw the electoral borders in each province on the basis of population shifts. Mr. Castonguay thought publication now would be untimely.

The debate was on a motion for the production of papers by Paul Martineau (PC — Pontiac-Temiscamingue). Under new rules, these motions must come to a vote after 3½ hours of discussion. The first two hours of the redistribution debate took place last Thursday and the previous Thursday.

In other business Mr. Pearson announced that the federal government will make a grant of $250,000 to the Alberni Valley Disaster Fund.

There was a brief flareup in the House when Louise-Joseph Pigeon (PC — Joliette, L'Assomption - Montcalm) accused the government of trying to rig the next redistribution of seats in favor of the Liberal party. Justice Minister Favreau and Privy Council President Mcllraith led a chorus of denials on the government side.

Mr. Gordon said he was delaying action on Income Tax Act amendments relating to the family allowances because MPs appeared to want more information on what new taxing powers would be given to Quebec instead of the allowances.

These new powers—probably in the income tax field—would compensate Quebec, which has been paying allowances for children up to 17 years for some time.

PLAN RE-INTRODUCTION

Mr. Gordon said that while the government was deleting changes related to the allowances from the present bill, it intended to re-introduce them later when the income tax bill was to be further amended to adjust abatements to Quebec.

Mr. Lambert said the minister was making a sudden retreat from a "very dangerous position." By now the government should have learned its lesson and stay away from situations "whereby we are trying to make one group of taxpayers in one part of the country subject to one consideration and the vast bulk of the taxpayers in the rest of the country subject to another consideration."

It was all very well that Quebec now paid allowances to the older children.

"But if we say we cannot do it because they are already doing it, therefore we are setting up two classes of taxpayers in this country and to me this is unacceptable."

He said taxpayers were the same no matter where they lived.

"The point is that the children in Quebec shall be treated the same as children in other parts of Canada," the former Conservative veterans affairs minister said. "They will derive the same benefits from the same source and I can see no cause for complaint."

HAILED PEARSON

Speaking in the adjournment debate, Mr. Fisher said the Liberals had hailed Mr. Pearson in the last election campaign as a man almost chosen by God to keep Canada's two main races together.

But the prime minister was guilty of procrastination, indecision and vacillation.

He said that while Quebec has a commission studying separation, the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was travelling across Canada asking English - Canadians to show some understanding.

"What an irony that these two commissions are going on at the same time," said the NDP member.

join the Conservatives and listening to Mr. Davey's proposals.

The Liberal national organizer, expected to be a witness when the hearing resumes next week, has said in a public statement that neither money nor election funds was mentioned in his talk with Mr. Giroaard.

Mr. Giroaard raised one new matter. He said Joe Macaluso (L—Hamilton West) produced a letter at the meeting which was used by Prime Minister Pearson in dealing with questions about a national flag.

He testified the letter said it was time Canada had a distinctive flag but the Red Ensign would also be retained as a mark of Canada's Commonwealth membership.

Douglas Fisher (NDP — Port Arthur) and J. J. Greene (L—Algoma-Manitoulin South) each posed a string of questions aimed at trying to find out whether any features of Liberal policy or the Liberal party attracted Mr. Giroaard apart from the flag.

Mr. Giroaard had testified that he told the Liberals he was happy to see Canada was to get a flag, but denied that he had indicated the flag policy would convince him to join the Liberals.

The final count saw an estimated 25,000 advance and absentee ballots considered for the first time. A three-week lapse between election day and the count is provided to allow for checks on the eligibility of persons casting such votes.

In Saskatoon, more than 2,800 advance and absentee ballots were to be considered. So far about half the job was done and at least another day will be needed.

The final count did not reverse a decision based on election - night results. The CCF won four of the five Saskatoon seats on the basis of April 22 results and the Liberals one.

Standing at dissolution of the 16th legislature March 18 was: CCF 34, Liberals 21. Redistribution added four seats.

Successful Living

Effort Afoot to Modernize Domestic and Divorce Laws

DEAR DORIS — I have been reading your column for some time, and I just wonder what kind of good work you think you are doing. It is all right to give good advice to people, but what those necessitous people need first of all is legal help, which is not given here.

All you can do is to send them to a social worker, who also goes no further than the law, law made in the horse and buggy days, and not adequate for modern living.

The children suffer too, with fathers who can freely terrorize the families and starve them for want of love and encouragement. In formative years teen-agers have to cope with a helpless mother and younger brothers and sisters.

DORIS CLARK

So what are you going to do, Miss Clark? Are you just going on giving the people almost useless advice, or could you use the many years of learning and experience to really help those people to fight for a change in domestic and divorce laws? Why have so many women to love "in sin" because they cannot divorce husband who left them, or treated them like slaves?

What pains me most is the hypocrisy of it all. If you are rich enough to pay a lawyer you can marry and divorce as much as you like; see Elizabeth Taylor, she changes husbands as many times as she does her religion. — REFORMER.

DEAR REFORMER — Couldn't agree more. Some of our social legislation is still sadly inadequate, although much improved. Right now there is country-wide agitation for amendment of our outmoded divorce laws and for provision if more comprehensive legal aid when people need it, without reference to whether they can pay.

Meanwhile people like me work within the frame of reference which public action has provided, up to now. At the same time we support concerted action in the right direction.

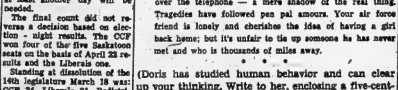
DEAR DORIS — I've been writing to a boy as a pen pal for a year. I haven't seen him; only his picture. I've met a boy that I like and I've been going with him, but not as a steady.



Now my pen pal has been writing normal letters and all at once he wrote a letter as if he were asking me to wait for him. My brother knows him and says he is a very nice boy. He's in the air force, up north. Please tell me what to do.—WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED — Romance by mail is like a kiss over the telephone — a mere shadow of the real thing. Tragedies have followed pen pal amours. Your air force friend is lonely and cherishes the idea of having a girl back home; but it's unfair to tie up someone he has never met and who is thousands of miles away.

HOLD TO SEAT

The Conservatives held on to the seat of Winchester, in the south of England near the port city of Southampton, where Conservative Rear - Admiral Morgan Giles, p o l l e d 18,082 votes.

Labor's Patrick Boyd received 11,868 and the Liberal candidate, John Edwards, 4,567.

Labor insisted the result with satisfaction since they clashed the Conservative majority in 1959 by almost half.

British voters turned out in large numbers for the byelection which provided a critical test of strength for the Conservative party.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said: "I have always had great faith that we could do well in the byelections and I think this is a pointer that we shall do well when the time comes in the autumn."

A feature of the contests at Devizes and Winchester was the good showing of the small Liberal party which until recently polled relatively strongly in byelections.

State of parties in the 630-seat House of Commons now becomes: Conservatives and allies, 358; Labor 259; Liberals seven; independents two; vacant four.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. James Bird, vice-principal of Navy St. School, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. David Clee, assistant superintendent of curriculum, the Ontario Department of Education.

After relaying some humorous experiences, Mr. Clee in a more serious vein, gave some helpful and thought-provoking pointers in the teaching of geography in the elementary school.

During his discourse he stressed the need of fitting the child in the world of today. The Renaissance period being an age of expanding knowledge, sea expansion, gunpowder, printing press, art and revival of all knowledge whereas today the world is shrinking due to mass media e.g. radio, stereo, atomic power and space travel.

He posed the problem of how the increasing demands for inclusion of new subjects were to be met in the curriculum. We are living in a challenging age, and emphasis should be placed on human geography.

U.C.W. Meeting

JOHNSTOWN U.C.W.

JOHNSTOWN — Mrs. H. Russell was hostess on Tuesday evening to Johnstown United Church Women held their regular meeting with 17 members present.

After the usual opening Mrs. Russell read the previous minutes, while Mrs. Alex Vandervoort expressed appreciation to the ladies for tasks accomplished and to Mrs. Russell for her hospitality. A thank-you card was received from Mrs. Plumpton for cards received while she was a patient in the hospital. Mrs. Hogle and Mrs. Margaret Thrasher for kindness while she was confined to the Trenton Hospital. A discussion followed in regards to where to send used clothing.

Mrs. Doug Harry introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. J. E. Alexander, who spoke on the topic, "Art Appreciation," saying "The early Christian church played a great part in art. Symbols were used in those days to teach Christianity and one of the most outstanding of these was the fish. Wherever a drawn fish was seen on the outside of a home one would know a Christian lived there; another of these was an anchor, which is the beginning of the Christian art. In the early Christian church secrecy was necessary as Christians were persecuted far and wide for their beliefs.

The Romans tried to stamp out Christianity but this continued to spread more and more. The walls of the churches were used to paint on and to tell the stories of the Bible. Everything which happened at the time was portrayed and artists were hired by the Pope at one time to do nothing but paint or do sculpture to remind the people of the Lord."

"Our ancestors were so busy hewing a living out of the forests that they had no time to bother much about art," she continued. "A painting is prized as the artist sees it and they do not always paint just as it is, but as they think it should be. One should not say a painting is no good just because he does not happen to like it, but to approach art with an open mind," said Mrs. Alexander.

Copies of old paintings were passed around as illustrations.

Mrs. Douglas Harry expressed thanks to Mrs. Alexander for her fine talk.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — An Ursuline nun is returning to the stage this year with her troupe of puppets to celebrate the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

Mother Corone, associate professor of English at Brescia College, is hoping to put on one of the Bard's comedies for the first time in five years.

She has made more than 70 puppets, about 30 of them characters from Midsummer Night's Dream. The Tempest and Twelfth Night.

It takes about 16 helpers, four to manipulate puppets and the rest to read, and Mother Corone is counting on assistance from the Brescia Alumnae.

"About a month's preparation is required for a Shakespearean production."

She works only with the comedies because puppets, she says, are essentially comic and primarily a parody of human emotions.

Her interest in puppets began when she was a girl in California and was renewed during her student days in Germany and Austria.

"Seeing those professional companies made me go at it seriously and try to make an art of it."

One of her non-Shakespearean audience pleases is her production of The Three Bears in which the bears wear mink coats.

Dr. Jewett Wants More Women on Bds.

TORONTO (CP) — Pauline Jewett, Liberal member of Parliament for Northumberland, said Thursday the federal government should be pressured into appointing more women to government boards, commissions and civil service posts.

She told the Ontario Women's Liberal Association it should remind Prime Minister Pearson daily of his promise to give high priority to the appointment of qualified women to government posts.

In an interview later, she said she would like to see a large number of major appointments immediately.

"I think we need a crash program to get rid of the ruddy old boys' club," she said. "I am not a feminist, but I get hot under the collar about the role of women in Canada. They are still in a position where they are not thought of when an important position is vacant."

Mrs. Jewett was speaking in place of Health Minister Laflamme, who is recuperating from a back ailment.

Mrs. Chevrier Gets Harp From Canada

LONDON (CP) — A six-foot harp that travelled 2,000 miles from Canada has been installed as the final touch to the newly redecorated Mayfair residence of Canada's new high commissioner in London.

Lucienne Chevrier, wife of high commissioner Lionel Chevrier, says she started playing the harp when she was 16 and attending a convent school.

"My father always said it was the nicest music a woman could play. But you have to have your fingers trained for years and if you don't practise and your fingers are not hard it can be a little difficult."

Until the harp arrived, she said, "I didn't feel our house was complete."

Mrs. Chevrier arrived five weeks ago and says she knows the city better than her husband. "I go by bus and he travels by car and you just don't notice things the same way in a car."

Removal of the five collection of paintings owned by the former residents, George Drew and his wife, left some noticeable gaps.

Fads, Fits and Fashions To Alter Old Clothes By

The Experts Say

By JEAN SHARP

TORONTO (CP)—This spring and summer are good seasons for old clothes. There are all sorts of styles they can be altered for fit or fashion.

A one-piece dress you're tired of, or which has got a little snug since you saw it last summer, will step right into fashion as a shift if you take out the darts.

If sleeves are worn or too tight, take them off, bind the armholes, and a dress becomes a new-looking sleeveless style.

Heather Roudnicky, educational supervisor for the Singer Company of Canada, says anyone who does mending or a bit of sewing can do alterations. All you need is initiative and instructions.

She suggests a way to update a dress that has a waistline is to make a blouse-on style of it. Take the darts out and gather the bodice waist gently. There should be at least an inch of material to let out from the waist-seam for the modish overhang. If there isn't, as long as the fabric is good—not frayed from stitching—a binding can be sewn on to lengthen it.

USE OLD SHIRTS

An overblouse or shirt for girl or boy can be made from a man's shirt. Cut it off below the armholes, discarding the worn top section. Take in the side seams as necessary, sew on a new neck hole and put in new armholes, with or without sleeves.

If it's for a girl it can be trimmed with lace down the front and around neck and arms. It can also be dyed, of course.

Before you throw away an old coat or jacket, look at the inside of the fabric. Chances are it will be in good condition. Miss Roudnicky says a Chanel jacket can be made from an old coat, or a boy's suit from a man's.

In the more prosaic matter of letting out or taking in clothes to accommodate a 10-to-20-pound change or shift in emphasis, she has a few other tips.

Patience is the first essential. Even if an alteration is just a matter of changing a few darts, they should be measured and altered evenly. If a dress must come apart at the waist, it will go back together more smoothly if new seam and dart lines still match in width.

If a dress change does involve more than darts, watch the neck and shoulder lines. "The shoulder seam is most important. A good fit starts from the neck and shoulder line.

You should have the help of a second person to fit them. Whatever change is made in the shoulder seam should probably be matched in the armhole. Take the shoulder seam up one-quarter of an inch, and the armhole will have to be let down that much.

If you have put on weight on the arms, you won't want to make all your dresses sleeveless. You can cut sleeves off above the bulge, then add cuffs on the material. You can also put a diamond-shaped gusset under the arm, tapering from as far as the waist, if need be.

Extra material for gussets or underarm pieces for low income families," Toronto delegate Mrs. M. Carrier told the Ontario association of Conservation Association of Canada Thursday.

The association, however, rejected her move to have the provincial government remove restrictions which prevent margarine appearing in the same form as butter.

Delegates said removal of laws governing the coloring of margarine would permit the product to be disguised.

Delegates attending the second day of the association's three - day annual meeting adopted a resolution that retail- ers be required by law to indicate the last selling price of a product as well as the number of cents it have been taken off it.

The object is to enable a consumer to judge whether he is getting full value.

Forced Marriages Have Small Chance of Success

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Should an unmarried high school girl bear all the burdens of having a baby alone when she knows who the father is?

Should she have to suffer the shame and disgrace of having a child out of wedlock while the boy who talked her into it goes his merry way?

Should she have to go to the hospital by herself, or be driven by her father, or a neighbor, while the dirty rat who got her that way is out having a good time with his high school pals?

ANN LANDERS

I understand there is no law to force a marriage. Well, why in heaven's name isn't there? If you want to help ease the agony in the world why don't you wage an all-out campaign to pass a federal law which would force marriage between young people when a pregnancy is involved? — CHAMPION OF JUSTICE.

DEAR CHAMP — Thank you for your suggestion, but I already have a campaign. It's the same one I've been pushing for almost nine years. The battle-cry goes like this:

It's up to the girl to call the signals and hold the line. Why? Girls get pregnant, boys don't.

I can think of few proposals worse than a law which would force a marriage. Too many marriages between willing partners are hitting the skids these days. What chance do you think a forced marriage would have?

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Last night I told Elmer the next time he walks through the front door with two or three unexpected dinner guests, I am walking right out the back door. Of course I wouldn't do it, Ann, but I am at the end of my rope.

Last week he brought home unexpected company twice and I was embarrassed to death. The kids had to eat baloney sandwiches out in the kitchen so the guests couldn't see that there wasn't enough meat to go around. The men Elmer brings are customers so I have to smile and be pleasant. But it just isn't fair to the kids.

I'm a good cook but I'm no magician. Why can't a man understand that extra people means extra food and extra preparation? If Elmer would give me just two hours' notice I could rassle around and manage somehow. Please tell me what to do.— OUTA MY MIND.

DEAR OUTA — Show Elmer this column and let him know that from now on things are going to be different. If he is unwilling to pick up the phone and give you notice he'll have to settle for whatever there is on hand — and it may mean baloney sandwiches for him and his guests.

Be pleasant while serving the sandwiches and make no apologies. One time will be enough to persuade Elmer that you mean business. I'll bet you'll get your two hours' notice after that.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My husband and I were invited to dinner at the home of friends. I was unable to get an appointment at the beauty parlor so I wore a tight-fitting silk turban which I had made out of the left-over material from my dress.

When we arrived the hostess asked us to remove our wraps. I took off my coat and entered the living room. The hostess asked in a loud voice so that everyone could hear, "Aren't you going to take off your hat?" I replied, "No" — and explained why. She laughed and insisted my hat couldn't look that bad.

Before long my hair and the turban turned out to be the major topic for discussion with all the guests joining in and offering opinions. I was embarrassed and my entire evening was ruined. On the way home my husband said I should have removed my hat from the start and avoided all the trouble. Yes or No? — HATTED AND HEATED.

DEAR H AND H — If you had arrived wearing a shower cap and wished to keep it on all evening the hostess should have said nothing. She was rude — but you were both foolish to let it spoil your evening. It wasn't worth it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS — BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E. Q.?

Once a young couple becomes engaged, the next step is letting everyone know about it. Here are some questions that frequently arise:

1. Do the bride's parents send out announcements?

2. What is a public announcement, and how is it made?

3. Is an engagement party a must?

4. Who may give an engagement party for the bride?

5. How soon in advance of the wedding is the engagement announced?

6. Who should be invited to an engagement party?

7. Do guests bring gifts?

8. How should relatives and close friends be told of the engagement?

9. When does the bride-to-be first wear her ring?

10. Is it ever presented to her at the engagement party?

ANSWERS:

1. Formal announcements are not sent out for an engagement.

2. A public announcement is a notice of the engagement in the society pages of the local newspaper. It is made in the name of the bride's mother and father.

3. No, it's optional.

4. The bride's parents usually give the party, but it's permissible for one of her relatives to give it instead. It should not be given by a member of the bridegroom's family under any circumstances.

5. Usually about four to six months before the wedding.

6. Relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

7. No. Neither bride and bridegroom usually exchange gifts.

Sometime, relatives of the bridegroom may give the bride presents, but generally friends do not, and should not, give presents to the engaged couple.

8. They should be told, by note or phone call, in advance of the public announcement, as a matter of courtesy.

9. After the public announcement of the engagement is made.

10. No. The engagement ring is always presented in private, but the bride-to-be may first display it at the engagement party, if there is one.

Wife Entitled to Her Opinions Says Spouse of Cabinet Minister

BY BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — Jeanne Sauve sees no reason why she should give up her flourishing broadcasting career just because her husband has become a federal cabinet minister.

An opposition MP has questioned the propriety of Mme. Sauve continuing on the payroll of the publicly owned CBC.

But Jeanne Sauve, a commentator, moderator and interviewer on the French network for CBC television and occasional contributor to English TV and radio networks, has this response:

"I have up my political commentarie t e e years ago when my husband was first elected to Parliament as liberal MP for Joliette - - - (a Madeleine). However, there is no reason why I can't continue broadcasting and express an opinion on other subjects.

"After all, a wife is still free as an individual to hold an opinion, is she not?"

This slender, intensely feminine woman with gleaming silver blonde hair may have given up holding political opinions in public. But she has no qualms about a host of other subjects in as active life as wife and mother, broadcaster, and entertainer, vice - president of the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs, trilingual traveller, director of a broadcasting artist union and member of the national centennial commission.

MARRIED IN 1948

She was convinced early in life that a woman should be able to pursue a career even after b e coming a wife. Her father, the late Gustave A. Benoit of Ottawa, encouraged her to take an interest in public life and to visit Parliament frequently.

"Father used to tell me I could aspire to any profession I wished. He used to quote the speeches of Agnes Macphail (the former schoolteacher who became Canada's first woman MP) as an example of what a woman could do."

Jeanne Benoit studied at Notre Dame du Rosaire Convent here, University of Ottawa and then University of Montreal, where she met her future husband while both were involved in founding a Quebec student organization. She became Jeanne Sauve in 1948.

The day after the wedding they left for Paris where Maurice continued his studies in law and economics at the University of Paris, moving later to England to study at the London School of Economics.

Returning to Montreal from London in 1953, Mme. Sauve revived an interest in broadcasting developed on an amateur basis during her student days.

LANDS JOB

"After watching Canadian TV for a week, I called up a producer I knew and suggested some work I might be able to do for him." Two months later she appeared on her first television program.

Since then, Mme. Sauve has appeared on such French TV network programs as Opinions, a weekly half-hour discussion with students which ran from 1956 to 1963. She has been heard on CBC English radio's Transcanada Matinee and has expressed opinions on Viewpoint, the current events commentary program on TV.

She is moderator of a weekly quiz show for students on French TV and is working on a 13-part documentary series on changes in French - Canadian family life, an assignment she finds "most stimulating."

On the current burning issue in Quebec, separatism, Mme. Sauve believes one of the problems is that student separatists are ignorant of the life and ideals of English Canada.

"French and English youths in the province of Quebec are not sufficiently a w a r e of each other," she says.

"On the whole, students do form the largest group of separatists," she adds, "but most of them are just normal young French-Canadians trying to understand their province's role in Confederation."

DEMONSTRATIONS LIKEL Y

Mme. Sauve is among those who believe there may be separatist demonstrations when Queen Elizabeth visits Quebec in October, "but the Queen's demonstrations n e v e r frighten her. She's seen in her visits to other countries."

On personalities, she puts former CCF leader M. J. Coldwell at the top of the list of people she has interviewed — "more reticent on TV than in person but perfectly charming and sincere." Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal was the subject of another memorable interview, "an amazing man."

On or off television, Mme. Sauve's slender good looks belie her 40 years. She likes to wear the well-cut clothes of her two favorite designers, de Luca and Patrick de Barentzen, both of Rome.

She has a sister living in Italy and visits there often, learning Italian in addition to fluent English and French in the process and shopping for fashions.

"I find these two couturiers very competent," says Mme. Sauve of her favorite designers and her belief that "simple clothes are best" for public appearances. "Some of their clothes I've been able to wear for as long as six years."

After her family—she has one son, four-year-old Jean - Francois—and her career, entertaining at home is Mme. Sauve's chief delight.

"Dinner for eight is my favourite way of entertaining friends. It is intimate enough but provides lots of good entertainment."

She learned to cook in Paris as a bride and still thinks French cooking can't be beat.

Among her favorite dishes are a cheese souffle—"when I feel I can manage it" — steak covered with freshly ground pepper and flaming brandy and fresh lobster, "which we get from our constituency in the Magdalen Islands."

"I don't like desserts, though, and often serve just cheese and fruit with coffee."

The Sauves now make their home in Outremont, a Montreal suburb, but plan to rent a home in Ottawa soon.

"I'm looking forward to doing lots of entertaining in Ottawa," she says. "It will be fun to live in my hometown once again."

Mother's Day Marked at White's Church

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Mothers' Day service was held at White's Church on Sunday morning with a good attendance of members and visitors. The pianist, Miss Cynthia Jones played quiet music and accompanied the junior choir.

The Rev. R. F. Townsend was in charge of the baptismal service for Roxanne Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murrie Kleinsteuber and for Mark Evan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lary Davis.

The flowers placed in front of the altar were a basket of 'mums by Mr. Harold Jeffery in memory of her mother, Mrs. Harry De Mille who once attended this church; and three pots of 'mums by Mr. and Mrs. George Cotten in memory of her mother, Mrs. Ranzel Bronson of Stirling, and his mother, Mrs. David Cotten of Stirling, and of their granddaughter Vicki Cotten and her mother, Mary Cotten.

The Rev. Townsend spoke on "God is Love" and had a special message for the mothers and the children.

The offering taken by Masters Danny Stickle and David Pinley will assist in the Christian education in the Province of Ontario and will make possible the training of leaders for youth work, camps for boys and girls and for church vacation schools.

The pastor, Mr. Roy McGrath was also assisted in the service by the superintendent, Mrs. Albert Jones and Miss Gwen Stickle.

WANT MORE TOURISTS

MEXICO CITY. (Reuters)—Mexico and the U.S. are taking steps to increase mutual tourist exchange.

Say, whatever happened to the Collectors of Useless Things among us?

You know who I mean, the fellows or girls whose eyes light up at the sight of a torn bus stub from Amsterdam, a 1941 car license plate, a matchbook cover from Cairo or a lock of Bob Goulet's hair?

I remember hearing about a fellow whose own family wondered about him because he collected old cash registers. The last I heard was that he was suddenly offered $1,000 for the collection — and turned it down.

That's the kind of dedication I mean.

CORSAGES

Do girls still keep corsages between the pages of thick books until they turn mouldy and fall apart (the corsages, not the girls); do fellows still find family closets with rocks that fill the house with the smell of outdoors?

The crazy part about offbeat collections is that they often become valuable later. Who else has a set of menus representing all of Ruth May Provost and David Potts last Saturday at Marmora were: Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Potts and daughter Gilkey; Mr. Will Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Potts, Douglas, Donald and Linda; Mr. and Mrs. Milford Wrightman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wrightman, Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharp, Messrs. MALE COOKS

Hats off to 15 year-old Pauline McCardle of Kinkora, P. E. I., who won Canada's national bake-off championship last week with her cherry winks recipe.

But I've got a question: are there no fellows to uphold male honor in this kitchen contest? It is a well - known fact that fellows are superior cooks when they roll up their sleeves.

I've only baked two pies in my life, but I took second prize with one of them (the first) in a school contest. And I'm sure any of my buddies could have done the same thing.

Maybe that's why they didn't come near me for a week.

Alberta's Oil Industry

Began With a Boom That Went Bust

By ED. TREFIAK

CALGARY (CP)—"Guess you might call her a gusher," said W. Dingman as his No. 1 well roared to life at Turner Valley 50 years ago, on May 14, 1914.

The wild, powerful spray of natural gas and crude oil showered them, splashing business suits of pioneer oilmen and the overalls of their crews.

They luxuriated in it. Calgary speculators were titillated by it. And it signalled the beginning of the Turner Valley field and the birth of the big Alberta oil industry.

In Calgary, mother and father took the grocery money and whatever funds they could find and trooped downtown to invest in the promise of oil riches.

Some 500 oil firms were formed in the heat of the speculative rush, and all were quick to exchange shares for the eagerly offered money. But most were not as quick to drill wells.

Fifty finally undertook some exploration. Some speculators made paper fortunes, but most lost them again when the boom collapsed three months later as investors grew more wary and the First World War focused attention elsewhere.

POUND GAS

The Alberta government formed a board of public utilities commissioners and passed the Sale of Shares Act and Securities Act to protect the public against another such speculative orgy.

In Turner Valley, Calgary Petroleum Products, of which Mr. Dingman was a founder, began work in the summer of 1924 on its second well on a knoll above the gas seepage where rancher Bill Herron had persuaded Mr. Dingman and oilman William Elder to back a search for oil.

Down 3,175 feet in the limestone formation, the well struck a flow of 5,000,000 cubic feet of wet gas a day. Mr. Dingman brought in a small compressor (now on display in the yard of the Royalite Oil Company Limited in Turner Valley) and used it to extract between 2,000 and 3,000 gallons of gasoline a day from the gas. This was taken to Calgary and sold, but revenue was insufficient for any extensive development of the field.

Exploration came to a near halt until after the war. In 1919, work began on No. 3 but was abandoned soon afterward. The Calgary Petroleum Products sells gasoline plant burned down and operations were suspended.

ROYALITE FORMED

Imperial Oil Company, formed in 1880 by seven small refiners around Petrolia and London, Ont., bought out Calgary Petroleum Products in 1921 and formed Royalite Oil Company to operate in the valley.

Then came the really big development.

Royalite finished drilling No. 3, which still produces some gas built a compressor station and absorption plant and threaded a gas pipeline through rangeland 45 miles northeast to Calgary.

Royalite No. 4, which blew in Oct. 14, 1924, after two years of cable tool drilling, marked the start of large volume production. It also came close to scaring the overalls off the field workers.

Down 3,740 feet, in Madison limestone pinnacle, a flow was measured at 20,000,000 cubic feet a day was discovered. Drilling tools were removed and the wellhead valve was closed.

Fifteen minutes later, the steel well casing pipe like at eight inches in diameter, and the wellhead valve, a total weight of 96 tons, rose like an elevator through the crown of the derrick.

CAUGHT FIRE

Then it slowly and smoothly sank back down again, and natural gas began to seep up through the hole outside the casing. The gas caught fire.

The scorching, roaring blaze, light from which was visible in Calgary, continued for 11 days ... 31 seven boilers were brought to the wellhead and their combined steam production used to snuff out the flames.

Under control, again, the well produced 21,000,000 cubic feet a day and precipitated another oil boom, less wild and woolly than the first.

The number of wells multiplied, and extration was unrestricted. As a result, pressure of the gas-containing structure began to fall, forcing less gas up to the surface.

Meanwhile, 10 miles southwest over the foothills, R. A. Brown Sr. was drilling in a new area—the extreme south flank of the Turner Valley structure.

His well, Turner Valley Royalties No. 1, pushed in June 16, 1936, the granddaddy of crude 900 barrea a day of medium-gravity crude.

TOO MUCH OIL

Successful completion of the well confirmed discovery of a major oil pool, and intensive development began through the area.

So much oil was being produced by September, 1937, that pipelines from Turner Valley to Calgary couldn't carry it all. The flow Some of the gasoline extracted from wet gas could not be sold.

Buyers found it necessary to balance their purchases among producers. Operators continued to produce at full tilt, until it became obvious some restrictions would have to be introduced to keep pressures up and development orderly.

This led to establishment of the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board, which set allowable production figures for all wells—and still continues that task.

Turner Valley proved indispensable to Canada's efforts in the Second World War, producing 7,500,000 barrels of oil annually at the start of the war, and reaching a high of 10,136,296 barrels in 1943.

Initial crude reserves in Turner Valley were estimated at 1,000,000,000 barrels by the Alberta Conservation Board, and natural gas reserves at 2,000,000,000 cubic feet.

Now, the field is setting into a well-earned old age, with 4,100,000 barrels of recoverable crude and 210,000,000,000 cubic feet of marketable gas remaining.

The glamor has faded for Turner Valley, snatched by the great Leduc find near Edmonton in 1947 and discovery of fields, the latest near Lesser Slave Lake in northern Alberta, snatched too by the fabulous promise of the Athabasca oil sands of northeast Alberta, now on the threshold of development.

But subsequent development was a legacy of Turner Valley, and the wealthy, highly productive oil industry of today respects the valley as it would a grandparent.

It was there that men proved Alberta had oil, and it was there that optimism and a willingness to explore emerged.

(They just bought a 1964 Meteor.)

Now you see them. Now you don't. That's the way it goes with the Johnstons. But after all, would you let a '64 Meteor sit at home? This wagon, for instance, can really make a gypsy out of you (you'll look great in golden ear-rings). Drive it a while and you'll wonder where the jolting bumps and tight corners went to. The things inside it alone are enough to lure you out of your armchair and into a Meteor. This is where comfort takes over. You have plenty of leg-room, head-room, anything-room. (In this wagon, you flip the second seat down and you've got enough space to stow an 8-foot ladder or, like the Johnstons, all you need for an old-fashioned picnic). Home was never like this. Today, see your Mercury dealer. (Tomorrow, the world!)

Stratford Skating Champion Will Perform Six Months At World's Fair in N.Y.

By JIM PEACOCK

NEW YORK (CP) — Don McPherson moved into a Manhattan apartment the other day, unpacked his bags and stowed them away for six months. That's a long time for McPherson to keep the luggage in storage — and the 19-year-old 1963 world figure skating champion from Stratford, Ont., is already taking advantage of his semi-permanent residence here to enhance his talents.

He's been on the move in North America and Europe almost constantly since he turned professional in May, 1963, shortly after winning the world title at Cortina, Italy, and became the star of a travelling ice show.

He is still starring in an ice show—but this one is not travelling. It is set for six months this year and six more next year at the New York City pavilion at the New York world's fair.

HEAVENLY BREAK

"It's going to be heavenly to be in one spot for six months," said McPherson, who spent last winter skating in Europe after touring in North America with Holiday on Ice for several months.

In addition to his obvious pleasure at settling into his own apartment instead of a hotel room and forgetting the packing worries for a while, he is pleased that now, for the first time since he began winning skating championships when he was 12, he has a real chance to pursue fresh studies.

"I've enrolled in ballet classes three times a week and a modern dance class once a week," he said.

These are aimed at improving his show skating with more graceful body movements and showmanship knowledge.

"The change to professional show skating is the biggest thing you can imagine," McPherson said between rehearsals and shows in Dick Button's Ice-Travaganza at the world's fair.

ACTING NEEDED

"As an amateur you never skate for the audience. You skate for yourself and the nine judges. You don't have to know showmanship. When you go into ice-show productions, you have to act, too."

The young Windsor, Ont.-born skater also intends to take advantage of the theatre offerings of New York City, finding time somehow in weeks filled with dance classes and six days of skating as many as three and four shows a day to see Broadway productions.

"I would like to become an actor when I quit skating," he said.

Don had some taste of acting before he began winning skating titles. As a member of a Presbyterian boys' choir in Stratford, he won several singing competitions and became a member of a choir that sang and acted in the Shakespearean festival production of Richard III.

He had a small straight acting role later in The Merry Wives of Windsor at the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

That was a decade ago and while he says "my voice changed—and that ended my singing career," he has maintained his interest in acting.

He began skating when he was five. When he was 12 he won the western Ontario novice men's championship, then progressed through regional titles for two years before becoming Canadian junior champion in 1959. The following three years he was second to Don Jackson of Oshawa, Ont., in the Canadian championships.

When Jackson turned pro after winning the world title in 1962—when McPherson finished fourth — the Stratford skater took command. He won the Canadian, North American and world championships in 1963.

Even in the welter of confusion and the long, long waiting days of preparation for the world's fair show, McPherson said he loves the life as a professional. He has two years to run on his current show contract, which will take him back to Europe next winter, then back to the fair for six months in 1965.

He expects to continue skating for some time beyond that, he said but "actually, I prefer acting to skating."

Foremost Entomologist Has Change of View on Pest Control

By DON ANGUS

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP)—Dr. A. D. Pickett is a veteran on the Annapolis Valley front of a war waged by man since clouds of locusts laid waste the land of Job in biblical times.

As one of North America's foremost entomologists, Dr. Pickett is in the vanguard of man's unceasing competition against insects for food.

At 64, he is contemplating retirement within a year to round off a quarter century fighting pests and insects in the Nova Scotia fruit belt for the federal department of agriculture.

His views on pest control have undergone a marked change since he was graduated from Montreal's Macdonald College in 1929, a span that included 13 years working in the agriculture department laboratory at Annapolis Royal until 1952.

As a fledgling entomologist, he recalls, he believed firmly in chemical compounds such as DDT as the answer to countless agricultural problems involving control of pests.

CHANGED MIND

But he began to see how some pests built up a resistance to chemicals or flourished when their natural enemies were destroyed by pesticides. He experimented with biological controls —using natural predators against harmful insects and pests.

"Species of insects that were no worry before began to reach densities where they could be considered pests."

Dr. Pickett became concerned that "wide spectrum" pesticides and the widespread, indiscriminate use of chemicals, were killing off parasites and predators that were the natural enemies of destructive insects. The finely-drawn balance of nature was being disrupted.

"In Annapolis Royal, we were working on chemical sprays for apple trees. The poisons were effective, but at the same time they began to kill off the natural enemies of the oystershell scale.

"The scale became a pest and we had to begin work on a new compound to combat it."

USED SELECTION

Dr. Pickett says the answer was found in selective sprays—"ones that were designed to kill a particular insect or fungus. And within two years the oystershell scale was wiped out.

With this success with selective pesticides, Dr. Pickett became a firm advocate of the idea of minimum use of chemical sprays and maximum use of biological or natural controls.

Rachel Carson's best - selling book, Silent Spring, on which Dr. Pickett was an adviser, alarmed naturalists with its description of wholesale destruction of birds, fish and animals by indiscriminate use of pesticides.

Dr. Pickett, who regards Miss Carson as "the attorney for the prosecution" against dangerous agricultural poisons, has become an expert on biological insect control.

He has accumulated impressive evidence to show the harmful effects of pesticides on wildlife, but mostly he has taken the stand that all too often chemical sprays are only effective temporarily.

NO ALARMIST

Dr. Pickett is not an alarmist. He claims he does not over-

'Hasty Pees' Colors Presentations Here Sunday

The Queen's Color

The Regimental Color

From the earliest time, groups or companies of soldiers have used a flag as a means of identifying their particular group, and as a means of rallying their company in the noise and confusion of battle. As the companies became organized into a Regiment it became the custom to have only one Regimental Color.

Parallel to this it was the custom of the leader of the force (usually a member of nobility) to have his personnel standard or color. Which with the passing of time; became the Kings' Colors or the flag of the Nation.

Today the colors of a Regiment are two flags. One the Queen's Color emblematic of the Regiment's Loyalty to the Queen and Country.

The other, the Regimental Color, emblematic of the Regiment's Pride and Service. On it are emblazoned the unit's battle honors, (battle honor is granted by a grateful country for outstanding service during a battle or campaign).

The Colors of the Regiment are the focal point of the unit. Although not carried into modern battle, great pomp and circumstance are given to their use on ceremonial occasions.

In the "old days," they led the Regiment into battle carried by two of the best young Officers escorted by three of the stoutest Senior N.C.O.'s. With a small color guard from the unit to guard them. And so today, we have the senior subaltern carrying the Queen's Color, the junior carrying the Regimental Color and escort of three senior N.C.O.'s and the companies of the Regiment formed into the Color Guards.

The old Colors issued in 1934 at Picton are being replaced by new Colors carrying ten of the thirty battle honors won by the Regiment 1939 - 1945, plus sight other battle honors, won previously.

Freedom Of The City

In the ancient days even "friendly" troops were not as a unit or with their arms because of the fear of treachery and rowdyism.

As a special honor to a unit that had proven itself loyal to the causes of the city, they were granted permission to carry their arms (bayonets fixed) received with joy (flags flying, drums playing) at any time they wished to march into the city.

On Sunday His Worship Mayor Ellis on behalf of the citizens will grant in perpetuity The Freedom of the City of Belleville to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, as a token of sincere appreciation for its long and distinguished service in those causes which the citizens of Belleville hold dear.

It is an honor in which the Regiment can take great pride.

HIS WORSHIP MAYOR JACK ELLIS

Observance of Time Requested

Lieut.-Col. J. B. Black, commanding officer of the regiment, earnestly requests that all special guests and other spectators attending the presentation ceremonies at the Fair Grounds be in their seats at least 30 minutes before the time of opening.

The Lieutenant Governor is scheduled to arrive at the Fair Grounds at 2 p.m.

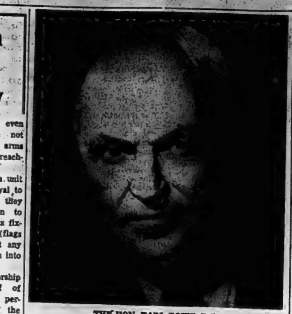
It is therefore important that all spectators be seated at 1:30 p.m. at the latest.

The co-operation of all in this respect will be greatly appreciated by Col. Black and the officers of the regiment.

Immediately following his arrival the Lieutenant Governor will inspect the regiment.

The old colors will be marched off then follows the consecration of the new colors.

Then follows the presentation of the colors and the regimental march-past in slow and quick time.



Mayor Ellis will present the regiment with the freedom of the city and the regiment after honoring members of the Regimental Association (Plowboys) will march through the city to the armouries for dismissal.

The route march is from the Fair Grounds to Catherine, Coleman, Moira, Upper Bridge, Front and Bridge streets.

At approximately 4.30 p.m. receptions will be held in the officers' and sergeants' messes.

THE HON. EARL ROWE, P.C.
LIEUT.-GOVERNOR OF ONTARIO

History of the Regiment

The first unit formed was known as the 1st Regiment of Prince Edward Militia under the command of Lt. Col. Archibald MacDonell. Four years later the 1st Regiment of Hastings Militia was formed by Lt. Col. John Ferguson. Both of these units made substantial contributions to the War of 1812 and took part in the actions against the Americans at Lundy's Lane, Fort York, Queenston, and other battles in the Niagara area.

The Rebellion of 1837 which was instigated by William Lyon McKenzie, again brought these two units into action, and through their efforts helped to restore law and order.

The Militia again was engaged in the active defence of Canada during the Fenian Raids, from 1863 to 1866. As a result of these actions, and the aftermath of political unrest during and after the American Civil War, the Militia was reorganized.

This brought about the formation of the 49th Regiment of Hastings Rifles and the 15th Battalion Argyll Light Infantry of Belleville. The 16th Prince Edward Regiment had been formed three years previously.

The year 1885 brought rebellion to Canada and once again the Militia was on the march. Detachments from both of these units took part in the actions at Batoche and Cut Knife Creek, which put an end to the ambitions of Louis Riel.

The South African War saw troops from all over the British Empire in action against the Boers, and the Canadian Contingent was well represented by militia soldiers from the counties of Hastings and Prince Edward.

THE GREAT WAR 1914-1918

In August of 1914, Canada was at war.

The counties helped raise the 21st Battalion, the 59th Battalion, the 1st Forestry Battalion; the 39th Battalion, the 80th Battalion, the 235th Battalion and the 254th Battalion. There were also many who served in other arms and services, in the army. While the Canadian Expeditionary Force steadfastly struggled through the mud of Flanders, the Militia officered and manned by old men and boys, stayed home to train for a war they never fought.

LIEUT. GENERAL
HOWARD B. GRAHAM, D.S.O.

THE SECOND WORLD WAR 1939 - 1945

The Regiment mobilized on Sept. 3, 1939. Within a week Canada was at war. As a formation of the 1st Brigade, 1st Canadian Division, the Regiment left for England on the 17th of December 1939.

The morning of the 10th of July 1943 saw the Regiment assaulting the shores of Sicily, then striking northward toward the toe of Italy. Many battles were fought, and names like Grammichele, Valguarnera, Assoro, Agira, and Regalbuto were added to the list of Battle Honours.

The "Ploughjockeys" or "Hasty Pees" as many referred to the Regiment, landed on Italy in September and commenced a long series of bloody battles culminating in victory for the Allied forces. Here again, the Regiment won many Battle Honours. Among them were Motta Montecorvino, Torella, San Leonardo, The Gully, Orsona, Gustav Line, Liri Valley, Lamone Crossing, Bulgaria Village, Po Savogio Canal and Fosso Vecchio.

THE POST-WAR ERA —1945-64

In 1954 the 32nd and 34th Batteries RCA, the Midland Regiment, and the 9th Anti - Tank Regiment (Argyll Light Infantry) were all absorbed into the ranks of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. This amalgamation expanded the Regiment to an area comprising of five counties — Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Durham, and Haldimand. It also added new armouries totalling seven located as follows: Belleville, Battalion Headquarters, Training Headquarters and Support Coy; Trenton, Madoc and Northwood; Picton; Port Hope and Millbrook.

In 1961-62 the Regiment was called upon to take part with the Militia across Canada to train 100,000 men as a ready reserve for any emergency requiring the use of troops. The National Survival Training Programme was enthusiastically embarked on by officers and men of the Regiment and training centres were set up at Belleville and Picton. The successful completion of this programme showed that the Regiment was indeed capable of carrying out a peace-time role as efficiently as in War.

Lieut.-Gov. Earl Rowe To Officiate At Ritual; Mayor Presents 'Freedom'

Two honors will be accorded the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment here on Sunday May 17.

The regiment will receive new Queen's and Regimental Colors from the Hon. W. Earl Rowe, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and the "Freedom of the City" from His Worship Mayor Jack Ellis of Belleville.

The ceremonies will take place at the Fair Grounds in Belleville, beginning at 2 p.m., Sunday, May 17.

Commanding the regiment on parade will be Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph B. Black of Belleville.

Before presentation, the new Colors will be consecrated by Lieutenant-Colonel J. M. (Jock) Anderson of Oakville, Protestant Chaplain for Central Command.

In attendance for the consecration will be Major George Bickley of Kingston, Protestant Chaplain for Eastern Ontario Area.

Belleville Protestant Chaplains assisting will be Major A. S. McConnell, a former regimental chaplain, and Captain David W. Sinclair, present regimental chaplain.

Members of the famous First (Plowboys) Battalion which won battle honors on the bloody fields of Sicily and Europe will be honored following the ceremonies.

The Second Battalion will "present arms" to the "Plowboys" following a march-past with wartime commander Lord Tweedsmuir taking the salute.

FOUGHT WITH DISTINCTION

The "Freedom of the City" gives the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment the privilege of marching through the streets of Belleville with bayonets fixed, drums beating and colors flying.

The granting of the freedom of a city is a practice that goes back to medieval times, when troops were forbidden to enter walled cities and towns bearing arms.

Today the freedom of a city is granted very sparingly to prominent individuals and groups as a great honor in recognition of services to the community or nation. It is the highest honor that a municipality can bestow.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment fought with distinction in the First and Second World Wars. A number of officers and men of the units that eventually became the "Hasty Pees" served on active service in the war of 1812; the rebellion of 1837; the Northwest Expedition of 1885 and the South African War.

From the First World War the regiment's deeds are written in the history of such battles as Mont Sorrel, the Somme, Arras, Hill 70, Ypres, Amiens, Hindenburg Line and the Pursuit to Mons.

In the Second World War the regiment sailed overseas on December 22, 1939 and saw action in Sicily, Italy and Holland.

Battle honors from these campaigns include Regalbuto, Nissoria, Assoria, The Hitler Line, the Moro River and Apeldoorn.

Following the ceremonies at the Fair Grounds the regiment will exercise its newly gained "Freedom" by marching through downtown Belleville.

Lieutenant-General Howard D. Graham of Toronto, honorary colonel of the regiment, heads the list of former commanding officers of the regiment who will be present.

Among these are Viscount Lord Tweedsmuir from Britain; Brigadier D. C. Cameron, Commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston; Lieutenant-Colonels A. A. Kennedy, Angus B. Duffy, W. A. Davern, E. S. Fairman, M. Davison and others.

Distinguished guests will include Brig. J. S. Ross of Kingston, Commander of Eastern Ontario Area; Brig. George Aldous of Ottawa, Commander of 12 Militia Group; Brig. M. E. Clarke of Peterborough, Commander of 13 Militia Group; and Brig. Lyall N. Carr, retired, of Port Hope.

LIEUT. COLONEL
J. B. BLACK
(Commanding Officer)

THIRTY YEARS AGO . . . Sir Archibald MacDonell presented the colors to the regiment at special ceremonies held in Picton. Gen. MacDonell is pictured presenting the color to Lieutenant Hamilton McLean. Guard officer is Lieut. Howard Reid who later served with the Hasty Pees with the rank of major.

Interior Partition Walls May Help Support Structure

Interior partitions may be either load - bearing or non-bearing. Non-bearing partitions act as room or space dividers only, whereas bearing partitions also help to support the ceiling, roof or floor above.

A partition is built up in the same way as an exterior stud wall, with plates at top and bottom. However, in non-bearing partitions the top plate need not be doubled. The bottom plate helps to distribute the weight of the wall more evenly and it also serves as a nailing surface for the interior wall finish and the base board.

The framing lumber for interior partitions usually consists of 2x4 lumber but 2x3 stock can be used for non-bearing partitions. In some instances 2x6 lumber is employed to provide a thicker wall to enclose the plumbing stack. Studs must be in one piece spliced studs or two-piece studs are permitted in construction financed under NHA although a strip of wood may be nailed to a stud to increase the thickness of the wall where needed.

If load - bearing partition are spaced 16 inches apart, horizontal stiffeners will be needed at mid-height. These are known as mid-girths and consist of 2x4 material cut to the same length as the studs and placed between the studs.

In a bearing partition where an opening, as a door, is capped by a lintel, the lintel should be laid on edge for maximum strength.

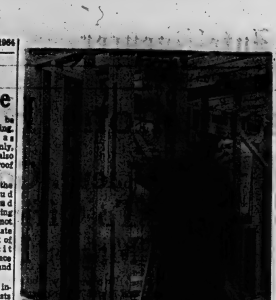
When the space provided between two adjoining studs in a partition is too narrow to accommodate a cold-air wall register the intervening stud will have to be cut. In this case a proper lintel with supports at each end must also be provided. As often happens when lumber is still partly green at the time of construction, studs in a partition may twist out of shape and will not be correctly aligned at all points. Studs which are seriously bowed can often be corrected by making a saw cut in which a wedge is inserted and spiking on another stud.

Interior partitions are sometimes doubled, with studs in each row being staggered, making it possible to weave a soundproofing material between the two rows of studs. This type of construction is used in duplexes to soundproof the interior wall next to the staircase and the wall of the entrance hall.

A carryall for hand tools, nails, screws, tacks and similar small items is something every handyman promises himself to make — just as soon as he has time.

For some reason, however, we go on carrying tools and materials around in glass jars and cardboard boxes, although we know a carryall would save a great deal of time.

For those who wish to save time and steps when doing chores around the house and farm, however, the fir plywood carryall shown above is just the thing.



As can be seen from the drawings, there is ample room in the upper shelf for a multitude of small items. The lower shelf holds tools and bulky items.

The various pieces of the carryall are first drawn on ¼" fir plywood, then cut out and edges sanded. Half-inch fir plywood is recommended because this thickness means interior framing can be eliminated.

The carryall is then assembled with glue and nails. Two short lengths of half-round are glued to the top of the centre piece to make a convenient carrying handle.

Arrangement of the shelves inside the carryall can be varied to suit the type, and quantity of items which are most frequently used around the home.

Small scrap pieces, glued to the inside of the two ends, will support the upper trays. Divisions in the lower units are made by cutting pieces of fir plywood to shape, and through-nailing them from the outside. When finished, the carryall should be given a coat of sealer before the final sanding, and then finished in a natural state, or undercoated and painted.

INTERIOR PARTITIONS — Interior partitions are considered as structural members if they help to support the roof. Non-bearing partitions have no structural function; their purpose is to section off rooms for privacy.

Hardwood Parquet Block Flooring

Everybody enjoys the beauty and comfort of hardwood flooring.

Canadian hardwood flooring manufacturers are now producing parquet blocks which can be laid with a minimum of effort and equipment. Parquet blocks are made of five or more hardwood flooring strips held together to form a square block and supplied with either matched or square edges.

Blocks are a quarter inch or more in thickness and can be laid in many pleasing patterns and designs. No matter where the room or what its function, there is a suitable grade for the purpose at reasonable cost.

Blocks are manufactured from Canadian yellow birch, hard or soft maple and oak. They are selected and grade-marked in seven grades to specifications approved by the Canadian Lumbermen's Association. Accepted by the Central Housing and Mortgage Corporation, parquet flooring is gaining in popularity throughout Canada.

Official grades for this type of flooring are listed below:

Clear Selected Red or White: The face shall be free of defects. Each block should be uniform, and no variations in color will be permitted. The finished floor shall not show abrupt changes in color between adjoining blocks.

2. Clear Grade. The face shall be free of defects. The variegated natural color of the wood shall not be considered a defect, but the block shall contain pieces reasonably matched for color. Sapwood shall be considered a defect in a block in this grade.

3. Select Grade. The face may contain occasional small sound knots and slight streaks. The varying natural color of the wood shall not be considered a defect, and sapwood may be admitted without limit.

4. Anteek Grade. The face may contain figs, streaks, small soundknots, and occasional pin worm holes, and minor imperfections in machining that may be removed by sanding. No combination of more than four of the above defects may be permitted in any one block. The varying natural color of the wood, including sapwood, shall not be considered a defect.

5. Fourth Grade. This is the lowest grade of flooring manufactured. Defects precluded from other grades are permitted, provided they do not render the flooring unfit for usage where circumstances admit of a low cost construction.

6 Prime Grade. This is not a production grade. It is supplied on request from stock, on the basis of 60 percent of the bundles or packages being Clear Grade and 40 percent of the bundles or packages being Select Grade.

7. Select and Better Grade This consists of all Clear and Select Grades, developed by the stock being run. There is no separation of these grades in bundling or packaging. No specific percentage of either of these grades is guaranteed in any shipment.

Home Owner Should Avoid False Economy

As an addition to the community a new home is subject to municipal regulations. It thus becomes both a municipal asset and a liability, bringing in tax revenue but at the same time involving municipal expenditures. These may cover the extension of streets, sewer and other essential services such as garbage collection, police and fire protection, schools and transportation. The municipality also reserves the right to regulate the type of house you can build in a given district. Before buying a home or having one built it is always wise to get all the information you can from the local municipal office. Your enquiry should cover the zoning and parking regulations, services existing or likely to be provided, the tax rates for the area and other charges that might be levied against your property. If you are having a house built it is specification you will also be able to check on the municipal regulations and restrictions, which materials are acceptable, size of the house, required set-back from the street and elevation and side yard requirements. If you are moving into a ready-built house your builder, of course, will have taken care of these details. In this case a visit to the municipal office should be profitable and can enlighten and reassure you on many points.

Owner Should Visit Municipal Office

Is your dream-home within reach of your pocket-book? Budgeting will tell you what kind of home you can afford. Your building contractor can assist you in this matter. To build a house that is both sound and attractive at reasonable cost is the mark of a good builder. You should bear in mind, however, that using inferior materials is false type of economy at all times. A house, no matter how modest, is an expensive house if good workmanship and materials have been sacrificed for the sake of house.

Selecting Lot Very Important

Choosing a building lot, like the selection of a neighborhood, is not making a decision requiring more than just casual attention. There is more to it than square feet of land. As in choosing a neighborhood there are certain things to look for and certain things to avoid. Your choice will of course be limited by the price you can afford to pay. You also want to make sure you can afford the kind of house you are allowed to build on a particular lot. On the average a lot should not cost much more than 30 percent of the property as a whole. The land should be well drained and should have good bearing properties. Unstable soil calls for stronger footings, usually with reinforcements. Rocky terrain, on the other hand can mean a costly excavation job if blasting is needed. A corner lot might be suitable for a split-level home while not as practical if planning a ranch type bungalow. Can the lot be landscaped at reasonable cost? Does the house you are planning to build fit the lot you have in mind; does the lot offer any natural advantages; a view, access from inside or the rear as well as the front; are there any trees that can be preserved; will it have valuable top soil that can be saved? These are some of the questions you will have to ask yourself when choosing a lot.

Decorating With Color

Color can work a wonderful transformation in any room — especially when you follow some of the basic rules that have been discovered about its use. Here are "Color Do's and Don'ts" to guide you:

Do use light colors in a small room to create an impression of greater size.

Don't use too much pattern in any room; this can be distracting and tiring.

Do put emphasis on warm reds and yellows in rooms that are windowless or face toward the northeast.

Don't use bright color in large areas, as this will detract from the furnishings.

Do have continuing color flow through the house, and use harmonious colors in rooms that adjoin.

Don't use too many cool blues in a northeast room or it will seem to be cooler.

Do mix light and deep colors in each room.

Don't use too much red or yellow in a southwest room with large windows, or it will seem warmer.

Do paint the ceiling of a room a deeper color than the walls, if it is very high. This makes it appear lower.

Do paint glaring architectural features, such as radiators to contrast with their background. This will emphasize them.

Do remember colors are relative and must be seen together.

Don't use glossy paints on walls or ceilings of living areas, since such surface creates glare. Do study color swatches in both day and night light; colors often change under artificial light.

Don't have all shiny or all rough-textured fabrics in one room — vary them for visual interest.

Building or Buying

Building your own home or having it built to your own plans and specifications can be a true adventure. Unlike purchasing a ready-built home you can select exactly the house design you prefer, one that will fit your way of living and the particular needs of your family as well as your budget. You can choose a house design that will blend with the lot on which you propose to build and with the surrounding homes as well, without having them all look like peas in a pod. Looking over house plans can be a fascinating preamble to the actual construction of your home. A book of plans can be obtained at little cost from your nearest newsstand. Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation also publishes a book of house plans distributed free of cost, that contains one hundred different designs. It can be obtained from any one of the many CMHC offices across Canada. The working drawings can also be obtained for a small charge. While having a made-to-order house may mean extra work, time and since such surface creates glare. expense, the more satisfying results can make it worthwhile.

MR. MELTZER ON REAL ESTATE
"What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Long term leases protect both the lessor and the lessee. Many readers wonder how the owner can have this protection and still take advantage of an increase in the value of his property and have protection against inflation.

The percentage rent lease is an admirable solution. Such leases are common in shopping centres and in downtown business districts, but — like Mr. L. V. J. — not everyone is familiar with them.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I own a business property in a growing area. A man wants to use it for a shoe store. He would like a long term lease but I anticipate the value of this location will grow considerably and I hate to tie it up for 15 years at what it is now worth.

I would like to do right by him, too — especially since he will be investing a great deal of money in fixtures and improvements. What would be a fair arrangement? — L. V. J.

Answer: A percentage lease with a minimum rental would be the solution.

The minimum rental should be set at a figure that will cover all your expenses and give you a fair investment return. The percentage rent will assure your participation in the growth of the area as reflected in your tenant's increasing business. As he grows, of course, he will be able to pay in keeping with the improved value of the location.

The percentage rent rates vary somewhat, but here you might begin with about 6 per-cent of his gross after establishing a minimum rent. As an example, the minimum rent might be $7,00 even if his gross business is only $100,000. If, however, his gross goes to $150,000 his rent would be $9,00 (6 per-cent of his gross.)

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Even though you are a realtor, I think that this time you will agree that the brokerwas wrong.

I listed my house with a realtor for $15,00. He brought several prospects but the best offer I got was only $14,00. After the agreement ran out and I was no longer liable for a commission, I could afford to sell for less, so I contacted some of these people and eventually sold the house for $14,000.

The broker has put in a claim for his commission. I don't see why I should pay him. He had his chance to sell the house and collect a commission and didn't. Now he wants to get paid for doing nothing. What do you think of that? — R. V. K.

Answer: I am more critical of our real estate profession than the average person in this case, however, I can't agree with you. Your realtor is justified in making his claim.

He secured a buyer who was ready, willing and able to purchase. Further, these efforts were instrumental in concluding the sale. If you still doubt the fairness of his claim, your local Board of Realtors has a committee that reviews such disputes. If your realtor is mistaken in his claim, they will quickly straighten things out.

"Dear Mr. Meltzer: "The bids we have been getting for the building of an addition to our house have us confused. As a result, we are considering the offer of a well - recommended man who suggests that he bill us for time and materials plus a small additional amount for reasonable profit.

"What do you think of this arrangement?"

Answer: This type of arrangement can be either very good or very bad. I know of cases where it was most advantageous —and others in which the costs became exorbitant. I suggest a compromise. Go along with this plan, but set a firm maximum ceiling beyond which the price cannot go. This way you can have your cake and eat it.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My wife usually is after me to keep up with the Joneses. The Joneses (really — that's the name of our next door neighbor) bought a boat and I am enthused with the idea, but my wife objects.

Since I don't have the money, I plan to get a mortgage on the house — but she refuses to sign the papers. A friend told me the best thing to do is to sign for her — he did once and had no trouble.

As much as I want that boat, I'm a little hesitant. What do you say? — F. M. A.

Answer: I'm afraid that your friend's suggestion will get you in trouble. Forging a signature is a serious matter.

A great many people — unlike your friend — were not so successful as have been the cause of serious overcrowding in some of our best jails.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Lawyer Is Home Purchaser's Best Friend

Buying a house or having one built involves considerable legal work. The three basic documents are the offer to purchase, the transfer of the title to the property and the assumption of the mortgage indebtedness by the purchaser. There will also be other papers in sight before the whole transaction is completed. A lawyer should be retained to assist you with his advice. For example, if you obtain the building loan under your own name you will have to enter into a contract with the builder and your lawyer will see to it that your interests are protected. The contract will include the plans and specifications to which the builder must conform and the date on which the house is to be completed, ready for occupancy. You will have to be protected against mechanics liens if the builder fails to pay for his materials for work done on your house. Your lawyer will make sure there are no hidden charges involved. He will also see to it that some of the loan money is retained against an emergency until all conditions in the contract have been met. The protection a lawyer offers can be worth considerably more than the fee he charges. Legal problems are definitely not for the do-it-yourself man.

Cooling Units Adaptable to Any House

Homeowners want to keep summer heat where it belongs — outside the house.

To satisfy this demand, cooling engineers have developed a variety of systems so that cooling can be installed in any type house, regardless of the type of heating system used.

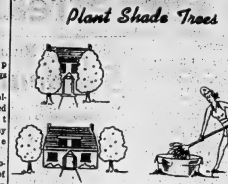
Thus, engineers say that today there is no "right type" of heating system for adaptation to air conditioning. Some cooling equipment can be combined with the heating system. Combination type heating-cooling equipment is available for both warm air and hydronic (hot water) systems, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

However, if the cooling part of a combination system is to be "added later," special provision for cooling must be made when the house is constructed. If these provisions are not made, the separate cooling system may be required.

SEPARATE SYSTEMS

A separate chilled air unit can be used with any type heating system. It also functions independently of the heating system, and can be easily installed in homes that are located in those parts of the country that don't require heating.

The unit is suitable for central cooling for new construction or modernization, but especially for multi-story or rambling designs in which zone control is required.

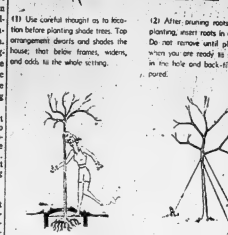


COMBINED SYSTEM

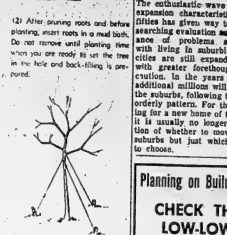
Heating - cooling convectors, a combination hydronic system, are installed in each room of the house. The central "power" source — a boiler and water chiller — is usually located in the basement.

Hot water and chilled water are circulated to the units through a common piping system. Each convector unit has a fan, filter, cooling-heating coil and a thermostat for room by room temperature control.

Heating-cooling duct system, in a combination warm air system, uses a furnace and cooling unit, usually located in the basement, as the "power" source. Hot air and cool air are circulated through the same duct system. It's important, however that ducts be accurately sized. Cooling requires larger ducts than those used for heating alone. If ducts are sized for heating only, the cooling system may not operate efficiently.



How to Plant Shade Trees



(1) Use careful thought as to location before planting shade trees. Top arrangement diverts and shades the house; that below frames, widens, and adds to the whole setting.

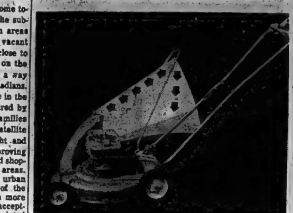
(2) After pruning roots and before planting, exert roots in a mud bath. Do not remove until planting time when you are ready to set the tree in the hole and back-filling is reported.

(3) "Area hole is not filled, well worked between roots, tamp down firmly with feet, fill hole with transplanting solution, then continue to fill in the rest of the soil.

(4) Cutting out young trees, prevent sagging in winds and aids straight growth. Drive stakes, attach wires. Use small screw eyes on nails as shown.

In planting shade trees, remove paper, plastic or metal containers that may be around the roots. If the roots with a ball of soil around them are wrapped in burlap, leave the burlap on as you set the tree in the hole, says the Canadian Nursery Trades Association. After it is set in the hole, all ready to pile on the top soil, take a sharp knife and slit the burlap length-wise from top to bottom in a half dozen places. This will allow the roots to grow outward normally and will not disturb the earth around the roots.

SEASON REOPENS



SUDBURY (CP)—The commercial pickerel fishing season in Georgian Bay reopened Wednesday. Lands and Forests Minister Kelso Roberts issued a special ruling earlier this year declaring Georgian Bay a fish sanctuary until May 17, or such times as the run of spawning pickerel was over.

BECOMES CHAIRMAN

SARNIA (CP)—Jack Bews of Kingston was elected chairman of the Canadian Council of the Blind, Ontario division, at the closing session of the three-day annual conference here Wednesday. J. W. Gillespie of Sudbury was named vice-chairman. Convenors include Mrs. Eza Stokes of Fort Arthur. The 1963 conference will be held in Timmins.

Off to the Suburbs

The search for a new home today usually takes us to the suburbs In the larger urban areas there are few remaining vacant residential serviced lots close to the entire centre. Living on the city outskirts has become a way of life for millions of Canadians. The advantages of a home in the suburbs have been tempered by many problems. As families continue to move to satellite communities more thought and effort are spent on improving transportation, schools and shopping facilities in these areas. The enthusiastic wave of urban expansion characteristic of the fifties has given way to a more searching evaluation and acceptance of problems associated with living in suburbia. Today cities are still expanding but with greater forethought and caution. In the years to come additional millions will settle in the suburbs, following this more orderly pattern. For those looking for a new home of their own it is usually no longer a question of whether to move to the suburbs but just which suburb to choose.

1964 Lawn-Boy grasscatcher ends raking spring, summer and fall

In the spring Lawn-Boy's grasscatcher lets you tidy up the lawn without tedious raking. In the fall it collects leaves. In the summer, of course, it gathers grass so efficiently the neighbours will think you spent hours raking. The grasscatcher is no trouble to use because it comes on and off in seconds and empties in a shake or two. Even wet grass and leaves can't clog it.

Lawn-Boy's Finger-Tip-Start engine is the easiest to start in the world. Pushing is easy because Lawn-Boy is made from ultra-light magnesium. And, to be easy on the ears, Lawn-Boy is extra quiet. Its muffler is the largest on any mower.

See the 1964 Lawn-Boy at your dealer's soon. It's warranted for two full years—twice as long as any other mower.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

If enthusiasm and desire are the main ingredients for success, Zone Three of the Eastern Ontario Baseball Association has it made.

According to association president Jack Carson, who presided at the get-together in Trenton Wednesday night, delegates and team representatives "fairly bubbled over" with a spirit of co-operation.

"Every one of the forty representatives there showed a willingness to co-operate. There were no arguments, just sincere discussions that brought results. I did not think possible prior to the meeting," he said.

The Association senior league got off to a good start with five definite entries from Belleville, Brockville, Oshawa, Ajax and Cornwall. Little Britain and the Port Hope-Peterborough Combines, while not definite at this time, are almost sure entries.

The Brockville Beavers of the St. Lawrence Valley-New York League showed more than ordinary enthusiasm. Through its representative the Beavers stated they are more than anxious to play in the Ontario League and would go overboard to fill in dates.

The Beavers, managed by "Bun" Bradfield, vice-president of the St. Lawrence Valley-New York League, is one of the better senior clubs. Mr. Bradfield, one of Eastern Ontario's better baseball men, is very popular with the club as he is with his executive and other teams of the eastern loop.

He has done a lot for baseball down east and particularly for his club. Men like Bradfield and teams like the Beavers are welcome in any league.

The Cannifton entry of the South Hastings League will play an eight-game series with the other clubs, or depending on the number of entries.

A six-team peewee league was formed with entries from Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, Colborne, Middleton Park and Ilkely Wellington. Belleville tykes were withdrawn since other clubs did not want to make extra trips to the city.

Three bantam teams and two midget teams were entered, with the possibility of a third midget club. The bantams are from Trenton, Frankford, and Brighton with the midgets representing Colborne and Middleton Park. Frankford was not definite in this category.

The five definite teams will play in a single circuit.

There was no sign of a senior entry from Kingston, but the Limestone City entered teams in the tyke, peewee and bantam divisions. Entry, however, was postponed after teams from the smaller centres expressed the opinion the Kingston entries might prove too strong.

A number of teams and leagues throughout the three zones of the association were sceptical about the success of the venture at first, but recent developments and the augured success of the new organization is gradually bringing them into line, President Carson said.

"The enthusiasm and co-operation shown at the Trenton meeting proved to me that baseball men not only in Zone Three but in other zones have put the stamp of approval on the aims and objects of the Eastern Association," he said.

"We are trying to make baseball uniform and by administering it under three heads and one central executive, much can be done to eliminate the problems that beset teams and leagues operating on their own."

H'MMMMMMH

There was much ado about a piece of lead being found in the innards of a large pickerel entered in an opening day Derby. The following story from the Department of Lands and Forests reveals that nothing is beyond the realm of possibility. .

An angler caught a four-pound rainbow trout in a lake north of the Mazinaw, the department spokesman relates. He was delighted with his catch.

"But," the story goes, "later when he started to dress the fish, he was startled when his knife ground to a squawking halt against a hard object inside the fish. Closer examination revealed a ten-inch three-cornered file in the fish's stomach."

The file, it was discovered, belonged to a cottager who lost it overboard from a previous fishing trip.

Anyone catching muskies containing crosscut saws, canoes, housebouts, or missing persons are asked to report their catches to the Department of Lost Articles, care this newspaper.

Willie's Hit Streak Clipped At 21

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Bruce held Willie Mays hitless for the first time in 21 games Thursday night, setting the San Francisco slugger down four times and aiding Marv Grissinger 19 points to 409 as Houston Colts defeated the National League-leading Giants 4-3.

Mays hit into a fielder's choice with two on in the first inning, lofted easy flies in the third and sixth and fouled to first in the eighth.

It was the first time Mays had been held hitless since April 16, when he was stopped by St. Louis' Curt Simmons in the third game of the season. In the last two games against Houston, Mays has collected only one hit in eight at-bats while his average has plummeted from .478.

Los Angeles Dodgers swept a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 6-4 in 10 innings and 5-0. But ace lefty Sandy Koufax was unable to finish for the third straight game and was clipped in the four-run fourth innings of the opener. Don Drysdale, however, turned in a brilliant effort in the nightcap for the Dodgers, winning his fifth straight complete game with a four-hitter for a 5-0 victory.

Elsewhere, Richie Allen homered in the seventh inning for Philadelphia Phillies' 5-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets drubbed Milwaukee Braves 10-1. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

SURRENDERS A TRIPLE

Bruce, 31, a right-hander who brought his record to 4-1 with his decision over Colts, got him Hal Woodeshick, was tagged for a two-run triple in the sixth inning by Jim Hall and went into the seventh trailing 3-2.

The Colts tied it when Bob Shaw was touched for singles by Eddie Kasko and Nellie Fox before forcing in a run by walking Al Spangler and Walt Bond. When Shaw walked John Bateman in the eighth, Billy Pierce came on, but it was too late. Singles by Kasko and Spangler got the winning run home.

The Cubs bolted to a 4-0 lead against the Dodgers in the first game, three runs scoring on Ron Santo's homer. The Dodgers caught up in the eighth on Jim Gilliham's homer and won it in the 10th when Tommy Davis singled and Frank Howard hit his 11th homer.

In the nightcap, the Dodgers provided Drysdale with a 3-0 lead in the first two innings, cashing in on four stolen bases and five walks by Fred Norman. Davis stole three bases. Howard, who went five-for-eight for the day, wrapped up the scoring with a two-run single in the ninth.

Ernie Broglio was pitching a two-hit shutout for the Cardinals when the Phillies tied the score in the sixth with two runs. Singles by Tony Taylor and Allen plus two groundouts got one across before John Herrnstein singled in another. Allen's homer then won it. Jack Lamabe, now 4-1, with the aid of Ed Roebuck's relief help.

The Mets stroked 15 hits against Braves' starter Warren Spahn and three successors. Duck Smith slammed three key doubles for New York's attack. Hunt also chipped in with three hits. Spacy, now 2-3, left in the fifth inning after Joe Christopher banged a homer. The score was the Mets' highest of the season.

At Trenton Saturday

COSSA Quinte Track Meet

Trenton High School will play host to eastern district schools and some 375 athletes in the annual running of the Bay of Quinte District High School track and field meet tomorrow.

In order that the 42 running events and the 24 field events can be run off with this large entry the activities will get underway at 9.30 a.m. and conclude with the presentation of awards at centre field at 4.45 p.m.

Both defending champion Trenton High School and runner-up from Moira Secondary School have entered strong teams. All other schools will have top notch performers competing and given good weather conditions several records should fall.

Each year more and more interested students, parents and other interested adults attend the meets to cheer for their favorites. It is expected that this year so even greater number of spectators will be on hand.

Those competitors finishing in the first four places in any junior, intermediate, or senior event will compete in the Central Ontario Secondary School Association meet to be held at McLaughlin Collegiate in Oshawa on May 23rd.

In the meet district competitors will vie for top honors with the best from the Peterborough and Oshawa areas.

Hunter cleared the mark on his second attempt to better the previous mark of 6 feet 3½ inches set by Dave Dorgan of Smith Falls, Ont., at Montreal in 1961.

Bobby Hull Runner-Up

Beliveau Hart Memorial Winner

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League's premier award for individual performance—the MVP—has gone to a fellow who wanted to shunk it all before last season.

Jean Beliveau was named Thursday as the Hart Memorial Trophy winner for the 1963-64 season.

JEAN BELIVEAU

"I'll definitely be back next year," said Beliveau from Quebec City in a telephone interview. "It's hard to say how long I'll play hockey. I haven't set any definite limit."

The award—for the player "adjuged to be most valuable to his team"—was the second for Beliveau, who won the 1955-56 honors.

But he spent a troubled spring last year in the wake of a so-so season, gnawed by doubts of his own ability.

He wanted to quit. But he was persuaded to give it another whirl by Senator Hartland Molson, owner of the club.

Jean's wizardry, notably in the first half of the schedule, launched the club towards a surprise first-place finish. He injured his hand at the midway point. That made stickhandling painful for him. He continued to play, his effectiveness discernibly reduced.

SCORED 28 GOALS

He wound up the season with 28 goals and 78 points but the second-half letdown cost him a place on the first all-star team. Chicago's Stan Mikita beat him out.

The first-half bundle of points the 32-year-old Beliveau drew for the Hart was enough to push him in with room to spare in that particular competition.

He picked up 82 points of a possible 90 for the first 35 games and piled up 102 over-all Bobby Hull of Chicago was runnerup with 58 and Detroit's Gordie Howe was third with 50.

In fourth spot with 43 was Charles Hodge, the Montreal goalie who bumped aside Gump Worsley for the job after the Gumper was hurt early in the season. All 43 came for his second-half effort.

Other players to attract the selectors with points bracketed: Mikita (30); Glenn Hall, Chicago (28); Ken Wharram, Chicago (3); Terry Sawchuk, Detroit (3); Johnny Bower, Toronto (3); Eddie Johnston, Boston (2); Tim Horton, Toronto (2); Frank Mahovlich, Toronto (1); Murray Oliver, Boston (1); Jacques Plante, New York (1).

The Hart carries $1,000 and Beliveau also gets $250 as first-half leader in the ballpring. Hull's runnerup position is worth $500 and $250 goes to Hodge as second-half front-man.

Heavily Backed

'Santa Claus' Derby Favorite

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — With the English Derby less than three weeks away, it's beginning to look as though all Ireland believes in Santa Claus.

Stacks of money are accumulating on the English-bred bay colt with the Christmassy name, and if the betting binge continues he'll go to the post at Epsom June 3 one of the warmest choices in years.

For months, Santa Claus has headed the futures book list, hovering around the 12-to-1 mark. This week a "ton of money" forced the price down to 7-to-1. Without Santa Claus even mowing an equine whisker, the bookies are predicting he'll wind up 3-to-1 favorite by race day.

There's one big if. Santa Claus's genial reputation rests on one remarkable race last season. All the inspired betting of the last few days is based on stable whispers. Now Santa Claus has to deliver the package. In his first race of 1964 scheduled for Saturday.

This is the Irish Two Thousand Guineas, a one-miler to be run at the Curragh near Dublin on the same day as the English Two Thousand Guineas.

The Irish Two Thousand Guineas is the first of the Irish Triple Crown classics for three-year-olds and Sunday is select a three-man fencing team to represent Canada at the Olympic Games at Tokyo. Events will be staged in the three Olympic categories, foils, epee and sabre.

'Northern Dancer' Second Choice 2-1

'Hill Rise' Favorite 7-5

By ORLO ROBERTSON

BALTIMORE (AP) — Canada's Northern Dancer and Hill Rise, the David and Goliath of horse racing's three - year - old division, meet again Saturday in the 89th running of the $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico with every indication of a repeat of their Kentucky Derby stretch duel.

Northern Dancer, a mighty Canadian-bred mile owned by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor, won the Derby in record time of two minutes flat for the miles. He covered the last quarter in 24 seconds.

Hill Rise, the California-owned flash, also was under the Derby record and ran the final quarter mile in 23 2-5 seconds but lost the decision by a neck.

Four, other sharply - trained challengers, the Scoundrel, Roman Brother, Quadrangle and Big Pete—will oppose the fearsome twosome in the 1 3-16-mile race before a crowded house of 39,000 and a North American television audience.

Post time is 5:45 p.m. EDT, with CBC television and radio coverage.

HILL RISE IS CHOICE

Hill Rise, carrying the hopes of George D. Widener Jr.'s El Peco Ranch, has been made the 7-to-5 choice, just as he was in the Derby, with Northern Dancer second in the line at 2 to 1. It wouldn't be surprising to see him go off at close to co-choices.

The Dancer gained his advantage in the Derby when jockey Bill Hartack found a hole five feet wide at a mile from the finish and came thundering on the Nearctic into a quick lead.

Backers of Hill Rise figure Willie Shoemaker will not let Hartack get such an advantage this time since the field is much smaller and the El Peco colt will have plenty of room to stretch his long legs.

In the draw for places in the starting gate, Big Pete got No. 1 with Roman Brother No. 2, Quadrangle No. 3, Northern Dancer No. 4, The Scoundrel No. 5 and Hill Rise on the outside.

The forecast is for clear and warm weather and, a fast track.

56 Still Eligible

'Dancer' Tops Plate Field

TORONTO (CP) — Northern Dancer, The Kentucky Derby winner from the E. P. Taylor, Windfields Farm in Toronto, heads a list of 56 three-year-olds still eligible for the 100th running of the Queen's Plate at suburban Woodbine Track Saturday, June 30.

The Dancer, second betting choice behind Hill Rise for the Preakness at Baltimore Saturday, was 6-5 favorite in the Plate winter book, the shortest price in the history of the race.

This week, horsemen paid $100 a head to keep the Canadian - bred eligible for the Plate, North America's oldest continuously-run race. It was the third subscription since Dec 15, 1963, when 333 horses were nominated for the 1964 Canadian classic.

Northern Dancer was the first Canadian-bred to win the Derby in its 90-year history. The Preakness is the second jewel in North America's triple crown. The third is the Belmont at New York on Saturday, June 6, just two weeks before the Plate.

The Preakness is over 1 3-16 miles, the Belmont 1½ miles and the Plate 1¼ miles.

Twins Clobber White Sox 15-7

Mincher Hits Four Homers In 5 Games

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vic Power used to b Minnesota's starting first baseman.

Along came outfielder Tony Oliva, and Power was the Twins' No. 2 first baseman. Now comes Don Mincher, and Power again may be a starting first baseman—for some other team.

Mincher's recent slugging feats have made the veteran Power even more expendable than he was when Oliva's presence forced outfielder Bob Allison to first base.

Mincher hit his fourth home run in five games Thursday as the Twins clobbered Chicago White Sox 15-7.

Power probably is the best defensive first baseman in the American League. But rookie Oliva is hitting even better than expected while slugging Mincher and Jimmie Hall and Harmon Killebrew are producing at their usual run pace.

With Mincher acting as though he wants in on a good thing, Twins manager Sam Mele finds himself with five power hitters for four positions. That doesn't leave much room for Power, who conceivably could bring Minnesota a badly-needed pitcher in a trade.

HAS HIT FOUR HOMERS

The first baseman has hit three of his last four homers with two runners on base. He blasted Thursday, one of six for the Twins, who got four of three runs.

Only two other games were played in the American League, Washington Senators downed Baltimore Orioles 4-1 and Detroit Tigers halted New York Yankees 7-3.

Killebrew, routed two homers for the night, one with two on base. Allison, Rich Rollins and Vic Versalles also connected.

Rollins wound up driving in five runs on his fifth home and two on a double.

Despite the Twins' onslaught Larry Peters and Eddie Fisher, starter Gerry Arrigo was forced from the game in the fifth inning after Chicago got to him for five runs and nine hits. Tom McCraw hit a two-run homer for the White Sox in the ninth.

Don Zimmer cracked a grand slam home run for all of Washington's runs as Baltimore's Robin Roberts suffered his first setback in three decisions. Zimmer's blast in the third followed Bill Skowron's single and Doug Camilli's double.

Detroit trailed the Yankees 3-2 going into the seventh. Then the Tigers erupted for five runs after two were out. Don Wert singled home the tying-run and Steve Hamilton's wild pitch with the bases loaded sent home the deciding tally.

Two Tigers added three runs on singles by Dick McAuliffe and George Thomas.

New York's lead, taken a 2-0 lead in the sixth on Tom Tresh's triple and Joe Pepitone's double.

Ability To Adjust

Hartack 'One of Greatest'

By ORLO ROBERTSON

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bill Hartack built an image as horse racing's surliest figure and it has stuck to him like a pair of shin that-he has turned it into a script.

That's the opinion of Chick Lang, who came out of the West Virginia hill-mile tracks with Hartack and served as his agent during the controversial jockey's most prosperous years. They parted company in 1960.

Lang is director of racing at Pimlico, where Hartack will ride Northern Dancer in Saturday's Preakness. He won the Kentucky Derby with the Canadian-owned colt two weeks ago.

"Bill's no good — no good," said Lang. "In fact we are friends, although in a little different way than when I was hustling mounts for him. I just happen to believe he is one of the greatest riders of our time. If I trained or owned a horse the first person I would look for to ride him would be Hartack."

Lang said he would rate Hartack, Willie Shoemaker and Manuel Ycaza as the three best riders today.

"Hartack always has wanted to be the best," said Lang. "He is not content with mediocrity. I can recall when we hit the big time he was determined to be the No. 1 jockey at every track he raced in quarter and gave it.

"He has a terrific mind—a clever one. It's necessary he'll ride an entirely different race in the Preakness than he did in the Derby. He has that great ability to adjust himself to racing conditions and mounts."

NO RISE TO LIFE

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Experts are considering the use of an atomic blast to deepen a harbor at Geraldton, 300 miles north of here. Jacksonville radioactive material liberated would be limited and there would be no risk to human or marine life, the experts said.

Nixon Hurls Leafs To 5-2 Victory

TORONTO (CP) — Rookie righthander Ken Nixon hurled four-hit ball for 8 1-3 innings Thursday night to lead Toronto Maple Leafs to a 5-2 victory over Columbus Jets in an international League game before 1,134 fans.

It was the only game played of four scheduled with the others postponed because of either wet grounds or rain.

Nixon, who won his third straight, pitched shutout ball going into the ninth inning when he ran into trouble, giving up a solo homer to Ron Brand, a walk and a single.

He was replaced by left-hander Don Rudolph who had no trouble getting the final two outs to preserve the victory.

Leafs scored all the runs they needed in the second inning when five hits produced three runs. Nixon supplied the big blow of the inning, slamming out a two-run double.

Toronto's other two runs came on solo homers by Jim McKnight in the third inning and Bobby Del Greco in the sixth. For McKnight it was his seventh homer of the season and his 24th run batted in, both totals lead the league.

Losing pitcher was Columbus starter Jack Kenney, who was moved in Toronto's second-inning rally in favor of Dick Lines.

Columbus shortstop Julio Gotay left the game in the second inning after crashing into the wall in an unsuccessful attempt to catch a pop foul. Latest report said Gotay will be out of action for at least two weeks with a badly cut right knee cap which required 18 stitches to repair.

THE Arnold Palmer METHOD

PROPER CLUBHEAD PATH PRODUCES STRAIGHT SHOTS

There are two basic causes for shots that fail to fly straight. One causes a backhanded shot in not looking at the target when it meets the ball. The second causes a crooked shot, which I wish to discuss today, is an improper clubhead path to the ball-flying area.

As I show, the proper path your clubhead should take through the ball, I hope that it serves from inside to along the target line. This path produces club-ball contact that applies backspin to the ball (2). This backspin will not only make the ball rise, but stop it by straight.

In 3, the golfer is swinging along an improper clubhead path. This one moves from outside to inside to out, get line and produces a cutting action on the ball. This cutting action (4) results in slicing, or also, spin on the ball. A left to right shot must result if the ball was struck with a square clubface.

US Stars Get Dander Up

'Court, Love' Doesn't Mean Tennis Sex

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. tennis colony got its dander up today over suggestions that "love" is something more than a score on the net circuit.

The boys and girls who swing rackets are no looser with sex than any other breed of athletes, almost all court personalities insisted.

"Love comes from the French word 'foeuf,' meaning 'egg' or 'nothing,'" said veteran Gardner Mulloy of Miami.

"Bobby Wilson laid an egg when he started talking about the morals of tennis players."

Wilson, a member of the British Davis Cup team, got the tennis crowd in a tizzy with claims that high jinks run rampant on the international tour.

Wilson, in his book My Side of the Net, said moral standards in the world of tennis were not good and he wouldn't let a teen-age daughter of his go on the circuit without a chaperone.

The British ace said once, while he was playing in New York, a woman telephoned him and said she wanted to spend the night with him. Another time, he said, a New York country club lined up a group of debutantes and told visiting tennis players to take their pick. A young tennis starlet who needed money, he added, worked as a stripteaser.

"I'm surprised at Bobby saying such things," said Mulloy, who at 50 continues to make lady fans swoon. "He is a very timid boy. I imagine some girl got overly friendly with him and he was shocked, saying 'why, we don't do this in Britain.'

"But they do. Anywhere in Europe, you'll find moral standards lower than our own. The code is different."

Bill Talbert, former U.S. Davis Cup captain, said he found wild partying generally confined to players who shouldn't be on the tour.

"The top players, both men and women, steer clear of such goings-on," he added. "They want to get to bed early so they'll be in shape for the big match the next day."

Mrs. Gladys Heldman, publisher and editor of World Tennis magazine, agreed, saying:

"If there are any romances, they're usually legitimate—like Sergio Tacchini of Italy and Pierrette Seghers of France. They got married and are having a baby."

Karol Fageros of Miami, the one-time golden goddess whose gold lace panties raised tennis eyebrows, said Wilson's comments "hit the devil out of me.

"Bobby is a pipsqueak, a mama's boy. What does he know about it? most tennis players discipline themselves strictly. Generally, the morals are very high—nothing more promiscuous than a game of bridge or a movie."

But one U.S. star who declined use of his name said:

"Bobby's right. This is the only sport in the world where you can travel the world at someone else's expense and have a private harem."

"Ball Looks Bigger"

'Don't Tell Me, Let Me Play' Says Willie

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays' early season attack on Roger Maris' home run record and his threat to become the first in 33 years to hit .400 has the baseball fans agog.

No one is as excited about Mays' batting feats as Willie himself. The brilliant San Francisco Giant centrefielder is fighting to prevent his true feelings from cropping out.

A wonderfully co - operative person, Mays has to use the utmost restraint to avoid being rude as he parries questions about his chances of finishing with a .400 batting average or bettering Maris' 61 home runs over the course of a 162-game season.

"I'm like this," he explained. "If I'm going to break a record please don't tell me. If I'm thinking about doing something real bad, it won't do it. Some one comes up to me and says 'if you get a hit today, it will be your 2,000th' you can bet I won't get the hit.

'LET ME PLAY'

"Don't tell me things like that. Just let me go and play. Don't tell me nothing and I don't think about it and then I do it.

"I'm not doing anything different but somehow the ball looks bigger coming into the plate."

There is another explanation although Mays is reluctant to talk about it. At 33 and with 12 full seasons behind him, Willie opened this season in his best frame of mind since his rookie year as the laughing Say-Hey kid of 30 in 1951.

Mosca Blasts Riders

OTTAWA (CP) — Angelo Mosca, the burly lineman with Hamilton's Tiger - Cat football club, has thrown a couple of rough verbal tackles at Ottawa's two best-known football personalities—quarterback Russ Jackson and coach Frank Clair of the Rough Riders.

Mosca says Jackson is overrated and has a stereotyped performance and Clair's coaching success is mostly due to the work of assistant coach Bill Smyth.

The remarks were made on a television program taped for showing tonight on the CBC's Ottawa station.

Jackson, a Canadian, was voted the outstanding football player in Canada last year. He was the first time a Canadian got the nod. Clair has long been rated one of the best football coaches in the country.

Clair traded Mosca off to Montreal Alouettes three years ago.

South Africa Wins Davis Cup Round

OSLO (AP)—Guarded by a police cordon to prevent further anti - segregation demonstrations, South Africa's Davis Cup tennis team won two matches from Norway Thursday and clinched a place in the European zone quarter-finals.

Cliff Drysdale, South Africa's No. 1 player, took the delayed second singles match from Sjur Hansen, an inexperienced young amateur, 8-3, 6-0, 6-2. Then Drysdale and Keith Diesprau took the doubles from Hansen and Fin Dag 6-1, 6-4, 10-8, giving South Africa an unbeatable 3-0 lead.

The first singles match Wednesday had to be shifted to a distant court because of violent demonstrations against South Africa's policy of racial segregation in sports. About 50 youths were arrested.

INCOME DOUBLES

Canada's income from tourism has doubled in the last 10 years. Increasing to $602,000,000 in 1963.

Minor Softball Results

The Belleville Minor Softball Association's squirt division games, postponed by rain on Wednesday, were played last night. Regular scheduled bantam division games were also played.

In the East Hill section of the squirt loop, Yankees tripped the Packers 13-9, while the Rams bumped the Brown by a 17-6 score. In another tilt Dodgers and Redskins failed to settle matters, ending up in an 11-11 tie. The Queen Elizabeth school grounds were still too wet for play, forcing a second postponement of Eagles-Bombers contest.

No scores were called in for the West Hill squirt games nor for bantam contests on either hill.

Is the Evinrude 40 strictly for swingers?

(like, what if you're 35 or so?)

Our Lark 40 is misunderstood.
Everybody thinks of her as a "hot" motor. A motor for skiing and racing and adventuring. Well.
She's very fast, yes.
And quick to the touch, yes.
She has an electric clutch and a push-button shift, yes.
But those aren't "hot" things. Not to us. They're ordinary Evinrude features that all outboards should have.
It hurts to tell, but our 40 is a sensible motor.
We've made her as close to noiseless as possible. We've cut vibration to almost nothing. We've developed a marvellous fuel-saving throttle that makes her awfully cheap to run.
We've improved her over many years, in a hundred ways. Now she stands up to bigger, costlier motors, and beats them hands down.
So don't let Lark's swashbuckling reputation fool you.
She's a lady.

By JUSTICE ALEXANDER

DURBAN (AP)—Two square-lipped white rhinos, a species of wild life that was almost extinct 44 years ago, have left South Africa by sea on a 3,500-mile journey to Canada's Alberta game farm, near Edmonton.

The animals, reared in Natal's vast Umfolozi game reserve where summer temperatures reach 100 degrees and more, will begin a new life—and a Canadian family of rhinos—in latitudes where winter temperatures can plummet to 50 degrees below zero.

Of the estimated 900 white rhino in existence, they will be the most distant from the Equator, north or south.

But Al Oeming, Canadian wild life conservationist and founder of the Alberta game farm, has no fears for the survival of his burly new charges. His game park, a 1,000-acre reserve of natural grass and woodland, already contains species of contented African animal life—camels, eland and zebras.

Watching the two rhinos being hoisted aboard the freighter Thorsope in Durban Harbor, Oeming said: "They will be acclimatized to our conditions. The rhinos will reach Alberta in the Canadian spring. They have wonderful summer grazing—and temperatures of 85 degrees—so they will be deep in fat when winter comes.

GRAZING AMPLE

"And when it gets really cold they will have the use of insulated stables if they feel the need for shelter."

The two rhinos will live in as near natural surroundings as is possible at the game farm. There will be nothing to restrict or hem them in as has been done with elephants and other great creatures of the bush in some parts of the world.

Oeming has set aside 12 acres of grassland, on which white rhino graze, for the two animals. There will also be muddy holes in which they love to wallow. He has sent a site plan to Alberta so the rhino location will be prepared by the time the animals arrive.

The Natal parks board selected two perfect specimens to help Oeming establish Canada's own rhino colony. The animals were skillfully brought down with drugged darts and put into massive steel - strengthened crates for the journey by road to Durban and the long sea voyage to Canada.

ROCKED CRATE

Docile though they may sometimes appear to be, rhinos resent unfavorably to fuss in any form. It was clear at Durban docks that one of Oeming's latest acquisitions was not at all impressed about going abroad.

Weighing 3,300 pounds and in a temper, 5½-year-old Thombotini (small bush) stamped about in his crate and rocked a three-ton motor truck as though it were a toy. African dock laborers handling the crate fled in terror. A nonchalant Zulu foreman brought them back, trembling.

Stressing the crane cables at 2,800 pounds, 4½-year-old Gabetuga (the name means faithful country) took it all as a lady should. She reclined heavily against the side of her crate, studying the changing scene through the partly decked-in roof.

The white square - lipped rhino, hunted by African tribesmen and European settlers, had almost disappeared by 1920, when there were only an estimated 20 in existence. Stern protective measures were imposed by the Natal parks board and today the species has increased to some 900 animals.

Existing reserves cannot provide for so many and the board has embarked on a policy of sending them to other sanctuaries in southern Africa and elsewhere. The Alberta game park is one.

Oeming, in turn, is to ship between 40 and 50 reindeer, moose and Canadian antelope to South Africa for the Pretoria Zoo. They will be brought by sea to Cape Town and flown to the South African capital by aircraft.

Two Traditional Rescuers Of Pets From Poles Bow Out

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Cat owners are bothered and bewildered in Auckland because the two traditional rescuers of pets from poles have bowed out. The local fire brigade started it by declaring that it would rescue no more cats from on high. Its job was to put out fires, said the fire brigade, and if it was always busy extracting cats from difficulties it could not attend to more urgent business.

The brigade advised people wanting cats rescued to telephone the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Within a couple of days, the SPCA implored cat lovers not to get in touch with it over cats up poles.

The society said its inspectors were not allowed to climb poles because of danger of electrocution. It had been inundated with calls to rescue cats, said the society, and had been roundly abused for not complying, but the fact was that the law prohibited its men from pole rescues.

TREES OKAY

It gave one shred of comfort to cat owners, however. The society said it was willing to extract pets from trees and such places.

That left cat owners still seeking a knight errant. The role has been assumed, within defined limits, by the local electric power board and the post office, which controls telephones in New Zealand.

Both say they are willing to get cats down from their own poles, but not from the poles owned by the other organization.

Telephone repair men are not permitted to climb electric power poles and Power Board linesmen are slow to rescuing cats from telephone poles.

The post office says a cat will usually bring a telephone repair man to rescue within half an hour—if a dog proves to be a telephone pole.

The Power Board says it is not legally compelled to get cats down from electric power poles, but any such request will be "treated on its merits."

So now all a cat lover in Auckland has to do is to determine whether the thing their pet is clinging to is a dead tree, a power pole or a telephone pole, ring the appropriate agency, hope the diagnosis is correct, and then wait to see if the call is duly treated on its merits.

ANNUAL BANQUET

FRANKFORD — The annual father and son banquet of the 1st Frankford Cubs, Scouts and Rovers was held on Friday evening in the Frankford United Church hall. More than 150 father and sons of all ages enjoyed a delicious dinner served by the mothers.

Group committee chairman, Lloyd Adams called the meeting to order and the Rev. C. R. Judd, minister of the United Church said grace.

RESUME OF SCOUTING

After the toast to the Queen, the chairman welcomed the gathering and gave a resume of the Scouting organization in Frankford, appealing to all the fathers to get behind the Scout movement and help out in whatever way possible. He reminded his listeners that Scouting especially within the Cubbing age, was not just a means of getting rid of the youngster for the evening. The leaders were not baby-sitters for a couple of hours every week. Their aims were creating the best training possible to become self reliant, able to work and play with other boys, and in the end become better citizens.

INTRODUCES GUESTS

The chairman introduced the head-table guests, among whom were the District Chairman of the Presqu'ile District, Mr. W. J. (Scotty) Broughton; Mr. Stewart Kilbank, the District Cubmaster; Group Captain C. R. Thompson, Commanding Officer of No. 6 R.D. RCAF Trenton; and District Chairman of the RCAF District Council of Boy Scouts, Mr. H. J. Madill, honorary chairman of the Frankford Group Committee and the first Scoutmaster of Frankford Boy Scouts.

QUEEN'S SCOUT

The highlight of the evening was when Stewart Kilbank presented Scouter Carl Brooks his Queen Scout badge. "This is a real honor, on that, you have earned in becoming a Queen's Scout," Group Captain C. R. Thompson told the Scouter, as he handed him his award "A Queen Scout earns his first class badge by being a first class Scout with proven ability. "Since 1908 after the award a first class Scout must show himself to be aware of his Queen's Scout responsibility," said the Group Captain. "He must continue to pass a physical fitness examination every year. He must be proficient in two of the following: falconer, despatch rider, pilot, rescuer, signaller an doctress". "Yet the establishment of this honor is only the first step, with its acceptance goes a responsibility which must be lived up to in every minute. Such a man in the public eyes has a responsibility of showing what is the best in Scouting.

Group Captain Thompson was introduced by Group Committee secretary J. A. Stickle and thanked by chairman Lloyd Adams.

District Chairman Scotty Broughton brought greetings from the Presqu'ile District Council of Boy Scouts. He spoke for a few minutes to the fathers, outlining a few responsibilities they should accept towards the Scouting organization in Frankford.

After a short intermission, allowing ladies to clear up the tables, a sing-song was conducted by assistant Cubmaster Neil Roots and Scouter Francis Stickle with all Scouts and Cubs participating as well as the fathers.

Cub Claire Pitcher proposed a toast, to the fathers. This was responded to by Mr. Bert Scobie. Mr. Preston Chase thanked the ladies for the banquet which was well prepared and served.

FINE PROGRAM

The program was made up of skits prepared and carried out by the Cubs. A recital by four Cubs. Each of the leaders gave a report of the activities within their sphere of Scouting. Cubmaster Charles Lawson, Scoutmaster Cornelius Fontyn and Rover Leader Kenneth Lawrence gave interesting resumes of their duties during the past year, and what they propose to do in the months to follow.

Secretary-treasurer J. A. Stickle gave the financial report for the year, and reminded everyone of the need for funds to carry on for the coming year. Generous response was essential in the collection of waste paper, peanut sales, apple day sales, the sale of cuff links and tie bar, each carrying the Cub emblem, in appreciation for his services while he was Cubmaster, on behalf of the Group Committee.

The 1st Frankford Boy Scouts now have more than 80 cubs, scouts and Rovers, as well as leaders registered with the Provincial Headquarters Boy Scouts of Canada in Toronto. At a recent meeting of the National Council in Ottawa, Lieut-General Howard D. Graham was elected president of the National Council, Boy Scouts of Canada.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

Committeeman Allan Larder presented a slate of officers and committeeman for the coming year, each person having been previously contacted. The new chairman will be: Mr. Mike Boyarchuk, vice-chairman, Mr. Allan Larder, secretary Treasurer, J. A. Stickle. The committeemen consists of 22 fathers of Scouts and Cubs.

Liberals Want Fall Date For Convention

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario Liberal executive management committee voted 43 to 3 Thursday in favor of setting a fall date for the party's provincial leadership convention.

The recommendation, on the eve of the party's two-day annual meeting, was expected to meet strong opposition — from members favoring a convention next spring.

No definite date was set, but officials said the meeting would probably be held Sept. 17-18.

Charles Templeton, a former Toronto newspaper executive who is expected to announce his candidacy today, said the earlier date would not give party members time to assess the abilities of candidates.

Andrew Thompson, member for Toronto Dovercourt, has already announced he intends to run. Robert Nixon, member for Brant, is expected to announce his candidacy after his term as party president ends Saturday.

Creative People in TV Obsolete Says Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Creative people — artistic people — in television are as obsolete as buggy whips," said writer Roger O. Hirson. "And now that it is being flooded with second rate stuff, the people responsible are going to kill it the way the big studios killed movies with all the grade B and C stuff."

Hirson is one of the handful of major writers and directors that produced some of TV's most memorable moments. Almost all have quit the medium in favor of Broadway or Hollywood — Paddy Chayevsky, Tad Mosel, Horton Foote, Fred Coe and a few others. Hirson, with a Broadway show now in the works, has not written a television show for almost 18 months. This Sunday, however, his Don't Go Upstairs, will be broadcast on NBC's Show of the Week.

But Show of the Week, one of the last anthology shows on television, will die at the end of this season.

ARE REALLY WESTERNS

Hirson said almost every television dramatic show is "really a western in another setting." But, he says, "I think it wrong to leave television to the hacks and the business men," he said, "I don't think good creative people should abdicate."

Motion pictures, he noted, "before they get good again" when the industry began to feel the pressures of television.

"Maybe pay-TV will be the force to improve commercial television," he suggested.

Scholar Lucille Ball Is 'Girl Line Graduate'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The eminent scholar, Lucille Ball, visited the University of California at Los Angeles to present the annual Samuel Goldwyn Creative Writing Award.

Instead of academic robes, she wore a smartly tailored suit. Before the ceremonies, she donned glasses to pore over some notes. She was interrupted by a reporter.

"Dr. Ball, where did you matriculate?" She was asked.

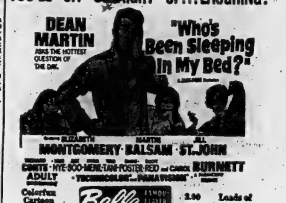
"I never did that in my life," she replied.

"But where did you get your degree?"

"Oh," she said. "Well, I graduated from the Goldwyn girl line."

"Let's see, that was class of '39."

"We won't go into that."



"And how far did you get in school?"

"Me? I never even finished eighth grade. I couldn't wait to get into show business, and at that time show business meant vaudeville."

ADMITS BEING NERVOUS

She confessed a nervousness about the upcoming program. "These things terrify me," said the star of the Lucy Show. "How can I talk for 10 minutes? Now if it was an hour and a half, I wouldn't worry."

Canadians Plan Mass Exodus To Resorts Over Holiday

— By THE CANADIAN PRESS —

Transportation companies are bracing for a landslide of travel reservations as Canadians plan a mass exodus tonight to resorts and neighboring cities for the first long weekend of the cottage season.

At the same time many Ontario Day celebrants will travel highway during the Victoria Day holiday, handing a major problem o police and safety officials.

The Canadian Highway Safety council did not make its customary death toll prediction this year, but an average of 38 persons have died in traffic mishaps in the three-day holiday during the last eight years.

While weekend holiday activities are planned in many areas, few will have any particular connection with Queen Victoria or the reigning monarch. In the Quebec town of Drummondville, a group of students plans to hold political studies rather than celebrate the queen's birthday. Liberal MP Jean - Luc Pepin has been asked to address the group.

Many banks, government, federal, provincial and municipal offices per court offices will close and about 95 per cent of commercial and industrial firms have indicated their staffs will get the holiday with pay.

Transportation officials say Toronto will have the biggest exodus of travellers if extra scheduling is any s t a n d a r d. Trans-Canada Air Lines said 60 extra flights in and out of the city have been scheduled, including four transatlantic flights.

Montreal and New York will also be getting the bulk of the out- Railway and bus company officials have also indicated that travel will be heavy to resort areas and other points. Extra vehicles are to be put into service.

In Ontario, under sunny skies, temperatures are to be slightly above the normal at maximum for this time of year.

A round of official ceremonies is planned for Monday.

Astrological Forecasts

By SYDNEY OMARR

For May 16

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get messages, communications in order. Don't neglect those who have been "waiting." Adds up to being considerate — and careful. Be sure that what you say is correctly interpreted!

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Fine opportunity for enhancing security. Be receptive to creative ideas. Be "warm" toward loved ones. Associate may appear gloomy. Don't permit this attitude to influence you! Continue to be confident.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20): Take advantage of opportunity to express yourself. Includes writing, visiting, speaking. Come out of shell. Speak up and be heard! Accept added responsibility. Money is heading your way!

Cancer (June 21 to July 22): Finish what you start. Resist temptation to delay. Cycle remains high — but you have arrived at moment of truth. Time to "close the sale," complete plans. Fine evening in store . . enjoy it!

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22): You bask in spotlight of attention. Remember to mix modesty with self-confidence. Others look deep — many set questions. Turn on Leo charm. Be tactful — but keep tight hold on your individuality.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 23): Probe, investigate. Say yes to travel opportunity. Fine evening for making contacts. Emphasize interests in out-of-ordinary subjects. Your intuition now zings astonishingly true. Listen to it!

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Flamboyant claims expose weakness. Be specific. Friends are sympathetic. They want you to succeed. But don't set goals so high they are impossible to reach. Preach and practice common sense.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Check details. Find out the why of things. Be suspicious of one who refuses to answer direct questions. Good lunar aspect highlights opportunities for greater talents. Be aware, alert.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Obtain hints from Virgo. Scorpio messages. Emphasize opportunities for chance, travel, variety. Member of opposite sex due to encourage your creative interests. Wonderful evening for romance.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19): Pressure lifts. You will have more freedom of action. Money questions can be settled in your favor — but consult partner — marital or business. Harmony at home is of utmost importance.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18): Emphasis on public reaction to your efforts. Realize you cannot please everyone. Be practical, sincere in approach. That way you put across valuable points. Avoid needless anxiety.

Pisces (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20): Remember past promises — to yourself as well as others. Much that was obscured earlier now comes to light. Added knowledge means added power. Day features solid accomplishment.

If today is your birthday . . . you have unusual ability to get to heart of matter — to analyze and draw definite, accurate conclusions.

General Tendencies: Cycle high for Leo, Virgo, Libra. Special word to Aquarius: Take with grain of salt fabulous promises made by associate who, perhaps, is less than sincere.

Training for Technicians Obtainable at Hospital

A two-year training course for the interesting career of a radiological technician is available right here in Belleville for a limited number of high school graduates looking for a rewarding hospital career.

The school of X-ray technology under the direction of Dr. Peter Loder, is one of three training courses carried on at Belleville General Hospital. The others are the school of nursing and the course for laboratory technicians.

The X-ray technician in a hospital is responsible for the preparation of patients for x-ray examination or treatment.

He, or she, is responsible for the taking of x-ray films or radiographs for diagnostic purposes or for the use of x-rays or other ionizing raditions in the treatment of disease.

The technician's work entails:

1. Positioning the patient so that the part of the body being examined will show to the best advantage of the film.

2. Making the correct exposure of x-rays to produce this image.

3. Developing and processing the resultant films, marking them properly for identification purposes.

4. Filing all films and records in connection with his work.

There are many specialized examinations of such areas as the heart, brain, lungs and spine performed by more experienced technicians, often under operating room conditions, which offer a stimulating challenge to anyone following this career. Just as important though are the routine examinations of almost any part of the human body which are carried out daily in an x-ray department.

The student applicant must have Secondary School graduation diploma, with four options including mathematics and science.

Students provide their own room and board while taking the course but a monthly stipend of $100 per month is provided to assist the student in meeting the cost of training.

PLAN DEMONSTRATION

MONTREAL (CP) — French-language secondary school students have announced they will demonstrate Monday to have the Montreal Roman Catholic school commission and Quebec government authorities designate the weekend holiday in future as Dollard des Ormeaux Day. Des Ormeaux is a hero of French-Canada who led an Indian attack at Long Sault on the Ottawa River in the 17th century.

ELLIOTT MOTORS

Building part of the new Elliott Motors is just about finished and work now is concentrated on landscaping and installing equipment. The flagstone front is being put in now, gas pumps are in the final stage of installation, and some of the office furniture is stacked up in the main service area. A second floor has been added to one side of the quick-service area, to be used for tire storage. This involved no outside addition to the building. The area where the floor was added already had about 14 feet of headroom, so the second floor is little more than an overgrown shelf. It will be reached by movable steps and will be equipped with a hoist for lifting the tires into place.

SUN VALLEY MOTEL

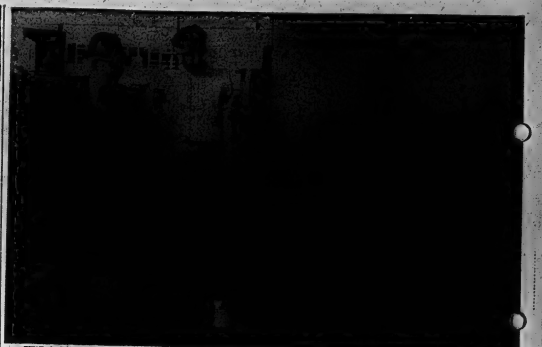
The white frame house in front of the Sun Valley Motel has been moved at last, but not to its final location. Jack Meier of Campbellford supplied equipment for the move. Original plans called for the house to be used as the manager's residence, and to be placed on North Park St. immediately behind the motel. Plans are indefinite now — the house may be used for the maintenance staff instead, and for the time being it is parked on a lot south of the motel until the architect decides where to put it.

McFARLAND CONSTRUCTION

McFarland's asphalt plant at the yards just north of the city was fired up last week, for just a few days' run to provide some hot mix and cold mix for the patches going on city streets. The firm won't swing into regular operation, though, for a week or two. First jobs when things start happening will be along Highway 401, east of Marysville, and at RCAF Station Trenton.

YMCA BUILDING

Hugh Murray's men are landscaping and washing the final finishing touches now on the new YMCA building. The Y plans to move in during the last week of the month. First step is a coffee party and tour May 31, for all Y leaders, instructors, committee members, etc. Directors will be hosts for the affair. Plans are for a "Learn to Swim" program to start June first.



BELLEVILLE TOWERS

Stairs went into the Belleville Towers apartment building, at Victoria and George Sts., last week and the roof may be poured today. The elevator may be installed starting next week, and the building may be ready for occupancy during July. The work is coming along fast, but not as fast as supervisor Albert Bavan would have liked, because of a shortage of masons. For a building like this one, when enough masons are available, he likes to add a floor every five days or so, two days of bricklaying, he says, then one day to erect the steel and another day to pour concrete. The bricklayers can start again on the fifth day.

Suggest Canada Might Purchase Russian Oil

MOSCOW (CP-AP) — Two Canadian business executives have put forward as a possibility the purchase by Canada of Soviet oil in return for Canadian wheat sales to supply the eastern part of the Soviet Union.

This idea was expressed tentatively by James A. Richardson, vice-president of the Winnipeg grain company which bears his name, and by Charles B. Neapole, general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal, before a group of 38 Canadian businessmen left Moscow Thursday for Stockholm.

IT'S A STRIKE — Alderman John Deacon, left, pitches a strike as he throws the first ball at game played at Alemite Field this week. Minor Softball Play Opens With 900 Boys Participating

Some 900 young boys in the city have registered with the Minor Softball Association.

The Belleville Minor Softball Association opened its summer schedule this week. Opening ceremonies were conducted at No. 1 Fire Hall, Queen Mary School, Sir Winston Churchill School, King George School, Queen Elizabeth School and the Alemite field.

The games began on Monday night and have been played throughout the week with the exception of Wednesday when to the disappointment of all concerned, "the rains came down and the puddles came up".

A tremendous amount of enthusiasm has been shown in the association on the part of the parents, as the 900 boys who have registered thus far with the association are being coached by enthusiastic volunteers.

The majority of the playing fields have been renovated for this season's games and those that have not yet received a face-lifting are in the process of getting one.

The honor of throwing out the first balls at the various games was shared by members of city council, the Parks Board and the Recreation Committee.

Displaying some terrific pitching were such men as Aldermen Ben Corke, Frank Murray, Don Williams, Donato Jose, R. Bailey, J. Deacon, Enos David, Eugene Harrison, Douglas Boyle, Wm. Larvah, Don Templeman and Wm. Hurst.

Special mention should also be made to the coaches of these games. They include Bill Jess, Jim Payne, Tom Neill, Bob Probert, Gary Brown, Bob Cretney, Floyd Crawford, Lloyd Wallace, Harold England, Ron Lucas, Bob Lloyd, Richard Thompson, Ted Sprackett, Ernie Payne Palmer, Jack Peabody, John Turner, George Messer, Keith MacDonald, Len Woods, Bucky Ethier, Bob Ethier, Bill Old, Norm Peters, Bob Watte, Fred Roberts, Dale Denyes, Earl Cousins, Bill Miller, Mel Gariepy, Bill Ring, Bill Barrett, John Rivest, Eric Watkins, Paul Munns, Larry Dalphee, Ron Kristinsen, Ed Whyte, Stan Morton, Gord Hutchinson, Al Ruttan, Paul Ruttan, Ken Dalpee, Jack Herrington, George Rogers, Bill Bourette, Frank Nobile, Bob Richardson and Fred Jones.

President of the softball association, Roy Payne, said that the response for coaches has been very good but if there are any gentlemen who wish to assist in the program, their services and time will be appreciated.

CUBAN EXILES STAGE TWO LANDINGS

Leadership Battle Of Ont. Liberals On In Earnest

Nixon and Templeton Two New Candidates

TORONTO (CP)—The battle for the leadership of Ontario's Liberal party began in earnest today with the advent of two new and strong candidates—Charles Templeton, former evangelist and newspaper editor, and Robert Nixon (L-Brant).

Mr. Templeton, 48, told a press conference Friday night he will seek the leadership in the hope of revitalizing the party in the province.

He said he will launch his campaign immediately by making a speaking tour of ridings. He hopes for a spring, 1965, leadership convention instead of a convention this fall, which the Ontario Liberal Association is expected to decide on today.

Mr. Nixon, president of the association, told reporters he would announce his candidacy formally today after he relinquishes his executive post. The 36-year-old son of a former premier of Ontario, Mr. Nixon became the fourth official candidate in the race.

Mr. Templeton has no previous political experience. However, he said he will seek the (Liberal) nomination in Tyrrell Riverside riding, where a by-election is to be held before the fall session of the legislature.

VICTORY WOULD HELP

If the byelection is held before the leadership convention, victory in Riverside would greatly strengthen Mr. Templeton's chances of taking over the party vacated after the election defeat in September of John Robarts.

However, Mr. Templeton said he will attempt to run in Riverside even if the byelection is held after the leadership convention and even if his bid for the leadership is defeated.

Besides Mr. Nixon, two other members of the legislature already have declared their candidacies. They are Andy Thomson, Toronto Dovercourt, and G. Gould, Ottawa Brascondale.

Mr. Thompson 30, Belfast-born former social worker, is considered the favorite among members.

Govt. May Stake Life On Issue

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson flies to Winnipeg today for one of his most sensitive speaking engagements since assuming office 14 months ago.

With the issue of a distinctive Canadian flag in the forefront, the prime minister will address the Dominion command of the Royal Canadian Legion, leading advocate of the Red Ensign as Canada's national flag.

His speech will be delivered Sunday night, two days after it was revealed in Ottawa that the government intends to stake its life on the flag issue. The minority Liberal government favors a maple leaf design and Mr Pearson is expected to make this clear to the big Winnipeg assembly.

Sources close to the prime minister say he has been "extremely concerned" with the Winnipeg speech and has given it much thought. The legion actively campaigns for retention of the Red Ensign with the slogan: "This is Canada's flag; keep it flying."

Meanwhile, the government is believed to be almost ready to introduce legislation calling for a white flag featuring three red maple leaves and with probably two vertical blue bars at the sides.

And although the prime min-

Sunny and Warm Weather Will Welcome Canadians Over Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sunny and mild weather across most of Canada welcomed the start of the Victoria Day holiday.

Long lines of cars streamed from cities Friday night as thousands of cottage owners moved to open up their cottages for the summer season.

Highways were jammed and the first of an expected 40 traffic fatalities for the three-day weekend started to be recorded.

Boat, rail and plane depots were crowded, too, as Canadians flocked to other cities and resorts, some outside Canada.

The boom of 21-gun salutes in provincial capitals will compete with the din of firecrackers, the roar of horse and auto racing seasons and the whine of a white rhinoceros in Edmonton.

Ottawa is to uphold the commemorative aspect of the holiday with traditional observances and a ceremony on the city hall lawn Monday night.

The near-perfect weather forecast had police and safety officials worried about how high the accidental death toll might rise. By Monday night, the exodus of Friday will be reversed as surprising numbers go back into the cities and large towns.

A task force of more than 2,000 Ontario Provincial Police will patrol highways.

Most businesses and industries across the country will observe the holiday but there will be no rest for bus company, railway and airline employees.

In the Maritimes, transportation officials predicted the biggest rush since Christmas.

Ontario and Quebec were to enjoy seasonable temperatures in the 65-to-70-degree range. Some light showers were predicted in the resort areas of Ontario and in the Montreal region.

Across the Prairies and in British Columbia the forecast was for generally fair weather in the high 60s.

Today's Chuckle

If you don't think women are explosive, try dropping one.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: An area of cloud with scattered showers covered central Ontario this morning. This weather system will push slowly southward today and will be south of the lower Great Lakes Sunday. As a result, the weekend weather for southern Ontario will be dampened somewhat today and tonight with scattered showers and thundershowers but generally fair and seasonable weather will return again Sunday. Afternoon temperatures today and Sunday will range between the mid 60s and 70 in southern regions and about five to 10 degrees cooler in northern regions.

Members Head For Home

By RONALD LESEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of Parliament headed to their home constituencies Friday for the long Victoria Day weekend, painfully aware that their next holiday break may not come for weeks or months.

It an abbreviated four-hour sitting Friday, Prime Minister Pearson staggered the Commons with a "pre-summer list" of 34 bills the government would like to push through before a summer recess is even considered.

He said the timing of the recess and its length will depend on the progress of the legislative program, which includes at least 20 major items.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker accused the government of being unable to make up its mind on key issues and of planning the business of Parliament ineptly.

He said the prime minister's list was so long it would give Parliament an idea of the meaning of eternity."

Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste, Lapointe) referred to the fact that only six minor government measures have been passed in the first 64 sittings days of the session. The voters wanted action on overdue legislation, he said.

New Democratic Leader Douglas and Social Credit Leader Thompson both called for rule changes that would cut the time spent on each item.

Mr. Pearson's list covered constitutional amendments on pensions and retiring senators at age 75, creation of two departments of treasury and rural development, the Hamilton Harbor limit, redistribution and approval of fishery provisions.

MPs will start working on the backlog Tuesday when they resume the two-house study of income tax amendments. The next items will be an extension of the Canada Pension Plan to June 30, and the fishing-limit legislation.

The flag issue continued to rage during the question period Friday. Opposition MPs grilled Mr. Pearson on Toronto press reports that he has decided to introduce a distinctive maple leaf flag design in the Commons by Dominion Day and will threaten to resign if the move is defeated.

The prime minister said no decision has been made on the government on any particular design nor on the timing of the flag proposal. But the government is committed to propose a distinctive flag by next April, two years after taking office.

Most of Friday's sitting was devoted to consideration of spending estimates on such agriculture department and no progress was made.

Agriculture Minister Hays was criticized for allowing allegedly illegal patronage in various contracts and for cutting dairy subsidies.

Attendance in the chamber dwindled to about 30. The quorum in the 265-seat House is 20.

Parliament At a Glance

FRIDAY, May 15, 1964

Prime Minister Pearson said the government has not decided on a new flag design but it will be submitted to Parliament. He outlined a long list of legislation, which the government hopes to have completed before a summer recess.

Speaker Macnaughton cut out off Justice Minister Favreau on a question of privilege.

The Commons continued debate on agriculture department spending estimates for 1964-65.

TENANTS ON JOHNSON FARM — Charlie Cutler, 75, and his wife, Willie, 64, show newsmen three suits given to the Negro tenant farmer by President Johnson, whose wife owns the farm upon which they live. The Cutler family, and neighboring tenants, have come into prominence because of statements by two Republican congressmen about living conditions on Mrs. Johnson's property. Nelson Rockefeller Scores Upset in Oregon Primary

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller's stunning Oregon primary victory appears to have knocked Henry Cabot Lodge out of the running and to have put a new complexion on the Republican presidential nomination contest.

By topping Lodge and four other opponents in a free-for-all for Oregon's 18 convention votes the New York governor increased his hopes of winning California's 86 delegates and holding New York's 82 votes for the nomination.

With 2,624 of Oregon's 3,251 precincts counted, the Republican race stacked up this way: Rockefeller 34,560; Lodge 32,624; Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater 24,546; former vice-president Richard Nixon 23,016; Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine 3,547; Pennsylvania Governor William W. Scranton 3,213.

Rockefeller led with 32 per cent of the vote. Lodge had 27 per cent, Goldwater 18 per cent, Nixon 17 per cent, Smith three per cent, Scranton two per cent.

President Johnson, unopposed on the Democratic ballot, won 139,250 votes with 2,504 of the 3,251 precincts counted.

North Korean Reds Release Two U.S. Pilots Held Year

PANMUNJOM (AP) — North Korean Communists today released two United States helicopter pilots shot down last May, then claimed the United Nations Command had acknowledged the pilots committed a border violation on an espionage mission.

A UN Command spokesman confirmed delivery of a receipt for the prisoners admitting they committed espionage but, he said later, the admission "is, of course, meaningless."

Free after exactly one year in prison, Capt. Ben W. Smith, 31, of Florence, Ala., and Carleton W. Voltz, 27, of Frankfort, Mich., were flown to Seoul, where doctors said they were in good condition.

They were to rest overnight in the U.S. Army hospital before questioning by intelligence officers.

NEW FLAG? — This is one artist's conception of the design published reports have said Prime Minister Pearson hopes to have adopted as Canada's official flag by June 1st this year. Mr. Pearson said in the House Friday that no decision has been made on the flag or when legislation will be introduced. The design shows three red maple leaves on a white background with blue at either edge. (CP Wirephoto)

7 Stage Hunger Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Seven suspected Armee de Liberation du Quebec terrorists are spending the weekend in Montreal's Bordeaux Jail after a short, successful hunger strike Friday.

The seven, faced more than 50 charges in connection with the looting of two Quebec armories and at least five holdups, refused to eat their Friday noon meal in protest against conditions in court house cells.

They threatened to continue their strike and were ordered transferred after negotiations between defence lawyers Simon Chapados and Guy Guerin and Crown lawyer Jacques Bellemarre.

The preliminary hearing of Robert Hudon, 20, on a charge of armed robbery arising from the 62nd Field Artillery regimental armory raid at Shawinigan, 90 miles northeast of Montreal, was postponed Friday to next Tuesday.

Hudon, Rene Dion, 17, and Andre Wattier, 23, were arraigned on seven more charges arising from a $1,640 armed robbery Jan. 16, a taxi theft, another automobile theft and possession of both stolen goods and 10 bombs.

Police Friday linked the seven accused with a garage in which the Shawinigan arms were recovered and an apartment in Montreal in which the prosecution maintains the robberied weapons cached.

Micheline Rivest, 18, a bank clerk, testified she saw a group of youths in an apartment across the street from her own.

She identified them as all the accused except Hudon and said the other persons were glasses-clerk Wattier normally does but was not wearing it court.

She said the group owned a red panel truck and spoke European car, similar to the vehicles reported in the vicinity of the Shawinigan armory Feb. 20.

The owner of a Montreal garage where the Shawinigan loot was recovered, Edouard Mc-Mann, 48, identified Lasalle as the person he saw when he went to the apartment to collect the rent.

Rent manager Mrs. Leonide Levesque, 32, identified Gagnon as the person who signed a receipt for the garage under the name of Jean Berube.

Reinforcements For Guerrillas Are Put Ashore

Cuba Complains to UN That CIA Behind Moves

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Reports of two additional anti-Castro landings circulated today amid a complaint to the United Nations from Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency was behind it all.

The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba, a Cuban exile group in Washington, D.C., confirmed the landings and said they were carried out as the attack on a sugar mill in Port Pilon diverted the attention of Cuban armed forces.

The committee said the landing was an infiltration move, part of a long-range plan to bolster internal guerrilla forces.

A Spanish language broadcaster in Miami said there were landings on both the north and south coasts of Cuba.

Roa sent a note to UN Secretary-General U Thant warning that peace might be endangered by Wednesday's sugar mill raid and by an arms cache found earlier off the Cuban coast.

BLAMES PIRATES, CIA

The note said the sugar mill attack was by a piratic ship "such as the Central Intelligence Agency operates from Florida, Puerto Rico and Central America."

The note said the sugar mill, at the port of Pilon, was shelled and machine - gunned from a "pirate ship of the Patterson type such as the Central Intelligence Agency operates. It said workers' houses were hit, a woman and an eight - year - old girl wounded and 70,000 bags of this year's sugar burned.

Roa said smuggled rifles, pistols, cartridge belts, plastic explosives, m1a carbines, uniforms and a key off northern Pinar del Rio province were clearly "all of North American manufacture."

"Using these illegal flights of U-2 planes over the national territory of Cuba, they obtain information about our military installations for the organization and carrying out of these vandalistic attacks," the note said.

U.S. STILL DENIES

The state department, in Washington, continued to deny U.S. involvement.

In Puerto Rico, Manuel Ray, leader of an exile action group, resigned his government job Thursday, a former member of Castro's cabinet, has promised to be back on Cuban soil by May 20.

LBJ, Rusk, McNamara to Confer On Increasing Aid to Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson confers today with Defence Secretary Robert McNamara and State Secretary Dean Rusk on plans for increasing military and economic aid to South Viet Nam.

Johnson told congressional leaders at a White House meeting Friday he would ask for more funds to support a heavier U.S. commitment to the Saigon government, stung by an upsurge in terror raids by pro-Communist guerrillas.

McNamara, who returned the day before from another inspection trip to South Viet Nam, and Rusk briefed the 17 Republican and Democratic leaders and the National Security Council.

Rusk had just returned from a NATO council meeting in The Hague where he asked the Allies to give more assistance to the anti-Communist effort in Viet Nam.

After the meeting Press Secretary George Reedy summed it up this way: "I think it is rather obvious . . . there will be a need for additional funds and some appropriate recommendations."

SAIGON (AP)—The Communist Viet Cong laid a trap for South Vietnamese government troops and sprung it Thursday with great success.

The toll of that trap: 54 dead, 10 missing and 50 wounded, including an American officer.

The Communist guerrillas apparently started rigging the ambush Wednesday night. First they dug firing positions in the greenery flanking Route 18 about 22 miles north of Saigon.

Before dawn Thursday they staged a series of raids farther north, on the town of Tan Dyen and four government outposts. They killed three South Vietnamese and seized some weapons.

But the real aim of the raids was to get the defenders to call Saigon Army in a relief column.

It worked.

A government motor convoy showed up as the Communists expected. The guerrillas held off until the convoy was well in their sights, then opened an intense fire.

Fifty-one of the troops were killed and 50 wounded.

Non-Union Workers Attacked

TORONTO (CP) — Violence broke out Friday after a striking union local rejected the terms of an agreement endorsed by its international officers.

A 21-year-old non-union foundry worker was taken to hospital after he was attacked by 20 angry strikers when he completed a shift at the American-Standard Products (Canada) Limited plant.

In another incident, an unidentified striker was taken to hospital complaining that he had been pitched through the window of a shack by fellow workers.

The non-union worker, Ronald MacDonnell Mcrae of near-by Brampton suffered a possible broken spine. John Joseph McGee, 37, of Toronto, was charged after three of several strikers across the street looked on.

The agreement which would have settled the four-month-old strike was signed by E. L. Wheatley, international president of the United Steel Polishers (CLC) and the international vice - president, W. E. Clawges, after three days of discussion with company officials.

It calls for return of 175 strikers within 60 days but provides that some of those who replaced the strikers will be retained as part of an expanded work force.

Wage increases of about 17 cents an hour are provided for those whose jobs do not come within the scope of a new incentive system.

CLAIM SELLOUT

Claiming they had been sold out by its executive, members of Local 221 said the incentive plan would cost them 32 cents an hour in wages while they would be forced to work side by side with strikebreakers.

Christ Church Club Holds Ladies' Night

The May meeting of the Christ Church, Anglicans, Men's Club held their annual Ladies' Night. Following the dinner which was well attended by the members, visitors, and their wives, the program was presented with members of the congregations of St. Thomas,' St. Margaret's, and St. Anne's present.

A highlight of the program was the presence of two young Anglican Clergy from Uganda, who are visiting Canada as guests of St. James' and, The Church of the Redeemer in Kingston. They are presently studying at Kingston Collegiate and Vocational School.

The Rev. Canon Anderson introduced Rev. Erazmus Bitereabeho and Rev. Shem Karuso and invited each to speak to the audience on their life and education, the events leading up to their becoming Christians, the effect on their fellow countrymen and women as a result of Christian Missionaries going out to them and their decision to establish homes in their dedicating their lives to the Ministry of the Church to help their people.

Each of the young men having mastered the English language remarkably well, answered questions from the audience, for their part, were given the opportunity to see living witnesses of what many have known only as the "Mission" side of a Church envelope.

One of the resolutions of the Anglican Congress was "Mutual Responsibility and Inter-dependence" attempting to make people aware of the need to share with others, and the need one for the other, regardless of race or color.

The three guests were thanked by club president John Fletcher.

Heavy Traffic Through City, Few Accidents

Police in the Quinte district are keeping their official fingers crossed until Monday night and the volume of holiday week end traffic justifies their anxiety.

All available officers have been mustered for traffic patrol for the weekend in all-out effort to contain highway mishaps.

During last night's exodus from town to country cottages there were few accidents in the immediate Belleville area. However, traffic volume was climbing back steadily again this morning — indicating a busy weekend on all local highways.

On Highway 401 near Bunnett's sideroad, LAC Joseph Drolet, 20 - year - old airman stationed at Trenton received minor injuries, when a car driven over him before coming to rest upright on its wheels.

The driver, LAC Joseph Bala, told police he lost control of the vehicle after a rear wheel dropped off.

Cheese Producers Protest Reduction in Export Subsidy

New export subsidies for dairy products, recently announced by the Federal Government, are very disappointing to cheese producers, says H. C. Arnold of Campbellford, chairman of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board. The subsidy for cheese has been reduced to two cents a pound.

Taxpayers will spend four times as much in subsidy to export a given amount of milk as whole milk powder as it will need to export the same amount of milk as cheese, it is said.

"Last year," says Mr. Arnold, "the cheese subsidy was raised from four cents to three cents and the present reduction of another cent could do a deal of harm to the export of our world-famous Canadian cheese. This reduction in subsidy will save the Government only approximately $250,000, based on last year's exports.

"The new export subsidy of two cents per pound on cheese seems very small" says Mr. Arnold.

The 8.3 cent subsidy now being paid on export whole milk powder by the Agricultural Stabilization Board to processors will cost the federal treasury the equivalent of 78.7 cents per hundredweight of milk.

"But in the case where the farmer owns the finished product and exports it himself, namely our premium cheddar cheese, the subsidy paid to assist export to world markets, at two cents a pound, is the equivalent of only 18.1 cents per hundredweight of milk, which shows how inadequate is the 78.7 cents per hundredweight subsidy paid for milk for powder".

The local chapter will also raise funds, for the work of the chapter and to contribute to the national campaign aimed at finding the cause and a cure for the disease.

First function of the new chapter is a public meeting, next Wednesday evening at Quinte Secondary School. The meeting will feature a speech by Dr. J. J. Gilchrist, head of the Department of Anatomy at Queen's University. Dr. Basmajia is engaged in research into dystrophy research, supported by a grant from the Association.

MOM AND DAD GRADUATED! — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Merew, 390½ Front Street, are surrounded by offspring Susan, Mike and Pat, after graduating from commercial-clerical course. Husband and wife were classmates for job retraining program.

First Venture Into City's Job Retraining Program Pays Off With 70 Graduates

More than 70 students collectively graduated at Quinte Secondary School last night with a firmer grasp on their individual futures.

While their number was small their total accomplishment was significant.

These were the first graduates — ranging in age from 17 to 53 — of the city's initial venture into job retraining.

In all, 73 diplomas were readied for presentation. That some of them were never personally received was the best comment on the scheme's success. Some of the graduates were away working — at the jobs they had just learned.

Officially designated as Program 5, administered by the Technical Trades Training Branch of the Department of Education, the scheme was introduced at Quinte Secondary last November. With the federal government refunding a major slice of the cost, the program grew out of the recent years of unemployment crisis in an effort to reduce the number of jobless by creating a labor pool to match a changing pattern of demand. Unemployed persons taking the course draw daily allowance from $3-$8 depending on personal circumstances.

While not the complete solution in a situation now being further aggravated by automation the job retraining program has proven its immediate worth, opined Leslie F. Reid, local coordinator and Q.S.S. principal at the graduation ceremony last night.

"I think we're not naive enough to believe that Program 5 is going to eliminate unemployment completely," he told his group of grownup graduates. "But . . . certainly it's going to substantially reduce it."

$5 PC FIND WORK

Statistics put the situation in a social nutshell.

Mr. Reid said it was estimated up to 30 jobs were available for every skilled worker. In contrast vacancies for the non-skilled reserved an average of 60 applications each.

And, he added, since its inception across Ontario last year, Program 5 had seen 85 per cent of its graduates find work.

Later in an interview he gave a local highlight to the province's success graph. Of eight welders graduating from the course at QSS, all had been placed.

"And I had a call from Picton for two more today," he added.

Enthusiastically, he looked to widening the curriculum offered next year.

At the outset, two courses — restaurant catering and electronics had to be dropped from the program last November for lack of applicants. It finished with four — basic academic training, commercial-clerical, welding and building maintenance.

The courses offered by Program 5 embrace a wide field of opportunity, ranging from typical services to such offbeat specials as tourist guiding and manufacture of pharmaceutical tablets.

In what direction the course will be expanded next year depends entirely on the demand, Mr. Reid said.

At its peak here, the program now ended drew 120 registrations. Mr. Reid figured drop-outs at 20 percent. These were for various reasons — not the least that that students unexpectedly found unemployment.

However, the application shown by the majority in not on completing the course appeared more than compensated.

"We drew students from a 60 - mile radius — from Bancroft east to Marmora," said the co - ordinator.

"One girl even walked in from Desoronto one night in a snowstorm."

COMMUNITY BENEFITS

On the side of cold cash the community also indirectly benefited. Mr. Reid estimated some $60,800 was paid out in government to cover the costs of the course at QSS.

And a community footnote was added to last night's events by Gerald A. Wishart, Bay of Quinte District High School Board chairman who told the graduates his colleagues believed "that our school facilities which are provided by public money should be put to the best possible public use.

"And we believe Program 5 is one of the best possible uses to which we could put Quinte Secondary School. We look forward to the program in the years to come."

"And," he concluded, "I sincerely trust that increased knowledge and skills will serve you well and will help you find employment that's not only more interesting but more rewarding."

BOBBY FULFORD IN TOWN

The next best thing to having the Beatles in town . . . from the viewpoint of Trenton youngsters . . . is to have a national hockey star pay a flying visit to Trenton.

And that's what happened at Ostrander's Jewellery Store yesterday afternoon.

Bobby Fulford, centre with the Stanley Cup winners, the Toronto Maple Leafs, greeted a bumper crop of hockey sprouts and signed autographs like mad following his arrival at the store at 4.00 p.m.

PELVIS FRACTURED

Nelson Dillabough, 60, of Mary St., is in Trenton Memorial Hospital suffering from head lacerations and a fractured pelvis, following an accident yesterday at the intersection of Bay and Campbell sts. His condition is listed as satisfactory.

Mr. Dillabough is reported by police to have stepped into the path of a car driven by David Rybka, 27, of 181 Dufferin Ave.

The injured man, who was returning from fishing on the day, was taken to the hospital by Rushnell Ambulance.

Trenton Copter In Search for Missing Boy

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP)— An RCAF helicopter from Trenton joined the search Friday for seven - year - old Parent, missing from his home here since last Friday.

The helicopter was requested by Ontario Provincial Police Inspector Gordon Smith, heading the search.

Police have dragged the waters of the Ottawa River in the Hawkesbury area and have set off dynamite blasts in the water in the hopes of bringing a body to the surface but no clues have been found.

Police say the boy may have drowned in the river but they have not eliminated the possibility that he was kidnapped.

550 Women Attend Bazaar

TRENTON—More than 700 tickets were sold for the Business and Professional Women's Club Maytime Tea and Bazaar at the home of Mrs. Thomas Bata, Wednesday. In spite of drizzling rain, 550 ladies made it.

Winners of the three door prizes were: Mrs. Anne Weber, Cobourg; Mrs. Mary Caves, Trenton; Mrs. Jane McCabe, Belleville.

B. and P.W. members were present from Belleville, Peterborough, Napanee, Picton, Warkworth, Morganston, Cobourg, Port Hope, Bancroft, Brighton, Colborne, Consecon and Carrying Place.

STARTED BY CHILDREN

Trenton firemen were called out yesterday at 1.50 p.m. when a grass fire back of the hospital was reported.

The small fire was thought to have been started by children playing with firecrackers.

VALUABLE LOAD

A number of persons phoned in to the Trenton police station yesterday about recurring sounds of sirens in the downtown area.

There was one accident yesterday and a grass fire, but the other siren sounds had a simple explanation.

There was a car in town carrying a $50,000 load of valuable furs.

The vehicle was wired so that when parked by its driver, anyone or anything approaching it within a certain distance set off an alarm.

Bonita Second First Cruiser To Enter Canal

TRENTON—The Bonita II made it yesterday, but she almost didn't. Bonita and her proud owner, and skipper, Hyke Dubleski of Sarnia, have, for a number of years (with the exception of last year) been the first through No. 1 Lock on the opening day of navigation on the Trent Waterways.

Last year, a houseboat, The Scrooge, owned by two Trenton men, Robert Brown and Donald Page, took the honors with Bonita in its wake.

Skipper Dubleski phoned through to No. 1 Lockmaster Jim Howard on Thursday that he'd be along on Friday.

Off to a nine o'clock start at the Belleville Bay bridge, Bonita steamed up to the town bridge at 10.20 a.m. only to find the bridge wouldn't be swung until 10.45 a.m.

At the Goderich bridge, Bonita's motor burned out and another wait was in order while this was repaired. (the footbridge could almost be called Bonita's Nemesis. In 1952, she was forced to cool her heels for a matter of hours after the bridgemaster discovered that workmen repairing the bridge in the winter, had left the swing portion locked down).

Finally arriving at Lock No. 1, Mr. Dubleski found out that the lock at Campbellford was under repair and closed until after the holiday.

The lift lock at Peterborough is also under repair, and won't be open until after June 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Dubleski have abandoned Bonita at No. 1 Lock and returned to their destination, their summer home at Orillia, yesterday afternoon.

Donald Gordon Deacon, son of Mrs. Fred Deacon and the late Fred H. Deacon, graduated Tuesday in Merchandising Administration from Ryerson Institute of Technology. Mr. Deacon received his secondary school education at Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School and Albert College. He will enter the firm of Deacon Brothers Sportswear Ltd. Mr. and Mrs. Deacon (nee Beverley Duron), will reside at 14 Kingsway Court, Belleville.

Provincial, Conservation Parks to Open

This is the weekend that summer arrives — although not yet officially.

This weekend many of the provincial parks open for the season, while locally the Col Roscoe Vanderwater Park at Thomasburg and the O'Hara Mill Conservation Area north of Madoc, also officially open.

The two latter parks operated by the Moira River Conservation authority are popular picnic sites, while the Outlet Park in Prince Edward county operated by the province is a popular camping site.

Editorials From French — Canadian Newspapers

This is a selection of editorials of current interest translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal La Presse — The reasons for the Quebec government's satisfaction are obvious. Everything that can increase the number of jobs, reduce unemployment, stimulate the economy is greeted as good news. The particular kind of manufacturing to be installed in Ste. Therese is another ground for satisfaction. The automobile industry has existed in Canada since 1904. Quebec waited 50 years before this prestigious industry elected to take up residence on its soil.

More important still is the psychological advantage of which the government is assured by the recently announced decision. "What's good for General Motors is good for the country," an enthusiast once said. Good also for every other industry invited to come and set up shop among us. In this good news, the unhappy parents who see in the current intellectual ferment the promise of economic catastrophe will have a hard time finding any confirmation of their dire predictions.

One swallow does not make a summer, but the omen is good.

Mr. Lesage from painting the portrait of a Quebec steel industry more radiantly than ever before. . . .

In this news so joyously reported there is, all the same, something that jostles certain habits of thought. One had been led to understand that American investments in the province and in Canada had already reached a disturbing level and that it was imperative to diversify investment sources as well as to promote, it behooves us once again to recognize that all the eggs are in the same basket. — Guy Coursol. (May 6).

Quebec Le Soleil — When a Canadian prime minister himself urges the adoption of a distinctive national flag, that is certainly an encouraging note that indicates the country is finally on the way to getting what it ought to have had a long time ago. . . .

Canada, which, in terms of facts and institutions, exercises all the prerogatives of sovereignty, has until now been inconceivably lax in proclaiming the external attributes of this sovereignty.

In the vast stronghold of the partisans of the Red Ensign, which is not a satisfactory flag for Canada, English and French alike, Mr. Pearson put forward the idea of a distinctive national flag. In front of the members of the Royal Canadian Legion he stated that Canadians would be more united with the adoption of new symbols. . . .

What the majority of Canadians seem to want is a flag that would be unequivocally ours. Ought this flag to recall, by a few devices, that this country was French and English? It is necessary. A typically Canadian flag, without any reference to this sort of past, could without doubt promote the unity of a country that has also carried on appeal to all nationalities. One thing is certain. We must act without delay in this matter. Our national pride is involved. . . (May 8). . . .

Trois - Rivieres Le Nouvelliste — The news concerning the forthcoming establishment of the General Motors company in Quebec marks the turning point in our economic evolution. The projected factory will be the first for the manufacture of automobiles. It will not be an assembly line but a true automobile factory. Until now these enterprises were confined to Ontario. The people of that province have derived considerable advantages therefrom. To this circumstance must be ascribed the privileged situation in which our neighbor province finds itself in the domain of employment, wages and total economic expansion.

All that has been claimed in respect to backwardness in education in Quebec, the alleged ineptitude of our people in business and their lack of initiative has no connection with the facts. The main reason why the neighbor province is ahead lies in the monopoly it has been able to keep on heavy industry, particularly steel and cars. Other things could be added, such as electrical apparatus and machine tools, but the essential basis of expansion is steel production and dependent industries, that is, manufacturing among them.

The difference will have been noted between the stability, prosperity and dynamism of Ontario, which rests on a marvellous decentralization of economic life, and Quebec, where industry is stagnant. There is a much greater number of cities of 100,000 people or more in Ontario than in Quebec. After Montreal and Quebec City there is but a host of small, deprived towns whose principal mission consists of producing human capital for the city of Montreal. Industry in these small centres is mainly primary, such as the paper industry here in Trois-Rivieres. . . . (May 7).

Martin Chooses His Audience

It was characteristic of that old smoothie, Hon. Paul Martin, that he should have chosen the meeting of the NATO Council to indicate that Canada will eventually do an about-face in her policy towards communist China.

Any such change will come as a rude shock to the United States, no matter how it is cushioned, but hearing the first hint, (as we might reasonably think it was) in such surroundings will make the blow seem a little less sharp.

Seated with the representatives of Britain, which recognized Red China years ago, and of France, which has so recently done so, the U.S. delegates must have noticed that the reaction of the assemblage was something short of shocked outrage.

John Diefenbaker, leader of the Opposition, denounced Mr. Martin's choice of an audience as another example of the Liberal Government's contempt for Parliament. But to have made this announcement on Red China before the House of Commons, without any prior communication to the U.S., while it might have been constitutionally correct would have been to invite the worst possible reaction from our neighbor.

In any event, Mr. Martin did not say that the Government had decided to recognize Red China. He merely said what must have been obvious to all persons of normal intelligence, that the Peking regime could not be indefinitely excluded from world councils.

Mr. Martin was shrewder in selecting his audience for the first hint of a change of course than he was in his attempt to build it up into action now. His suggestion that "a grave danger exists that chances for a solution that would make provision for Formosa and its inhabitants might disappear" is unlikely to impress the U.S.

To accept it would be to admit that the U.S. is no longer able to control events, that time and the tide of fortune have made it impossible to continue the pretense that the old derelict, Chiang Kai-Shek, is the voice of the real China.

Then, too, Mr. Martin may be much too optimistic if he really believes that Red China is prepared to make any realistic deal about Formosa. Red China's reaction to the presence of atomic and powerful anti-communist ruling a relatively insignificant island off its coast is as illogical as the reaction of the U.S. to that other island bauty rooster, Fidel Castro of Cuba. Neither has any real power to harm the neighboring giant if the giant refuses to let trifles drive him into running amok and thereby alarming and annoying the whole community.

A Splendid Proposal

Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, the aging but handsome Armenian, who is in charge of his country's trade, is reported to have told a group of Canadian executives that Russia is ready to buy Canadian wheat every year. The amount said to be involved is $40,000,000 annually.

According to James A. Richardson, a prominent Winnipeg grain merchant, Russia wants Canadian wheat for her far eastern districts because it would be cheaper than the cost of moving Soviet wheat from her own breadbasket in the Ukraine.

Presumably this would mean that surplus Ukrainian wheat would be sold to countries near the source of supply.

This would be international trade at its best, benefiting everybody, Canada because it would have an assured market for 500,000 tons of wheat annually, Russia because it would be able to feed the people of its eastern territories at a lower cost, and the purchasers of Russian wheat because for all probability, they would be able to buy this wheat at a lower cost than a like amount from any other source.

These results would be achieved by eliminating unnecessary long hauls by expensive means of transportation — they would "stop the produce of the well-known cheapness of water transportation compared with land transportation.

There is something unpredictable and delightfully casual about even the sophisticated modes of travel in Russia. On a train journey, there is usually a samovar steaming away at the end of every carriage, with a woman guard to hand round glasses of tea. People fall easily into lengthy and intimate talk with their neighbors. From the airports, the huge Ilyushin and Tupolev jets take off and land with as little ceremony as buses stopping or pulling out from the curb. One continually gets the feeling that the Russians savor any journey with a special zest.—BBC correspondent in Moscow, Erik de Mauny.

Ottawa Offbeat

'Oom Paul' Martin Ottawa's Original Big Time Operator

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Amid all the tugging and shoving in the continuing high pressure power play within the Federal Cabinet, nobody is pushing Paul Martin around.

The urbane External Affairs Minister, a tough and wily old political smoothie, remains solid as the rock of Gibraltar in all the cross currents and rip tides swirling around him in the steady build-up of Quebec's power and influence on the Government side of the Commons and within the Cabinet itself.

Others may be down-graded or not-so-gently shoved aside to make more room for those who speak for Quebec, but not Oom Paul.

The up-grading of Quebec's power and glory in the Federal field with the province's seats to down-grade is the natural and expected consequence of the vote in the last election.

Quebec may represent little more than one quarter of the total population, but it can demand — and get — special Federal treatment because:

1. Of the Government's 139 MPs, by far the biggest single provincial representation — a numerically powerful — comes from that province.

2. Of the Cabinet's total 24 portfolios, 11 are in sight, or one-third of the national executive power.

NOT OUR PAUL:

So, almost of political necessity, Justice Minister Favreau becomes the chief Quebec politician officially - designated right-hand man — but he does not replace Oom Paul at his hometown desk - mate.

Agriculture Minister Hays and certain other members of the Cabinet who do not come from Quebec will be down - graded and stripped of some of their power and authority for the enhancement of the prestige and position of members who do, such as State Secretary Lamontagne, Forestry Minister Sauve and Company.

But amid all the political turmoil and the jockeying for position there, bland and beaming, cool, calm and content — very much in control of himself and the situation.

Nobody, but nobody, as much as a whisper against Oom Paul — they might get it chopped off.

This is an "Operator," in every down - to - earth sense of that term, and he has been around Parliament Hill so long — going on 30 good and productive years — that he knows practically than most of the Cabinet's Johnnies - Come - Lately are ever likely to learn.

He is strong, even unchallenged, on two fronts.

At home and on the Hill.

Here in the House, all but an envious few of the Liberals hold him in profound respect and deep affection.

For he is just about the only one among them day in and day out on occasion has — out own Pied Piper.

The hard - bitten old Conservative Leader, an often savage political warrior, can make Parliamentary mincemeat of the Cabinet, not always excluding the Prime Minister, quail. But not Oom Paul. He can give as good, and not infrequently better than he gets.

DEEP DEBT:

The Liberal Backbenchers — even those from Quebec — owe him a lot.

Those who have been around for more than one session of Parliament watched him as, almost single - handed, he destroyed the former Conservative Administration with his deadly guerrilla fighting on the floor of the Commons.

And they are still watching him as he ancorbalds — with great gobs of highly - stylized, and fine - sounding but gloriously undecisive guff — the Opposition into a fury of frustration.

He has a change of pace, delightful to hear and watch, covering the oratorical keyboard from the smooth purr of a pussy cat to the booming roar of the Noonday Gun.

Oom Paul knows everybody in the House and Senate, on and off The Hill, and so knows just about everything that is going on and how it adds up.

He may run External Affairs, but he has no stars in his eyes, and the Striped Pants Brigade, so long the pampered pets of previous administrations, now to their horror discover that they must hustle and sing for their supper like ordinary working stiffs.

A hard - eyed realist, he does not think that Canada is in the greatest enterprise to come down the pike since the motor industry moved in to his hometown Windsor. But he strings along, if a little reluctantly, for nothing could be more to his personal External Affairs hand, Lester B. Pearson, reasonably content.

You wouldn't recognize External since Oom Paul moved in on it, they hardly have the time for afternoon tea and cakes in their offices any more.

REALLY AT HOME:

And, if by all this you conclude that Paul Martin is some political pompous ass from the National Capital, you are right. But you should see him down Windsor way.

He has a revolving file of every voter in the district, his birthday, wedding date, the names and birthdays of his relatives — and all the appropriate dates roll around, letters, cards, sometimes telegrams are dispatched.

He knows just about everybody on every street, and when somebody new moves in he calls them by phone, chats awhile and ends up inviting himself over for more talk and coffee.

He is a great newspaper reader, too, daily and weekly, leaving tabs of family events decurrently first among his flock of nearly 50,000 voters.

Little gets by him.

The other day he called up Maurice Jefferies, resident correspondent for The Windsor Star, to give him a piece of news fill - in on what's what-and-why.

"Guess you're pretty busy, eh, Maurice," was how recently he put it, "what with Robert Kennedy and Duncan Sandys flying in, things looming up for Expo and the Columbia River Treaty getting kicked around."

"Never mind that stuff," boomed Oom Paul, "I've got something really important for you — you're going to get that new post office at Emeryville."

Emeryville, it turns out, is little more than a few acres on a back road in Essex East, but a key handful of Con Party constituents live there, and that, as new wise politicians known intuitively, makes it important.

So important, in fact, that in Oom Paul's personal book of reference, it outranked Robert Kennedy, Duncan Sandys, Cyprus and, of course, the mighty Colemans.

Nose Lifting Can Cost Several Hundred Dollars

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I want to have plastic surgery for my big nose. I am 18, and my parents will pay half and I will pay the rest. But we all want to know more about it before we consult a surgeon.

What is the average cost? Can the surgeon create any kind of nose desired? Where can we go for a good, reliable specialist? — Miss A. H.

Cost? Several hundred dollars. Assuming that you have insurance, you must find out whether it will cover the cost, because this is an elective type of thing. It doesn't need it for your health; you want it for appearance's sake.

This is a problem on which you had best make up your mind after you have consulted a surgeon, and heard his estimates. Your locality, the amount of estimate, and other factors will enter into it. Talking to the doctor doesn't commit you to anything, and in such cases I urge people to find out the cost before making a decision.

Can the surgeon construct "any kind of nose desired?" Yes. But a surgeon usually does not do so. Why? Because, psychologically, people are not always good judges of what they really want.

A young woman with an overpadded nose may get to complaining about looking like a certain movie actress. But the latter's nose might not look right on her, which will fit faces, not the noses that people may, at first, think they want. After the operation, measurements are taken of the face. The length and angle of the nose must be right. Photographs or sketches are commonly used, so an idea can be provided as to what result it is to be expected.

The surgeon doesn't just start whittling tissue, cut out a bit or subtract on a trial and error basis, such as an artist can when modeling a nose in clay. He has to know exactly what he is going to do before he does it. That is necessary of great precision. Most surgeons photograph the patient's face forehand, retouch the photo until the nose is of the desired shape. Then another photo is taken afterward so the patient can see that it came out just as predicted.

How to find the right surgeon? In the smaller communities, you won't find a plastic surgeon. You'll have to go to a city or medical center.

Your first source of guidance is your own doctor, right at home. Even if he doesn't have personal acquaintance with such a surgeon such as you want, he usually has professional friends who will give him expert advice to pass on to you.

Then choose a hospital which you respect and like, and select one of the surgeons attached to it. Or you can write to your County Medical Society for the names of two or three surgeons which the society stands ready to recommend. Any of these methods will assure you of ending up with a well-qualified surgeon.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son has a growth on the sac on the back of his ear lobe the size of a pea. It does not pain or give any inflammation. Should he go to a doctor to have it removed or linced if it doesn't bother him? — W. J. L.

It would be just as well to have it looked at; to make sure what it is. Simple cysts are not uncommon in the crevice behind the ear lobe, and may eventually have to be removed for comfort. Lancing won't help a cyst except briefly."

Note to "Desperate": There is no exercise which will change bow-legs.

Letter to the Editor

Fixed Assessment Method Is Favored

Editor,
Ontario, Intelligencer.

In Campbellford, with a population of 3472, a decrease of 20 since 1951, there is a definature debt of $1,164,009.31. The tax rate has risen to an unprecedented high of 118.3 mills commercial and 103.4 mills residential, an increase of 20.1 mills commercial and 16.1 residential in the last two years. When another 4 counties now much taxes would be unpaid in 1956. Clerk E. M. Iley replied few ratepayers of at least $53,000. This in my opinion is a conservative estimate, this being a low scale year, when taxes when fully employed. As the situation stands now one industry has closed, another has left.

Citizens were promised in the December 1957 election that three industries were ready to move in as soon as the new Tory administration was changed, which it did. But almost a year and a half ago so their industrial situation now is two down and still there to go. The worst in over fifty years.

In March the ratepayers present altered the municipal act removing the provisions for fixed assessments, leaving them by means of private bills Espanaksing and Wallaceburg having already passed assessment bills perhaps others and one of the late private bills to be introduced and passed in the session just closing which provides for assessment to Hershey Chocolate Corporation in Smiths Falls on February 12, 1956. Accordingly the "Hazard" of the day there was 67 votes in favor and 25 against. Among those voting in favor was Premier Robarts and at least 10 cabinet ministers as well as many members among whom was the local member for Northumberland, Russell Rowe.

Hershey Chocolate had never had a fixed assessment, although it had been promised one by the municipal council three years ago. Last December in order to pass the private bill, the Smiths Falls council presented it to the people. The people of the town and 66 per cent of the voters voted in favor of granting Hershey Chocolate a fixed assessment.

A fixed assessment applies only to the general tax rate, not school and local improvement taxes are paid in full.

It might be a procedure for the Campbellford municipal council to investigate the possibilities of a plebiscite and a private bill before another industry is lost to the town.

A Taxpayer.

A Lift for Living

Month of May Offers Proof That Miracles Really Happen

By REV. HAROLD E. KOBIN

May declares "Miracles do happen". A May day is beyond man's explanation. Almost anyone can account in a rough way, for the arrival of spring by calling certain known "laws" of nature and by showing how more warmth is brought to our hemisphere as this area of the world turns toward the sun. But such an interpretation of spring's coming in no way diminishes our wonder as we watch May merrily frolic toward June. The whiff of a dew-laden meadow or a fragrance of apple blossoms drifting on morning breezes, the sight of a shy nodding trillium hiding on the forest floor, transcends every written law and defies all description and explanation. Uncommonly beautiful things appear in this extraordinary month, things that are signs that point upward, reminding us that the Creator is still creating, prompting us to remember how dependent is earth on Heaven.

The Biblical meaning of miracle was not the meaning most common today, which is some event that is a contravention of nature. In the Biblical view a miracle was any wonder that was a sign of God's working among His children. A miracle was a revelation, not just any wonder but a luminous wonder that shed light into man's dark ignorance of God and God's ways. Like a May day a miracle pointed upward and reminded man of things above him.

CALLS ATTENTION

The Gospel of John tells of a Pharisee named Nicodemus who came to Jesus one night and exclaimed, "We know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him." The Revised Standard Version of the verse uses the word "signs" where the King James Version says "miracles". The word "signs" clarifies "miracles," for in the Bible a miracle is more than an event that seems to break through the natural order, or passes understanding and is bewilderingly wondrous. Rather, like a wayside sign, a miracle calls attention to something beside itself, as a sign saying "Riverside, 63 miles" is not meant to advertise itself, but the distance to Riverside, California.

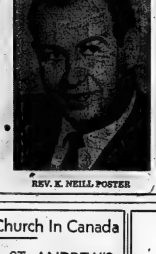
The miracle of Christ's life is a sign signifying God is for our midst, among us, the Word made flesh. God always loved us enough to dwell among us and always will. Christ's miraculous life was God's remarkable, singular way of pointing this out to us clearly and once and for all.

Nicodemus cited another attribute of miracle when he said, "No man can do these miracles that thou doest except God be with him." A miracle, then, in the Biblical sense declares this truth: that which is beyond human power to accomplish unaided can still be achieved through the help of God. "Except God be with him" is a key phrase; miracle points to the assistance of God.

It reminds us that man's unaided efforts are inadequate to handle the world, to do what must be done, to answer his own deepest needs for healing of body, mind and spirit, for comfort, forgiveness, renewal. We need reinforcements by a Power beyond our limitations. No one ever heals himself by will power. Everyone relies upon forces beyond effort alone. Even the physician does; he gives medicine or performs surgery; then he waits. Nature and the word for God must do the rest.

COUNT ON GOD

No farmer grows crops by sheer strenuousness. Hammering a seed or squeezing it is a vise will not make it grow. Every farmer must sow and then step back and count upon God and His beneficent forces of sunlight, rain and fertile soil. When looked upon religiously, every growing thing, like every healed body, is a miracle.



The works of the masters of the fine arts are witnesses to this truth about miracle. We say that the artist Raphael, the sculptor Rodin, the composer Johann Sebastian Bach, the dramatist Shakespeare were "gifted." Gifted how? In what way? There can be no gifts without a Giver. The great masterpieces are miracles in the Biblical sense, for they represent a Power that is beyond what human exertion can create. If effort alone could produce enduring works of art, every art school, school of music and writing class would be pouring out a deluge of masterpieces, for the schools are full of pupils who try hard enough but the world's best artists are not known for strenuousness but for gifts. "No one can do these miracles . . . except God be with him."

The miraculous life is one that sees the signs that God is ever present, and lets such a God-consciousness control every aspect of one's existence.

Couple Apart For 34 Years To Meet Again

LIVERPOOL (AP)—Mrs. May Best, 74, arrived in this English port city Friday for a re-union with her husband, after a separation of 34 years.

"I'll try anything once," Mrs. Best told reporters. "I've had to work hard all my life, and I worked until I was 71. Now I've come back to be with my husband in our old age. I hope it works out."

Her husband, Charles Best, 71, lives in Blackpool.

He didn't meet his wife when his ship, the Empress of England, docked here.

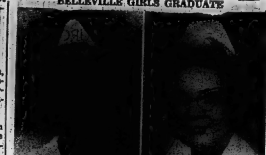
"We're going to meet at a secret rendezvous," explained the wife.

She and her husband left Britain 36 years ago. They lived in Philadelphia and in various places in Canada, running several stores.

When Best lost heavily in the depression in 1930, he returned to Britain.

"We've written to one another every week since then," said Mrs Best, "and always hoped for a reunion. I saved up and at last had enough for the passage money—so I came."

Home Care Service For Children



MONTREAL (CP)— A trial plan for a home care service, believed to be the first exclusively for children in North America, will go into effect at the Montreal Children's Hospital June 1, hospital authorities announced Friday.

The plan is designed to promote earlier discharge from hospital where home conditions make it possible.

Hospital authorities said such a system is important for children because they suffer emotional stress in hospital, and studies have shown that recovery from illness is faster when they are cared for at home.

The plan will provide physician services, nursing care for the patient and instruction for the mother, drugs, diagnostic tests and other services normally covered by the Quebec hospital insurance plan.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

BY pegg rogers

Dear Pegg Rogers: First of all, I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for providing such an interesting column. I read it every time it appears in our paper and find it so helpful and enjoyable.

I would like to know if any fashion house makes dresses and blouses with built-in dress shields? Believe me, I and a great many women could really use fashion which would give us this protection. Am tired of having good clothes ruined. — Signed — F. A. C., Summerside, P. E. I.

Dear F. A. C.: Thank you for your warm and friendly letter. I am delighted that you find the column interesting and helpful. I am afraid that no fashion house supplies dress shields with their fashions.

Have you seen those little net vests, which fasten at the waist with elastic and have deep shields extending under each arm? I think they are called "style shields". They come in white and I believe that they outsell detachable dress shields. I do know that they are efficient.

Dear Pegg Rogers: I want to know when these sloppy, droopy fashions will be replaced by nice waisted-in dresses. I have a good figure and I am tired of hiding it under loose jackets and blouses. If I try to persuade someone to alter these styles for me by taking them in at the waist, I am told that I will ruin the line of the garment. Some of the semifitted, shift - type dresses would be wonderful, if an impression they were really waisted - in. These styles have been in for so long. Do you think the fitted line will ever come back? If so, when? — Signed — M. C.

Dear B. C.: When will fitted silhouettes come back? This is the time of question which, for the good of my reputation as a fashion forecaster, I should definitely evade.

However, allowing for the fact that I could be wrong, this is what I think will happen. Within two years at the most, you will be able to buy fitted dresses, suits and coats, here in Canada.

Having been in Paris for the spring openings, you could have bought a navy blue fitted reefer coat and several fitted sheath dresses from the Parisian couture houses. These styles created a flurry and now rumors of the return of the shaped and fitted silhouette are flying. It is said that the figure — good, bad or indifferent, will be definitely outlined in the American and Canadian couture this coming fall. That does not mean that every style designed by these leaders for the next winter will have a fitted waistline, but it does mean that a few styles will feature this outline. If it is accepted at the Haute Couture level, then it will be adapted by the lers expensive houses.

Experience shows that most fashion silhouettes have a seven year cycle. It usually takes at least a season or two before a definite change in outline makes an impression

British Nurses See Difference In Canada

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 133 visiting British nurses are discovering a number of differences in nursing conditions in Canada and Britain.

Miss Dorothy Robins, leader of the group, says Canadian nurses have better and more lavish equipment than their British counterparts. She also thinks there is not so much hustle and bustle in Canadian hospitals as there is British hospitals.

Another difference the visitors noted this week is that each public health nurse in Ontario has a car whereas the British nurses make public calls on bicycles.

The group is on a 16-day tour of North American hospitals and health facilities.

Church Groups

EASTMINSTER U.C.W.

The ladies of Eastminster met for a most enjoyable and educational April meeting recently. Mrs. J. Ham opened with the business portion. Further plans for the chicken bar-b-q coming up on June 18, were discussed.

The devotion was in charge of the Hi C. Taking part in this were Gwen Glover, John Glover, Jennifer Rose and Rod Clarke.

The program for the evening was a panel discussing "Christian Education Within Our Church". Mrs. A. Glover introduced the panel and gave a talk, basing her facts on three points: A. I. E. meaning Acquaint, Inform and Arouse interest and understanding. The panel groups represented were: Messengers, Mrs. J. Pinconbe; Explorers, Mrs. E. Burnham; Cubs and Scouts, Mrs. H. Occomore; C.G.I.T., Mrs. G. Hennessy; Hi C; Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuntze; Superintendent of Sunday School, Mr. A. Miller; and the ministers, Rev. A. McDowell. Each panel member gave the aim and duty of their group. A question and answer period followed between the audience and the panel.

Mrs. N. Goldrum and her group served lunch.

ST. THOMAS' CHURCH

Women's Church Year

The regular meeting of the W.C.W. was held in the Parish House on May 13th, with the president, Mrs. M. F. L. Jones in the chair.

It was moved by Mrs. R. Pringle that a donation be made to Camp Hyanho and also assist any child from the Parish who wished to attend the Camp but needed financial assistance. The group will also be responsible for a new church sign.

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. W. Pape who introduced her weeks, Mrs. J. L. Clarke, Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. J. F. L. Clarke, Mrs. F. Newman and Mrs. R. A. Pringle. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. R. Griffiths who spoke on the history of the Te Deum.

Mrs. J. F. Clarke introduced the speaker for the evening, the Rev. James H. Smith L.Th., assistant curate at Christ Church. Mr. Smith a native of Tasmania gave an illustrated talk on his native country. Much was learned about this province of Australia where there is no winter and if there is snow when it falls is their lowest temperature of 29, it is gone by noon the next day. Christmas is celebrated in the parks with a candlelight service. There is no dormant season when everything dies off especially in their church life which is active twelve months of the year.

The speaker was thanked for a most educational and enjoyable talk.

The members adjourned to the lower hall where a display of handwork for the W.A. bales was on view which was through the kindness of Mrs. A. Geen, Dorcas Secretary of the Evening W.A., Mrs. Florence Clarke of the Afternoon W.A. and Mrs. A. S. Lewis, convenor of the W.C.Y. work group.

Desserts and coffee were served by Mrs. Pape and members of her group.

Mrs. H. Crowe thanked the Month of May for a most rewarding evening.

Synthetic Meat May Be Food Of Future

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Synthetic meat, fishburgers and instant omelets—but not food pills —may be some of the popular foods of the future, a food specialist predicted here Friday.

Harry Hamilton, manager of research and development for Lever Brothers, Limited, Toronto, was addressing the annual conference of the Canadian Institute of Food Technology.

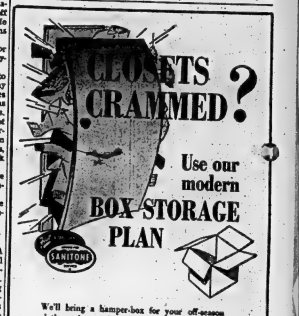
Speaking during a panel discussion on new food product development, Mr. Hamilton said the "science fiction concept of completely synthetic food" is now almost a reality.

Edible spun protein fibres have been produced which bring the day closer when fibrous texture of meat products can be duplicated, he said.

"Even cooked meat flavors have been produced synthetically."

PLANKTON PRODUCTS

Mr. Hamilton predicted the use of more extracted vegetable protein for the manufacture of "meat-like" products and the use of sea life such as plankton, algae and scrap fish as the bases for future protein foods.



Mrs. Jeanne Pilon, a Montreal nutritionist and vice-president of the Quebec branch, Consumers Association of Canada, warned against insufficient research and misleading labelling in the food industry.

Some food products boast of added vitamins when they s not needed, and others eliminate valuable nutrients, she said.

There should be more information for the customer about what is being added and extracted from basic foods, she continued.

Mrs. Pilon called for more effective food inspection, more careful use of pesticides in farming, and more foods sold without trading stamps or gifts attached.

MRS. K. DENTON TAYLOR OF BELLEVILLE

"After a 20-hour working day she can still say: 'I'm happy doing this.'

The reason?

She likes people." — from an interview with Mrs. Taylor by The Winnipeg Free Press.

"Are you a new comer to Belleville?"

"No — not exactly. My husband, three children and I moved here about nine years ago," replied the gracious young smiling mother with whom we shared a table at a recent tea at the Presbyterian Church. Even now, various people kept coming over to speak to her. She certainly was well known here in her church. We were introduced: "Mrs. Taylor..."

"If I seem a new-comer, perhaps it's my fault," she continued. "For I've been out of town for a good deal recently, attending meetings in Toronto, travelling a bit from coast to coast."

Thus we found ourself, charmed, inspired, enjoyably chatting with "...Mrs. Denton Taylor of Belleville, Ontario, not only the first woman ever elected chairman of a Presbyterian Church board in the history of her church, but who is also the youngest ever to hold such a responsible position. Elected head of the board of the Missionary and Deaconess Training School in June of 1957, she is also chairman of the 35-member national campaign committee to raise $400,000 for a badly needed new building." A caption that appeared in newspapers while engaged on tight scheduled dominion - wide speaking tours (including Newfoundland) to give Presbyterians "information of the need for the new school, which was just about as liable as the money being raised."

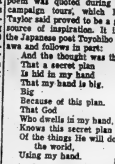
"Yes — it was the first fund-raising I'd ever done," admitted this daughter of the late Rev. R. G. McKay. She lived principally in Prince Albert, Sask., as a child, where her father was minister, and had first contact with her new work, when she lived at the Missionary and Deaconess Training School while attending the University of Toronto for her B.A. degree.

"I'd intended to take a one year course at the school, but I married instead," and she smiled. "The school is the training ground for young Presbyterian women who wish to serve in the overseas missions or in Canada as regional deaconesses.

"However the Toronto school, being an old house accommodating 23 students instead of a new intake of 60, was in very bad condition indeed. My work, as chairman, was to lay the foundation for the building campaign, tell why the school was needed and how it served the church.

"Needless to say, we were often downhearted but never discouraged. It was thrilling to share in such a project. The first cornerstone was laid, June 10th, 1961 and the Opening of Ewart College (the school was so named) was held September 29, 1962.

"Yes, the work was hard. On one trip I visited 17 cities in Western Canada in 24 days. When in Belleville I went to Toronto at least once a week, leaving Belleville at 6:15 a. m. and arriving back at one a.m. and always got up and made the family's breakfast the next morning.



"I believe a woman's home is absolutely of first importance. But my active work in the church is good for the family, the children, they are Kenneth, aged 17, Sherrill is 14, and Marylu, 10 — were greatly interested and vied with one another as to who could save most from their allowance to donate to the fund. My husband, — Mr. Taylor is an electric engineer with the Hydro — is much interested in church work. In a way the fund campaign was a family effort.

"But as far as my family is concerned all would have been most difficult had it not been for my step-mother. She made it possible to leave them at various times, by coming to Belleville from Thamesford, to stay taking over. She's a particularly wonderful kind of woman — the sort who will scoop little Marylu up in her arms and say to her, 'Now, I'm just going to kiss you twice, once for me and once for Mummie.'"

Some times this applicable poem was quoted during her campaign tours, which Mrs. Taylor said proved to be a great source of inspiration. It is by the Japanese poet Toyohiko Kagawa and follows in part:

And the thought was this,
That a secret plan
Is hid in my hand
That my hand is big.
Big
Because of this plan.
That God
Who dwells in my hand,
Knows this secret plan
Of the things He will do for the world.
Using my hand.

NEED a feeding seat for a baby visitor? A kitchen chair with a simulata back will do nicely, especially if it has a spoke back. Tie a long towel around it when under baby's arms and around the back of the chair. See that he's sitting up straight, then tie securely and he won't slip.

Red Cross History Book Is Completed

DESERONTO — The history of the Deseronto Red Cross branch has been completed by Mrs. Michael Ryan and copies will be ready for a limited distribution this month.

Mrs. Ryan, who has written the history, reported that a copy will be presented to the Deseronto Public Library, to each active member of the local Red Cross branch and to former Red Cross workers of long-standing. The Blood Clinic to be held in the Memorial Building in Napanee on Thursday, May 28 was announced. Mrs. Don Dawson is in charge of the local recruitment program.

She attended the annual convention in Windsor and told the local members at a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. William Crabbe that while the amount of blood donated was higher last year yet the amount used also increased. A collection of 378,788 bottles of blood was given in 1963 which was an increase of 3.5 per cent but the amount of blood used by the hospitals also increased by 5.5 per cent.

Mrs. Gordon Walker, local chairman, who was also a delegate to the convention spoke of the highlights of the women's work department and the Junior Red Cross.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My 14-year-old daughter has been invited to a party at the home of a school friend. I've never met the girl, and I do not know her parents. My daughter wants very much to go, and I'll give my permission, but I do think I should check with her friend's mother first about what time to bring her and when she should be picked up. It's a big-girl party, so I'd also like to make sure it will be properly supervised. Do you think it would be permissible for me to call and ask this question, or would the girl's mother have reason to feel offended if I did? What has been your experience in this type of situation? — Mrs. L. L. Boston, Mass.

Answer: It's been my experience that mothers welcome a display of interest on the part of other parents and, rather than being offended, are more than willing to set their minds at ease during party arrangements and especially about the subject of supervision. Since you don't know the girl or her parents, you really should call and introduce yourself anyway, both to ask pertinent questions about the coming party, and to pave the way for a personal meeting at that time.

Readers' Saturday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

We plan to serve an indian meal for our C.G.I.T. Mother and Daughter Banquet this spring, but don't know the proportions for cooking rice for 100 people. Someone told us it could be cooked in a roasting pan in the oven. Do you have any details? . . . By the way, our Easter pancake breakfast was a huge success, thanks to your all-purpose mix . . . Betty G.

ANSWER:

I'm glad I was a help with your Easter breakfast.

I have exact instructions for your rice fo 100.

RICE FOR 100:

Make 3 roasting pans full as follows: Into roasting pan, full, (serves 50 people,):

Place a standard-size turkey roasting pan measuring 14¾" x 10" x 4½" put 5 lbs. dry raw rice. Add 3 tablespoons plus 1½ teaspoons salt and stir in. Put roasting pan almost into position in oven, and add 4 imperial qts. (20 cups) boiling water. Stir in. Cover. (If necessary use heavy duty foil to cover well if you do not have a cover for roasting pan.) Have oven temperature at 350 deg. Fahr. Bake 1 hour. Test for doneness at this stage, for some inexplicable reason, it may take time to come up to required temperature after pans are put in.

I repeat: To serve 100, you will have to make 2 roasting pans full as above. Size of servings is ¾ cup, so you will have to be sure servings are measured with a 6-oz. (¾-cup) measure.

NOTE:

To bake plain rice for only 10 people put 1 lb. dry raw rice in large baking dish (with cover), stir in 1½ teaspoons salt, then 4 cups boiling water. Cover. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. ¾ hour. Makes ten ¾ cup (6-oz.) servings.

QUESTION:

Would you have a recipe for Seed and Kidney Pie made with meat crust and steamed? . . .

Mrs. W. E. N.

ANSWER:

Yes.

STEAMED BEEF AND KIDNEY PIE WITH SUET CRUST (supplied by J. Mahon, U.K. Trade Commissioner in 1961):

1½ lbs. stewing steak, ½ lb. kidney, 1½ cups flour, ¾ shredded suet, salt and pepper, one small onion.

Mix together flour, suet and pinch of salt. Add sufficient water (3 to 3 tablespoons) to form firm dough. Roll out on floured pastry board to ¼" thickness. Line greased pudding dish with half the dough. Cut steak and kidney into small pieces. Fill dish with meat, add sufficient water to nearly cover meat, add finely chopped onion, a pinch of salt and shake of pepper. Cover top with remaining dough. Cover with grease-proofed paper and tying cloth. Tie with string tightly under rim of dish, pull corners of cloth taut and tie across top in knot. Boil gently covered for 4 hours in saucepan, keeping water in saucepan just below top of basin. Serve with creamed potatoes and green vegetables. Sufficient for 4 or 5.

NOTE FROM EMEM:

I think the cut-up kidneys should be soaked in cold water in ½ hour. before draining and putting in pie.

"This is the eighth wonder of the world." (At last count, we had seen 9,876 "eighth" wonders.)

"This is the largest hotel outside of North America." (There are at least 147 of these, but everyone is going to have to shut-up soon; the Russians have a 1,000-room job under construction in Moscow.)

"I'm sorry you're disappointed but our regular chef is out sick (or it's his day off).

"You won't find a room for less anywhere in town this time of year."

Jewish People of World Mark the Shavuot Festival

By RABBI JOSEPH BERGLAS, Sons of Jacob Congregation

The Festival of Shavuot commences on the evening of Saturday, May 16th, the fifth day of the month of Sivan, and is observed for two days. It is called Shavuot—the Feast of Weeks—because it takes place seven weeks from the second day of Passover. Thus it is also known as Pentecost from the Greek word signifying the "Fiftieth."

Services will be held in the Synagogue beginning Saturday evening, May 16th, at eight o'clock: Sunday morning, May 17th, first day of Shavuot at 9.00 o'clock; Sunday evening, May 17th, at 8.00 o'clock and Monday morning, May 18th, second day of Shavuot at 9.00 o'clock, after which there will be a memorial service.

How is Shavuot observed? The Synagogue and the home is decorated with green branches and flowers symbolizing the harvest. At the synagogue, special holiday prayers are offered; special readings of the Ten Commandments and the book of Ruth, which tells how Ruth embraced the Jewish religion. The climax of this story takes place during the harvest season.

Dairy foods are served on this holiday because the Torah (Bible) is compared to "milk and honey." (Blintzes are a popular delicacy.) In many synagogues and temples, Shavuot is confirmation day.

The greatest moment in the annals of our people and indeed in the history of the human race is when Israel stood at the foot of Sinai, beholding the glory of God, revealed from the midst the flame of fire and clouds of smoke, the moment when Israel became the possessor of the island of God, the possessor of those sublime and eternal truths which became the basis of true religion, those ideals which have determined the moral consciousness of civilized humanity. And it is the anniversary of that momentous occasion that we celebrate to-day. It is this auspicious event in our history that this festival brings into our minds "this day thou hast become the people of the Lord, thy God!"

Shavuot commemorates what was perhaps the most crucial event in Jewish history, the giving of the Torah from Mount Sinai. This dramatic epic transformed a mass of liberated slaves into a kingdom of priests and holy nation, a people with a sublime and sacred mission. On this festival we rehearse the stirring saga enacted at the foot of Mount Sinai when Moses and Israel accepted the Torah and pledged to become its eternal guardians.

ADDRESSED TO ALL

The Ten Commandments were not addressed to the people as a whole, but to every individual and therefore were written in the singular number.

The principal feature in today's celebration is the reading of the chapter dealing with the revelation on Mount Sinai. The "Midrash" tells us that God will regard our reading of this chapter as if we were actually present on Mount Sinai. There is a great object in the recapitulation of this wonderful episode in our ancient history.

It continues to bring home to us its significance. It reminds us that those are principals which formed the basis of our national existence. It assures us that the law which was given to our fathers is also our law—The laws which Moses commanded us in an everlasting inheritance of the congregation of Jacob. "Not with our fathers did the Lord make this covenant, but with us, who are all here, alive today.

And we need it, first as our fathers did. Centuries of civilization and progress have not diminished the ethical value and moral significance of our Torah science, with all its wonderful achievements cannot supercede the law if it furthers in a measure man's happiness materially, it cannot satisfy his spiritual islands; it supplies the islands of the body but leaves the soul hungry, "and man doth not live by bread alone."

The greatness, the real happiness, can only be attained through the invaluable treasure, which was vouchsafed to mankind on Mount Sinai.

The Ten Commandments are important not only to Jews but to all the people of the world as the foundation for every civilized community and every society. It is for this reason, say the Rabbis, that they were given in the desert, in territory belonging to no one people, but to everyone.

Family Members Of Employees To Tour Plant

Family members of Northern Electric employees will have the opportunity next week of seeing at first hand just what their father or mother or possibly brother does to earn a living.

For three nights next week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, family members of Northern employees will be taken on a one - hour trips through the local plant. The tours will be from seven until ten in the evening.

One of the highlights of the three nights will be a visit from Northern Electric president R. Holley Keeffer of Montreal.

Leadership

bers of the 23-man Liberal caucus. Mr. Gould is looked upon as the dark horse.

Mr. Templeton, at one time a newspaper cartoonist, resigned last week as executive news editor of the Toronto Star. He said he had been considering entering politics for two years.

An evangelist for 20 years, he said there was no doubt that his religious background and the fact that he is divorced and remarried will affect his candidacy.

Among other likely leadership candidates, Eddie Sargent, member for Grey North, said whether he runs will be determined by the date of the leadership convention. An early fall date would likely rule him out.

Joseph Greene, member of the federal parliament for Renfrew South, said he is waiting to see what support develops for his candidacy before he decides to enter the race.

Among several resolutions to be presented at the general session of the convention today is a suggestion from the committee on pensions and co-operative federalism that Ontario should not opt out of joint federal provincial programs.

BACK FEDERAL PLAN

The committee also expressed support of the Canada Pension Plan. The federal provincial problems committee passed a resolution supporting Prime Minister Pearson's desire for a distinctive flag for Canada.

Another resolution today will ask that divorce laws be broadened to add desertion and insanity to adultery as grounds for divorce.

The hospital and health committee will propose that low basic premiums and taxation be used to finance a public health program. It says the plan should be publicly administered, available to all and should include physicians' and surgeons' fees and prescription drugs.

Another resolution, resulting from a surprise motion by George Bondy of Toronto, proposes sweepstakes to aid hospital construction costs. The committee passed the motion unanimously.

Other proposals call for emergency ambulance services to be covered by hospital insurance and exemption from increases in the hospital insurance premium for persons over 65.

Irate Wife Pens 'Love Letter' To Retired 'Man of Decisions'

By THOMAS COLLINS

The Hon. Retired Man,
Living Room Chair,
At home, Canada

Dearly Beloved:

You may regard this as a retirement love letter from your wife.

And I'd like to wad it up and throw it at you!

It might knock you out of that soft chair you've been sitting in these eight months . . .or at least ge you off the rear, left-hand corner of the cushion. Why don't you sit on the rear right-hand corner for a while? Maybe it'd get the cushion back in shape. Of course you could sit in the middle of the chair, like people do. But I guess I'd have to put the TV set smack in front of you to get that.

ut the chair is not the reason for this letter. A good man is worth a lop-sided chair, and you're a good man. I am writing instead to ask you if you will please let me make one little decision again sometime . like when I can go to the bathroom, or get a drink of water.

YOU MAKE DECISIONS

In the eight months you've been home I haven't been allowed to make any decisions n household matters that I made all the decisions on for nearly 40 years. How come? I made a lot of them better than you are doing.

You had to go out and berate the garbage man because they left a mess on the ground. They have been doing that for the 13 years they've been on the job, and I've cleaned up the mess. But those two men have fired my vacuum cleaner, investigated strange noises in the basement for me, gotten the cat out of a tree, moved my flower pots fo me — they've almost been family retainers.

And did you know that you took me last week to the home of a woman I haven't spoken to in four years, because I despise her? But the phone rings, you answer it, she, her husband asks us over, and you say "Sure!" Big Shot again. I haven't accepted a telephone invitation on the spot in the whole time we've been married. I've always said we'd love to come, but that I wanted to check with you. This was not only to make you look important — it was to give us time to blink.

And I didn' le Mary go because we couldn't afford her on your pension. Mary has been my maid and confidante for nine years. But you find a cobweb, and one day she doesn't show up, and you decide somebody had better take command of this shiftless employee. You did all right. And ruined the whole relationship.

A lot of pretty good people think the Devil has come home to live with me. Including the girl at the check-out counter at the supermart. She doesn't overcharge. She hasn't cheated me in four years. Why did you have to accuse her?

I know, Beloved, that you don't mean to be this way. But the trouble is you are!

You haven't even left me my dog. It was mine, you know. I bought it; you protested. I house broke it; you ranted. All these years I've petted it and protected it while you've ignored it. Now you are home and you use every device from candy bars to walks in the wood to steal its affections.

And I might as well mention those pans in the pantry. For 18 years I had them hung exactly as I wanted them to cook for you. Suppose you try cooking for a few days with the pans the way you've hung them. The refrigerator is a little awkward, too, since you moved it. Unless, of course, you like opening it with your left hand.

You keep insisting that I sit down with you after breakfast to watch TV and read the papers. I can, but this is the time I always pick up your clothes and replenish bathroom supplies. I'll be glad to sit down with you. But next time I hope you won't yell like a maniac when you're in the bathroom and find the paper gone.

understand a man needs something to boss when he no longer has an office to boss, and if he's been an important man then everybody else is an idiot.

But I'm getting tired. Until you can get this juvenile complex out of your system will you please start going down to the zoo every morning and telling the animals what to do?

Your wife.

Overdone Make-up Ruins Otherwise Nice Appearance

DEAR DORIS — My personality type is gamin ingenue. I wear some make-up: lipstick, eyebrow pencil, powder, mascara and some rouge sometimes.

I have some questions in my mind about whether a Christian teen-ager should wear make-up. It is being sexy or immoral to look pretty?—GAMIN INGENUE.

DEAR GAMIN INGENUE — According to my dictionary your personality type means "slave street Arab"!

Make-up is no longer sexy and shocking unless you make it so. Rouge, eyebrow pencil, what-have-you, are supposed to help nature out, and do it subtly enough that only your mirror knows for sure!

TO FEED REACTOR — A pair of fuelling machines like this prototype being tested at the Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., shops in Toronto will feed the nuclear power reactor being built at Douglas Point, Ont. The machines will be in vaults at each end of the reactor and will be operated from a control room in another part of the plant. One machine will feed fuel — cylinders of uranium oxide — into the reactor while the other machine removes spent fuel. By this means the reactor can be kept operating while it is being fuelled.

Country's First Full-Scale Nuclear Power Plant Nearly Ready at Douglas Point

By JOHN LeBLANC

DOUGLAS POINT, Ont. (CP) — It looks like an oversize farm silo, but the tall concrete tower peering over the treetops beside Lake Huron carries $80,000,000 worth of Canada's chips in the nuclear power game.

It is the atomic furnace for this country's first full - scale nuclear power plant, which has been growing gradually and with micrometer exactness on the sparsely settled Bruce County shore 130 miles northwest of Toronto since late 1960.

Some time next year it should start feeding 200,000 kilowatts into Ontario's electrical system as 55 tons of uranium fuel go into a slow burn that will eventually produce the heat equivalent of 2,000,000 or more tons of coal.

Scientists see it as a prototype of a string of stations considerably larger — which in another 20 years will be producing between 10,000,000 and 20,000,000 kilowatts, perhaps up to a fifth of Canada's total output.

SOLD TO INDIA

It also carries a large part of Canada's hopes for export of nuclear know - how, equipment and materials. The Canadian-developed process, using natural uranium and heavy water, has aroused interest in other countries including even Britain and the United States, which produce nuclear power by different methods.

One plant of the Douglas Point type has been sold to India by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, the federal agency developing nuclear energy for practical use, which is building the project here in conjunction with Ontario Hydro. Pakistan is in negotiations.

AEC and Hydro are already planning a much bigger one for Ontario. Drawing - board work is in progress and a contract is expected to be signed this summer for a $250,000,000 plant using the same reactor process but with two units of 500,000 kilowatts apiece. It's output would exceed the 940,000 kilowatts Hydro gets from its generator on the St. Lawrence Seaway near Cornwall.

BEHIND SCHEDULE

Meanwhile, the plant here rises slowly out of the Bruce farmland, a few months behind schedule from a combination of equipment delivery problems and those of fusing heavy construction and precision scientific minutiae into a whole that will function almost automatically.

For instance, that silo-like structure—the reactor building—has concrete walls four feet thick lined with heavy steel to contain radiation. The 60-ton reactor vessel of stainless steel had to be eased into position with only 15-1,000ths of an inch of tolerance in any direction.

One reason for the precision at this point it that the cylindrical reactor, hot with dangerous radiation, has to be refuelled automatically by robot stoking machines. These latch onto one or another of the 306 tubes running through the reactor, remove expended uranium and shove in fresh fuel.

RUN BY COMPUTER

Working behind 100-ton safety steel doors, the stokers carry out 42 separate operations to add each small portion of fuel while fission continues. An operator directs the procedure from a switchboard safely out of range but with an eye on things through closed-circuit TV.

The fuel is uranium oxide, which contains fissionable U235. Under ordinary conditions its atoms break up slowly but the individual flying neutrons travel too fast to split other atoms. In the Canadian system, heavy water—extracted from ordinary water by an expensive electrical process—is used as a "moderator" to slow the neutrons.

The reaction stays under control, at a high heat, with the help of a computer (electronic brain) system that keeps an eye on temperature and other conditions in each of the 306 uranium - filled tubes and does necessary adjusting of control rods.

"In its spare time," says a scientific paper on the plant, "the computer supervises other station data, reports interesting station gossip to the control operator through two typewriters and periodically calculates station efficiency."

WARMS LAKE WATER

A double function is served by the heavy water, which also will be used to pipe the reactor heat at 560 degrees, to boilers where it will vaporize ordinary water at the rate of 2,500,000 pounds of steam per hour to drive the turbines. From then on, the process is that of an ordinary steam plant.

After going through the turbines, the steam will be condensed back to water in a cooling system with 135 miles of brass pipe—enough to stretch to Toronto—and using 175,000 to 200,000 gallons of Lake Huron water a minute.

That works out to the neighborhood of 100,000,000,000 gallons of warmed-up water going back into the lake each year, a statistic imposing enough to impel some neighboring farmers to inquire hopefully about the prospects of another Canadian banana belt.

However, the water that's used will be warmed only 14 degrees at the most and, in fact, won't affect anything except the lake immediately adjacent to its outlet.

Contamination prospects are equally slight. Though the reactor building will contain tons of highly lethal materia in a state of fission, Atomic Energy officias say it is so designed as to hold any materials that could escape from the reactor even in the event of the most serious accident.

BLAST IMPOSSIBLE

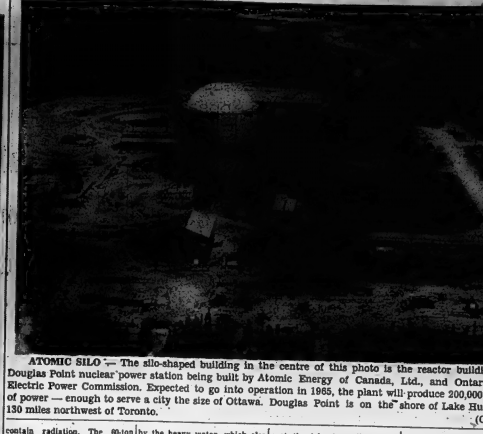
An atomic explosion is not one of the possibilities, with the materials used. In fact, unless a little new fuel were added each day, the reaction would gradually coast to a stop. The process is described as somewhat like keeping a damp fire going.

Leakage of heavy water, though, could be serious from the economic standpoint. The system will be loaded up with $9,000,000 worth of this commodity, and an expert has stated that whether it can operate with economically low losses is the $64,000,000 question to be answered here and at a smaller pilot plant opened in 1962 at Rolphton, Ont. Leakage of heavy water stopped this plant once in its early stages.

It is calculated that a loss of one gallon per hour out of the 200 tons in the system would cost 25 per cent to the cost of energy from the plant here.

AEC President J. L. Gray said recently that operating experience from the experimental plant and other reactors indicate chronic losses can be kept "within acceptable limits" — perhaps $200,000 a year.

The uranium oxide fuel works out at more than $3,000,000 for a full charge in the furnace, which over its average fission period of two years would produce the heat equivalent of around $10,000,000 worth of coal.



TRY TO CUT COST

However, the higher initial plant cost means that Douglas Point power will not be competitive with coal. It is expected to produce power at a cost of between five and six mills per kilowatt hour, against about 4½ at a modern coal plant and between three and four for hydraulic power. The succeeding 1,000,000 - kilowatt plant, it is hoped, will bring the figure below four mills.

The plant here will have a period to work any bugs out of it. With construction due to be completed by the end of this year, the reactor will be fired up some time in 1965 and it will be about six months after that before it is hooked up to Hydro's transmission system.

Hydro will operate the plant for Atomic Energy and will buy its delivered electricity at the same rates it pays for power from interconnected systems. When the plant is established on a dependable generating unit, the hydro commission will buy it at a price calculated to render its power equal in cost to that from an efficient coal-fired station.

The difference between this price and the initial cost of $80,000,000 will go into the nuclear cost of developing commercial nuclear power.

ATOMIC SILO — The silo-shaped building in the centre of this photo is the reactor building of the Douglas Point nuclear power station being built by Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., and Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission. Expected to go into operation in 1965, the plant will produce 200,000 kilowatts of power — enough to serve a city the size of Ottawa. Douglas Point is on the shore of Lake Huron about 130 miles northwest of Toronto.

Library Board Plans Various Future Projects

DESERONTO — Plans are going forward for the exhibition of a small collection of museum reproductions recently acquired by the Deseronto Library Board.

Details were discussed at a meeting this week in the reference room of the library with Mrs. Rose Sexsmith, chairman, presiding.

The date for the showing will be set at the June 1 meeting. A contract was given to F. E. O'Connor at an estimated cost of $500 to replace and shingle the roof; install new eavestroughing, four aluminum storm-screen windows and a new drainpipe.

The fire insurance coverage was increased on the books and furniture. The books are now insured for $15,000 and the furniture for $2,000.

The library board will also sponsor a summer project for young people. This program will be announced at the next meeting.

It is false economy to learn to drive by cut-rate methods or through the help of well meaning but untrained friends . . . .

Laotian Premier Is Fearful Of Resumption of Civil War As Pathet Lao Is on Move

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — The threat of renewed civil war hung over the indochinese kingdom of Laos today as Premier Souvanna Phouma called on the International Control Commission for an investigation of his country's deteriorating military situation.

The Laotian defence ministry Friday announced that the pro-Communist Pathet Lao on Thursday captured the town of Tha Thom, 90 miles northeast of Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital.

The ministry also said the Pathet Lao was preparing for an assault on Paksane, 20 miles southwest of Tha Thom, starting with the Paksane outpost of Sala Dene Dinh.

Tha Thom and Paksane are linked by road. Paksane is on Mekong River town on the Thai border.

Souvanna, in his letter to the three-nation ICC—composed of representatives from Canada, Poland and India—said the Pathet Lao also threatened Vang Vieng, on the road to the royal Laotian capital of Luang Prabang.

"This," a right-wing Laotian army officer said Friday, "is the beginning of the end." He said the Pathet Lao was taking "complete revenge" for an ill-fated right-wing strike into Pathet Lao territory two months ago.

The right-wing force, which set out from Tha Thom, ran into heavy Pathet Lao resistance and was eventually dispersed and straggled into the hills of central Laos.

A communique issued by the rightists following the debacle said two companies of troops from Communist China and five from North Viet Nam were "exterminating" right-wing guerrillas in northern Laos.

A communique issued here Friday said the Pathet Lao was building up its forces around the Plaine des Jarres in central Laos.

The Plaine des Jarres, held by neutralist and right-wing forces—the two were reported earlier last week to have merged—is surrounded by hills and ridges held by the Pathet Lao.

May Use List To Keep Track Of Voters

TORONTO (CP) — Maurice Moreau, Liberal MP for York-Scarborough, said Friday a plan to use social security information to keep track of voters and help maintain voters' lists is under study in Ottawa.

Addressing a committee on provincial and federal problems at the annual meeting of the Ontario Liberal Association, Mr. Moreau said a provincial study of electoral reforms similar to one launched by the Commons committee on privileges and elections is needed.

The association committee meeting passed a resolution recommending the Ontario Liberal party press for a select committee to study provincial election reform.

Speaking of the use of social security information to help keep track of a voter, Mr. Moreau said the chief electoral officer said it couldn't be done. . . . But we're investigating at the present time."

Boards Do Most of Work Claim Liberals

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government was accused Friday of letting boards and commissions do most of its work.

Prof. Mark MacGuigan of the University of Toronto law school made the charge at the annual meeting of the Ontario Liberal Association.

He said the government is "shirking its responsibility" in turning too much power over to such bodies as the Ontario Municipal Board.

He called for a system of judicial reviews of decisions made by boards and commissions.

Elmer Sopha, Liberal member of the legislature for Sudbury, said the "police act" legislation which had to be changed drastically during the last session of the legislature was symptomatic of the growing government dependence on boards and commissions.

There were almost 90 boards and commissions in Ontario, he said.

CATTLE MEN VISIT

OTTAWA (CP)—A dairy cattle mission from France will spend next week in Ontario inspecting Holstein - Friesian herds, the trade department announced Friday. The mission members will attend cattle sales at the Romandale Farms in Unionville next Tuesday and the national Holstein - Friesian sale at Oakville the following Monday. The delegation also will visit the Ontario Veterinary College in Guelph.

Rank-and-File Teamsters Demand Hoffa Pay Back Money Used in Trials

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six rank - and - file Teamsters demanded in a U.S. district court suit Friday that union President James Hoffa and his top command repay the union for the estimated hundreds of thousands of dollars they used to defend themselves in criminal trials.

They also asked that the court grant an injunction forbidding further payments of such legal expenses.

It was another in a series of sharp blows in Hoffa's position as boss of the biggest union in the United States.

Even as the suit was entered here, Hoffa was sitting in a Chicago court room on trial on charges of conspiring to defraud the unions in a $20,000,000 loan scheme.

He also is appealing an eight-year jury tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Some union sources have questioned whether Hoffa can remain in power, in the face of the court actions, without the backing of the union treasury.

KICKED OFF FUSS

The six Philadelphia Teamsters are part of the same group who kicked off a fuss in the Teamster high command several weeks ago over the question of Hoffa's legal fees.

Teamster general counsel Edward Bennett Williams agreed with the Philadelphia group that such expenditures are illegal and some executive board members demanded a full accounting at a board meeting to consider the question further.

No such meeting has yet been scheduled on the issue but Hoffa said he would stop using union money to pay his legal costs until the Teamsters can get an other legal opinion on the matter.

The Philadelphia rebels also asked that bonding companies who have bonded top union officials also be made part of the suit. They said Teamsters leaders have refused to tell them the names of the bonding companies.

The suit named Hoffa as well as 14 other members of the union's executive board and four trustees.

The union has repeatedly refused to say how much Hoffa's long legal troubles have cost.

The six men who filed the suit are John C. Jones Sr., Jesse Cole, Benjamin Burnham, Louis J. Buttone, L. V. Schaler and John Reagan.

ROBBER FLEES

TORONTO (CP) — A bandit walked into a Bank of Nova Scotia branch Friday, handed the manager a note demanding money, then fled as the manager calmly pushed the alarm button. Police believe the holdup man was the same one who threatened another manager with death a month ago and escaped with $1,700.

Innocent Words Take On Added Meaning in NATO

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Even such innocent words as "mediation" take on a bomb-like meaning these days in two not-to-chummy NATO partners, Greece and Turkey.

That was never clearer than at the NATO ministerial meeting in The Hague this week when one could provoke glassy stares and trembling indignation by unwary use of the terms mediator or mediation.

The problem went deeper than semantics, of course, but it points up how easily differences in the alliance can be magnified and how difficult it is to keep 15 countries working as a team.

There is a long history of hostility between Greece and Turkey but the Russian threat following the Second World War was frightening enough to drive them to co - operation within NATO.

Now that the main Communist pressures are being applied elsewhere than in their region, those two countries find it easier to quarrel openly over Cyprus.

In the case of Greece, this feeling of independence is so strong that Foreign Minister Stavros Kostopoulos at first rejected the idea that the quarrel was any of NATO's business.

SOME FEARED WAR

Secretary - General Dirk Stikker of NATO says he refuses even to contemplate the possibility of war between two sister countries of the alliance but it was apparent at The Hague that some foreign ministers did not share his confidence.

Even apart from open warfare, the feeling was strong that the countries—particularly Greece—fall short in their efforts to exert a moderating influence on the warring Greek and Turkish communities in Cyprus.

This seems strange in the eyes of such far-off countries as Canada, making sacrifices and taking risks on behalf of the suffering Cypriots.

Much was in the background of the bitter debate that led to Stikker being commissioned to maintain a "watching brief" with Greece and Turkey over Cyprus, which is not a NATO member.

In one sense, this surely is what Stikker has been doing all the time. It's obvious that the alliance secretary-general would be watching the possibility of war between two members.

Any mention of mediation was eschewed lest it be thought NATO was shouldering its way into a field solely the responsibility of the United Nations—the restoration of peace in Cyprus itself.

Managing Editors Are Told French Canada Seeks Most Self-Determination Possible

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP)—Paul Gerin-Lajoie, Quebec education minister, said today French - speaking Canadians "want the largest possible measure of self-determination."

But he said they are "not disposed to risk their present standard of living for the sake of a purely political independence void of the genuine economic and social independence which would guarantee raising the standard of living."

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, a top adviser to Premier Jean Lesage, told the Canadian Managing editors' Conference that French-speaking Canadians "have lived in a state of economic and, consequently, social inferiority as compared with their English-speaking partners."

He said they were aware that they can achieve self-determination.

"(Thus) they have the emotional and instinctive tendency to throw all boats in any way associated with the background of this state of economic and social inferiority."

The minister said that in principle the power of self-determination should imply for the Quebec government all the prerogatives of a state.

"However, since we accept to live as associates, there are responsibilities which must obviously be left to a federal government."

He said it would be realistic to seek solutions which would be "reconcilable with the objective of self-determination without for all this risking what we already have, economically speaking."

He said the Canadian constitution is "not unbreachable" and must be "adapted to the present-day circumstances."

"Finally, if the federal feeling ignores the profound feeling of the French-Canadians," Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said, "the latter will have great difficulty to recognize themselves in the federal government or be identify themselves with it."

Mammoth Youth Rally Launched in East Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communists launched a mammoth youth rally in East Berlin today offering three days of entertainment including a concert by the secret police.

Government officials said they expected about 800,000 youngsters from throughout East Germany to show up. It is the first such rally since 1954, when hundreds used the opportunity to escape to the West.

Presumably because of the escapes, 10 years elapsed before another rally was organized.

The Communists can be fairly safe now. They built their anti-refugee wall through Berlin nearly three years ago and the chances of reaching the West are remote. About 10,000 guards, armed with machine-guns and aided by police dogs, normally guard the border around West Berlin.

Western intelligence sources said they expected a slight increase in guards since Friday.

Communist guards at the crossing points through the wall appeared to be more careful than usual as they inspected automobile trunks, lifted car seats and checked the bottom of cars with mirrors on long poles to see if anyone was being smuggled to the West.

Hundreds of special trains and buses carried youngsters to the city from scattered towns and villages.

The meeting is sponsored by the Free German Youth organization under the patronage of Walter Ulbricht, the Communist party boss.

Ulbricht invited West German youngsters to come to East Berlin for the rally but there was no evidence that any appreciable number followed the call.

Western reporters were accredited at the youth meeting's press centre. Western radio and television reporters, however, were told they could not use movie cameras or sound recording equipment.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Every red-blooded Canadian, whether his equine tastes run to board-legged Clydales, Shetland ponies, or the $1 variety breed will be pulling for the magnificent "Northern Dancer" to win the second jewel in tracklom's Triple Crown at Pimlico this afternoon.

The "Dancer," the first Canadian-bred three-year-old to win the coveted Kentucky Derby "ran for the Roses" months in embryo-ted, "Hill Rise" in the Preakness but the horsemen south of the border de'ded before, odds-wise, that the Canadian colt can repeat.

This belief is probably based no the fact that the "Dancer," after opening a four-length lead by escaping from a possible pocket, was only a neck from the hard-charging "Hill Rise," who was gaining ground in every step.

There are others who claim the "Dancer's" victory was made possible by the rides of the jockeys, Willie Hartack up on "Dancer," and Willie Shoemaker, astride "Hill Rise."

They substantiate this claim by the fact, they say, that Shoemaker learned a lot about "Dancer" in the Derby, also about "Hill Rise." Then again on the other side of the picture Hartack has learned something about "Hill Rise". He knows plenty about Shoemaker. This could very well be a battle of the jockeys.

No call has won the coveted triple crown since the mighty "Citation" raced to three straight victories back in 1948. Some will know by Saturday on both sides of the border say that if "Dancer" wins this afternoon the Belmont Stakes slated for June 6th is not too far beyond his reach.

Six horses will start this afternoon in the 88th running of the Black-Eyed Susans, and the winner's share of $154,000. In horse parlance "That ain't hay, brother," and there's quite a spread between the top take and the second place $30,000.

The other starters are "Scoundrel," "Roman Brother," "Quadrangle" and Big Pete." Third place horse collects $15,000 and fourth, $7,500. Two of the nags will go home broke."

And don't forget that it is anybody's horse-race until the winner goes under the wire. One well-known city horseman is looking for an upset in either "Scoundrel", or "Quadrangle." In fact he has laid bets to that effect.

I asked him why: "I believe in hunches," he said, "and I've got a hunch that one of these horses will deliver the unexpected."

Speaking of hunches, I'm told the story of a matron of the arch who was an expectant mother—well, within a month or so.

She travelled with a party to the Toronto Woodbine track to see and bet on the current running of the then King's Plate.

Just before she reached the track she noticed the name "Maternal Pride" scrsiched in crude printing on a fence.

She, too, was a believer in hunches and signs. So she placed the family bankroll on "Maternal Pride," a 100-1 shot.

You guessed it. "Maternal Pride" galloped home the winner and "Mother" rode home richer by the biggest bundle she had ever seen. That was in 1924.

"Northern Dancer", incidentally, can become the only horse to win the Kentucky Derby and the Queen's Plate. He heads a list of 56 three-year-olds kept eligible for the fifth running classic at the Canadian classic at Woodbine on June 20th.

Last winter Jockey Club oddsmaker George Duffus predicted "Dancer" would be the best Canadian-bred ever to race. Because of his confidence he made the colt favorite in the Club Winterbrook, at the shortest price in the race history.

Duffus' second and third choices were "Jammed Lively" and "Northern Flight," and both colts have been keep eligible by owner Conn Smythe.

The Preakness, by the way, will be telecast at 5.30 this afternoon.

MONTREAL (CP) — Senator Hartland Molson, owner of the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens, and Frank C. Selke, the club's general manager, announced at a press conference Friday they are stepping out of the team administration in favor of younger blood.

Molson is board chairman and Selke vice-chairman of the parent Canadian Arena Company.

Pollock is the youngest club manager in the NHL.

David Molson, 35, a cousin of the senator, was appointed president of the Arena Company and the club.

JOB FOR ROCKET

A further move brought Maurice (Rocket) Richard, 45, one of the all-time greats during 18 seasons with Canadiens, into the front office as assistant to the president, with special responsibility for public relations and the development of new players.

Frank Selke Jr., 34, was elected to vice-president of the Arena Company for sales and publicity.

The announcement ended a week of speculation about front-office movements following Ken Reardon's resignation as vice-president and assistant general manager of the club.

Pollock and Richard are expected to share part of the duties performed by Reardon, club sources said.

Richard said he plans to meet the new president shortly to work out his role in player development.

YOU STAYS

It was also announced that Toe Blake will remain as coach.

"This makes me very happy," Senator Molson said.

"I'm looking forward to handling the team again," Blake said. This will mark his 10th season as coach.

Canadiens won the Stanley Cup six times and the NHL title eight during Selke's term as manager. Senator Molson said Selke "has had probably the most successful individual career in the history of hockey."

Selke came to Montreal after several years in the Toronto Maple Leafs' administration.

Under him, Canadiens won the Stanley Cup in 1956 and a record five-year span from 1956-60 inclusive. They won the championship in 1947, 1958, 1959 for 1963 inclusive and again last season.

ROCKET GREATEST

Asked who was the greatest player he managed, Selke replied "Rocket Richard, there's absolutely no question about it."

Elmer Bellveau is great also, the finest, most polished centreman in the game, and an exceptional gentleman to boot."

At a buffet luncheon following the press conference, Selke said he was taken somewhat by surprise "when Senator Molson suggested that he and I step aside in favor of younger successors. But . . . the kids go marching on."

Trainers Leave Race To Jockeys

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — One thing about being a reporter—you get to ask those in the know just what is going to happen in the Preakness today. It's very revealing.

Like asking trainers of the horses in the 88th running of the $100,000-added event if their three-year-old would take the early lead should none of the others do it. Their helpful replies:

Horatio Luro of Northern Dancer: "I'm leaving it up to jockey Bill Hartack."

Elliott Burch of Quadrangle: "I'm leaving it up to jockey Braulio Baeza."

Bill Finnegan of Hill Rise: "Saturday, I'll have to leave it up to jockey Bill Shoemaker."

Burley Parke of Roman Line: "I think jockey Wayne Chambers is very capable of doing the same."

Mesh Tenney of The Scoundrel: "I hope jockey Hank Moreno has good judgment."

Barnie Reed, trainer of the other Preakness entry, Big Pete, wasn't at Pimlico's alibi breakfast Friday. A lot of us thought we learned something, though. For example a horse is in better condition if he runs without weight.

"Northern Dancer weighs more now than before winning the Kentucky Derby," explained Luro. "It is a reflection of his better condition because he has been on the same diet that is the way I judge it."

The weather forecast for today is fair, but there isn't a sports writer around who wouldn't ask about effect of a wet track. Everybody knows some horses are better muddiers than others. Which trainer would prefer a slow track?

Luro: "I always like a fast track because the result is true."

Parke: "I agree."

Finnegan: "I'd much rather have it fast."

Burch: "For the good of all concerned, I'd like it fast."

Remember all this useful information while watching the Preakness on CBC television 5:30-6 p.m. EDT.

Dope Rule Is Amended

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Florida State Racing Commission Friday amended its rule by which a horse trainer was held responsible for anything that happened to the animals in his care by placing the burden of proof on the stewards rather than the trainer.

The old rule brought about suspension last March of Horse trainer Luro, trainer of Kentucky Derby winner Northern Dancer, and Joe H. Pierce Jr., whose horses won 19 races at Gulfstream Park.

Prohibited drugs were found in urine samples of Gay Lothario, trained by Luro, and Tamarin, trained by Pierce. Luro proved that his veterinarian administered the drug without his knowledge. Pierce was suspended for the Gulfstream meeting on grounds of negligence in not providing a night watchman for his stable.

Pappas Second Banana

Birds Bonus Baby Bunker Wins Third

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When the winningest pitcher in Baltimore's 10-year American League tenure tosses a shutout before the home fans, collects two hits in three trips to the plate and still gets upstaged by a veteran of four major league appearances, he has to be bucking a hot streak.

Milt Pappas found out what it's like to be fuzzy-cheeked Wally Bunker's act Friday night when the two right handers pitched the Orioles to a doubleheader sweep over Los Angeles Angels.

Pappas blanked them on eight hits and plunked a single and run - scoring double in Baltimore's 12-0 nightcap victory. But he played second banana to Bunker's 6-1 four-hit masterpiece—third straight complete game victory for the 19-year-old bonus kid—in the opener.

The second game decision was Pappas' 42nd as an Oriole and evened his 1964 record at 2-2. He was the same age at Bunker is now when he won his first game.

Bunker, a $70,000 bonus sensation less than a year removed from high school, has allowed two earned runs and 14 hits in 27 innings.

ONE OF FOUR

Pappas' shutout was one of four in AL activity. John Buzhardt of Chicago White Sox blanked Washington Senators 3-0 on three hits; Camilo Pascual of Minnesota Twins edged Bill Monbouquette of Boston Red Sox 1-0 on a six-hitter and Diego Segui of Kansas City Athletics scattered nine hits and lasted New York Yankees 11-0.

Cleveland Indians ripped Detroit Tigers 10-8 in the only game not marked by fine pitching.

Home runs by Luis Aparicio and John Orsino and Bob Johnson's two-run triple knocked Bunker in the Orioles - Angels opener. Norm Siebern chipped in with three hits.

Pappas struggled for his shutout, struggling 10 LA base runners, but the outcome was decided when the Orioles scored six unearned runs in the fourth. Jackie Brandt hit a three-run homer in the eighth.

GOT LUCKY

Buzhardt retired the last 18 batters he faced and won his third of five decisions. He struck out nine and walked one. The White Sox scored a tainted run in the third inning and Dave Nicholson singled home the other in the sixth.

The Twins had to three single by Monbouquette through seven innings, twice blighting set a scoring chance. Monbouquette on Frank Malzone's error, a sacrifice and Bernie Allen's double. Minnesota's Tony Oliva raised his league-leading batting average to .435 with two singles and a double.

Rocky Colavito touched Yankee starter Ralph Terry for a second-inning homer—his 10th of the year—and singled home one of five Kansas City runs in the sixth. But he had to leave the game when he was hit in the ankle by a line drive off the bat of teammate Dick Green.

Cleveland completed the rout with five runs in the eighth.

The Indians scored three runs in the seventh, two on rookie Bob Chance's pinch homer, added a pair in the eighth on Larry Brown's double and pulled out of reach on ninth-inning homers by Jerry Kindall and Woodie Held. Norm Cash and Jerry Lumpe connected for Detroit.

Baseball Season Tickets

Season's tickets, at a price of $2 each, are now on sale by the Belleville Senior Baseball Club.

Attractive prizes were completed Thursday for several outlets in downtown Belleville and the tickets are also available from any of the players.

Team spokesman Murray Hunter said yesterday that ads are also being sold for a program to help finance the club. "We are going ahead with plans, holding workouts as often as possible, and are also recruiting more help from some of the city's established baseball men. We look for the season's tickets to sell well, at this reasonable price, and we want the public to know we appreciate any help we can get," Hunter said.

Lowly Mets Oust Giants

Willie Hitless Twice In Row

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Whatever happened to Marvellous Mary Throneberry?

The first baseman who dropped into undeserved obscurity after dropping everything else in sight in the course of helping New York Mets to a 10th-place finish in their first National League season ,would have felt at home in Los Angeles Friday night.

No, the Mets weren't in town. They've suddenly become the scourge of the first division, winning six of their last nine games and hearing an uncanny resemblance to a real ball club.

The mantle of Throneberry and his 1962 associates seems to have fallen, temporarily at least, on Pittsburgh Pirates, whose painstaking display of fielding ineptitude in the fourth inning was Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-0 victory.

The Mets, meanwhile, ran their current winning streak to three as they downed San Francisco 4-2, knocking the Giants out of first place in favor of Philadelphia Phillies, who whipped Houston Colts 4-0. Cincinnati Reds bombed Chicago Cubs 10-5 and St. Louis Cardinals outslugged Milwaukee Braves 10-6 in the other games played.

HOWARD HITS HOMER

The Dodgers had taken a legitimate 1-0 lead over the Pirates on Frank Howard's runscoring double in the fourth when things suddenly began to go haywire.

On the next play, Willie Stargell drop-kicked John Rosebore's single while attempting to make a pickup, sending Howard to third. A run scored on a single by Willie Davis that put Roseboro on third base.

Then Dick Tracewski missed an attempted squeeze bunt, trapping Rosebore between third and home. But he got back safely when third baseman Gene Freese dropped the ball, Davis moving to second.

After an intentional pass to Tracewski, winning pitcher Phil Ortega hit a fly to right centre and Bill Virdon and Bob Iemants watched it fall, each thinking the other would catch it. That scored Roseboro and Davis later came home with the fourth run of the inning on a force play.

Ortega blanked the Pirates with a five-hitter, extending the Dodgers' string of shutout innings to 24, to even his record at 3-2. Bob Friend lost his second of five decisions.

MAYS HELD HITLESS

The Mets, fresh from kayoing Warren Spahn and the Braves the previous night, got three-hit pitching from Tracy Stallard and Larry Bearnarth and a timely two - run double from Charlie Smith in the eighth inning to whip the Giants. Willie Mays was hitless for the second night in a row, dropping his average to .421.

Dennis Bennett singled home the deciding run and blanked the Colts with a five-hitter as the Phillies handed Don Nottebert his fifth straight defeat. A three-run rally in the seventh, featuring Richie Allen's two-run single, wrapped it up.

Julian Javier's grand - slam home run in the first inning started things off for the Cardinals, but they needed back-to-back homers by rookie Jeoff Long and Charlie James, his second of the game, in the seventh to break a 6-6 tie. Roger Craig blanked the Braves over the last four innings in relief to get the victory.

The Reds batted around in a six-run third inning to thwart Larry Jackson's bid for a fifth straight victory with Frank Robinson tagging him for a two-run homer. Billy Williams and Andre Rodgers homered for the Cubs.

Golf Rules Changes

Following are the principal changes introduced into the 1964 code as approved by the Royal Golf Association. City and district golfers should clip and study them.

Definition 6 — Ball Lost:

Declaration of lost ball abolished; ball is "lost" only if it is not found within five minutes or if another ball has been put into play before the five minutes have elapsed.

Definition 23 — Obstructions:

Immovable obstructions now declare what construction, if any, they consider to be an integral part of the course, and so declared are not obstructions.

Rule 2 — The Club and the Ball:

Form and make of clubs. More detailed specifications for measuring length of a clubhead and for attachment of the shaft to the clubhead. New definitions for "matched" sets of clubs.

Rule 4 — Maximum Number of Clubs:

Maximum penalties established of two holes in match play and four strokes in stroke play for each excess club. Any excess club must be declared out of play upon discovery.

RULES 5 and 36—40 — Practice:

Between holes practising on or in putting green prohibited, but that of the hole last played and is permissible even though hole is to be played again (as on a nine-hole course). Committees given wider powers to regulate practice on the course on a competition day.

Rule 17 — Improving Lie or Stance and Influencing Ball Prohibited:

Prohibition against action to influence position or movement of ball, extended here so as to apply to embedded ball.

Rule 22 — Playing a Wrong Ball or under a Wrong Rule:

Play of a ball under an inapplicable Rule is treated the same as play of a ball other than the player's own.

Rule 22 — Lifting, Dropping and Placing:

This Rule now specifies the procedure for all other Rules authorizing lifting, dropping or placing. It requires the ball to be dropped from the re-dropped when it rolls more than two club-lengths from the point where it first struck the ground, and that placing or replacing of a ball be done by the player, his partner, or either of their caddies.

Rule 24 — Ball Interfering with Play:

One provision has been established for all cases of a ball interfering with play through the green or in a hazard.

Rule 33 — Ball Unfit for Play:

Clarification that substitution of another ball may only be made on the hole where the damage occurred.

Rule 29 — Ball Lost, Out of Bounds or Unplayable:

For an unplayable ball the provision of penalties of strokes and distance has been retained, but for the alternative of placing a ball within two club-lengths or behind the line of the lay the ball lay the penalty has been reduced to one stroke.

Rule 30 — Provisional Ball:

A provisional ball may no longer be played for a ball which may be unplayable or in a water hazard, but only for a ball which may be lost or out of bounds.

Rule 34 — Ball Fouling Hole:

A ball fouling an unattended flagstick when played from the putting green or within twenty yards of the hole entails a penalty of loss of hole in match play and two strokes in stroke play.

Rule 33 — The Putting Green:

Repair of ball marks — The former prohibition against stepping on damaged area when repairing a ball mark has been removed. In matches a ball lifted for repair of a ball mark may be replaced immediately if the opponent so requests.

Ball overhanging the hole — When any part of the ball overhangs the hole, the player or his owner is not allowed more than a reasonable time to determine whether or not it rest. If by then it has not fallen into the hole, it is deemed to be at rest.

Stroke play: ball assisting play — A fellow competitor now has the option of either lifting or playing first, if he considers that first play may assist the competitor.

Stroke play: ball striking a fellow-competitor's ball — A competitor is penalized even when Injury from a hazard within two club-lengths of the hole, except when it is a fellow competitor's ball in a hazard.

The appendix has been considerably enlarged to permit local rules or other regulations to be made to cover a greater variety of matters.

CHALLENGER LOSES

PORTSMOUTH (AP) — Kurowa V, Britain's probable contender in the America's Cup challenge, lost both races against her training partner Sovereign off the Isle of Wight Friday. Despite this, a spokesman said, the training program is "going very well."

Trudeaus At Tweed

Softball Opens Monday!

The "new look" Belleville and District Softball League will open its 1964 16-game schedule with an afternoon game on Monday, the May 18th holiday.

The league has four entries, Tweed Lombanks, Trenton Commercial Printers and Belleville Ellis Juniors giving the league its "new look" while Trudeau Motors of Belleville are returning from last season.

In Monday's opener, Trudeaus visit Tweed for a game there at 2.00 p.m. Other games during the first week have Trenton at Trudeaus on Tuesday, at CNRA Park at 6.45; Ellis Juniors visiting Trenton at Bay Shore Park on Wednesday, at 8.15; and Tweed meeting the Juniors in a 6.45 game at the CNRA on Thursday.

All clubs have voiced confidence of fielding strong contenders for league honors and later for OASA playdowns.

Tweed's ace will be Blaine Healey, the strikeout artist who led the league on fire with the now defunct Joyce Realty squad last year. Healey averaged close to 16 strikeouts per game and if Lombanks can back him with any kind of attack, should make Tweed a serious threat for top spot.

Trudeaus have added several key men from Joyces and the Bobcats and still have most of last year's squad which finished just four points out of first place. Doug Ellis, Junior Day and Stu Muirhead, southpaw Bobby Green, will handle the pitching chores while players during the lines of Rick Locke, Frank "Shiner" Murray, Gary Duggan and Bert Faulkner assure strength from top to bottom.

Ellis Juniors expect to field a strong team with much depending on how the pitching holds up. Experienced players such as Stu Muirhead, Doyle Weston and Don Gardner plus the pick of last year's Juvenile team, point to a strong hitting, good fielding team.

Trenton expects to have Drake, Leroy Wannamaker, Will Kennedy, big Lem Howat; and pitchers Bob Butterfield and Mike Retushinski, at least until expected postings with the RCAF came up, the Trenton squad hopes to give all teams a run for their money.

Harold Bawden, newly-elected league president says: "the league should have better balance than last year when only four points separated the top three clubs and we look for keen competition from every corner. I hope the fans will attend games to give clubs a chance to prove that softball is a long way from dead here."

CAHA Has Biggest Deficit In History

Takes Wallop in Wallet

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary-Treasurer Gordon Juckes will have some bad news for delegates attending the 80th annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association here next week.

Juckes is expected to report to amateur hockey's governing body that last season produced one of the biggest deficits the association has ever suffered.

Failure of the four-game Memorial Cup finals to draw more than 10,000 customers to Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens was a heavy blow to the CAHA pocketbook. In other years the Dominion junior final was a big money-maker for the association.

The CAHA also is still feeling the financial effects of its venture into the publishing field. It stopped putting out the Hockey Monthly after several branches complained about adding the magazine's subscription fees to registration fees.

The magazine, hailed as a sound business venture two years ago, was said by one CAHA official to have cost the association $30,000.

Relations between the CAHA and the professional National League also were further strained in the last year.

POTTER BOOBING

One instance occurred during the junior finals when CAHA President Art Potter of Edmonton charged that a reason Toronto Marlboros and Edmonton Oil Kings played to such small crowds was that Maple Leaf Gardens had overpriced tickets to the games.

Potter also clashed with the rink management when it refused to allow an Edmonton radio station to broadcast the games.

In the past, delegates have been bitter about the NHL's veto of rule changes approved at CAHA annual meetings. Professional hockey representatives on the joint rules committee made up of NHL and CAHA officials have constantly turned down changes advocated by the amateurs, they said.

The Manitoba branch has a resolution to be discussed next week asking for a committee study of the rules committee.

The resolution makes note of the NHL veto and says the CAHA, as the parent body of amateur hockey, "should stand on its own two feet both administratively and financially."

Also up for consideration will be the permanent formation of a national team to represent Canada at international competitions.

National Hockey League

Cuts Juicy $220,500 Melon

MONTREAL (CP) — Defenseman Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs made more money in bonuses for his National Hockey League play this season than the majority of Canadians earn in a year.

The all-star rearguard picked up $6,500 cash, $1,500 more in extra loot accepted from NHL bonuses than any other player, figures compiled by the NHL show.

His extra spending money is made up of $3,500 in playoff awards, $2,000 for being named to the first all-star team in each half of the season and in the final competition, $500 for Leafs' third-place finish and $500 for coming second in the James Norris Memorial Trophy voting for the league's best defenceman.

The NHL said it gave out a total of $220,500 in cash awards this year and gave this breakdown: $135,000 to teams in the Stanley Cup playoffs; $54,000 to the first four teams in the final standings; $15,500 to players named to the all-star teams; $13,000 to individual trophy-winners and runners-up.

The awards to teams are made on the basis of an 18-man team.

LEAFS GET $78,250

Leafs, who won the Stanley Cup, picked up a total of $78,250 in various awards. Detroit Red Wings got $51,250 Montreal Canadiens $48,750, Chicago Black Hawks $44,000 and New York Rangers $250—the amount Camille Henry received for being placed on the second all-star team for the second half of the season.

The three individuals who won $5,000 were Pierre Pilote and Kenny Wharam of Chicago and Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens.

Each player on the team that finished first in the league—Montreal Canadiens — received $1,500 on the basis of the 18-man split. Second - place Chicago Black Hawks got $750 each, third-place Leafs $500 each and fourth-place Detroit $250 each.

Toronto and Detroit players received $1,500 each for their semi-final Stanley Cup victories and Leafs $2,000 for winning the cup. The two losing semi-finalists, Montreal and Chicago, received $750 per man.

Leafs won a total of $63,000 in playoff money. Hawks walked off with the biggest shares of all-star and trophy money, $10,500 and $6,500 respectively.

Davis Cup Play

Britain Ousts Ireland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Britain, the 1963 European champion, took its place in the quarter-finals of the European zone Davis Cup tennis eliminations Friday. South Africa completed its picket-plagued series against Norway at Oslo, winning all five matches. And Italy, Sweden and France took the lead in second-round eliminations.

Yugoslavia, leading Argentina 2-0 after the first singles matches, failed to clinch its quarter-final spot in a doubles match delayed by rain and prolonged by the unexpectedly fine play of Eduardo Soriano and Roberto Alfonso.

Darkness halted play at Belgrade when Soriano and Aubone stood at two sets each against Yugoslavia's Boro Jovanovic and Nicola Pilcic. The series will be completed Saturday.

Britain took an unbeatable 3-0 lead against Ireland at Eastbourne, England, and will meet the Yugoslavia-Argentina winner in the quarter-finals at London.

In the last two singles matches at Oslo, Cliff Drysdale beat Finn Dag Jagge 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 and Kalle Zimmer beat Ejur Lars Hansen 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

The series got off to a riotous start Wednesday when 250 youths staged a sit-down on the Mallaard center court protesting South Africa's policies of racial segregation in sports. About 150 picketed on Friday, carrying signs protesting the South African apartheid policy and denouncing the Norwegian Tennis Association for going through with the matches.

Denmark had reached the quarter-finals earlier this week by beating Spain. If all the current second-round leaders win, the quarter-final line-up will be Britain vs. Yugoslavia, South Africa vs. France, Denmark vs. Russia or Germany and Italy vs. Sweden. West Germany series has not started.

Rose Wins Assist. Pros Tournament

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Bob Rose of Maple Downs, Toronto, checked his collapsing game in the last nine holes to win the 36-hole Ontario Assistant Professionals golf tournament at Sunningdale Golf Club here Friday.

He posted rounds of 72-74—146 to finish three strokes ahead of Leon Decaire of Hamilton Beverly, who hit a 77 after shooting 73 in the morning.

Rose and Decaire, both of whom played winter golf in the United States this year, tied for first-round honors, two shots ahead of Bruno Guarda of Toronto Scarsdale.

Ken Girard of Toronto Northview had equalled Rose's 74 in the afternoon with the help of three 2s. He shot 78 in the morning and placed third at 152, behind Decaire who registered rounds of 73-77—150.

A field of 71 competed in the tournament and the low 32 and ties compete in the assistants' match play event. The cutoff was 166.

Crothers Wins Marsh Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers of Toronto, a world-ranking half-miler and considered an almost certain medal winner in the summer Olympics at Tokyo

In October, was named winner Friday of the Lou Marsh Memorial Trophy as the outstanding Canadian athlete of 1963.

The trophy, which goes annually to the Canadian athlete, amateur or professional, for outstanding performances is awarded in memory of the late Lou Marsh, former sports editor of the Toronto Star.

The 23-year-old Crothers was one of a half-dozen athletes who received serious consideration from the five-man board of judges.

In 1963 he won in Canada, the United States, England, Ireland, Sweden and Norway at distances of 800 yards to one mile.

He won Canadian, U.S. and British indoor championships. He took the 880-yard U.S. title in one minute, 47.1 seconds, the second fastest in the world last year.

Crothers is the 25th winner of the trophy and the fifth from track and field.

Others who received honorable mention for the 1963 honor were Claudia McPherson of Winnipeg, who conquered the English Channel; surfer Ernie Richardson of Regina; Toronto runner Abigail Hoffman; golfers Marlene Stewart Streit of Toronto and Ada Mackenzie of Thornhill, Ont., gymnast Willie Waller of Camp Borden, Ont., Donald McPherson, Stratford, Ont., figure skater and Nancy McCredie of Brampton, Ont., shot put and discus star.

MR. TWEEDY by Ned Riddle

"Do I want to buy accident insurance? No, thanks. I don't need it."

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"It may have your faults, Mrs. Butterworth, but your heart is certainly in the right place!"

Ann Landers

Not Only Out of Sorts, Greatly Out of Control

DEAR ANN LANDERS — What shall we do about our 18-year-old daughter? Last year Josephine started to run around with a 19-year-old boy who worked the night shift at a filling station down the street. The boy is no good.

My husband and I both told Josephine a dozen times that she must not see him but she used to sneak out the bedroom window at midnight and even later. Then my husband had to go down to the station and bring her home.

ANN LANDERS

Last week the boy was arrested for stealing out of the cash register and forging his boss' name to cheques. We were relieved when they came and got him.

Josephine is taking this awfully hard. Her appetite is poor and she cries all the time. I learned this morning that she has been sleeping in the dress she wore the last time she was with him. She says it smells of gasoline and brings back pleasant memories.

What shall we do with her? — UNHAPPY PARENTS.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My parents are fine people of limited means. My husband's parents are well-to-do and have made it clear that they have nothing in common with my parents so we do not have them over together.

Our little girl who is 18 months old is the first grandchild on both sides and so all four grandparents make quite a fuss over her. Whenever my in-laws come to the house, they bring expensive toys, silk and organdy dresses, fancy hoosets and so on. My parents bring nothing but their smiling faces and their loving hearts.

Do you feel that when the child gets older she will be partial to the grandparents who bring her gifts? I worry about this and would like your opinion. — YOUNG MOTHER.

DEAR YOUNG — Love, respect and affection cannot be bought — and children are more susceptible than adults. It's how people treat us that determines what we feel about them. If your parents are loving and kind to your child this is enough.

They'd Met on Maritime Unity But Confederation Came to Charlottetown

By JACK PICKETT

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — It's a small-level memorial that seems to wrap its arms around the worn brown building where Canada was born a century ago.

The Fathers of Confederation Memorial doesn't overshadow the Prince Edward Island legislative building where the bearded gentlemen first began turning the dream of a sea-to-sea nation into reality in September, 1864. It does complement it.

On a pleasant autumn morning 100 years ago 15 Maritimers sat around a big oak table preparing to discuss the pros and cons of uniting the three Maritime provinces into a single political unit.

The granite front steps were unworn then. The long windows of their chamber looked over Market Square where the evening lovers strolled along tree-lined paths. Off to the right lay Charlottetown Harbor bustling with schooners.

Into the harbor that morning sailed the Canadian government steamer Queen Victoria bearing yet another delegation—this one unofficial—to sit in on the union meetings.

SELF-INVITED

The Upper and Lower Canada representatives, who literally invited themselves to the meeting, put up such a good case that British North America union that the Maritime delegates never did get around to discussing their own amalgamation.

Today, on the small market square in the city's centre, the first memorial to the first Canadians is nearing completion in an architectural style that probably would have set their long beards wagging.

They met in a classic building of sandstone with Ionic porticos front and rear and long narrow windows outlined in heavy crimson drapery.

Their memorial is faced with sandstone from the same Nova Scotia quarries. But the walls end abruptly to form great open corners that are the only windows. There is no hint of the Ionic period.

Yet there is no conflict. The adjoining Memorial appears an extension of the legislative chamber. And this despite the grey-newness of the Memorial sandstone and the reddish weathering of the legislative building's sandstone.

PARTLY UNDERGROUND

The Memorial seems to be five buildings, an impression left by the soaring effect of two storeys built in separate pavilions on top of two storeys that are almost entirely underground.

Dr. Frank MacKinnon, the Prince of Wales College principal whose efforts are in a large part responsible for the Memorial, explains the underground section was necessary to keep the Memorial from overshadowing the legislative chamber and the low buildings surrounding it in the downtown location of this city of 20,000.

The heart of the $5,600,000 complex is Memorial Hall, directly facing the windows behind which the Fathers of Confederation met. Here, a few steps beyond the legislative chamber, is the main entrance to the memorial with its art gallery, museum, library and theatre.

Largely open under a concrete roof made of small inverted concrete boxes that give it a honeycomb appearance, the stepped stone walls of the hall are engraved with quotations from the speeches of the Fathers.

Behind the hall is a theatre with 1,076 seats which can be reduced to 950 by using movable side wall panels.

The orchestra pit is on an elevator. The entire front section of the theatre floor is on another elevator that can be raised to form an open stage.

In the lower foyer of the main theatre is a large convention area that will seat 400 persons and has sliding panels that will divide into four smaller salons.

On the right side of Memorial Hall is an art gallery with a central floor and stairways that seem to float in space. Here, too, is the museum.

Off the concourse area between the theatre and gallery is a restaurant seating 80 persons. Its kitchens can serve 400.

Under the gallery is a smaller 200-seat theatre and lecture hall.

On the left side of Memorial Hall is the library, connected by an underground passageway to the legislative chambers.

May 15 was the target date for completion of the Memorial but only the theatre and art gallery were ready by then.

The Dominion Drama Festival, beginning Monday, May 18, was the first event, along with an exhibit of paintings from the National Gallery in Ottawa.

But by the time the Queen officially opens the Memorial in October, following a commemorative meeting of Prime Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers in September, there will have been 60 conventions.

The federal government put up $2,800,000 and the provinces got together to contribute another $2,800,000 to the cost of the building. And, says Dr. MacKinnon, those responsible for its construction are "determined the building is not going over the cost by a five-cent piece."

Cabinet Backs Maple Leaves Flag Pattern

Will Make Its Choice Of Design on Thursday

BULLETIN

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the cabinet has decided to replace the Red Ensign with a flag designed with maple leaves and plans to choose Thursday the specific design it will place before Parliament.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson and his cabinet today began the first council chamber discussion of a new Canadian flag.

First, Mr. Pearson said, the question must be "straightened up" in the Liberal party and in the cabinet.

Asked whether the party was unanimous on the matter he replied: "Practically."

However, he did not mention a specific design—whether three maple leafs on a plain background, or with blue bars added at each end.

On Friday, he told the House in referring to the design with blue bars:

"I certainly would not' with to take any responsibility, either personally or on behalf of the government for some of the designs that have been appearing or indeed of the drawing that appeared in the newspaper this morning."

But in a press conference Monday, Mr. Pearson said he had a "hankering" for the design with blue bars.

Entering cabinet today, Mr. Pearson said it was the first time the cabinet at such had debated the flag issue but cabinet members attended previous party discussions of the matter.

He was asked about the legion's proposal for a flag referendum.

"I don't think that decision would be very practical," he replied.

Tugboat Stands by Burning Vessel 9 Persons Missing, Feared Dead

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A tugboat stood by a burning freighter 20 miles off a remote Mexican coast today after a grim night's vigil.

The crew awaited a chance to board the ship with little hope of finding anyone still alive.

Nine persons including the captain are missing from the Norwegian freighter Sandanger, burning and racked with explosions since early Monday.

It was not known if the missing are still aboard, but rescuers doubted they could survive the raging flames or the choppy seas.

The captain, John Kellmer, 58, holds the gold medal of the

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A vigorous storm moving eastward above Lake Superior is expected to dip southeastward along the Ottawa Valley this evening. In the extreme southwestern sections a few locally severe thunderstorms with hail are possible late in the day. Wednesday will be cooler in most localities across the province although a return of sunshine to extreme northern sections will take much of the bite out of the very chilly weather currently being experienced.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The maple leaf is the chief ingredient in two designs for a Canadian flag shown Monday at a press conference with Prime Minister Pearson.

Both designs bear three big red maple leafs on a white background, and one has a vertical blue bar running the height of the design at each end. The other is without the blue bars.

The prime minister said that while no decision had been made these two designs were being considered "along with about 300 others." But there were indications that they were the two most favored.

At one point he told reporters he had a "hankering" for the blue-edged flag, but said he understood, the blue bars were not correct from a heraldic point of view. He did not say how important this might be in reaching a decision.

Mr. Pearson's talk with reporters followed by a day a speech he delivered to the Dominion command of the Royal Canadian Legion in which he said he believed "most sincerely" it was time for Canada to unfurl her own flag with a maple leaf design.

The speech before about 1,000 legionaires was met by jeers, boos and a shower of hecklers.

The designs, both showing the maple leafs branching off a vertical centre stem, were shown Monday on paper mounted on cardboard.

Mr. Pearson said the designs were unveiled because he thought the people "should have a chance to look at them" if he had not yet discussed the question with his cabinet.

At the same time Mr. Pearson added his own post mortem on the rowdy reception he received when he presented his case for the maple leaf emblem.

He said he was surprised at the strength of the demonstra-

Holiday Highway Toll 64

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The highway death toll during the three-day Victoria Day holiday was the highest on record while the over-all death count approached a record set in 1952.

Sixty - four persons died in all types of accidents, six short of the 100 who met death in 1952. No record highway deaths are kept in 1952, when a three-day holiday Victoria Day was established on a regular basis.

A survey by The Canadian Press from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday shows that 15 persons drowned, three died in fires and 12 met death in unclassified accidents.

Ontario led the provinces with 33 deaths, tying a provincial record set in 1962. The Ontario highway death toll of 18 was short of the highway record for that province of 22, set in 1961.

TEN DROWN

In addition 10 persons drowned, two died in fires and three met death in unclassified mishaps.

Quebec had 18 deaths from 12 highway fatalities, two drownings, three deaths in a plane crash and one unclassified death.

British Columbia had 14 deaths—11 highway, two drownings and one fire fatality.

Alberta had seven traffic and one unclassified death, Saskatchewan eight and Manitoba two deaths and two unclassified fatalities.

Manitoba had six highway deaths—five in a single two-car accident at Holland — and one unclassified death.

Nova Scotia had two traffic and one unclassified death, New Brunswick had one highway and one unclassified death. Newfoundland had one traffic death while Prince Edward Island remained free of fatalities.

86 Die on Crowded British Roads, 200 Held for Violence

LONDON (AP)—Britons went back to work today from the three-day Whitsun weekend with 86 dead on the crowded roads and 200 arrested for teen-age violence.

The traffic deaths were twice last year's figure. The teen-age battles were the worst the country has seen.

Thousands of youngsters in the garb of "Mods" and "Rockers," rival cults, battled on the beaches of resorts along the southern coast.

Frightened families hurriedly sought shelter as Mods stormed after the Rockers, wielding chair legs, knives, bottles and studded belts.

Reinforced police arrested them by the dozen. At Bournemouth, a resort normally inhabited by retired colonels and aged widows, more than 40 were arrested.

Thus was celebrated the festival of Pentecost, commemorating the descent of the Holy Spirit on the Apostles.

The Rockers owe something to Hollywood. They ride powerful motorbikes and wear leather jackets, jeans and cowboy boots. The prototype was Marlon Brando in The Wild One.

But the Mods, aggressors in every battle this weekend, are a homegrown cult.

They dress expensively, ride motor scooters and often are a vain of their appearance as their "birds"—their girls.

Many male Mods use eyebrow pencil, eye shadow transparent lipstick and even rouge. Hairstyles change every week.

Some weeks a male Mod sits astride his motor scooter with toes pointing out. Next week the toes have to be pointed in. Mod birds at the moment wear a perpetual scowl.

On weekends they get "purped up" on purple heart tablets, an amphetamine stimulant which enables them to go without food and sleep. The government is drafting a law to outlaw possession of the pills without a prescription.

The first Mods versus Rockers battle broke out, largely by accident, at Clacton, an east

6 In Race To Head Liberals

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Liberal Association decided Saturday to have a leadership convention in four months.

Perhaps six candidates will take part in the race for the provincial leadership. The most likely convention date is Sept. 19 or Sept. 26.

The fall convention time was fixed by a vote at the annual meeting of the association after a debate that saw the wishes of the Liberal caucus in the Ontario legislature overruled.

Four caucus members had asked the 600-plus delegates to put the convention over until the spring. But the meeting voted 317 to 129 against a motion to this effect.

The fall convention date was seen as favoring two of the declared candidates for the leadership—Robert Nixon, member of the legislature for Brant, and Andrew Thomson, member for Toronto Dovercourt.

SUPPORTERS GLOOMY

Supporters of Charles Templeton, who resigned as executive news editor of the Toronto Star to seek the leadership, were gloomy about the outcome. One person close to Mr. Templeton said it was a blow that might doom his chances.

Mr. Templeton, 48, a former evangelist, had pushed for a spring convention to give him time to make himself known on the hustings and possibly to win a seat in the legislature in a by-election in Toronto riverdale expected to be called this fall.

Some observers at the Liberal meeting characterized the overwhelming vote in favor of a fall convention as a rebuke to the candidacy of Mr. Temple-

Bomb Is Found On Bridge

MONTREAL (CP)—A home-made bomb was found early today on the Victoria Bridge spanning the St. Lawrence River—a sinister climax to a series of incidents which marked the Victoria Day holiday here.

Det.-Sgt. Leo Plouffe, the Montreal police department's bomb disposal expert, dropped the device into the river. The bomb was discovered several hours after an anonymous telephone caller had warned the bridge was in danger.

The bomb episode came in the wake of separatist-inspired manifestations Monday in the centre of the city.

General mayhem developed during the demonstrations, resulting in at least 85 persons being pulled in by police. Thugs carrying switch - blade knives were reported to have joined the street marches.

However, no one was seriously hurt and there were no reports of major damage.

Sgt. Plouffe said he dropped the bomb from the bridge into the river when he was told the spot where it was found—about 700 feet from the south end of the span across from Montreal was not over the St. Lawrence Seaway's St. Lambert locks.

MADE FROM SHELL

He said the bomb was inside a plastic bag and was made from a Second World War shell casing apparently filled with an explosive.

Train and vehicular traffic was allowed back on the bridge at 2:40 a.m. EDT after it had been closed for five hours while the bomb hunt went on.

Following the separatist demonstrations, many of the persons picked up by police were released after a cooling-out period. The remainder were expected to appear in court today on counts of disturbing the peace and public mischief.

The affair started out as a protest — as announced some time ago—against the Victoria

Violence Flares in Montreal As Separatists, Police Tangle

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Victoria Day weekend ended in violence as gangs of Montreal youths mingled with separatists in anti-Victoria Day demonstrations.

At one time Monday it was feared the violence might turn into a riot as mounted police broke up groups of knife-carrying, brick-throwing demonstrators. At least 65 persons were arrested.

The violence contrasted with a quiet weekend across the rest of Canada. Few activities besides 21-gun salutes in provincial capitals had anything to do with the Queen's Birthday.

Warm sunny weather, interrupted Sunday by showers in most of the country, brought thousands of Canadians to the highways and helped boost the accidental death toll for the three-day holiday to the highest since 1962.

In the Maritimes, the traditional opening of the angling season brought thousands of fishermen to lakes and streams and, in the West, residents attended opening horse races and other sporting events.

In Ottawa, a host of tourists thronged about Parliament Hill, snapping pictures of tulip festival displays.

The violence in Montreal began after separatist groups demonstrated twice at a "patriot's monument" on the Montreal waterfront. Fourteen persons were arrested during another separatist demonstration at place Ville Marie in the heart of the city.

Activities in the Maritimes and Newfoundland were

Thousands See Colorful Rituals At Fair Grounds

Lieut.-Governor, Mayor Make Presentations

By GEORGE H. CARVER

There was pride of regiment and of country in an estimated 5,000 people here Sunday when the famous Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment received their new colors and the freedom of the city.

The sun shone warmly down from a cloud-flecked May sky. It was a perfect spring weather for the pomp and circumstance that marked the colorful ceremonies.

The Hon. Earl Rowe, P.C., presented the regiment with its new Queen's and Regimental Colors. His worship Mayor J. R. Ellis presented the second battalion of the famous "flowboys" regiment with the "freedom."

Upwards of 2,000 people filled the Fair Grounds' grandstand where special guests were seated.

Another 3,000 strolled or drove onto the track and the bleachers to get a close look at the infield rituals.

High-ranking military officials from permanent force and militia units attended the ceremonies. Civic, municipal and political figures were here from surrounding ridings and communities.

THE "FLOWBOYS"

Memory and pride bridged two decades and was evidenced in rounds of applause that swept from the crowd as upwards of 150 members of the famous "Flowboys" First Battalion, bemedalled veterans, who served in Sicily and Europe swung past a saluting base.

A familiar figure to the veterans, former wartime commander Viscount Lord Tweedsmuir wearing the khaki beret of his regiment, took the salute smartly, with perhaps a little of the jauntiness missing from their "swing", they snapped past "Eyes Right" as they marched past "Tweedsmuir" under the command of former Sergeant Harold Dracup, M.M.

The Second Battalion some 357 all ranks strong showing in parade form the results of

CCF Rule In Sask. - Near End

REGINA (CP) — Premier Woodrow Lloyd visits Lieutenant-Governor R. L. Hanbidge today, perhaps to start the constitutional process of ending his CCF government's 20-year reign in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Lloyd declined to specify the reason for his visit, giving rise to speculation that rather than submit his government's resignation he would advise the lieutenant - governor that the CCF party intends to remain in power until recounts are completed in some constituencies in the April 22 general election.

A final count of ballots last week by returning officers confirmed the Liberal party's victory by the same election-night total of 33 seats to the CCF's 25. But some seats were won by slim margins, raising the possibility of recounts.

The final standing showed one Progressive Conservative member. Thirty members are needed to control the 59-seat legislature.

MEETS THATCHER

Premier Lloyd also meets today with Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher, who called the premier in a Liberal government. Mr. Thatcher said he did not know why Mr. Lloyd requested the meeting.

Eight constituencies were decided by margins under 100 votes. CCF candidates won Kelsey, Pelly and Turtleford while Liberals took Canora, Hanley, Last Mountain, Elrose and Prince Albert by narrow margins.

Liberal loser Ross Barrie in Pelly and CCF loser Leon Lamontagne in Prince Albert have indicated they will seek recounts.

Anti-Castro Leader Disappears, May Already Be at Work in Cuba

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-Castro Leader Manuel Ray plans to enter Cuba with highly-trained infiltrators and saboteurs to rebuild the underground smashed in the aftermath of the Bay of Pigs disaster, The New York Times says.

In a dispatch by Tad Szulc from "Somewhere in the Caribbean," The Times says Ray was preparing Monday night to leave for an undisclosed spot on the Cuban coast.

Ray, head of the anti-Castro revolutionary junta, had promised to be back in Cuba by May 20, anniversary of the Cuban revolt led by Fidel Castro.

Ray has been living in San Juan but resigned last week as a consultant to the Puerto Rican planning board to join the movement, The Times says.

According to The Times dispatch Ray will conduct sabotage designed to make clear to the Havana regime that it is in a war.

Ray is concerned that the Cuban exile community in Florida and elsewhere in the United States may be let down if quick results do not appear immediately.

Some of Ray's infiltrator teams, mostly formed from former officers of Castro's army and experienced guerrilla fighters, have left "his general area and may already be in Cuba," Szulc reports. Others were said ready to follow Ray into Cuba, depending on what Manuel Ray's plans call for the land-

Communist Position Is Much Stronger in Southeast Asia

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff

Few things are certain in the tangled affairs of Southeast Asia. But one indisputable fact has emerged from developments in Laos and South Viet Nam in recent weeks: The Communist position has strengthened and the U.S. position has proportionately weakened.

Coupled with this is the fact that Washington finds its freedom of action badly circumscribed just when that freedom seems most necessary.

With a long summer and autumn of election campaign speeches stretching out before it, the U.S. administration would have to be daring indeed to make any radical moves either of advance or retreat.

HOLD FAST

Not surprisingly, its response to the worsening situation has been to keep to its basic approach and add a little more of the same.

In South Viet Nam, shaken by recent successes of the Viet Cong rebels, the U.S. has reacted with decisions to send more money, more and better planes and more American "advisers."

At the same time Washington is trying to interest its NATO allies in showing at least token support in the South Vietnamese campaign. There is no sign that any of the allies will respond.

Across the border in Laos, where clumsy manoeuvring of the U.S.-backed rightist faction has increased the strength of the leftist Pathet Lao, the Americans are working to restore the power coalition of rightists, neutralists and Pathet Lao.

The stated U.S. policy is that if either Laos or South Viet Nam is allowed to fall to the Communists the entire Southeast Asian area will be in danger of slipping into Peking's orbit.

NO FENCE SITTERS

American thinking seems to be based on a concept of global strategy in which countries fall like ripe apples, on one side of the fence or the other.

It may be that the American temperament naturally looks for a situation in which the good guys and bad guys are clearly identifiable and the issues simple.

There has been plenty of front - page evidence recently that the old order is changing.

In Egypt, President Nasser is pursuing his own brand of neutralism while entertaining Premier Khrushchev; in Washington, the Americans are courting a Romanian delegation; in Tokyo, Soviet troubleshooter Anastas Mikoyan is making friendly sounds towards the Japanese.

In short, patterns of alliance and lines of power are shifting throughout the world in the wake of divisions within both the Eastern and Western blocs.

Within that shifting alliance, Southeast Asia continues to hold great strategic importance. At the same time it is becoming increasingly doubtful whether the area ever will be totally aligned to either West or East.

In the circumstances, it is at least unfortunate that the U.S. does not seem to have its freedom even to consider a different approach to its dilemma.

City Police Draw Comment

Reflecting the smartness of the regimental presentation here Sunday was the city police detachment assigned to special duty for the occasion. The detail, under staff sergeant Ralph Blatchford, drew much comment not only for its crisp appearance in uniform and its businesslike precision in chauffeuring civic dignitaries, escorting the parade and its handling of crowds.

The impression of courteous efficiency was no accident. The squad had rehearsed every minute detail of its group and individual duties for more than a week previous.

Firemen Kept Busy But Damage Is Small

City Firemen received a number of calls over the Victoria Holiday weekend. However, only one of the fires resulted in extensive property damage.

The department was called to the Bellville Drive-In-Theatre on Saturday night, where a 1960 automobile owned by J. Wayne was extensively damaged by fire. Cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

Fire in a partition at the home of Mr. A. C. Lemon, Riverside Drive in Sothyville early Sunday morning caused minor damage. At 3:30 a.m. Sunday morning the fire department was called to the intersection of Victoria Avenue and Church Street to shut down spilled gasoline.

Early Monday morning firemen were sent in a vacant lot on the Bay side road to extinguish a grass fire. At 10:37 p.m. a 1954 model automobile was reported on fire at Mulroney's service station at 432 Dundas Street East.

Children playing with fire crackers at the east hill playground set fire to a tree there at 3 p.m. Monday.

At 12:18 p.m., Monday, firemen were called to the home of Mrs. T. Dowe where they reported an overheated stove. There was no damage.

The last call of the weekend proved to be a false alarm. Someone saw smoke coming from the incinerator on Dr. H. Burn's property and turned in the alarm.

Running Lights On Front of Cars Illegal

TORONTO (CP) — Thousands of Ontario motorists who have installed small running lights on the fronts of their cars are breaking the law, W. M. Earl, Ontario registrar of motor vehicles, said Sunday. The fine could be from $5 to $50.

But Deputy Chief John Murray, head of the traffic division of the Metropolitan Toronto police force, indicated no charges would be laid unless someone complains about the lights.

But lights, latest fad in the automotive accessory business, are 21-candlepower units.

The basic eliminator on the unit has never been approved by the provincial transport minister and until it is motorists are using the lights illegally.

Highway regulations require that all lighting devices of more than four mean candlepower on a motor vehicle must first have the final eliminator device approved by the minister.

Student Saves Toronto Boy From Drowning

A 23-year-old university student from Belleville, yesterday saved a Toronto boy from drowning in the Trent River—and never found out his identity.

The rescuer was John Balcaen, of Bridge Avenue—Queen's student now working with the Bell Telephone in Belleville for the summer.

He was fishing with friends north of Glen Miller when the incident happened.

The boy, age about 12, was fishing with his family nearby, when he dropped his pole into the river. He leapt after it and was caught in the swirl below the dam.

The young Belleville man jumped in and swam to the lad.

"When I reached him he was limp and I handed him up and they started working on him," said John. "When I got back on shore he was coming round."

Shortly after the rescue all his friends left the scene, forgetting to ask the name of the youngster.

Creel Census Being Taken In Quinte Bay

The creel census is on again. Five biology students from Ontario universities arrived, May first, at the Department of Lands and Forests Fisheries Research Station at Glenora, and will be cruising the Bay of Quinte in two-hour scheduled boats from now on. A start on the annual project was delayed by several weeks of cold weather.

Purpose of the census is to find figures on which to base an estimate of the total catch of sport fishermen on the bay. The students, two to a boat, are driven days a week counting fishermen and taking notes on the catches of some. They want a count of the fish caught and they will be on hand to lowed to measure, weigh and take scale samples from some fish. By establishing the average catch among fishermen interviewed, and the total number of fishermen on the bay, the census directors hope to be able to estimate the total catch and the characteristics of the fish being caught.

Commercial fishermen report their catches directly to the station.

The census is the most complete of its kind ever attempted in Ontario, and officials of the Department say it will provide a guide to further, smaller counts in other areas.

Other work now being conducted by the station is mostly concerned with a check of fish population and the fish environment, at selected points through the east end of the lake. The last program is trawling for samples at six spots in the lake this year —An improvement according to station director Jack Christie, over the gill nets used last year.

Tweedsmuir Visits Hospital To See Comrade

Old — and not so old — soldiers — never forget.

That was evidenced there over the weekend with the presentation of the colors to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

One of the distinguished visitors was Lord Tweedsmuir, a former wartime commander.

The Scottish peer greeted his fellow officers who served under him overseas.

One was missing.

Lord Tweedsmuir asked after Horace Lowry who served with him in action.

He was told that Mr. Lowry was in hospital here seriously ill.

The former commander said he would like to see him.

Sergeant Harold Dracup, M.M., who commanded the "Plowboys" company on their march-past, drove Lord Tweedsmuir to the hospital.

And so two former comrades were reunited.

A regimental spokesman said later that Mr. Lowry was instrumental in saving the life of Lord Tweedsmuir, while the regiment was in action.

St. Thomas' Church Service Pays Tribute to Regiment

In a setting of age and dignity so well suited to the occasion, with its many War Memorials and numerous Regimental Colors in the sanctuary and chancel, St. Thomas' Church welcomed a large congregation, who had come to pay tribute to the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment on Sunday morning.

The Lieutenant-Governor, the Honorable W. Earl Rowe, P.C., with his aide, together with Lt.-General H. D. Graham, CBE, DSO.; Lieut.-Col. Lord Tweedsmuir, and other military dignitaries, was met at the door of the church by the Rector, the Venerable A. S. McConnell, MBE, CD., and the church wardens, Dr. P. G. Loder and Mr. R. T. Morton, and after signing the Church Register, was escorted to his place of honor in the church.

After the choir had entered the chancel with the singing of the Processional Hymn "Praise My Soul, the King of Heaven," the rector made the following statement of loyalty:

"We the members of this parish, the citizens of the City of Belleville and of the Counties of Hastings and Prince Edward, pay our homage to our beloved Queen in the presence of her duly appointed representative, the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and express our continued loyalty in the singing of the National Anthem."

The service, taken by Squadron Leader the Reverend D. G. Madill, CD, Command Chaplain at RCAF Station Trenton, and an honorary assistant in the parish, continued with the Lesson being read by the Honorary Colonel of the Regiment, Lieut.-General H. D. Graham, CBE, DSO.

SPECIAL ANTHEM

The special anthem, chosen by the organist, Mr. Donald W. Davenport, for the occasion was "The Old Hundredth Psalm Tune" by R. Vaughan Williams and was sung by the choir and congregation.

Speaking from the text "Hearken unto Me, ye that follow righteousness, ye that seek the Lord: Look to the rock whence ye are hewn; and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged," Archdeacon McConnell traced the history of God's chosen people both in times of peace and war and pointed out that the Prophet of Israel used these words to remind them of God's guidance and mercy in the days that had gone before.

Tracing, briefly, the history of the Regiment he spoke of their Rock of Proud Achievement in the past 164 years within the two counties and in many theatres of war and said it was worthy that we tell our sons and daughters of our rich heritage.

Tribute was also paid to those who, down through the years, commanded the Regiment and many who through considerable personal expense and untiring hours of service kept the Regiment alive between the wars. This was likened to the Rock of Noble Service.

TRIBUTE PAID TO DEAD

In a final word under the heading of the Rock of Supreme Sacrifice the Rector said "No service of this nature would be complete unless we pause for a moment to remember those who have taken their transfer to the "White Battalion" — that swollen contingent of the shadows that grows through the years — some in battle and some since war days. In symbolizing the Rock of Supreme Sacrifice within the Regiment he mentioned, in particular two men, one who commanded the Regiment in Italy and whose tragic death in action was a sad blow felt by all ranks, Lt. Colonel Bruce A. Sutcliffe, D.S.O. The other was Padre Fred Goforth, M.C. who was beloved by every man in the Regiment — truly a man of God.

In concluding his sermon Archdeacon McConnell paid tribute to Farley Mowat for his excellent book "The Regiment" and finished with this quotation from it.

"And the spirit is not dead Nor in the years ahead shall it ever die and be forgotten. In the rock ridges of Hastings, the men who go to the mines, and to the lumber mills, and to the clay - board cabins are not dead. In the broad fields of Prince Edward the men who go to the lowing cattle, and to the budding orchards, and to the warm stone houses are not dead. And in the days of need these men shall come again, as they always have come, to build anew out of their flesh and spirit the entity which is the living symbol of their strength — that living home which is — the Regiment."

OFFERTORY HYMN

With the singing of the offertory hymn "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty, the King of creation"; the Prayers and Benediction from the Altar, and the Recessional Hymn "Immortal, Invisible, God Only Wise" a great service of praise to Almighty God for His great goodness to us came to an end to the strains of the organ from the gallery, the Lieutenant-Governor left the church followed by other dignitaries and members of the congregation.

Others attending the service included Lt.-Col. Lord Tweedsmuir, Mayor J. R. Ellis, Brig. D. C. Cameron, Brig. L. A. Carr of Fort Hope, Brig. J. P. Genet, C.B.E., M.C., Judge J. C. Anderson, Lt.-Col. W. J. Davern, Lt. - Col. A. B. Duffy, Lt. - Col. E. S. Fairman, Lt.-Col. A. Ross of Montreal, Lt.-Col. A. McLean Haig, Warden Hicks of Prince Edward, Major E. T. Naylor, Major T. S. Ketcheson, Lt. - Col. A. A. Kennedy, Major C. Broad, Major H. K. Long, Major W. L. Graydon, Mr. W. E. Sandercock M.P.P., Mr. Norris Whitney M.P.P. and Mr. H. S. Dracup.

THE SKIES BLAZED over Parkdale last night, as Parkdale Ratepayers' Association blew off more than $300 worth of fireworks in a salute to Victoria Day. Thousands watched the display which was organized by Gordon Burnett and lighted by Gordon Priest. Belleville Fire Department had a pumper truck, manned by firemen Ben Hackett and Clare Miller, at the scene and the Parkdale Women's Auxiliary ran the hot dogs and soft drinks from a booth by the community centre. Baseball games were played in the park during the morning and afternoon.

Day holiday by anti-confederate fanatics protesting recognition of a Quebec holiday in honor of Dollard des Ormeaux, the hero of the Long Sault.

Dollard and a small band of patriots are said to have intercepted an Indian war party en route to attack Montreal after the city was founded in 1642. The settlers gave up their lives to the man but they fought so fiercely the Indians were dissuaded from placing the settlement under siege.

Abellos Chief - Adrien Robert Monday night described the doings Monday as "a major disturbance."

SET UP ROADBLOCKS

His men threw up roadblocks to keep things under control at various points and some constables patrolled horseback to disperse knots of demonstrators.

Underscoring the situation was the fear of recurrence of the 1955 St. Patrick's Day riot and episodes arising from the suspension of hockey great Maurice (Rocket) Richard—and the streetcar riots the following year, sparked by a student protest against the cost of tram fares.

Monday, as in the 1955 and 1956 outbursts, the hoodlum element jumped into the act. But sharp police action—the force was obviously better geared to deal with such trouble — prevented things from flaring out of hand.

The separatists marched from Lafontaine Park in the east-central belt of the city—a monument to Dollard was the assembly point—to the Place Ville Marie showplace in the downtown area, launching their activities.

About 150 youths took part in the march. The mob became unruly downtown and 14 were arrested. The youths shouted "gestapo" as police moved in to break it up.

MAKE ARRESTS

Other arrests were made later in the day at various points downtown and in the east-end.

A wreath - placing ceremony meanwhile took place in the shadow of the Jacques-Cartier bridge at a monument erected to 12 men executed on that spot after the Quebec rebellion of 1837-38. The wreath was placed by Richard Bizier, member of a self-styled band of suicide commandos broken up last spring. He served four months in jail for planting a bomb at the RCAF building.

At Jacques - Cartier on the south shore, the Red Ensign was burned by a group of French - speaking high school students. Classes were cancelled in observance of Victoria Day but about 30 students showed up anyway, burned the ensign and unfurled a flag with a red star.

One student said the star was a symbol of "the call of the revolution."

Victoria Day Accident-Free In Trenton

TRENTON — Victoria Day was accident free in the Trenton area and there were no fires.

Two children were shaken up in separate accidents in Trenton on Sunday.

Nine-year-old Diana Cooney of R.R. 1, Trenton, was brushed by a car driven by John York of Byron St., Trenton, when she stepped from the sidewalk in front of the Jet Restaurant on King St., into the path of the car.

On Sunday too, 11-year-old Ronald Ferry of 20 Bocage St., escaped injury, when he ran his bicycle into the side of a car driven by Mary Crookwright of Leopold St. The accident occurred on Leopold St. around 9.45 p.m.

Shortly before noon on Sunday, Harvey Richmond of Oakville lost control of his car on Lorne Ave., just as he turned off Dundas St. W. and struck a hydro pole, shearing it off. Damage to the car was set at $200. The pole will cost $60 to replace. Mr. Richmond was not injured.

Flames Gut Consecon Home Early Tuesday

TRENTON — A Consecon house was gutted last night, by a fire of undetermined origin. Trenton fire department received the call at 12:15 a.m. from Cornelius Anderweg, owner of the house, after Mrs. Anderweg smelled smoke. The children of the family were in bed at the time. Cause of the fire has not yet been determined, but Mr. Anderweg told firemen he thought it started in the roof.

Loss was estimated at $10,000 to house and contents. All was covered by insurance. Firemen had to run hoses 500 feet from the fire to a well on the neighboring farm. The fire was well established by the time firemen arrived, and they fought mostly to protect the barn and outbuildings nearby. The family is reported living with neighbors for the time being.

Local Teacher Named Queen At So-Ed Meet

A 22-year-old Belleville school teacher Miss Janet McLean was named Queen of So-Ed international at a national So-Ed conference held at Orillia on Monday.

Miss McLean, chosen as Miss Belleville So-Ed in Belleville last week, won the honor over a field of six contestants. So-Ed representatives from Ontario and as far west as Vancouver attended the Orilia conference.

Miss McLean is a Grade 2 teacher at Queen Victoria School in Belleville.

TRENTON — Biggest news in Trenton yesterday was the Soapbox Derby, sponsored by the Trenton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A parade, led by the Trenton Citizens' Band, left the market square at 12:30, and the 30 some home-made entries made their way to the race course on King Street.

A ramp, constructed by the Allore Lumber Co. got the vehicles off to a flying start in groups of threes. There were spills and shills and quite a number of hair-raising or amusing incidents. One entry in the Powder Puff Derby had the misfortune to come down off the ramp, turn right immediately and crash into Constable Sid Vickers on his motorcycle. We understand no arrests were made. Having borrowed the boys' cars, one female entry crashed.

"Well, that finishes the derby for me," growled the owner of the car.

Grand Champion was George Ferguson from the junior class, competing against winners in the 12, 13, 14 and 15 age groups.

Powder Puff- winner was Debbie Shoniker. Prize for the most original car went to Bill Sierolawski, a former Ontario Intelligence delivery boy.

First, second and third prizes in the 11 and under class went to George Ferguson, John Hamilton and Kevin Weaver; in the 12 and 13 age group to David Shoniker, Bill Allore and Boyd Smith; in the 14 and 13 age group to Larry Lafee, Douglas Jamison and Andrew McFaul and in the Powder Puff, to Debbie Shoniker, Christine Duffy and Donna McPherson.

Winner of the Novelty Race were the Jaycees from Kingston, easily beating the Trenton Jaycees.

Spectators jammed every available corner of the race course, some climbing trees to get a better look.

Responsibility Is Shared

Another Belleville child has been killed on a city street.

This type of tragedy is becoming all too frequent — and is likely to become more so.

It is a hazard of our age which no amount of caution will entirely eliminate — but this increases, rather than reduces, the need for taking every precaution possible to reduce the toll.

Motorists do not bear the sole responsibility. It is up to them to drive with care; to remember that while increasing traffic congestion may make it expedient, or even necessary, to drive faster on main traffic arteries in the heart of the city, often pushed along by harassed traffic officers, these same driving habits must not be carried into quiet back streets; to keep both their vehicles and themselves in a condition which will permit quick response to emergencies; to forego relaxation until they are out from behind the wheel.

But children bear a responsibility too; not to play on busy streets and to be alert for traffic on quiet ones; to realize that a car cannot stop or change direction as quickly as a running child or even as quickly as a bicycle; to refrain from harassing motorists by stone-throwing or similar rowdiness.

The responsibility for seeing that children behave properly rests primarily on parents and too few of them appear to be properly concerned about the welfare of their children — and of motorists.

Then, too, municipal authorities might reconsider some policies. Children have to have some place to play and streets, their traditional playgrounds, are becoming far too dangerous. Ontario legislation demands that a certain proportion of each new sub-division be set aside for parks purposes, but there is precious little evidence of this. What is required is not a system of elaborately-maintained, fully-equipped playgrounds, but something which will take the place of the old vacant lot of yesteryear, now vanished except in the memories of an older generation.

Meanwhile, let us all be more careful, in an effort to preserve our most precious possessions — the lives of our descendants.

Anybody who thinks that this does not concern them need only keep an eye open for a few days to have his or her personal experiences confirm the prevalence of carelessness and bad manners on the part of both motorists and children.

Here is our own list of recollections to prove the point:—

Children playing hockey in the road with steel-frame goals, which could not easily be moved, surely an abuse of the use of the street as a playground.

Two youthful cyclists nearly hit because the car only slowed to a crawl at a stop-street. The windshield is obscured, and it is evident that they would have emerged from behind this shield had the car been actually stopped. One of the cyclists was carrying another child on the crossbar.

A stick thrown against the windshield by a child.

Another child sitting in the roadway.

Bricks used as bases for a street ball-game.

And, of course, innumerable cars driven at a speed out of keeping with the surroundings.

The Wrong Attitude

A couple of months ago the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce invited the Kitchener - Waterloo District Labor Council to become a member.

The Labor Council has now rejected this invitation. It holds that the objectives and beliefs of the two bodies differ too much.

This may be true — but if it is, it should not be.

Unlike unions in some countries, those in Canada are not whole - heartedly pledged to support socialism, despite the labor movement's ties with the New Democratic Party.

The Chamber of Commerce, on the other hand, is whole - heartedly pledged to the support of the capitalistic, or free - enterprise, system, but it is questionable whether this should be an article of faith. The Chamber is primarily concerned with the promotion of enterprise, and in this endeavor may find that the over - whelming majority of its members believe that this will be best attained by keeping enterprise free, but this should be regarded as a means to an end, and not as the end itself.

Having regard to what members of organized labor in this country believe, and what members of the Chamber should be concerned with, there is no reason why the Labor Council should not be a Chamber of Commerce member.

'In Today, Out Tomorrow' Fate of Cabinet Ministers

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Into the intensely glaring heat of the public spotlight and under the unrelenting pitiless pressure of the public opinion, the political fortunes of the cabinet ministers can be as swiftly changeable as those of television stars.

Any member of the Cabinet — not excluding the prime minister himself — can be made or broken by his conduct in the Commons or his management of his own particular Federal department.

Both the making and the breaking can be swift.

A cabinet minister today can be up up up in the esteem and even affection of his political associates and perhaps the public too, glittering like a star on the stage of statecraft.

And next year, or month, or as soon even as tomorrow, he can be down down down, shuffled quickly and quietly into the Parliamentary discard like some broken puppet former with a suddenly cancelled contract.

Look what, in just the year, has happened to the Pearson Cabinet.

BEYOND ANY QUESTION

Mr. Pearson, himself Minister Drury, State Secretary Lamontagne and Trade Minister Gregg.

They were blued, in advance almost before performance, as the stars.

By the Liberals themselves, too, who, oddly, at that time patriotically omitted the prime minister from the stellar casting.

It was supposed to be "top cast", by the Liberals of the month of the "nice guy," as they described him, to measure up as fully as a Liberal minister should against such a demonstrably deadly old political foeman as Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, bloodied in 25 years of battle in the Commons.

In the past year, the one big star that has emerged on the Pearson team has been the prime minister himself. Now, beyond any question, he is the man in charge, in charge of the Cabinet, if not of fast developing and perhaps rapidly changing foreign events.

He can even at times, stand off John Diefenbaker in the slugging of the Commons Question Period, a talent previously the monopoly of External Affairs Minister Pearson.

The other super-stars of advances hilltop?

Justice Minister Favreau has rallied calamitously as Government House Leader, allowing instead the hard-to-bridle opposition to take the bit in its teeth and, in partnership with the day's or even the week's — as in the Easter "holiday" sitting — Parliamentary business.

FADED FAST!

Those two "in" members of the Cabinet, Gordon and Lamontagne, who had the personal advantage of being "close" to the prime minister, have faded, and perhaps not entirely unjustly because of being Pearson cronies. Gordon has been downgraded if not destroyed by his own continuing Budget troubles, and Lamontagne by his crashing failure to give any weight for national unity in what apologists like to describe as the "quiet revolution" in Quebec.

MacEachen appeared weak too long in coming to grips with bluff "King" Sid Banks and terror on the Great Lakes, and since has appeared even weaker in allowing tough "Red" Pat Sullivan, described by the Royal Commission as another "hoodlum" to succeed him on the throne of the Seafarers International.

Drury, the man of such great promise, has made no great mistakes simply, perhaps, say his critics, because he has attempted no great things.

Only Mitchell Sharp has grown close to living up to his advance billing. He remains the quiet, calm, coldly efficient trouble-shooter, who, more than any other member of the Cabinet, soothes troubled Liberal nerves.

But from the shadows — where they never should have been — have emerged Paul Martin and Transport Minister Pickersgill. They weren't among the "in" group, weren't buddy-buddy with Prime Minister and so, in the early shining days of dynamic decision, weren't given much billing. But class will tell, in politics as in everything else, and their sheer ability, sure political instinct and a talent for "standing up to Dief" increasingly important in this mule-stubborn Parliament — forced them into the ranks of the stars if not the "in" ring of court favorites.

Hottest find, though, has been Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, an "old pro" from the West Coast who has become everywhere's youngest - possible nominee as the Cabinet Minister Most Likely to Succeed in smacking down Rene Levesque.

Strictly Personal

Differences Are Often Insignificant

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I remember a young lady recently up from the South who was being interviewed by a brace of Chicago policemen, following the theft of her automobile which she and her escort were the victims.

"All right," said one of the policemen, "you couldn't see their faces, it was too dark. But what did they sound like? how did they talk?"

"They sounded like hoodlums" declared the young lady, with apparent innocence. "In fact, they talked exactly the way you policemen do."

One of the policemen, she said later, had the grace to flush and knowing smile — the mark had been made out of malice or naivete. But the point struck home — to the soft and gentle ear of a well-born Georgian, the harsh tones of a Chicago policeman sound no different from the rasp of a hoodlum.

Many Orientals, it is said, upon their first contact with white people, have a hard time telling us apart; our features and expressions look remarkably alike to them. Distinctions that seem quite obvious within a group often blur into a single personality when observed by someone outside the group.

What seem to be profound and essential distinctions within our own cultural and psychological setting are often regarded as trivial and superficial by those whose frameworks of thought are adjusted to a different "set." Orientals, again, couldn't care less whether the Caucasian in their midst are Americans, Frenchmen, Jews or Danes, their whiteness makes them all seem much the same.

This is not to say, of course, that differences between groups are not sometimes significant, or should be ignored. But it is to suggest that these differences of a common culture are much more alike than they suppose: the American begs to differ, and the Europeans to be more distinctively "American" than almost anybody else. His cultural blueloom large to us, but to alien eyes it is just "Americanism" that most marks Americans, one from them, and allies him to us.

(This is the comment of the very story about the Arab man asked by a rabid racist the familiar question, "would you like your daughter to marry a Negro?" "Certainly not," the Jewish man said, "I wouldn't want my daughter to marry a Gentile.")

And the Southern lady didn't like to hear any rough Northern voice, whether policeman or criminal; to her, such Northern manners are crude. The differences that seem so important to us have their roots in geography; and out of them, we construct a distorted history.

Snarling

Regina Leader Post

For some strange reason which we have never been able to comprehend, some people think that the purchase and cup of coffee has the fringe privilege of snarling at the waitress. It is pretty difficult to give courteous efficient service to the man or woman who brings his chip on the shoulder to the restaurant counter or table; or man or women who has endless and unreasonable dietary problems or food criticisms; or the customer who seems to take it for granted that the waitress should enjoy being the butt of a corny joke or an objectionable remark.

A recommendation that city police rigidly enforce the city bylaw regarding dogs running at large was passed in city council last night following complaints that loose running dogs were disturbing tulip and other flower beds of residents. Several aldermen wanted to know if the bylaw called for double kept on the leash throughout the year or only during the spring time. However it was intimated that the bylaw called for dogs being kept on leash only during the spring, and the recommendation passed unanimously.

Radio owners along Front St. are loud in their complaints of the reception they have been getting during the evening hours since the new flasher traffic signals system went into effect about two weeks ago, it was revealed at the city council when an inquiry was tabled asking what measures were being undertaken to correct the trouble. Alderman Frank Follwell answered he had been interviewed by the radio technician that special condensors should be installed to cut out the disturbances, however the radio interference begins when the traffic lights are turned to the flasher system during the evening and at night.

To have a box of flowers arrive at her home on Pearl Ave. from Victoria, B.C., in perfect condition was the pleasant surprise of Mrs. William Harvey of this city. The flowers arrived in the city by express on Saturday morning from Toonto after having been flown from the west coast. They were despatched from Victoria late Wednesday evening.

Tight Shoes or Socks Can Cause Club Toenails

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes club toenails? How can they be treated? I have gone to a chiropodist and he tells me I could have them removed but with no guarantee as to whether they would grow back again. They don't bother me except for the difficulty in cutting them. — Mrs. H. F.

Thickened nails are in general found among older persons; sometimes in middle age, not often in youth.

Tight shoes or socks can cause such thickening. More often it is from some disease of the nail, and fungus infection is a common one. These infections generally take a long time to develop. Getting rid of them can be difficult, although in recent years the drug griseofulvin has been wonderfully helpful if certain types of fungus are involved.

Anyway, brittleness of the nails leads to so long with thickening.

Care in cleaning under the nails, just as you do the fingernails, is important.

In many cases, filing the nails to lessen their thickness is necessary.

Soaking the feet to soften the nails before trimming makes care easier.

These are about all the measures the individual can take by himself.

When fungus infection is involved, sometimes it is necessary to remove the nail. As I said, griseofulvin, which is an antibiotic for fungi, is remarkably effective in some cases, but not all types respond to it.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person had chorea, or St. Vitus's dance at about 16, would it leave permanent heart damage? Could it cause a mental breakdown at 24? What if any hereditary effect could it have on the victim's children? What are the possibilities of a cure? — Mrs. J. N.

Chorea is a result (in most instances, but not always) of rheumatic fever. This jigging and jittering tends to disappear as the patient grows out of childhood.

It may or may not leave permanent heart damage, although the probability is that it does. It does not cause mental breakdown, and has no hereditary effect on children.

The heart damage usually effects one or more of the valves. Heart surgery is being done for this.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a pregnant woman is exposed to German measles but had the disease as a child, is there a danger? Does the baby have to get the measles for the umbilical cord for born baby to be harmed? — Mrs. M. G.

If she has had German measles there is little if any chance that she can get them again. Exposure will do no damage. The mother must get the disease before the child can be harmed.

Note to R. E. S.: At 39, and with no periods for 18 months, you cannot become pregnant. This recent bleeding should be studied at once, to determine the cause.

Letter to the Editor

Urges Developing Park on Bay Shore

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Not enough people are aware of the beauty of Belleville's bay shore, with its little inlets for launching boats and its lovely trees to shelter picnic tables. The Harbor Board have been doing an excellent job of improving the part west of the sewage disposal plant, and the plant itself is an attractive and interesting building.

Now that Council has decided on a bathing beach, more works barn there, Block Eleven could be developed as a park too, from the sewage plant to Foster Ave. and right up to St. Paul St.

The whole bay shore should eventually be a park area. It is one of the city's greatest recreational assets, rather like Toronto's Island. Council's wise policy in acquiring and developing a waterfront park of it now will be greatly appreciated in years to come.

Sincerely yours,
Rodger C. Greig,
For the Community Planning Association.

Truck traffic between West Germany and Berlin was halted 15 years ago today—in 1946—when Soviet authorities refused to clear vehicles, many of them transporting perishable food, near Britain-occupied Helmstedt. The drivers were ordered to produce permits issued by the Soviet - German Economic Commission. The trucks were permitted to enter Berlin the next day.

From the French-Canadian Viewpoint

Quebec L'Action—Thanks to the tenacity and courage of the minister of family and social welfare, the Quebec government has decided to end the advertising extravagances which distillers and, more especially, brewers have been committing for some months.

We note with satisfaction that this advertising will in future be restricted in quantity and kind. The idea of the legislation is to persuade producers and salesmen to compete for customers without increasing their total. One may thus be able to boast about such and such a brand of beer without endowing it with the imaginary virtues too generously ascribed to it now.

The liquor board statute provided for such regulations but, notwithstanding the demands of a number of groups, among them the Lacordaire and Jeanne d'Arc (temperance) organizations, no one dared to carry out these good intentions. Without the constant and formidable efforts of Mr. Lafrance (the minister), to whom we have avowed the committee for research and information on alcoholism, we should have had to wait longer still.

The excellent anti-alcoholic work of the committee will thus no longer be stultified by the disproportionate and bizarre advertising done by alcohol. In recent months the breweries have literally mobilized television and the best available talents to poison public opinion in this connection. To be sure, we are indebted to the brewing industry for the most popular and sometimes the most expensive programs but, cautious and discreet as it was in the beginning, brewery advertising became showy, indiscreet and diabolical to boot, therefore pernicious. — Louis-Philippe Roy. (May 6)

Montreal-Matin — Why have we a business sense? Most certainly. And why should we? Why would such a thing belong exclusively to the Anglo-Saxon heritage?

Prejudices, like packaged ideas, are durable. Because we have not yet succeeded in making our full mark in the realm of great industries, you hear it said: "Oh, those French - Canadians, they haven't got the knack for business. They make excellent employees, for sure, but when it comes to managing an enterprise, that's another matter." Let them therefore leave it to us, Anglo-Saxons, who have the experience, the money, etc. Let them attend to their cultural affairs and leave us to worry about business.

That's a short-sighted view, it goes without saying, and it would not be worth mentioning, were it not so widespread.

We are not such bad managers as they would have us believe, the old bankruptcy argument not withstanding.

This argument has been exploded by a little investigation carried out by the council for economic expansion (a private Quebec business group), the results of which are published in its publication.

The investigation deals with the first three months of 1946. It reveals that 73 per cent of the bankruptcies in Quebec had no connection with French-Canadians.

Who would have believed it? When it is stated the number of bankruptcies in our province is higher than elsewhere, people think at once that the blame belongs to

Nasser Sets Example in UN

Washington Post

The countries that are in danger of losing their votes in the United National General Assembly may well take note of a policy recently set by United Arab Republic. Until recently the U.A.R. was one of the 18 countries behind in its assessments unpaid for more than two years, by paying up its overages assessments for the U.N. Congo operation, it has relieved itself of embarrassment when the Assembly convenes and at the same time intensified the pressure on the other delinquents.

The Cairo example may carry little influence with the Soviet Union and other Communist-bloc delinquents. But it is worth the thoughtful consideration in France and in the seven Latin American countries that have failed to pay their assessments for peace - keeping expenses in the Congo and elsewhere. Can any one of these governments afford to be internationally responsible for refusal to participate in peace - keeping efforts and for jeopardizing the future of the U.N.?

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Building Products jumped 7¼ to 35¾ on the stock market today. Trading was on the quiet side.

The increase in Building Products—which sold as high as $37 at the opening—came on the heels of an offer to purchase the company's assets for $18,000,000 by Imperial Oil. The offer is equivalent to about $38.75 a share. Building Products was in the news Friday when Prudential Finance bid $28 for 100,000 shares.

Meanwhile the remainder of the market was suffering a hangover from the holiday weekend. Price changes were small with no definite trend established.

Electric Storm Lashes District, Some Power Cut

A furious electric storm lashed the Quinte district early today, causing power interruptions and blanketing the area with heavy rains.

In Belleville, public utilities crews were out from 5 a.m. seeking the cause of scattered breakdowns.

One transformer was damaged on the West Hill while power surges caused by lightning blew fuses at various transformer points.

A total of .18 inch of rain was recorded.

coast resort, at Easter.

This time the word went round London's teen-age grapevine that Margate was to be the scene.

Margate police got tough and arrested 50 youngsters. The main battleground shifted to Brighton, where 76 were jailed Monday night.

The Daily Telegraph suggested the cure may lie in fire hoses or corporal punishment.

"More rods," it said, "could mean fewer mockers."

WOULD END HOLIDAYS

The Times had a suggestion to combat both road deaths and vacation violence.

"Bank holidays (long weekends) should be abolished," it said.

Photographs of youths fighting on beaches were splashed all over morning papers.

Pictures showed a Mod kicking a prone Rocker in the head; streaming from stab wounds in a young man's back; black - jacketed toughs leaping over balcony to escape deck chairs hurled by Mods; a gang beating a sole opponent; unarmed police struggling to restrain the teen-age packs.

Magistrate George Simpson decared at Margate: "These long-haired, mentally unstable, petty little sawdust Caesars only find courage like rats by hunting in packs."

Even outside the courts, marching "Mods" shouted to rival gangs: "Come on out, you Rockers." Two youths were stabbed outside one court at Margate.

The sands and the boardwalks where the youths clashed from dawn to dusk were littered with ripped-up boards, broken beach chairs, bottles, refuse and shattered shop windows.

3,000 FIGHT

Reporters estimated about 3,000 teen - agers fought at Brighton with the Rockers apparently getting the worst of it. Authorities said more than 1,000 fought at Brighton.

Police also broke up crowds of youths massed near the pier at Southend, across the Thames from Margate. And northward, at Clacton, mobile police forces headed off the motorized youth approaching town.

Even the crowded railway stations were not safe. One depot restaurant was wrecked by teen-agers, who threw tableware and food at each other while 200 other persons were trying to eat.

At Brighton five girls were taken to hospital with stab and club wounds after someone threw a rock at an ambulance Immediately the beach erupted into a mob scene.

Triplets Born To a Partly Crippled Mother

ASHTON - UNDER - LYNE, England (AP)—Triplets born to a partly paralyzed mother are doing well.

"It's wonderful, and so are my three little daughters," said Mrs. May Bowles, 30. "I'm so happy that I've been able to prove the doctor wrong."

Mrs. Bowles was told after a series of operations that she would never be able to have children. She is in a wheel-chair much of the time and can't walk unaided.

Two years ago, however, she gave birth to a son.

Last Saturday night the first of the triplets, Alison, was born. She weighed five pounds, six ounces.

Sunday morning Julie, four pounds, 14 ounces, arrived. An hour later, Melanie, four pounds, five ounces, was born.

A hospital spokesman said the babies are doing well.

"And to think," said her husband, John, 30, "a doctor told us we'd never have a family."

Harkness Back In Good Graces Of PC Party

OTTAWA (CP)—It is probably premature to say that Douglas Harkness is back in the good graces of the Conservative party.

But at least the party made a conciliatory gesture last week when it nominated the former Conservative defence minister to the Commons defence committee.

Mr. Harkness resigned his cabinet portfolio Feb. 3, 1963, in a nuclear policy split with then prime minister Diefenbaker and said the Conservatives couldn't win the next election with Mr. Diefenbaker as leader. They didn't.

Mr. Harkness, who was kept off the defence committee at the last session of Parliament, wasn't consulted about membership on it this year. He didn't know he had been nominated by his party until the Liberal whip read out his name in the Commons along with those of other members.

If this was good news for Mr. Harkness and Conservatives generally, it wasn't for the Liberals.

weeks of intense training, marched on the parade ground shortly before two o'clock under the command of commanding officer Lieut. Col. J. B. Black.

Four officiating chaplains took up their position directly to the right of the base.

The bands of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, from Eastern Area Command and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment resplendent in their scarlets and blues furnished the music for the ceremonies.

INSPECTED REGIMENT

Shortly after the arrival of the official party, the regiment drawn up in four guards formation was inspected by the Lieutenant - Governor Lieut.-General Graham, Mayor Ellis and other members.

Prior to this, the regiment advanced in line formation for the Royal Salute. The large crowd stood in bareheaded silence as the National Anthem was played.

Then to veterans of the regiment came a moment of nostalgia as the "Old Colors" were marched off. Lieut. D.E. Traylor carried the Queen's Color, Lieut. W. E. Reframe the Regimental Color. The crowd stood in reverent tribute as the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Band played "Auld Lang Syne".

The regiment was then drawn up in the famous Brittany Hollow square. Five drums were rolled and the new colors draped over them. The Lieutenant-Governor's party moved to the front of the draped colors.

Again in reverent silence the large crowd heard the solemn consecration of the new colors. This was conducted by Lieut.-Col. J. M. Anderson, Oakville, Protestant chaplain for Central Command, assisted by Major George Bickley, Kingston, Protestant chaplain for Eastern Ontario area. Major the Venerable A. S. McConnell, MBE, CD, former regimental chaplain and present chaplain Captain David W. Sinclair.

Then came the highlight of the ceremonies, the presentation of the new colors to the regiment. Lt.-Governor Rowe in turn presented the regiment, through Lieut. H. A. Bird, with the Queen's Color and Lieut. H. H. Evans with the Regimental Color.

The new colors were handed to the Lieutenant Governor by senior majors and field officers of the colors, Major Derek W. Riordan and Major Percy J. Gray.

Addressing the regiment, gathered dignitaries and other spectators, Lt.-Governor Rowe said: "In the presentation of these impressive colors that Her Majesty the Queen has authorized, I recall in humble gratitude the glorious heroic background of this great regiment."

REMINDED OF PIONEERS

"This Regiment smart in military style, reminds us today of the noble spirit and devotion and idealism of those great pioneers of Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

"For over 180 years," the Lt. Governor said, "this regiment has stood alert and ready and has, with honorable distinction, served in every military challenge that our country has met since and during the war of 1812.

"As we approach the end of our first century as a nation, may this historic ceremony reawaken our memories and respect for the noble pioneers of older days and the distinguished officers and men who so bravely carried out their duties."

"In these days of haste, changes and complacency, it is an inspiration to inspect a regiment of young men so loyal to the underlying principles of idealism, devotion and service."

"As we respect these beautiful colors, let us never forget so lightly disregard the emblems, banners and flags that so many have fought and died for."

"May God bless this Regiment," concluded the Lieutenant - Governor, "and may its noble service for the preservation of peace and good will for all our people continue as its aims and purposes."

Lieut. Col. Black expressed the appreciation of the regiment and its officers in a brief address.

PRESENTS "FREEDOM"

In his official robes of office Mayor J. R. Ellis presented the scroll containing the freedom of the city to the regimental commanding officer. Prior to the presentation the script was read to the public by city clerk Adam Stalker.

In his presentation address, Mayor Ellis said that "strangely enough Belleville is neither for practical purposes part of Hastings or part of Prince Edward. Yet we feel that we are, in many ways, at the heart of the combined counties. It is from that heart and the hearts of all our people that we make this presentation today to the regiment."

"For 164 years the men of this gallant regiment have been active in protecting not only their homes and families, but the homes and families of the Quinte district, the province, the country and the freedom of our civilization."

"Gentlemen" the mayor concluded, "this freedom is not lightly given. In the words of the proclamation you are granted the right to march proudly through our streets with bayonets fixed, banners flying and drums beating so long as Quinte waters lap the shore."

"A privilege such as this can only be granted to men of extremely high calibre and those worthy of the trust implied."

Lieut. Colonel Black accepted the parchment on behalf of his regiment.

Following the presentations, the regiment was formed into line and marched past the saluting base twice, first in slow time and again in quick time with the Lieutenant-Governor taking the salute.

Many words of commendation were heard regarding the fine appearance and deportment of the regiment on parade. After a few weeks of intensive, if strange, ceremonial drill training, the battalion conducted itself reminiscent of the early days when being a soldier was a full-time job.

It swung smartly past the reviewing stand and as one "old soldier" remarked: "Why they are as good as we were."

After the march-past the regiment advanced in review order for the "Royal Salute." Then came the march-past of the "Plowboys" and the "present arms honor."

MARCHED THROUGH CITY

Then exercising their new freedom the regiment swung from the Fair Grounds and marched through city streets via Catherine, Coleman, West Main, Front and Bridge to the armouries where they were dismissed and served a buffet lunch.

Special receptions were held for out-of-town and city special guests at the officers' and sergeants' messes. Many members of the "First Battalion" were entertained by officials and members of ANAF, Branch 2-1.

Lieut.-Gen. Graham headed a number of former commanding officers of the regiment. Among these were Lord Tweedsmuir, and Lieut. Colonels, A. A. Kennedy, Angus B. Duffy, W. A. Davern, E. S. Fairman, M. Davison and others.

Other distinguished guests included Brigadier J. S. Ross, Commandant Eastern Ontario Area, Kingston; Brigadier, George Aldous Commander 12 Militia Group, Ottawa, Brigadier M. E. Clarke, commander of 13 Militia Group, Brigadier Lyall Carr, Port Hope, retired and Lieut.-Col. H. W. Mulherin, commanding officer 1 Canadian Guards, Picton.

In Saint John, N.B., Loyalist Day celebrations were held as well as parades, presentations, dinners, dances and gun salutes. Lieutenant - Governor J. Leonard O'Brian witnessed the gun salute and opened a display at the New Brunswick Museum.

Temperatures were in the high 60s and in the 70s across most of Ontario and Quebec for the final day of the holidays. Highways were jammed bumper to bumper.

In Ottawa Mayor Charlotte Whitton read a proclamation giving the redcoated guardsmen on Parliament Hill authority to march through the city with "drums beating, colors flying and bayonets fixed."

Sunny warm weather was general over the Prairies with highs reaching the 70s in many areas.

The prairie horse racing season opened in Calgary Saturday.

Temperatures in the 80s and showers dampend the holiday in British Columbia.

tion, although he had expected some reaction from his audience of 1,900 legislatures and their friends at a downtown theatre.

"I was assured that there was not going to be this type of electoral expression," he said. At the same time he realized how strong and sincere" emotions become on the question of emblems.

But he said it would be unreasonable not to discuss the flag issue.

IS ADVOCATE

The legion has been the most powerful single advocate for retention of the Red Ensign, under which many fought.

At the first mention of the new flag, many delegates roared endorsation of the Red Ensign and the prime minister from then on plowed gamely through a barrage of heckling.

Audience comments ranged from "drop dead" to "kick him out" to "God bless John Diefenbaker."

"I believe most sincerely," Mr. Pearson said, "that it is time now for Canadians to unfurl a flag that is truly distinctive and truly national in character; as Canadian as the maple leaf which should be its dominant design; a flag easily identifiable as Canada's; a flag which cannot be mistaken for the emblem of any other country; a flag of the future which honors also the past: Canada's own and only Canada's."

Would such a change mean disrespect for the Union Jack? he asked. Cries of "yes, yes, yes" drowned out the prime minister's next words.

CAME TO AID

Twice Judge C. C. Sparling, the legion president, came to his aid.

"I thought you were all ladies and gentlemen," he said once. "This is our honored guest invited here by you. Surely the Royal Canadian Legion has more courtesy and dignity than that."

Mrs. Pearson sat impassively near her husband as he almost shouted his 30 - minute speech into the microphones.

At one point, Mr. Pearson said in a free country one has the right to disagree "but in a free country one also has the right to be heard."

Later Judge Sparling said sadly: "I feel so badly about this. We are so very, very sorry it happened. We thought we had everything under control, but some members let their feelings run wild."

Not all the delegates felt the same way. George Laughlin of St. Catharines, honorary treasurer of the legion's Ontario Command, rose on a point of privilege at Monday's general session and termed Mr. Pearson's speech a "desecration of a semi-religious ceremony."

The legion traditionally reserves its opening night to pay respects to fallen comrades, he said and Mr. Pearson despoiled it with a political speech.

DENIED RIGHT

The legion delegates were denied the right to reply to the speech, he said, because it was not properly made at regular business sessions. The subject was too volatile anyway to be brought up in the fashion it was.

But Harold Kirby of the Montreal East legion branch said the reception accorded Mr. Pearson was terrible.

"I favor the Red Ensign, make no mistake about that, but the prime minister is doing what he considers is best and he's entitled to be heard."

Another delegate, Ed Kocej of Hamilton, said Mr. Pearson had no choice but to bring up the flag issue.

"He couldn't just ignore it. And if there had to be a demonstration, it should have been organized in a better way."

Meanwhile, support for the prime minister began to flow in from across the country Monday. Both New Democratic Party Leader Douglas and Social Credit Leader Thompson declared their support.

Mr. Douglas said he personally would go along with a distinctive Canadian flag, although NDP MPs have not discussed it. But he commented that although a flag was a symbol of unity and purpose, unity and purpose did not result from having a flag.

ISN'T PREJUDICED

Mr. Thompson said he is not prejudiced against the Red Ensign but noted "it really is the flag of the British merchant marine with the Canadian coat of arms added."

The Red Ensign indicated a subservient position for Canada within the Commonwealth, the Social Credit leader said, and did not reflect the free association of Commonwealth nations.

He added that he thought Mr. Pearson's suggestion for a distinctive flag "is a reasonable one and it is what most Canadians want." But the maple leaf design "isn't the one I would personally choose."

The prime minister received about 30 telegrams from various parts of the country Monday, with 70 per cent of them supporting his stand.

The Ontario Junior Chamber of Commerce also endorsed the new flag design, and an official of the Toronto Junior Board of Trade described Mr. Pearson's speech in Winnipeg as "another milestone in Canadian history."

ton, who has had no previous political experience.

However, Mr. Templeton said he did not regard it as a rebuke. He said the recommendation was made by the party's management committee and that the meeting as a whole was only ratifying its recommendation.

Mr. Nixon, 36, who resigned Saturday as president of the Ontario Liberal Association to seek the leadership, and Mr. Thompson, 39, both said it did not matter to them when the leadership convention was held.

GOULD ENTERED

Besides these three, one other person also has entered the race —Joe Gould, legislature member for Toronto Bracondale—and one other is expected to do so within a week—Eddie Sargent, member for Gray North and mayor of Owen Sound.

Another possible candidate—making a total of six—is Joseph Greene, member of the House of Commons for Renfrew South.

Mr Greene ran unsuccessfully for the leadership when John Wintermeyer was chosen to head the party in 1958. Mr. Wintermeyer resigned after his personal defeat for re-election to the legislature in last September's general election.

The feeling at the annual meeting Saturday after the fall leadership date was decided upon was that the contest would resolve itself into a battle between Mr. Nixon and Mr. Thompson, with Mr. Templeton possibly making a good run at it.

Members who urged holding the leadership convention next spring were Mr. Sargent; Leonard Braithwaite, Etobicoke; George Gordon, Brantford, and Elmer Sopha, Sudbury, a supporter of Mr. Templeton.

Fawcring a fall date was Vernon Singer of Downsview, who is behind Mr. Thompson's candidacy.

LACKS SUPPORT

A proposal, sponsored by Ian Wahn of Toronto, to hold leadership conventions within two years after each provincial election, fell just short of receiving the needed two-thirds vote.

"I don't think there is any doubt at the present time," said Mr. Nixon, "that Andy Thompson is a very strong contender." However, he said the next leader would not necessarily have to come from within the caucus.

Although Mr. Templeton was a man without political experience, Mr. Nixon said, he had a "magnetic personality."

Son of a former premier of Ontario, Mr. Nixon said the fact that he comes from outside of Toronto may be an advantage to him. All other three declared candidates are from Toronto.

WELCOMES BID

Mr Thompson said he welcomed Mr. Nixon's entry into the fray. "I was delighted to hear Bob is entering the race," said the Belfast-born former social worker. He said he knew the resulting leadership battle would be an "honorable one."

Mr. Nixon was succeeded as association president by Gordon Blair, 44, an Ottawa lawyer who had been vice-president.

At one time Mr. Blair served as executive assistant to Stuart Garson, federal justice minister in the Liberal government of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Lady Bird Johnson Has Become Active First Lady

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP)—In just six months, Lady Bird Johnson has become the most active first lady since Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson says she has "an unashamed love affair with the American people."

Mrs. Johnson has pitched in to help her husband in every endeavor from outright politicking to polite and formal entertaining at the White House. She does it all with ease; grace and zest.

Crowds in one state after another have shown their enthusiasm for Mrs. Johnson on appearances with the president and on her own. They found her "charming," "prettier than her pictures," "a real southern lady."

And every month, her calendar, issued by her press secretary, seems to get longer.

Every day, the petite, dark-haired Mrs. Johnson is growing in her role, finding more assurance as a speaker, planning to say more in support of her husband's declarations against poverty and prejudice.

Round Steak Sukiyaki

Continental Style

by Mary Moore

NOTE:

The chief virtue of this dish is that it raises round steak to gourmet meal standards. Round steak frustrates me, for after I have made Swiss Steak what else is there to do with it? Round steak roasts are too dry for my liking.

So this is another recipe for you to add to your round steak file. It is rich in flavor and, when ready for the host to serve, makes a colorful picture.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Grilled Shoulder Lamb Chops; Poppy Seed Noodles; Creamed Asparagus; Celery Curls and Carrot Sticks; Rhubarb Betty with Hard Sauce; Tea.

ROUND STEAK SUKIYAKI—OCCIDENTAL STYLE:

The first requirement is that your butcher co-operates by slicing 2 lbs. almost frozen round steak on his slicer into slices ¼" thick. I had fourteen ¼" thick slices, measuring roughly 8 x 4". I cut each in half crosswise, giving me 28 pieces of meat that serve 6 generously.

2 lbs. red brand round steak cut into paper-thin slices (see above), 1 tablespoon cooking oil, 1 tablespoon soy sauce (see note No. 3 below), one 10-oz. can consomme, undiluted, 3 green peppers cut into ¼" strips lengthwise, 1 large Spanish onion, sliced wafer-thin, sugar (see note No. 3 below), 4½ cups cooked rice (see below), ¾ cup parsley, 2 tomatoes for garnish.

NOTE:

If desired sprinkle slices of beef on both sides with meat tenderizer. This reduces cooking time by 1 hour.

In very large frying pan sear the beef until golden in the cooking oil. (You may have to transfer some scarce meat to a plate to give you room in the frying pan before you are finished. If so return to frying pan when all is done.) Add 1 tablespoon soy sauce and consomme, cover and simmer 2 hours (if tenderized) or 3 hours, until tender. Ten minutes before serving time pile prepared peppers and onion on top (do not stir in) and simmer, covered, until vegetables will but still retain some crispness. Have ready 4½ cups cooked rice (1½ cups raw long-grain rice cooked in 3 cups boiling water with 1 teaspoon salt, covered, until all water is absorbed). Gently stir in ¾ cup finely chopped parsley. Make border of rice around edge of large deep preheated platter. Carefully and skillfully slip panful of Sukiyaki into centre of platter, without dripping pan juices on rice. Cut both tomatoes into 6 wedges each and garnish platter inside rice border with them.

NOTES:

1) You may add sliced mushrooms and canned drained bean sprouts when peppers and onions are added to meat to extend and vary this dish. 2) In Japan, spinach and leaf lettuce are usually added, but in Japan this dish is traditionally cooked at the table in a "nabe" (a frying pan without a handle) on a "hibachi" fueled with charcoal or, in modern homes, on an electric element. 3) More soy sauce and some granulated sugar should be available on the table for guests to add to their Sukiyaki to get the right balance of flavor for those with palates adjusted to Japanese cooking.

Hastings West District W.I. Holds 63rd Annual Meeting

STH SIDNEY — Stirling Women's Institute was the hostess branch for the 63rd annual meeting of Hastings West District Women's Institute on May 15. The meeting was held in Marsh Hill United Church.

Mrs. W. C. West was in charge of registration while Mrs. Frank Smith and Mrs. Morley Ayrhart welcomed the ladies as they arrived.

The president, Mrs. G. Harrington opened the convention and introduced the board member, Mrs. G. McLaren and Miss K. Spoung, home economist.

In giving her report the secretary remarked that she had sent out 191 pieces of mail this year.

Mrs. Blanche Reid gave a warm welcome to the assembled group to which Mrs. Mac Nobes graciously replied.

DISTRICT DIRECTORS

Mrs. G. McLaren ratified the following district directors:

Stirling — Mrs. Blanche Reid; River Valley — Mrs. Ken Meyers; Pine Grove — Mrs. Leslie Finkle; Chatterton — Mrs. Lorne Reid; Wallbridge — Mrs. Ray Shorey; Bay of Quinte — Mrs. Ross Sickler; Uniondale — Mrs. Ernest Anderson; Sidney South — Mrs. Frank Aikens.

The president reported visiting all eight branches. She found all the ladies interested in all phases of institute work.

Mrs. Ross Sickler reported for Bay of Quinte. She told about a special meeting when they had Mrs. Kilgours from Scotland visit their branch. She told of their branch at home and was amazed by the size of Canada.

Mrs. Lorne Reid told of having the agricultural representative visit the Chatterton branch. He stressed tests on driving cars and showed a film on the use of new machinery, stressing safety.

Mrs. Alex Tanner in reporting for Pine Grove told about the Guelph Conference. Some of her points were 10 good members are better than 40 not so good, be courteous; have more group discussions; have fun and celebrations; would a busy woman want to join your Institute?

Mrs. Ernest Carr reported for Pine Valley. They toured the Elaine foot wear plant in Stirling.

Mrs. A. Wannamaker reported for Stirling. This also was a tour of the Elaine shoe factory. They also send quilts and used clothing to the Scott Mission both spring and fall.

Mrs. E. Anderson reported for Uniondale. She spoke on the recent conference at Guelph. She repeated Mrs. Trivers as saying "To whom much is given much is expected."

Mrs. H. Ketcheson, Wallbridge spoke on the musical side of the Guelph conference.

Mrs. Frank Aikens, Sidney South showed a picture of the Adelaide Hoodless Homestead, describing the furniture of the rooms.

CONVENERS' REPORTS

Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. Lorne Reid. One hundred per cent reported. A field man from dairy branch Department of Agriculture spoke on proper care of milk houses cooling milk. One branch had a paper on insecticides and herbicides. A speaker gave a talk on safety on the farm and use of new farm machinery. Horticulture was another interesting subject. There was a display of "Working with Wool" at Belleville fair. Some roll calls: A Canadian industry I am wearing; a food suitable for freezer storage; qualifications of a good farmer's wife; sale of exchange of plants or slips; attractions of country life.

Motion: "Business and a home are like a wheelbarrow, it takes a good man and woman to push it. Friendship lights a candle in a window that can be seen a long way off.

Citizenship and Education: Mrs. Griffin Ketcheson. Seven out of eight branches reported. Roll calls: What I like or dislike about modern education; what I can do to further my education; ways to improve our educational system; my favorite page of the newspaper and why; a beauty spot in Canada I have visited. Motion: Keep your head up and overhead down; why argue with someone whose opinion you don't value; don't be wrong just to be different; freedom and privilege always entail responsibility. Papers: Importance of greater education; the story in school budget; ways to improve our reading potential. Talks: A question and answer period with such questions as how to get parents to come to annual school meetings, would you act if nominated to the school board, if not why? President of ladies' division of local fair board talk on "Ideas for promotion of local fairs"; something to think about; you can't stop people from thinking but you can help them start.

Historical research and current events, Mrs. J. Sargent. 100 per cent reported.

Roll calls: Grandfather's occupation; name a piece of historical interest; bring an antique.

Topics: Origin of Christmas customs; history of Trenton and the Trent River; history of Women's Institutes.

Current Events: World Day of Prayer; experiences of a member called for jury duty.

Tours: Museum, pioneer village.

Home economics and health — Mrs. E. Foster.

Topics: Cancer film; beauty aids; household hints; public health; value of vitamins; mental health.

Roll calls: Do we live to eat or eat to live; name a person famous in medicine; a labor saving device; something you do for a shut-in.

Resolutions — Mrs. Percy Ulman. Only five reports were received but no resolutions sent in. Special meetings were held in the branches on studying proper rules on drafting resolutions. One reason resolutions are turned down is because there is not enough supporting material.

Public Relations — Mrs. Morley Sine. Eight branches reported. Meetings are regularly reported in papers and sometimes by radio. Printed programs are used. Copies of "Home and Country" placed in public places. "Home and Country," "Federated News" and "the Countryman" received in the branches. The C.A.C. bulletin is also used.

SHORT COURSES

The district president visited all the branches. Pine Grove had two short courses — "Women's Institute Procedures" and "Good Shopping in the Sixties" to which the other branches were invited.

Several branches had two Sr. projects "Millinery" and "Focus on Finishes" 4-H girls' clubs are supported. The branch curator's workshop at Y.M.C.A. in April well attended. There was a bus trip in honor of Miss Van Beekhof (Guelph) and a luncheon at Peterborough.

Community singing was led by Mrs. Claire with Mrs. L. Finkle at the piano.

Messages were given from three adopted children. Uniondale — Mrs. Grenville Sine; River Valley — Mrs. George Heasman; Bay of Quinte, Chatterton, Pine Grove — Mrs. A. Meyers.

Sidney South, Uniondale, Chatterton and River Valley each displayed several dresses which were finished in the project "Focus on Finishes". River Valley favored with their song composed for this course.

AFTERNOON SESSION

A salad plate lunch was served by the ladies of Stirling at the noon hour. During that time Miss Jane Goy, district representative for Farm Safety spoke on the hazard of fire and the terrible losses sustained from fire. She recommended that there be farm ponds on every farm if possible. The government has increased the grants for these farm ponds. If there are small children there is danger of drowning so a boat should be kept on every pond, also a long rope. One of the greatest causes of farm fires is poor wiring, overloaded circuits.

Miss Spouse, home economist brought the message from the department and explained the extension services. She said the Women's Institute was founded for educational and citizenship reasons, there are all sorts of short courses. We should take advantage of our opportunities. The 4-H homemaking clubs are good public relations.

Mrs. Frank Smith favored with a humorous reading. Mrs. G. McLaren reported on the Federated Board meeting. The next national convention will be held in Ontario. Mrs. Jack Sargent conducted the "pennies for friendship" ceremony. An amount of $63.93 was handed in.

Mrs. Percy McMullen, the area P.R.O. brought greetings from the area. The convention will be September 14 and 15 with the topic "Friendship is the only cement that will hold the world together". She spoke about sending scrap books to the new Institutes in the north land.

Highlights of District Tweedsmuir curator were given by Mrs. Roy Bush. Seven branches reported.

Branch curators for 1964: Stirling — Mrs. O. Seeley; Pine Grove — Miss Jane Gay; Chatterton — Mrs. G. Irvine; Bay of Quinte — Mrs. Clarence Holmes; Uniondale — Mrs. Morley Sine; Sidney South — Mrs. J. Sargent; Wallbridge — Mrs. Allan Spencer; River Valley — Mrs. Roy Bush.

There were three large workshops at River Valley, at Y.M.C.A. and at the museum. There has been much more interest. Several new books have been added.

Bermuda Hospitality Makes Everyone Feel at Home

DEAR DORIS — I read somewhere that your column appears in a Bermuda newspaper. My husband and I are planning a holiday when he retires at the end of this month and would like to visit there. What clothes should we take? Does it get very hot in the summertime? What is there to do? — FREE AS AIR.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR FREE AS AIR — You've come to the right person. I'm just back from there and full of praise for Bermuda.

Hospitality abounded, from the smile of the taxi driver to the kindly service of the settled Bermudian homeowner; from the cop on the corner to the merchant in the gift shop; from the newspaper reporter to the member of parliament who took us to lunch!

It doesn't matter that you are a stranger; Bermudians consider it their stock in trade to make everybody comfortable and at home. Everybody speaks to everybody else. Old-fashioned friendly service is the watchword.

Temperatures are perfect for casual summer clothes — including a raincoat. There's golf, fishing, sightseeing, bowling, cricket, sailing, swimming, dancing, sunbathing. You can have everything from the luxury of a swanky hotel and the glitter of a night club to the congenial atmosphere of the English pub in this oldest of British colonies.

Write to the Bermuda Trade and Development Board, 111 Richmond Street West, Toronto, Ontario, about places to stay and any other questions.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: At a recent dinner for four, the hostess had such a high arrangement of flowers and candlesticks that it was impossible to see across the table — or, almost, anyway. I got a crick in the neck trying to peer around the centrepiece, so I finally suggested she take it away. My husband later said he was amazed at my bad manners and I was amazed that he looked at it that way. Do you think I was very discourteous to my hostess? — Mrs. A. N., Jackson Heights, N. Y.

Answer: It was unwise of the hostess to have such a high centrepiece. Table decorations, of course, should not interfere with visibility across the table. However, it was discourteous of you not to try to overlook this detail, instead of making the hostess dismantle her table and probably causing her to gnash her teeth as she did so.

Barber Able to Assist In Heavy Eyebrow Problem

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am going with an interesting man who happens to be very good-looking. Something about his looks bothers me and I'd like your advice.

Everett has very bushy eyebrows. They run together, instead of separating, as most people's eyebrows do. This gives him a fierce look.

Several weeks ago I hinted that I'd like to tweeze that little space in the middle so he would look as if his had two eyebrows instead of one. He laughed and said, "Men don't tweeze their eyebrows. I'd feel like a sissy."

Honestly, Ann, Everett would look so much better if he'd let me yank out about twelve hairs. Please tell me how to go about getting him to see it my way. — READY FOR THE PULL.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR READY — You lost when you used the word tweezers. Most men think of tweezers as something for the girls.

I agree that two eyebrows are better than one, and that something should be done. But you'd better stay out of the act.

Urge Everett to ask his barber if he will snip a few of the wild hairs with a specially designed pair of scissors. Many men have this done regularly. Eventually, the barber will get to the centre of the problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a 15-year-old girl with a story to tell.

Last Saturday I was invited to the home of a girl who moved here recently from Worcester, Mass. Her mother asked me to stay through dinner and I accepted.

I noticed that this girl and her mother treated each other like friends instead of relatives. I felt embarrassed when I heard her talk so politely to her mother because I remembered how I talked to mine.

When the girl's mother got up from the dinner table to fill the water glasses, she said, "Sit still, Mom, I'll do it." I then remembered how my mother had to tell me three times to fill the water glasses before she got any action.

I started on my new plan as soon as I got home. The first thing I did was to straighten my closet and clean my bookcase.

The next day I got up earlier than usual and did all the things I was supposed to do. I spoke very politely to mom and noticed that in return she was especially nice to me. And it's been that way ever since.

Life is so much more pleasant when people get along together. It's just a matter of respecting one another. I know now that mothers don't enjoy yelling at kids any more than kids enjoy being yelled at. They want to have peace in the family, but their kids have to meet them half way. — GLAD I LEARNED.

DEAR GLAD — A voice from the ranks. Hooray and thanks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The neighbor boy was over here playing in our recreation room when he should have been at home and in bed. I noticed his face was very red. When I felt his forehead and discovered it was burning I sent him home and telephoned his mother.

The neighbor boy was back in school after five days but our son caught his flu bug and we had to take him to the hospital. The bill was $160.

Do you feel we should send the bill to the neighbors? — FURIOUS.

DEAR FURIOUS — Please don't make jackasses of yourselves. Kids who play together catch things from one another. This comes under the heading of "Hazards Of Growing Up." Could be that next week the neighbor boy will catch something from your child.

Ontario Divers' Rally Held At Prince Edward Locations

PICTON — More than a hundred divers from Ontario centres and some from the U.S. spent the weekend in Prince Edward County, at the Ontario Underwater Council's second annual divers' rally. Belleville's Quinte Aqua Divers and RCAF Station Trenton's Flying Frogmen were host clubs. The same two clubs were hosts to the first rally, held last year at Frenquelin.

Eighty scuba divers Saturday dived on the wreck of the "Olive Branch," a schooner that went down off Long Point in 1878 with 250 tons of coal aboard. Four cruisers and a fishing tug were pressed into service carrying the divers from Long Point to the dive site, and nearly a thousand local people turned out to watch the spectacle. Dennis Kent of the Quinte Aqua Divers was chairman of the wreck dive committee and Flying Frogmen with portable radio units provided communications.

Eighty four skin and scuba divers Sunday participated in the divers' competitions, held off Salmon Point. Events included a compass-course contest, in which the divers had to follow a predetermined underwater course with only a compass to guide them; a skin-divers' race; a log-pushing race, and a raft-building races for four-man teams. Two special events planned for the day were called off because of poor visibility.

Co-chairmen of the competition committee were Thomas Gantert, president of the Trenton Sea Horses, and Bernard Dumond, president of the Quinte Aqua Divers.

Winning club in the event, the Hamilton Barracuba Club, and fifteen individual winners received trophies from George Burt, president of the Ontario Underwater Council. All trophies were donated by the Quinte Aqua Divers.

Lakeland Lodge, near the Outlet, was headquarters for the rally. The lodge also provided facilities for a dinner and dance Saturday night, and for a playground for children of the divers, on Saturday morning.

Sun Bathers Out in Force At Outlet Park

PICTON (Staff) — Despite what the Provincial Police described as rather heavy traffic, especially in the park areas, there were no reportable accidents in Prince Edward County to mar the holiday weekend.

At Outlet Provincial Park, officials reported that about 7075 of the camp sites were in operation, and that on Sunday the beaches were quite heavily populated with sun bathers, but that only a very few ventured near the water, and those that did came out rather quickly.

Two Break-ins Being Probed By Local Police

PICTON — Local police were called in over the weekend to investigate two break-ins which occurred some time Sunday.

Douglas Carter of Bridge St. reported to police that on Sunday a thief or thieves broke into his boathouse, located at the foot of his property on the bay and stole a radio-direction finder from his cruiser which was in the boathouse.

Vernon Wheeler of Ferguson Street, also reported on Sunday that someone took a tackle box containing fishing tackle valued at over $75 from his boat which was docked at the Picton Marina.

Police continue their investigation.

Quebec Minister Suggests Realistic Approach to Que. Problems in Confederation

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Paul Gerin-Lajoie, one of the Quebec government's most important spokesmen, suggested Saturday a "realistic" approach to Quebec problems within Confederation might be to deal with them one by one rather than to "rewrite a constitution for Canada starting from scratch.

"Truly, I think that the Canada of tomorrow cannot be built on theories," he said. "Would it not be better to establish a general objective and build up article by article in the light of experience?"

He said attainment of the self-determination" is the main preoccupation of French-Canadians.

"By self - determination, I mean for French-Canadians the power to organize themselves, their particular cultural, social and economic way of life much as would any other people who has its own identity, founded on historic, ethnic, linguistic and other values.

"I have the very definite feeling," he added, "that French-Canadians are disposed to continue to live in association with the other ethnic groups which constitute Canada. The question is to find out up to what point this association is reconcilable with the degree of self-determination which they desire."

He spoke to the 18th annual Canadian Managing Editors' Conference meeting in Charlottetown where the centennial of talks leading to Confederation is being celebrated.

The Quebec minister spent two hours with representatives of more than 30 Canadian daily newspapers delivering his speech and then answering questions about his province, its intensive political activity and its future.

Questioned about extreme points of view heard in Quebec and elsewhere, he said he was "personally not too concerned" over the public debate in progress in Canada about Confederation and Quebec.

He said he thought there should be more and more discussion of that and other questions since it would lead to enlightenment.

Premier Walter Shaw of Prince Edward Island, addressing the managing editors' annual dinner, outlined the difficult problems of a small province in Confederation but said he does not pay too much attention to talk that Canada is breaking up.

The point of view of his province is that Canada needs a strong and wise federal government that will provide a common pattern of life for all Canadians.

Body of Adrien Couture, Sought for Impersonating Doctor, Found Near Creek

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP)— The body of Adrien Couture, sought for two weeks on charges of impersonating a doctor, was found Sunday by 3 trout fishermen near a small creek about five miles east of this eastern Ontario town.

Couture, who interned for almost two years at a Burlington, Ont., hospital posing as Dr. Andre Couture, was last seen May 2 when he left his wife and children at their home here and said he was driving to Burlington to disprove charges that he was an impostor.

The discovery was made not far from the spot where Couture's car was found the afternoon of May 2 abandoned on the side of Highway 17. At that time police dragged a creek and skin divers searched the area of it without turning up anything. It was thought Couture had hitchhiked to Montreal.

The body was lyng on a blanket in the bush and there were some cigarettes.

Couture joined the Brant Hospital staff at Burlington in March, 1962, as a junior doctor and left last January to carry out a general practice with an older doctor at Kilbride, a small village north of Burlington.

Hospital officials said he had papers showing him to be a 1956 graduate from Laval University school of medicine and a "limited license" to practise issued by the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons. He had always worked under supervision at the hospital.

S ID AMAZED

When reports of an investigation became public, Couture said in an interview here that he was amazed. He vowed he would go to Burlington with credentials proving he was a graduate doctor.

The only Dr. Andre Couture listed in the Canadian Medical Directory is a doctor at Chicoutimi, Que. He said he had never been in Ontario and none of his credentials had been stolen.

After a detailed investigation by the Ontario College of Physicials and Surgeons a warrant was sworn out at Burlington charging Couture with impersonating a doctor.

Body Recovered After Sweeping Over Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — A Canadian woman died Monday after "most likely" being swept over the American or Canadian falls, police reported.

The body of Mrs. Erica Forman, 40, of Downsview, a Toronto suburb, was recovered at the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian shore near the foot of the falls.

Police in Niagara Falls, N.Y., said Mrs. Foxman and her husband, Louis, had been visiting that city and were staying at a hotel. They quoted Foxman as saying that his wife, complaining of feeling ill, left the hotel "to get some aspirin."

She apparently waded into the rapids in the upper river and was carried over the falls, police said.

Mr. K Calls Israel Agent Of Imperialism

PORT SAID (AP-Reuters)— Soviet Premier Khrushchev, standing on an anti-imperialist monument to Egypt's war dead, today condemned the 1956 British - French - Israeli attack on Suez and said many of the West's politicians have failed to learn the lesson of that defeat.

"Many of the West's politicians are still unable to realize the truth behind this shameful end," he said.

He added that the goal of Britain and France in that attack was "to destroy Egypt's independence." He called Israel "the agent of imperialism."

Khrushchev pledged that the Soviet Union would always stand with Egypt against "imperialist aggression."

Must Transfer Control Some Veterans' Hospitals -- Teillet

WINNIPEG (CP) — Veterans Affairs Minister Teillet entered the opposition camp Monday and said his department must proceed with transfer of control of some veterans' hospitals to local agencies.

He told the national convention of the Royal Canadian Legion the move is necessary to prevent deterioration in care standards. The 267,000 - member legion has been opposed to the move.

But the 1,500 convention delegates accorded Mr. Teillet a cordial reception, giving him several rounds of applause for answers to floor questions following his speech.

It was in marked contrast to boos and catcalls received by Prime Minister Pearson Sunday night when he advocated adoption of a maple leaf design for Canada's flag.

Mr. Teillet said there is some concern about how reciprocals of war veterans' allowances would be handled under the transferred hospitals.

HAS NO SUBSTANCE

He said there is "no substance to the suggestion that we intend to reduce our responsibility" in this regard.

Also, he said, his department "will continue to have full authority to decide when a veteran is to be admitted to hospital or discharged."

Judge C. C. Sperling of Winnipeg, legion president, said the speech appeared to clear up a major legion misgiving that recipients of war veterans' allowances "would be at the mercy of general hospital" when they sought medical help.

Mr. Teillet said that in the post-war years most of the occupants of veterans' hospitals have become convalescent patients or others not requiring the highly - skilled care and equipment needed for active cases just after the Second World War.

"The declining need for and use of these facilities speeds their rate of obsolescence and the purchase cost of replacements becomes prohibitive in terms of the use made of them," he said.

Neither, he said, are veterans' hospitals attracting interns, residents and nurses as they did when their population was mostly active cases. Professional recognition has been downgraded.

Newest Postage Stamp Symbol Of Nation's Unity

EDMONTON (CP) — Postmaster-General Nicholson said Saturday night that Canada's newest postage stamp is a symbol of the nation's unity and therefore one of the most important issues ever put out by the department.

He told the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada that the post office has decided to print a much larger run of the stamp than normal and keep it in production longer than usual.

The minister said the post office had rejected another design for the unity stamp showing "the lions of England, the lilies of France and other heraldic symbols" because they reflected divisions in Canada and "the fact that all three leaves are firmly united on a common stem signifies that we are all united in a common country, one Canada," said Mr. Nicholson.

Mr. Nicholson said in an interview earlier the stamp design has nothing to do with the national flag issue.

$37,000 Paid For Holstein Bull at Sale

UNIONVILLE, Ont. (CP)— About 125 Holstein cattle of the Romandale Farms herd, were auctioned Monday by Agriculture Minister Hays. Sales totalled $327,705 for an average of $2,287.

Top price was $37,000, paid for Romandale Reflection Marquis, all - Canadian champion bull in 1959, 1962 and 1963. It went to Curtis Candy-breeding farm of Cairo, Ill.

Among other sales was that of Reflection Argus, sold for $19,000 to the agriculture ministry of Japan.

All but 40 of the Romandale herd—bulls, cows and calves—were sold at what was termed one of Canada's largest auctions of 1964. Buyers from 15 countries attended.

Mr. Hays made the commitment to act as auctioneer at this sale two years ago. He worked without fee.

Pope Will Soon Create New Secretariat

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI announced Sunday that he will create soon a new Vatican secretariat for closer relations with non-Christians, problems and other non-Christians throughout the world.

He named as head of the new secretariat 69 - year - old Paolo Cardinal Marella, Italian-born archpriest of St. Peter's Basilica and former apostolic delegate to Australia and Japan.

The pope made his announcement in a Pentecost Sunday address to 2 cardinals and 8,000 student priests from 90 nations in St. Peter's Basilica.

The new secretariat would have contacts with non-Christian religions in much the same way that German - born Augustin Cardinal Bea's secretariat for promoting Christian unity has with non-Catholic Christians.

Vatican sources said the creation of the new secretariat was in line with the spirit of the Ecumenical Council whose third session is scheduled to start Sept. 14.

The Pope said he appointed Cardinal Marella as head of the new secretariat because of his particular competence in the field of religions of other races.

Special UN Envoy Tours Canadian Army Outposts and Praises Men for Their Work

NICOSIA (CP) — Galo Plaza Lasso, special representative of U Thant, United Nations Secretary - general, toured Canadian Army outposts in the Kyrenia Pass Monday.

The special UN envoy to Cyprus visited the three infantry company headquarters of the Royal 22nd and was briefed as to Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot positions in the Kyrenia Hills.

He praised the Canadian efforts in the explosive crisis.

Interviewed after his tour, he said the Canadians "are carrying out admirably their task as soldiers of the peace."

The special UN envoy commended the Canadian contingent for the "great deal of care, diligence and perseverance" which they are showing in solving some unusual problems.

He said the UN troops were busy with such jobs as finding lost cattle and making it as easy as possible under the circumstances for the Cypriot farmers to get on with their harvesting.

IS WELL ON HAND

He said he believed the Canadian soldiers have the situation in their sector well in hand and praised them for the good relations they have developed with both the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities.

"Deployed as they are in the villages, on the farms, in the mountains, the Canadian soldiers in this sector hold in their hands the elements which, otherwise, would threaten to explode."

The Greek - Cypriot press bureau reported Sunday that Turkish-Cypriot snipers fired on a Canadian Army post near St. Hilarion Castle earlier in the day.

The report said isolated firing came from Khirokitia and Pilerl, two Turkish - Cypriot villages at the foot of a mountain below St. Hilarion Castle.

It quoted a Canadian spokesman as saying: "It is not possible to establish that the firing was directed at the Canadians."

CLASH IN OFFING?

Meanwhile, Maj. Bob Theriault, of Quebec City said Sunday that Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots seem to be preparing for a clash in Trakhonas, a northern suburb of Nicosia.

Both warring factions have been strengthening their positions and creeping closer to the cease-fire line since Friday, he said, occupying abandoned houses as they advance.

In Trakhonas as elsewhere on Cyprus, negotiations are in progress aimed at getting overripe crops harvested safely.

Canadians are conducting the talks in three areas — bringing together village chiefs, police officials and the farmers themselves—but actual harvesting is starting slowly because of a number of incidents when workers were fired upon.

Deep-Frozen Sperm Cells Conceive Babies

NEW YORK (AP) — Four women now have babies conceived with use of deep-frozen sperm cells, a medical team reported Saturday.

The donor sperm had been preserved at a fahrenheit temperature of 320 degrees below zero for as long as 5½ months. Then it was thawed and the volunteer women were artificially inseminated.

Their own husbands were unable to produce sperm.

Each baby is apparently perfectly normal, Dr. William Perloff of the Albert Einstein Medical Centre, Philadelphia, told the American Society for the Study of Sterility, meeting in Bal Harbour, Fla.

Two other women had miscarriages in the fourth month. One had miscarried three times previously after insemination with non - frozen sperm.

The new freezing technique, using liquid nitrogen, offers "an improved and simplified method . . . which allows the storage of semen for indefinite periods of time," Dr. Perloff said.

The babies were two, four-six and eight months old last February when the report was written—and were developing normally both physically and mentally, he said. On the basis of earlier experiments in animals and other human pregnancies, no abnormalities are expected.

Earlton Wets Lose Recount

EARLTON, Ont. (CP)—Last week the wets bought they had their way; this week they found themselves squeezed out by 8-10 of one per cent.

In a recount of a plebiscite on cocktail lounges here, the wets had 220 ballots to 176 for the drys This gave the wets 39.2 per cent of the vote. They needed 40 per cent.

An unofficial count of the vote on May 13, the night of the plebiscite, showed the wets winning by more than one per cent over the required 60 per cent. But the recount turned up a number of new spoiled ballots which reversed the outcome.

Earlton is 100 miles north of North Bay.

Sport Slices . . .

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

I hope those hard-to-convince Yankees are satisfied.

I know I am—and I should have followed good advice and consulted with a head-shrinker before I took one last long look at the crystal ball. That globular Ananias played true to form.

Up it came with "Hill Rise" far in the lead and our Canadian baby "Northern Dancer" well back in the ruck. I should have known better. But it was worth the few pennies I filched from the cookie jar and placed on the "Rise" nose to make the hard-bellied Americans acknowledge the truth.

Not a few of the sotth of the border sportswriting experts columned that this upstart nag from Canada was the victim of luck and an exceptional performance to cop the Kentuck Derby Run for the Roses.

Now after the romp in the Preakness when the vanquished challenger "Hill Rise" finished a poor third with "Scoundrel" well in the second rear behind the cavorting "Dancer," they're making the Taylor colt an almost prohibitive choice to win racing's most coveted jewel, the Triple Crown.

As was noted in this column a few days ago there have been only eight horses in the "triple," the last being "Citation" in 1948. No Canadian-bred horse has ever brought home the three-ply gold and glory. No Canadian-bred horse has ever accomplished what the "Dancer" has done with two of the "jewels" in his saddle-bags.

The "Dancer" carrying the hopes of racing fans from Victoria to Halifax got off in third place and was given an admirable ride by Bill Hartack. He was challenged twice by "Hill Rise" but shook off the bid and romped home a winner by two and one-quarter lengths.

As one of my close American sportswriting friends told me in a facetious moment. "Hell, all you guys got up there are first-rate pulp wood and good rye whisky." I told him we didn't do too badly in a couple of wars—even if we had to wait for help—and the manufacture of pea soup.

The "Dancer" brought home $124,000 good American dollars and if you could get a peak of his bankbook you would find some $519,072 on the righthand side. Not that owner E. P. Taylor needs it but it's a nice wad to have around when the mortgage comes due.

While the "Dancer" has the Derby and Preakness tucked away there are still some people who have doubts as to his ability to win the one and one-half mile Belmont Stakes, the third and lustiest jewel in the Triple Crown.

The backers of "Scoundrel," who finished second Saturday may be in a long-striding horse built to measure for the long Belmont distance. His jockey, Hank Moreno says he is getting better all the time and "he might have something to say about the Belmont."

And that grand little jockey Willie Shoemaker who passed up the "Dancer" to take the mount on "Hill Rise" said "this time I was beaten legitimately. I had no excuse whatsoever. We had a good position on the backside and couldn't keep up with Northern Dancer there. Then Hill Rise moved when I asked him to and we had another shot at the Dancer, but we just couldn't stay with the top horse. He's just the best, that's all."

If Taylor wins the triple crown with "Northern Dancer," and if he doesn't and races him in the Queen's Plate you'd better get your tickets early. There's a lot of Canadians, horsemen or otherwise, who will like to get a look-see at Canada's alltime outstanding racehorse.

Thirteen Barns Burned

Fire Destroys 23 Horses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Officials hoped to determine today how many thoroughbred horses died from fire that turned Miles Park race track into a blistered arena of panic - stricken animals.

As well as could be determined Monday night, 17, thoroughbreds perished in the flames Monday afternoon, five more were injured and had to be destroyed and another died of a heart attack.

The flames, thrown from barn to barn by winds, drove the horses into stampede. their charges scattered firemen trying to douse the flames and their hooves sent up dust in choking clouds to mingle with the smoke.

Grooms, trainers, and stable hands led others of the some 600 horses to safety, including Devil's Advocate, one of the biggest winners at Eagle tracks.

Twelve horse barns and one feed barn were destroyed by the fire, which started in a tack room

Second Jewel For 'Northern Dancer'

BALTIMORE (CP) — This time there were no arguments. Northern Dancer, the Canadian-bred colt that won the Kentucky Derby without convincing all the spectators he was the best horse in the field, did it again in the Preakness Saturday and left his rivals without any excuse.

"The best horse won, that's all," admitted Willie Shoemaker, who rode Hill Rise, the beaten favorite, after passing up his chance for the mount on the Dancer in his classic engagements.

Hill Rise, whose whirlwind finish barely missed catching E. P. Taylor's colt at Churchill Downs two weeks earlier, couldn't stay with the Dancer on his second try. The long-striding California colt faded into third place, 3½ lengths behind the winner.

"He will do anything on a race track that you want him to," said Bill Hartack, who partnered the little three-year-old from Windfield's Farm in his Derby and Preakness victories and hopes to ride him again in the Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct June 6 in his bid for the Triple Crown.

The Toronto - owned Dancer picked up his $134,200 purse without any down-to-the-wire dramatics.

He stayed close to the pacesetters, Big Pete and Quadrangle, for the first mile of the 1 3-16-mile distance before moving in front. Hill Rise challenged briefly but was outrun cleanly in the stretch, eventually yielding second place to The Scoundrel, which finished 2¾ lengths behind the leader.

Quadrangle was fourth half a length behind Hill Rise, with Roman Brother and Big Pete rounding out the six-horse field. The time, on a holding track, was 1:99 4-5, compared with the Preakness record of 1:54 3-5. On a faster surface at Churchill Downs, the Dancer had set a record of two minutes flat for the Derby distance of 1¼ miles.

Hank Moreno, aboard The Scoundrel, said his colt was running strongly at the finish and might have caught the winner over a longer distance.

"It was the next time round," said Braulio Baeza, who rode Quadrangle. The Scoundrel, third in the Derby, also finished behind the Dancer in two other races this season.

"I don't have any doubts about this horse going a mile and a half," said Hartack when asked about his colt's chances of winning the longer Belmont and becoming the first Triple Crown winner since Citation in 1948.

Trainer Horatio Luro sounded even more confident.

"We are ready for a match race at any distance from five-eighths of a mile," he said. "My horse is quicker."

Northern Dancer, a 3-to-1 second choice to Hill Rise, the odds-on favorite, paid $6.20.

So far, Hill Rise is the only other horse definitely slated to oppose the Dancer in the Belmont. Most of the other trailers planned to await the outcome of tuneup races before making their decision.

The Dancer, a reject when offered for $25,000 at Taylor's yearling sales two years ago and now the possessor of a $519,092 bankroll, will be rested until the Belmont. After that, if all goes well, he'll shoot for the 100th running of the Queen's Plate at Toronto's Woodbine Park June 20.

AT THE WIRE — This is how the six horse field looked as it came to the finish line in the 88th running of the Preakness. Northern Dancer was first, adding the second of the triple crown after his Kentucky Derby victory. The others finished: The Scoundrel, second; Hill Rise, third; Quadrangle, fourth; Roman Brother, fifth; and Big Pete, sixth. (AP Wirephoto)

Minor Baseball Opens

Two very tight pitcher's duels featured play as the Belleville Minor Baseball Association opened play in the Peewee and Bantam divisions at Parkdale yesterday.

Suitable opening ceremonies were held but were overshadowed by the games themselves.

In the Peewee opener the Giants edged the Red Sox 1-0 while the Bantam loop opened up with a thrilling 0-0 tie between Barriage Landscapers and Park Dale.

While pitchers Steven Moore of the Giants and Tom Gill of the Red Sox, battled pitch for pitch in the Peewee thriller, Moore's battery mate, Mario Venuto provided the punch to give his club the victory.

Venutto, the Giant catcher, stole home with the game's only run in the second inning. He also paced his club at bat with a double and a single as the Giants reached Gill for four hits in all. Brian Coughlin was the Red Sox receiver. Moore gave up just two hits in the seven-inning game.

Park Dale and Barriages were even more evenly matched, resulting in the scoreless draw.

Howard Wark pitched a one-hitter for Barriages and picked a no-hitter by only one man. He had two men out in the 7th and final frame when Don Blaind belted a line drive single to ruin the no-hit bid. Brooks Windsor was the catcher.

Terry McTaggart hurled fine four-hit ball for Parkdale and pulled out of tough jam in the sixth inning. Ted Shaw was his receiver.

Barriages had runners on second and third bases with none out in the sixth, but one man was cut down at the plate on a squeeze bunt, and two more were also out at the plate on attempted steals of home.

Tyke division plays opens today.

Oshawa Wins Over Guelph

Oshawa Green Gaels opened their home season Monday by walloping Guelph Mohawks 15-7 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association junior game.

John Davis paced the triumph with five goals and two assists. Brian Thompson, Tim Higgs and Ken Thompson had three goals each. The others went to Don Stinson, with two, Larry Ireland and Ross Jones.

Ed O'Keefe fired three for the losers while Barry Redwood added a pair. Bob Brown and Pete Beetan had one each.

In Toronto, Hasting Legionaires edged Toronto Lakeshore Catrols 14-13.

Quinte Trap, Gun Club

Cy Gardner clicked for a perfect 25 score to lead the field of holiday shooters at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's regular weekend shoot held on Sunday morning.

Close on Gardner's heels was Doug Johnston with a 24, while Harry Farnell, Larry Harrington, Denny Rosette, Garry Skinkle and Dick Rossite each scored a 23 round.

Jack Dodson 22, Garn Hart 22 and Jim Byford 20, rounded out the top scoring list.

Mets Whip Giants; Phils Take Lead

—Dodgers Beaten—

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The ladies of Houston got 100 runs for Ken Johnson.

The Colts got nary a one.

Philadelphia's Jim Bunning proved most ungentlemanly to the ladies and the Colts Monday night, rushing a "runs for Johnson" promotion by allowing Houston only one hit in a 4-0 victory that sent the Phillies back into first place in the National League.

New York Mets, of all people, helped the Phillies scale the heights by downing San Francisco Giants 4-3 to leave them 10 percentage points behind Philadelphia. Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2 in the only other games scheduled.

The Giants had better luck against the Mets during the weekend, edging them 5-4 in 16 innings Saturday and blanking them 6-0 and 1-0 in a Sunday doubleheader. The Phillies lost 4-3 to the Colts Saturday but shut them out 2-0 the following night.

BENT DODGERS

The Pirates belted the Dodgers 7-4, St. Louis Cardinals outlasted Milwaukee Braves 6-5 and Cincinnati Reds topped Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 in other Saturday games. On Sunday, the Dodgers split with the Pirates, winning 3-2 and losing 8-3, while the Cardinals won 7-3 and lost 4-2 against the Braves and the Colts edged the Reds 5-4 and lost 7-1.

The Colts staged their promotion Monday in an effort to produce runs for Johnson, the no-hit, no-luck knuckleballer who went into the game with a 2-3 record. In the three losing efforts, including a no-hitter, the Colts had managed only two runs for him.

The gimmick was simple: All ladies who arrived at the park with runs in their nylons were admitted at a reduced rate. Of the 2,284 on hand, 186 were ladies with mashed mesh.

The result also was simple: Not only were the Colts unable to get a run, they had difficulty getting men on base. Only two reached first, Nellie Fox when he was hit by a pitch in the first inning and Jim Wynn, who lashed a single over third base leading off the fifth room.

GETS FIFTH WIN

Otherwise Bunning was untouchable, bringing his record to 5-1 with his second shutout while his manager, Gene Mauch, watched from the stands. Mauch was fined $150 and suspended for two days following a run-in with umpire Lee Weyer in Sunday night's game.

Steve Blass won his first major league start with a seven-hitter as Pittsburgh ended Don Drysdale's five - game winning streak by defeating the Dodgers 4-2.

Trailing 3-0, the Pirates struck for three runs in the third. A double by Dick Schofield and Bill Virdon's single scored the first run off Drysdale in 17 innings. A single by Roberto Clemente and a walk that filled the bases chased Drysdale. With Ron Perranoski pitching, Gene Freese hit a sacrifice fly and Donn Clendenon knocked a single to push the other runs across.

Running got the only run he needed in the fourth inning when Johnson was touched for singles by Wes Covington, Jim Hermstein and Bobby Wine. The Phillies added two runs in the fifth when Richie Allen doubled, John Callison singled and Tony Gonzalez doubled. Gonzales doubled in another run in the seventh after Allen singled.

Johnson struck out nine and allowed nine hits before being replaced in the eighth inning.

The Mets had been unable to score against San Francisco pitching for 31 innings and trailed 10 to 0 in the eighth when Bob Taylor singled, Rod Kanehl beat out an infield hit and George Altman homered. That provided Galen Cisco with the victory and tagged Bob Shaw with the defeat.

The Giants used Willie Mays as a defensive replacement in the eighth inning. Mays got to bat only once, filed out and had his average trimmed another four points to .407.

Batting—Joe Pepitone, Yankees, drove in five runs with five hits including two home runs Sunday as New York defeated Kansas City Athletics 11-9 and 8-0.

Pitching—Jim Bunning, Phillies, fired a one-hit shutout to spoil "runs for Johnson" night in Houston as Philadelphia beat the Colts 4-0.

District Ball Leagues Open This Week

Most of the district's ball leagues are staging their annual "May 24 holiday-week openers" this week, with one loop already under way and several others making their seasonal debuts tonight and Wednesday.

The B. & D. Softball League opened yesterday with Trudeau's topping Tweed 4-1 in Tweed. One league game tonight pits Trenton against Trudeau's in a 6.45 fixture at the CNRA Park.

The Belleville Commercial Softball League has one opener slated for this evening when Lightfood Construction clashes with City Hotel at Prince Charles school. Game time is 6.45 for all the loop's contests. Two games scheduled for Wednesday have Ter-Haar Daubers visiting the Cementmen at Pt Anne, while Belvedere Hotel and Block Diamond Cheese tangle at the Alemite field. On Thursday, City Hotel meets Mel Barrrage Landscapers at Zwicky's Island.

The newly-formed T. and S. Softball Association also opens on two fronts this evening at seven o'clock. Centenary plays at Wallbridge and Glen Miller visits Foxboro.

And in baseball, the South Hastings League swings into action tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 6.45, with Deseronto at Shannonville, Latta at Foxboro and Plane's Concrete at Read. All Plane's Concrete home games will be played at Camnifton.

Palmer Wins Oklahoma City Open

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Arnold Palmer trailed Lionel Hebert by three strokes going into the final round of the $40,000 Oklahoma City Open Monday, then put together one of his typical blistering finishes for a two-strokes triumph.

Palmer, boldly going to his driver at every opportunity, whipped over the 7,042 - yard Quail Creek Country Club course in a final five-under-par 67 for a winning 277, including birdies on the last two holes.

Ellis 2-Hits Tweed

Trudeaus Open With 4-1 Win

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

TWEED — Clutch hits and the fine two-hit hurling of Doug Ellis carried Trudeau Motors to a 4-1 victory over Tweed Lumber here in the Belleville and District Softball League opened its 1964 season here yesterday.

The loop moves into full swing this week, with the first game in Belleville scheduled for the CNRA Park tonight at 6:45. Trudeaus play host to Trenton Commercial Printers.

While Ellis was setting the Lombank squad down on two hits neither of them too clean at that, his mates reached Blain Healey for a single run in the first inning, made it 3-0 in the seventh and 4-0 in the top of the ninth.

Ellis lost his shutout in the bottom of the ninth without allowing a base hit. After a leadoff walk and a force at second base, Bert Sherry raced for second on a wild pitch and kept on going when the throw got loose there. The throw to third appeared to have the runner nailly but Wannamaker failed to hold it and Sherry came in to snap the shutout. Ellis got the next man on a ground ball and struck out Gray, his 10th strikeout of the game, to wind it up.

The only Tweed hits were gained by Dave Sinclair, a hard hit ball through third base in the second, and an infield tap by Eldon Gray that Duggan hesitated on in the fourth. Ellis' effort here men in a strong effort.

Trudeaus took advantage of a shaky start to open the scoring. Lock's drive to left was misjudged for a triple and Wannamaker popped a bunt single to put a pair on. Healey fanned Zakos but Faulkner lined out to centre with Locke scoring after the catch before Wannamaker was doubled trying for third.

"Shiner" Murray belted a solid triple into right-centre to open the seventh and Plane drove him home with another hard-hit single to right. Healey fanned the next two bat Locke walked and Bob Wannamaker rapped a slow twisting one near the mound and beat it out for a 3-0 score.

McGuire drew a free pass and rode home on Locke's two-out double in the top half of the ninth.

Healey, who had pitched three games in Hull, Quebec, on the weekend, was touched for ten hits in all and did not get the best of support from his mates yesterday, either in the field or at the plate. He blew three strikes past 15 while walking two.

Bob Wannamaker had four infield hits to pace Trudeaus while Rick Locke contributed a double, single and triple. Other safeties were Frank "Shiner" Murray's triple and singles by Ralph Plane and Bert Faulkner.

Gary Cowan Shoots a 66

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Gary Cowan of Kitchener Westmount scored a course record 66—four under par—in winning his third Early Bird championship in four years at the St. Thomas Golf and Country Club Monday.

His card included an eagle, four birdies and two bogeys, both on the second nine. He finished three strokes ahead of Bob Plashnik of Toronto Glenshields who shot a 69. Both were Willingdon Cup members last year.

Mick Werlock of Burlington, a third Ontario team member, was another stroke back alongwith Ron Smith of St. Thomas and Don MacGregor of Brantford.

BEATS U.K. RECORD

LONDON (AP)—Gordon Miller broke the British high jump record for the second time in five days and Robbie Brightwell, captain of Britain's Olympic track team, scored a snappy half-mile victory in a British meet at White City Stadium Monday. Miller raised the high jump record one-half inch to six feet, 10 inches. Brightwell won in 1:48.1.

Even Record
Parsons Defeat Crusaders

Parsons Cleaners, the Belleville entry in Kingston and District Soccer play, evened its record at a victory and a loss here on Saturday by turning back the Kingston Crusaders 5-2.

Belleville's next league start will be in Kingston this Wednesday night, an 8:30 fixture against Brockville.

Parsons moved into a 2-1 lead at the half-way mark against the Crusaders and upped that lead to 3-1 before Kingston closed the scoring on a penalty shot late in the match.

Crazzr was the Parson scoring star, rapping home three of his club's five goals in a strong performance. Other Belleville goals were tallied by Bowser and Rutherford.

Both Crusader goals were booted by Robinson.

This is the Belleville club's first year in the Kingston and District loop and Saturday's performance was much improved over the first when the club, with only eight players, lost 11-1 to Kingston Sports Club in the Limestone City.

SANTA CLAUS FIRST

DUBLIN (Reuters) — Santa Claus, running on only his third race, won the Irish Two Thousand Guineas over one mile at the Curragh Saturday. Owned by James Ismay and ridden by Bill Burke, Santa Claus gave a superb display to defeat the English colt, Young Christopher, by three lengths with Crete half a length away in third and Smooth Jet fourth. Santa Claus was running his first race since winning the Irish National Stakes over the same track last September.

Opinion Divided On Base

CAHA Agrees On National Club

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association have agreed that Canada must have a national team if it is to regain its world hockey supremacy.

But they are divided on where the team should be based.

The first steps towards support of a permanent national team are expected to be taken during the CAHA's 50th annual meeting which began Monday with closed - door committee meetings. Its open sessions start today and run until Friday.

Delegates from coast to coast will debate the harsh times that have fallen upon the Memorial Cup competition, probe the reasons why the association had one of its poorest financial seasons in many years and take a hard look at Canada's international record.

Secretary - manager Gordon Juckes said Monday that the success of the University of British Columbia hockey team in the 1964 Olympics will swing many of the delegates towards the idea of a national team.

FINISHED FOURTH

The UBC team, coached by Rev. David Bauer, finished fourth in the Olympics. CAHA officials still insist that Canada would have finished second but for a last-minute change in the method of breaking ties.

President Art Potter said it is unthinkable that Canada should go back to the system of sending its Allan Cup champions to the international events.

Potter said the Canadian team for the 1965 world hockey competition probably will consist of a number of players from the UBC team along with others from strong senior teams.

The CAHA executives favor a plan to keep adding players to this 1965 team until 1968 when, they say, a permanent national team will be assembled.

All agree that the team must be as strong as those in the professional American Hockey League if Canada is to win any championships.

WILL LOSE RINK

Juckes says he will suggest Ottawa as a home base for the national team, but opponents say the capital will be without a rink in the next few years when the Auditorium is torn down.

Past - president Jack Roxburg said London or Kitchener would be ideal sites. Potters said many points in Western Canada also should be considered.

One of the first actions taken by the CAHA Monday was to lift its indefinite suspension of Sam Fox, former president and manager of Windsor Bulldogs of the International League.

Fox was also in the doghouse after threatening to cut short an overseas tour by the Bulldogs unless the CAHA paid a $700 bill for excess baggage.

The CAHA cabled $500 but slapped a suspension on Fox when he returned to Canada.

Potter said Fox was present at the Monday meeting and apologized for the incident.

Canada Cement Bowling League Holds Banquet

The Canada Cement men's five-pin bowling league wound up another successful season with an enjoyable presentations banquet and dance at Club Canara last Friday night.

The league executive, bowlers, guests and wives enjoyed a delicious turkey dinner, and following the election of officers for the next season, danced to the music of the Frankis Howard Combo.

Frank Insley, perennial master of ceremonies, again handled the job in witty style. He introduced outgoing league president Gordon Akey, who thanked his fellow executive members, secretary Leonard Sweete and treasurer Eugene DeRushie, as well as the team captains, for their assistance and co-operation during the year.

Lawrence Horwood, representing the company, gave the welcoming address and union representative Harry Goslin spoke briefly.

Trophy presentations were next in line and Mr. L. Horwood presented the Canada Cement Trophy to the championship Packhouse team, captained by Phil Loft. Individual members of the team received beautifully engraved silver serving trays.

Phil Loft won the league's three top individual awards. He was presented with high single and high triple trophies by H. Goslin and with high average trophy by G. Akey. Loft registered excellent marks to earn all three trophies against keen competition.

Alvin and Mary McKenzie were winners of the league's "Mr. and Mrs." competition and received the 1964 trophy from last year's winners, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Strachan.

Quarterly winners were the Office, who won two quarters, the Foremen and Utilities. Trophies were presented by Eugene DeRushie, Jack Insley and Ron Sedore.

Charlies Hart was presented with the "most improved bowler" trophy and the Yard team received the consolation award.

During the election of officers for the 1964-65 season, John Green was named president, Ron Ferguson secretary and Keith Anderson treasurer.

Ready For Famous "500"

Clark, Marshman Set Records

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Jimmy Clark of Scotland, the world's fastest commuter, and American Bobby Marshman will lead four former winners across the starting line for the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race on Memorial Day in the U.S.

In their slipper-shaped Lotus-Fords they topped a record-smashing field in qualifications Saturday. Clark took the race-day pole position at 158.8 miles per hour in a factory team car and Marshman won the second starting spot at 157.9 m.p.h. in a similar racer entered independently.

The Scottish farmer hopped a plane to Mallory Park, England, and won the Guard's Trophy race there Sunday, setting a lap record on the winding course. Clark will compete in the Dutch Grand Prix next weekend before flying back to Indianapolis May 30.

Clark, who dominated the Grand Prix international circuit last year as no driver ever did before, will be the first European to lead the 500 start since Rene Thomas of France won the pole in 1919.

Jack Brabham of Australia, another former Grand Prix champion, was left still waiting to make his qualifying run when the second time trial session ended Sunday. He plans to try again Saturday after a round trip to Holland to practise for the Grand Prix.

Sixteen cars qualified on the 2½-mile oval track Saturday and five made the line-up Sunday. The field so far has averaged 153.1 m.p.h. Parnelli Jones, last year's winner of the $500,000 race, captured the pole position then at a record 151.1 average.

The 33 fastest cars in the trials will start the race. The qualifications continue next Saturday and Sunday.

Roger Ward, 43, of Indianapolis, twice winner of the 500 and no worse than fourth in the last five races, qualified at 156.4 Saturday to make the first echelon an all-rear-engine and all-Ford line.

Defending champion Jones of Torrance, Calif., and 1961 winner A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex., had their choice of conventional front-engine entries. Both stuck with their old cars and wound up in the second starting row.

Jones hit 155.1 and Foyt 154.7.

DURELLE WINS

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP)—Joey Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., won an unanimous decision over Dick French of Providence, R.I., in a 10-round welterweight fight Saturday. Both fighters weighed 151.

Davis Cup Team Named By Aussies

MELBOURNE (AP) — The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia announced Monday that Bob Hewitt, John Newcombe and Anthony Roche would represent Australia in this year's Davis Cup matches.

Harry Hopman, despite some early doubts about his availability, will be captain-manager for the 15th successive year.

The team is the weakest Australia has had fielded for many years and the fact that Hewitt has been included, although he legally came under the LTAA ban by playing in Europe on March 31, is an indication of the Australia's desperate position.

Australia's top players Roy Emerson, Fred Stolle, Ken Fletcher and Martin Mulligan were not considered for cup selection because they incurred the LTAA ban by playing overseas before April 1.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Pimlico race track management decided not to eliminate third-place betting in the Preakness and it cost the track $4,904.50.

The betting was so heavy on third with two heavy favorites —E. F. Taylor's Northern Dancer and Hill Rise—that all payoffs for the third place were the required minimum of $2.20. There wasn't enough of the customers own money in the pools so the track made up the difference.

better than the hat trick

Three goals are great for a hockey player. But gasolines must score higher to make top performers of the 148 makes of cars that Canadians drive.

Four, in fact. That's why BP has added two new medium-octane, medium-price Super gasolines between Regular and the top-powered Super. Now, you can move up from Regular to premium performance for only a penny more per gallon. If you're buying top-octane premiums and your car is designed to run just as well on less, you can switch to one of the new intermediate BP Supers and save 2¢, even 4¢ per gallon.

Now, with four great BP gasolines, there's one just right for your car at the lowest possible cost.

Chisox, Indians Play Piggy-back

Yankee Bats Blast Way To Three Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A fight pennant race is probably the best tonic for sagging attendance, and from the way things are going, the American League should be in for a bumper season.

The lead changed hands twice over the weekend, and it could change again today.

Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians were tied for first going into the weekend, but Chicago lost and a Tribe victory gave the Indians sole possession of the lead Saturday.

But the Indians dropped both ends of a double header to Detroit Tigers Sunday, while the Sox edged Washington Senators 3-2.

So who's in first place?

Why Chicago, of course, and New York Yankees.

Yogi Berra's slumbering Yanks have come to life with a vengeance.

While the White Sox and Indians were trading positions, Yankee bats boomed their way to three weekend victories over Kansas City Athletics.

BELT HOME RUNS

Mickey Mantle and Tom Tresh belted home runs to give the Yankees an 11-9 verdict in the first game of a Sunday doubleheader, while Whitey Ford's four-hit pitching and a pair of homers by Joe Pepitone provided an 8-0 verdict in the second.

The Yankees said it with homers Saturday also, with a pair by Roger Maris paving the way for a 10-6 win.

There was only one game scheduled Monday, and the sixth-place Tigers shaded the Senators 7-6 to move to within 3½ games of the leaders.

None of the top teams have any breathing room, with the Indians and Baltimore Orioles only a half game behind the Yankees and the White Sox, and Minnesota's slugging Twins are just two games off the pace.

Juan Pizarro won his fourth straight for the White Sox Sunday when Pete Ward of Montreal singled in the winning run in the eighth inning after the Senators had tied it on Chuck Cottier's home run.

STINGY WITH HITS

Detroit southpaws Mickey Lolich and Hank Aguirre were just too much for the Indians Sunday as they each limited the Tribe to seven hits and one run in both ends of their twin bill.

A home run by Dick McAuliffe and a run-scoring triple by Gates Brown provided Lolich (4-1) with all the support he needed to win a 4-1 decision.

A pinch single by Don Demeter gave Aguirre his first decision although he needed relief help from Larry Sherry in the ninth inning to preserve the 3-1 victory.

Minnesota and Boston Red Sox split their two games Sunday with Frank Malzone's bases-loaded single in the key blow in Boston's 6-2 win, while Earl Battey belted a two-run homer to give the Twins the nightcap 6-5.

In the only other Sunday game, Dick Simpson and Felix Torres belted home runs to give Los Angeles Angels a 5-4 victory over Baltimore Orioles.

Saturday, Baltimore clipped the Angels 5-1, Cleveland nipped Detroit 3-1, Boston edged Minnesota 6 - 5 and Washington tripped Chicago 3-1.

HEADS JAYCEES

TORONTO (CP) — David Bachly of nearby Aurora Monday was elected president of the Ontario Junior Chamber of Commerce at the conclusion of the three-day convention. He defeated Russell Cooper of Toronto in the balloting.

Gridiron's Famous Owen Dead

ONEIDA, N.Y. (CP) — Steve Owen, who won Canadian coach-of-the-year honors two years ago for lifting Saskatchewan Roughriders from last place into the Western Football Conference playoffs, is dead at 66.

The placid veteran, who led New York Giants to eight National Football League championship games and won the title twice before moving north to coach three Canadian teams, died early Sunday in Oneida City Hospital. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Stout Steve, as he was affectionately known throughout a 30-year coaching career, came to Canada in 1957 as an assistant coach under Hamp Pool with Toronto Argonauts and took over as head coach when Pool was fired midway through the 1959 season.

Promoted to the front office in 1960, he left the Argonauts for Calgary when the Stampeders ran into midseason coaching problems and guided them to the WFC playoffs. The following year he moved to Saskatchewan.

Despite his success with the Riders, they decided against rehiring him after the 1962 season, in which his team finished third in the five - team WFC and bowed out in the semi-finals. He bequeathed his successor, Bob Shaw, a solid defensive club which again finished third and upset Calgary before losing to British Columbia Lions in the 1963 finals.

BELL'S BUSINESS INTERPHONE

Executive Command Post describes it best. Here's how it puts you in charge:

The intercom part gives you direct access to your key people (up to 17 of them). One push of a button—you're there. (They don't have to do anything; when they answer you, their voice does the switching.)

They can reach you equally fast. If you don't want to be disturbed, a little lever gives you privacy.

Wire and speaker, of course, are beautifully sensitive. You can move about your office, or have a group there to talk and listen—everybody will get every word.

Then the same set is hooked up to your outside lines—up to 11 if you need them. You can make your own calls, you can add others in on any call, you can hold an outside call while you use the intercom—in fact, as you can see, there isn't much by way of voice communication inside or outside your office that the Business Interphone won't do.

Our reps will be glad to tell you all about it. For an appointment, just call your local Bell Office!

AND THERE'S MORE WHERE THIS COMES FROM: Remember—Business Interphone is just one of the complete communications services for business from Bell.

Jim Bronstad and Carl Boulds tossed 17 innings to shutout ball, against Richmond Virginians Monday as the Leafs came away with a sweep of their Victoria Day double header, 1-0 in 10 innings and 4-0.

The tall - ehd Atlanta Crackers, showing signs of revival, downed Jacksonville Suns 9-2 in the early other game scheduled.

The Crackers, winners of only two of their first 16 games, whipped Syracuse Chiefs 4-2 Saturday while Buffalo Bisons dropped Columbus Jets 6-3 and Jacksonville tamed Rochester Red Wings 5-2. Toronto and Richmond were rained out.

The Red Wings took two from the Suns Sunday, 11-5 and 5-3 and the Bisons edged Columbus 5-3 and 3-2 while the other four teams split. Atlanta defeated Syracuse 6-4 after losing 5-2 and the Leafs nipped Richmond 3-2 after the Vees had taken the opener, 2-1 in 10 innings.

The Leafs, who overpowered their opponents in their earlier games this season, couldn't score against Richmond's Rollie Sheldon in Monday's opener until Lee Tate's pinch single drove in Bill Kern in the 10th inning to back up Bronstad's six-hitter.

Some Shows Under Scrutiny Still Around in Reruns

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency is expected to resume its interest in television's "sex and violence" with themes with new hearings soon.

Some of the programs which were under sharp scrutiny, if not attack, during the original hearings four years ago, are still around in reruns.

Sexual themes have been prominent this season in many social drama series—the doctor, psychiatrist, nurse, social worker and even teacher shows.

Almost all the late evening dramatic shows have dealt rather frankly with subjects traditionally considered too adult for youthful eyes and ears, and so—occasionally — has an early evening program like Mr. Novak.

However, it appears that the days when every action-adventure series ended in a long, messy fight are definitely over.

The Emmy awards pot continues to boil. Today, Herbert Brodkin, head of the production company that turns out The Defenders and The Nurses for CBS followed network policy by stating that he would not attend the awards show, an NBC special May 25.

The nightcap, back-to-back doubles by Jim McKnight and Bobby Del Greco and Ken Retzer's home run staked Bouldin to a three-run lead in the fourth inning of his first start since being sent down by Washington Senators. Bouldin finished with a four-hitter.

Atlanta's Chuck Nieson was even hotter, giving up only one hit, a home run by Joe Morgan, while the Crackers collected nine against Dick Lemay of the Suns.

REGISTERS BIRTH

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—The birth of a boy in Sherbrooke 60 years ago has just been registered by Judge Louis Philippe Cliche of the Superior Court. The man's immigrant parents apparently were unfamiliar with registration procedure and the birth was unrecorded in 1904.

AT THE BELLE — Romy Schneider is the war-wearied entertainer who attracts the attentions of George Hamilton, right, and Michael Callan in Carl Foreman's "The Victors", continuing its engagement through Thursday, at the Belle Theatre. "The Victors" also stars Vincent Edwards, Albert Finney, Melina Mercouri, Jeanne Moreau, George Peppard, Rosanna Schiaffino and Eike Sommer.

Pat Boone at 30 Is Hit Of Prom Season at Grove

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Around the lots in 80 dots . . . If you can't beat 'em, sign 'em. Pat Boone's company is planning to merchandise reproductions of all paintings of — the Beatles.

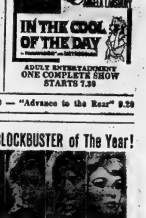
Pat, who'll be 30 June 1, is the hit of the prom season at the Cocoanut Grove . . . His big opening hostess was Gina Lollobrigida, a symphony in pink . . . She stayed under the sun lamp too long . . . Rock Hudson sat ringside betwixt Gina and Zsa Zsa Gabor, who chattered through Pat's performance. . . .

Could the Barbara Stanwyck-Robert Taylor co-starring in The Night Walker start a trend of divorced couples in films? . . . How about Debbie Reynolds and Eddie Fisher in Never Too Late? . . . Or Elizabeth Taylor and Vittorio Gassmann in Divorce — Italian Style . . . or Lana Turner and Rita Hayworth and ex-husbanda in The Crowd Roars. . . .

Charlton Heston is itching to start The Agony and the Ecstasy . . . He grew a beard for Major Dundee, then had to shave it for a flashback scene at the end of the picture . . . Now he has to raise a new crop to play Michelangelo in Rome . . . concerning his action in turning back his Dundee salary because of a script dispute: "I don't see that it's started a trend."

LOAN'S A DOLLAR

Cary Grant is another bearded one for Father Goose . . . When he left Universal commissary in stubble and rags a reporter offered him the loan of a dollar . . . He took it . . . "I should have done that," said Jack Benny; "Think of my image!"



Jack already is plowing through his first television season for NBC . . . He'll have more time next season for concerts, which he loves . . . Cesar Romero is off to Massachusetts for Strictly Diabonorable, in which he first toured with Margaret Sullivan in 1930 . . . "I'm too lazy to learn another play," says he.

Samuel Goldwyn goes to New York, London and Paris for business, then takes the baths at a resort in Austria for a month, "where no one can reach me". He'll be back in August to celebrate his 82nd birthday . . . "A lot of people don't believe I'm that old," he says; "They think it's a publicity stunt."

Minor Softball Results

The Bruins trounced the Leafs 20-9 in one of the Belleville Minor Softball Association's Tyke division games played over the weekend. This game was in the eastern division. Five games in all were scheduled yesterday.

Campbell's Big Effort
End Of May - Or Else!

LONDON (CP) — Donald Campbell's long-delayed and expensive attempt on the world speed record must come before the end of May, says the experts.

The 42-year-old British speed merchant has been dogged by bad luck at the Lake Eyre salt flats in southern Australia but opinion now is that even the rainy season near, his chance will slip away once again if the run is not made within two weeks.

Andrew Mustard, manager of the project to set Campbell's jet-propelled Bluebird up to 300 miles an hour, is quoted as saying that if it isn't done before the end of the month "we'll have the most expensive museum piece in British history."

That would be a sad blow for the tall, grey-haired Mustard whose ambition has been to see the feat of his late father, Sir Malcolm Campbell, by capturing both the land and water records.

Donald penned the floating version of Bluebird to 260.36 miles an hour at Coniston Water, Lancashire, in 1959, beating his own previous record.

But the record of 394 miles an hour by the late John Cobb in a piston-engined car now is 17 years old and Craig Breedlove of California set an unofficial record of 407.45 in a jet-powered three-wheeler last August.

Mustard's comment was provoked by the fact that Campbell's Bluebird in Australia was designed nearly 15 years ago.

Campbell crashed it at 320 miles an hour on the Utah salt flats in 1960, fracturing his skull.

Since then a series of delays have caused some of the more than 70 companies supporting Campbell in the £2,000,000 venture to become restless.

17-Year-Old Shoots Third Hole-In-One

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP)—His fourth hole-in-one and his third this year, at the age of 17?

"I don't believe it. It's beginning to scare me," said Denis Mottola after finding his golf ball in the hole Sunday on the 300-yard 16th at the Ford Hill Golf Club in Whitney Point, north of here.

The par four hole is blind from the tee, and there's a dogleg left around a woods.

Mottola of nearby Endwell is a senior at Seton Catholic High School here. He drove his first hole-in-one when he was 13, also at Whitney Point, but on the 11th hole. He made two last month, one at Newark Valley and one at Windsor.

After he drove Sunday, with a No. 3 wood, he and his companions searched for the ball until one boy discovered it. "Somebody left a ball in the hole."

GERMAN EXPORTS

West German exports to the Middle East increased in 1963 by nearly $77,000,000 to $767,500,000.

Boating Clinic

—By STAN DAVIES—

Beginning of the season is a time when many boats change hands. And the fact that there are hazards and pitfalls in the buying of second hand boat is shown in the following questions I've been asked over the past five or six spring seasons.

I'm thinking of buying a plywood boat. Is it any good?

The owner says it will swell up tight in a day or so. Is this true?

Answer: Yes, it will swell up. Probably rot, too. The seams on plywood boats, generally speaking, should be filled with seam compound and made impervious to water with paint or some other covering. Only lapstrake, strip or planked boats require soaking to be tight. Every other kind should be tight before wetting.

I have just bought a boat with a 20 hp. outboard motor. Will it pull a water skier?

Answer: Yes, unless the boat is a big water logged clunker, or the skier is a baby elephant. Here's the rule of thumb: on an average light planing hull, it takes 15 hp. for the first water skier and another 10 hp. for each extra one. A 75 hp. motor on a planing boat will pull any pair of seven skiers. Eighteen miles an hour is about a minimum speed for skiing.

I'm getting a boat with a 90 hp. motor which the former owner capsized. Any advice?

Answer: Wow! This will be all get to know your boat. And its limitations. Try it in tight turns, choppy water, close quarters, before you blast off. Remember it's like a new boat, so it needs a little breaking in.

I can buy (very cheaply) a fibre glass boat with 12 bullet holes in it (boys used it as a target). Holes are patched. Is this serious?

Answer: No. Particularly if patches are neat. Even if they aren't they can be re-done and sanded down. The bullet holes would not create cracks or fractures that might appear later.

I want to buy a fibre glass boat and motor on time payments. How will it depreciate?

Answer: Figure the rate of depreciation at about half that of a car of comparable cost. Frequently its less.

A fast inboard runabout I can buy is 30 years old and in terrific shape. Is this a good sign?

Answer: Could be a bad one. Some boats are of such poor design nobody ever gave them a workout. Be sure to give it a 100 percent try-out before you commit yourself.

JFK Is Biggest Seller For Book Publishers

By SID MOODY

NEW YORK (AP)—The biggest and best sellers in the publishing industry are books about the life, times and assassination of John F. Kennedy.

They range from a thesis Kennedy wrote as an undergraduate at Harvard to the book that won him a Pulitzer Prize.

One runs only several hundred words and sells by the tens of thousands. Some sell by the millions. Some were written and rushed into print after Kennedy's assassination last November. Others had been written earlier and were rushed into reprint. More are coming.

How many of the Kennedy books have been sold is difficult to determine. The publishers aren't releasing sales figures, know, of course, but many They say it is against their policy.

But the largest seller is one that hasn't even made the best-seller lists. It is The Torch Is Passed, the Associated Press book on the assassination. By early May it had old 3,612,000 copies and orders were still coming in for about 35,000 a week.

'TORCH' NOT LISTED

Almost all of the copies have been sold through member newspapers of the news cooperative rather than book stores which is why it is not included on the best-seller lists.

Sales of The Torch is Passed have totalled nearly 73,000 in Canada, also made through newspapers which get The Associated Press service through The Canadian Press.

And more than 300,000 copies have been sold overseas in Spanish, Korean, Japanese, Italian, Dutch, Danish and Swedish editions.

Western Publishing Company, which printed The Torch is Passed, says the press run is the largest they know of in terms of units produced and sold in so short a period.

Another multi-million seller is Four Days, a joint effort of United Press International and American Heritage. Four Days also has been distributed in book stores by Simon and Schuster.

THIRD IN CANADA

Sales total slightly more than 2,000,000 copies through UPI newspaper subscribers and broadcasting stations and an additional 350,000 to date through book stores. The latter figure has put Four Days atop the U.S. non-fiction best-seller lists for several weeks. It is in third place in Canada.

UPI had no breakdown of sales figures to show what number have been sold in Canada but said it has been substantial. A press run of 40,000 in a Dutch version has been ordered.

Life magazine printed 3,000,000 copies of a memorial Kennedy edition combining its issues on the assassination and funeral of the president. A total of 4,200,000 copies has been sold to date.

Look magazine also put out a memorial Kennedy edition but declines to disclose sales.

High among top sales figures for 1963 was Profiles in Courage, Kennedy's own Pulitzer Prize winner. Long a top seller after publication in the 1950s, it had gone through 30 printings. It sold "fantastically well" after the assassination, Harper Row, the publishers, said.

Harper has put out a special edition of Profiles in Courage with a foreword by Attorney-General Robert Kennedy, the president's brother. A newspaper account said 100,000 copies of this edition have been printed.

A half-dozen other Kennedy books currently are on sale in the U.S. and doing well and several other memoirs and personal histories of his administration are forthcoming this year.

P.M. Prepared To Have Govt. Back New Flag

Wants 'O Canada' As National Anthem

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Within "a very short time" Canadians will see the maple leaf flag which Prime Minister Pearson is prepared to back with the life of his government.

The cabinet now is in the process of deciding on the design that will be submitted to Parliament, and when this is complete — perhaps by Thursday — Mr. Pearson said Tuesday he is prepared to make it a matter of government policy.

"I think," he told the Commons, "I should make it quite clear, that when the government submits to Parliament a matter of policy—and this is certainly a matter of policy—the government must stand or fall on the result of the decision of the House."

If the Opposition opposed it, they could move a vote of non-confidence, he said.

The prime minister was given a heavy round of applause by most of his supporters when he rose to speak on the flag question. It was the first Commons sitting since Parliament's Thursday night speech to the Royal Canadian Legion in Winnipeg when he said it was time to unfurl a distinctive new flag with a maple leaf design.

WANTS 'O CANADA' ANTHEM

He also told the Commons Tuesday he hoped that O Canada could be declared the official national anthem at this session of Parliament. Both O Canada and a new flag were part of the Liberal party's election platform.

As he had done in Winnipeg, Mr Pearson threw cold water on the idea that a national referendum should be held on the question of a new flag. "I think it would be better for the government to take responsibility in the matter by submitting a particular proposal to Parliament and then let members of Parliament, as the representatives of the people, decide it."

He said it had been made clear by members of the Liberal party that they accept as part of their conscience dictates without fear of being read out of the party. If, when a formal question, close to the conscience and emotions of individuals, it was still too early to say

Member Admits Holdups

By STRAUN MATHESON

MONTREAL (CP) — An accused member of L'Armee de Liberation du Quebec turned prosecution witness in a surprise move Tuesday and his evidence wiped the smiles off the faces of six co-accused.

Rene Dion, a rangy 17-year-old, calmly testified he and the rest of the accused staged armory raids in Montreal and Shawinigan, Que., as well as a number of holdups.

He made no mention of ideology or motive for the raids which resulted in nation-wide federal measures to improve armory security as well as the transfer of armory weapons to central depots.

Both the Crown and defence lawyers expressed surprise at the development.

He said no pressure had been put on him by an RCMP officer who saw him Tuesday morning although he had been told

Will Recommend Big Pay Boost For Non-Ops

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says that a majority report by a conciliation board will recommend substantial wage increases for Canada's 15 railways unions representing 100,000 non - operating employees.

The newspaper says that there is speculation the increases recommend will be in the area of 18 to 20 cents an hour in a two-year agreement.

It says the railways will probably reject the report, setting the stage for a strike vote by the unions, whose members do not operate trains.

'Segregationist Proves His Point, Many Oppose Civil Rights Bill

This is what he said he wanted to prove when he ruffled the presidential preference

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A high pressure area moving over upper lakes districts will bring sunshine and the beginning of a warming trend to these localities. However, blustery northerly winds and temperatures nearly 30 degrees cooler than Tuesday will highlight the fickleness of May weather in the lower lakes districts.

primaries in Wisconsin, Indiana and Maryland. Such a victory would have let him capture their delegates to the Democratic national convention where the party's presidential candidate will be picked.

He lost in all three in running against stand-ins for Governor W. Reynolds of Wisconsin, Governor Matthew E. Welsh, and Wednesday in Maryland to U.S. Senator Daniel B. Brewster.

But — in Wisconsin he got about 34 per cent of the Democratic vote, in Indiana about 30 per cent and in Maryland almost 43 per cent.

His chief appeal was against the civil rights bill—now stuck for 11 weeks in the Senate because of a southern filibuster against it—while arguing that this measure violated states' rights.

It is too soon to say what effect his showing, particularly in Indiana, will have on the bill. But it will fortify the southerners who can say now with good evidence that they're not alone in wanting it killed.

If the supporters of civil rights can take any solace from the results of Wallace's three campaigns it is this: in all three states the majority of the voters were against him.

Bogged Down On Bill

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons largely disposed Tuesday of a complex 30-page income tax bill arising from the March 18 budget, but then bogged down on a banking bill.

The income tax measure, boosting certain tax deductions for students and their parents and plugging various loopholes, was reported out of committee stage, where it was given clause-by-clause study. It is expected to receive final approval today with little or no debate.

Today, the Commons also is scheduled to begin discussion of a government measure extending the fishing limit to 12 miles. The bill, previously endorsed by the Senate, received first reading in the Commons Tuesday.

Legislation to extend by one year existing bank charters which expire July 1 while the government prepares amendments to the Bank Act drew immediate reaction from members of the three opposition groups.

Social Credit and Creditiste spokesmen plumped for the introduction as soon as possible of Social Credit monetary theories.

Arab League Seeks Support For Liberation of Aden Area

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Arab League today was on record as urging Afro-Asian countries to aid in the liberation of the South Arabia Federation where British and local troops are fighting Yemeni - backed rebel tribesmen.

The resolution of the 13-nation Arab League Council, unanimously approved Tuesday, said "the Arab countries should make immediate contacts with all countries, particularly the Asian and African countries, calling upon them to participate in supporting, materially and morally, the just revolution in occupied southern Yemen."

"The Arab countries, individually and all together, should ask Britain to halt the bloody massacres and acts of annihilation in the occupied southern Yemen."

The resolution came at the same time as touring Russian Premier Khrushchev announced in Port Said strong Russian support for the "just struggle" conducted by the Arab Yemeni republic for freedom and independence.

The league resolution also said "Arab countries should exert pressure on Britain by making her undertake to carry out the United Nations resolutions concerning the liquidation of British colonialism and its bases in the southern Yemen."

Britain has shown increased concern for its big base at Aden on the oil route from the Mid-dle East since Egyptian President Nasser stepped up threats to oust the English from all Arab lands.

Egypt also backs the Republican Yemen forces in a civil war with royalist supporters of the deposed Yemeni Iman (king.)

British forces and troops of the South Arabia Federation have been fighting dissident Yemeni - aided tribesmen in the mountainous Radfan area 60 miles north of Aden.

American Killed In Red Ambush

SAIGON (AP)—An American soldier was killed and an American officer wounded in an ambush Wednesday night while on operational patrol 45 miles northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border.

The death was the 330th for the United States in the Viet Nam war and came while a damaged U.S. warship began its journey to a shipyard for repairs.

The U.S. aircraft carrier Card was nudged down the Saigon River by American tugs 18 days after she was sunk by the Communist Viet Cong. Departure of the 9,800-ton carrier was a carefully guarded secret.

Crisis Deepens In Laos

VIENTIANE (AP)—The last positions held by neutralist forces in the Plaine des Jarres region have fallen to the Communists, Premier Souvanna Phouma announced today.

Neutralist Gen. Kong Le abandoned his emergency command post and withdrew further southwest of the plain in the face of continuing Communist pressure, a spokesman for Souvanna said.

(U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk urgently recalled Adlai E. Stevenson, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, from a European trip because of the deepening crisis in South east Asia.)

A government statement said following massive attacks, prepared well in advance launched by the Lao-Viet (Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese) troops against our (neutralist) position in the Plaine des Jarres and Mount Phash, the last neutralist positions existing on the plateau of Xieng Khouang have fallen . . ."

40 Microphones Hidden In Thick Walls Of Building

Placed Prior to Its Occupancy by States

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP)—For the last 11 years Soviet security agents apparently have been listening to conversations taking place inside the 16-storey United States Embassy building in Moscow—not only in conference rooms but in the living quarters as well.

The state department disclosed Tuesday that after years of effort, security officials finally uncovered a network of more than 40 microphones hidden in the thick walls of the embassy. The first of the microphones was found April 23 by a wrecking crew ripping out the walls and ceiling.

Foy D. Kohler, U.S. ambassador in Moscow, made a formal protest to the Soviet government Tuesday over the listening devices.

A statement by the state department's security chief, G. Marvin Gentile, said indications are that the devices were "placed in the building prior to its occupancy by the United States" 11 years ago. The building was assigned to the U.S. by the Soviet government for use as an embassy in 1952 and was actually occupied in the spring of 1953.

OTHERS BUGGED

Officials said Moscow embassies of Western allies also have been "bugged" but they declined to discuss details of discoveries other than those in the U.S Embassy, saying they didn't want to air security problems of their friends.

It is understood, however, that part of the American "haunch" that the embassy was secretly wired came from new construction by friendly powers. An official stressed he has no word whether the Canadian embassy was involved but he said that the Western allies like behind placed on the alert with the U.S. co-ordinating all security work with them.

The microphone network was described as the most extensive effort to breach American security yet uncovered—behind the Iron Curtain.

The state department had presumed from the outset, when it took possession of the embassy, that the premises were wired and all officials were warned to keep this in mind in their conversations. All highly sensitive work was done in rooms within rooms—especially constructed so that they could not be penetrated by microphones.

However, officials observed that the U.S. ambassador and his aides could not always take visitors into highly sensitive rooms and therefore concluded that the Russians had gathered

Liberals Take Over On Friday

By RON MacDONALD

REGINA (CP)—The Liberal party will step up the government helm in Saskatchewan Friday, almost 20 years after it was swept into the political wilderness by a CCF election victory.

Premier Woodrow Lloyd, his socialist CCF government defeated in an April 22 election at a time when this wheat—and potash — producing province rides a crest of unprecedented prosperity, announced Tuesday that he will resign and turn over the government to Liberal Leader Ross Thatcher.

Mr. Thatcher, a former CCFer who bolted that party in 1955 and joined the Liberals in 1956, told a press conference Tuesday that his government would waste little time in implementing the first parts of its program.

The program calls mainly for tax cuts, policies to attract more industry, increased farm credit and streamlining of government operations.

Mr. Thatcher said he hoped to set up within a month a Conservation commission to determine how to streamline government operations. A session of the legislature likely would be called this fall.

ARENT DESPONDENT

Premier Lloyd, more cheerful and relaxed than he has appeared since the election, told a press conference: "We move to the role of opposition without either chagrin or despondency."

The Liberals, who held 21 seats at dissolution of the last legislature, won 33 in the election. The CCF, with 34 in the last legislature, won 25 April 22. The Progressive Conservatives, who had no representation before dissolution, elected one man, Provincial Leader Martin Pederson.

Redistribution before the election added four seats in the legislature.

The CCF, under silver-tongued T. C. Douglas, now national NDP leader, came to power July 10, 1944, and began its socialist program during which trail - breaking legislation was implemented.

The legislation included the first government-run hospital and medical care insurances plans in Canada. Medical care insurance was brought in after Mr. Lloyd took over as premier

Once Target of McCarthy's Ire, Lattimore Now Is English Don

LEEDS, England (AP) — It's slightly more than 10 years since Professor Owen Lattimore —then lecturer in Chinese history at Johns Hopkins University—was caught in the turmoil of the McCarthy era rows, accused of being a Soviet agent.

Today he lives a quiet life in England, remote from political controversy, the troubles of the past a bitter memory. In his own way he's started life again.

Owen Lattimore left Johns Hopkins, where he had worked for 25 years, to head a new department of Chinese studies at Leeds University. Now he is content in the academic life of the college, looking and living the part of an English don.

"I like it here," he says. "It's not given to many men at 64 to be starting something new like I am. Most academics at my age are running down like unwound clocks."

To Lattimore his trials of the McCarthy days are memories he'd rather forget. He says he bears no grudge, still regards the United States as his home, and plans to go back there when he retires in 1967.

At one time during the 1950s he was branded in United States." Later McCarthy modified this to read "one of the top" agents. The point Lattimore was indicted on seven counts of perjury. In 1955 a federal court dismissed two of the counts and then the justice department dropped the rest.

"I was angry at the time, as anyone would be had they been so falsely accused," Lattimore said in an interview. "But it's no use sitting around pursuing rancor. That doesn't get you anywhere."

Big Pay TV Battle Looms

Future of U.S. TV May Be at Stake

NEW YORK (AP)—A big battle is rumbling over pay television, the kind you shove a few coins in's box or pay a monthly bill to watch.

The issue: Perhaps the future of U.S. commercial television, a kind that beams programs free into 63,000,000 sets.

Already in the fight are citizen's groups, movie theatre owners and the National Association of Broadcasters. On the sidelines are the federal government, the major television networks and television executives from New York to California.

What is involved?

Mainly a new company called Subscription Television Incorporated, headed by Sylvester L. (Pat) Weaver Jr., former president of the National Broadcasting Company. Weaver says he aims to turn pay television from a novelty into a paying business.

The job will take considerable salesmanship. Many Americans today shrug off pay television with the question: Why should I pay to see television when I can see it now for free?

"Quality," answer pay television spokesmen. "We'll offer special sports events, first-run films, ballet, opera, Broadway plays, all uninterrupted by commercials."

If pay television is sold to the public, say its critics, it could change much of the entertainment industry.

Movie theatre owners see the idea that some persons will buy a box - office windows going, instead, into pay television coin slots for monthly bills for programs.

The major television networks said the National Association of Broadcasters claim successful pay television eventually would buy away the best of the talent from free television, making the public pay for what it used to see for nothing.

NBC and CBS say one thing is certain: If pay television proves to be an overwhelming competitive force, they will join it.

"Eventually," says Leroy Collins, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, "pay television could actually destroy free television as we know it today."

The first repercussions are due this summer in California. Starting in July, Subscription Television Incorporated plans to begin a closed-circuit pay television circuit pay television to at least 7,000 homes in Los Angeles and San Francisco. By the end of this year the company hopes to have 70,000 sets in the two cities wired for pay television; in five years, 1,500,000 sets in California and 10,000,000 in the United States.

So far, pay television hasn't proved itself. Two pay-television stations operate today: One, near Toronto, began in 1961 with 5,000 subscribers and now has 8,000; the other, in Hartford, Conn., began in 1962 with 300 customers and today has 5,000.

Weaver describes previous pay television operations as experiments. The California operation, formed with $25,000,000, is a business, he says.

California's pay television programs will be transmitted by wire, as in Toronto. Unlike Toronto, where coin boxes are used, a monitor will sit atop the customer's set, relaying information on the pay programs he watches to a computer miles away which tallies the monthly bill. The company hopes subscribers will watch an average of $15 worth of programs a month.

International Telemeter Corporation, which operates Toronto's pay television station, says the public will pay — but only if the attraction is outstanding.

Toronto's most successful pay television program was a live Broadway show two years ago. About 40 per cent of the subscribers watched at $1.50 a set. In Hartford, it was the recent Clay-Liston heavyweight championship fight, watched by 86 per cent of the subscribers at $5 a set.

Public Schools Will Require 162 Teachers Next Term

Due to increased enrolment and the operation of junior opportunity classes, an additional ten public school teachers will be required for the September school re-opening, members of the School Board have been advised.

Organization of schools for September, including the Sir Mackenzie Bowell School in West Belleville, will call for a total of 162 teachers, as compared to the present 152.

Twenty-five members of the present teaching staff have submitted resignations, while 37 new contracts have been signed.

Additions to the teaching staff from Peterborough Teachers' College, include the following:

RESIGNATIONS RECEIVED

Resignations were received from Miss Marilyn Brown, Miss Colleen Chase, Mrs. Eula Fenton, Mrs. Marilyn Graham, Miss Naomi Hoare, Mrs. Donna Sawyer and Mrs. Judy Turner from the teaching staff and from Mrs. Irene Ramsey, assistant secretary to the superintendent of public schools.

Approval from the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department and from the Ontario Department of Education on final plans and specifications for the proposed new Sir Mackenzie Bowell School.

The board now owned street entrances and right-of-way from Sidney Street to the school site and negotiations are underway with municipal authorities to provide sewer, utilities and other services.

Tenders for the new building have been called and it is expected they will be considered at a special board meeting on June 29th.

NEW MEMBER WELCOMED

This week's board meeting saw the attendance of a new member, Trustee H. Bronson, who was welcomed by board chairman F. P. Clarke. Mr. Bronson replaces Mr. George Olsen, who retired.

Authorization was given for Superintendent A. A. Kells to attend the meetings of the Canadian Association of School Inspectors and Superintendents and the Canadian Education Association in Winnipeg, Sept. 14 to 16. Mr. Kells will attend as a director of the Ontario Association of School Inspectors and as a director of the Canadian Association of School Superintendents and Inspectors.

Belleville city council has instructed its solicitor to prepare a conveyance of a portion of Lingham Street boarding on public school property to the Public School Board, at the same time, authorization was given to erect a fence for this property as soon as deed was available to give protection to the Belleville Playground play areas.

An invitation was received from the Belleville Home and School Council to attend the annual meeting on May 28, and the chairman named Trustee H. Pugh to represent the board on the occasion.

ENROLMENT UP

The report of the superintendent showed enrolments continuing the increase with the total at May 31 standing at 4,954. Attendance efficiency was 95.8% fractionally lower than for the previous year. Teacher absence for May totalled 494 days, chiefly due to minor illness.

Continuing an annual practice, the Public School Board will join with the teaching staff to meet at a Board-Staff dinner at the Assemble Temple, May 25, 1964.

Over the protest of Trustees W. Tomson, J. Trill, V. Lovelace and W. A. VanTassel that the procedure was irregular, the board directed that Area Heating, Trenton, proceed with replacement of heat circulation systems for Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary Schools. Area Heating's quotation on its own specification for hydronic pressurized circulation was approximately 50 percent of the cost submitted for traditional forced hot water or air by board's advertised specification.

Members present were: Chairman F. P. Clarke, Mrs. H. Pugh and Trustees E. Bruce Bishop, H. Bronson, G. Hutchinson, J. Langhorne, V. Lovelace, J. N. McKibbon, James Ritchie, M. Smith, William Townson, G. H. Trill, and W. A. VanTassel.

Coin Collector Speaks of Hobby At Kiwanis Club

The art of coin collecting is one of the oldest hobbies of all and among the latest, the Mr. Ross Irwin of Belleville told guests to the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday about his own collection.

Mr. Irwin began his collection a number of years ago. He showed club members coins dating back to 1858 and described their variety and value.

He also showed and explained a number of trade tokens that were used in England during that time.

Mr. Irwin was introduced by K. MacDonald and thanked on behalf of the club by Paul Robb.

Two new members were inducted into the club by past-president R. Brain. Inducted were Kiwanians Wing Commander Stu Olson and Walter Colis, assistant manager of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Members from the newly-formed Quinte Club met with the Kiwanis Club for their noon hour meeting.

President R. Freestone announced there will be no meeting next week. However, the club will be leaving the Kiwanis Centre at 3.30 p.m. for a tour of the Moira River water shed.

Fish and Game Sees 'Lifters' In Action

A large number of members of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club got an insight into the sport of weightlifting at the regular monthly meeting last night.

Ken Gardner, coach and manager of the Apollo Barbell Club, put some of his proteges through their paces with two Canadian champions showing to their athletic wares.

Centre of interest was John Lewis, national middle heavy weight champion, and Price Morris recently named Canadian junior heavyweight champion.

Others of the Apollo Club who demonstrated the sport were Bob Wall 14; Don Hay 22; Gene Carr-Brainot, 12, and Morley Bly, 19.

The lifters received a fine reception at the end of their demonstrations.

Fred Fisher presented the awards to the winners of the May 1st Pickerel Fishing Derby, sponsored by the club. These included Bert Ward-haugh, who was tops with an 8¼ pounder; John Smith next with a 7¾ pounder and Ralph Smith with a 6¾ pounder.

A film on fishing was shown courtesy Dow Brewery and another on "Boat Safety," courtesy of the Red Cross.

Mr. Reg. Morey of the Ontario Power Squadron, gave an interesting talk on boating and good sense.

Ten door prizes were given away, with the big prize of the evening an eleven-foot boat, being won by Carl Thompson of Corbyville.

Mystery Writer's Views On Coffin Case on Record

Crisis

the weekend.

The statement did not pinpoint additional neutralist positions that have fallen. Earlier it was reported that the neutralists were clinging to several positions on the fringes of the plain, including Muong Khoung, the headquarters for Kong Le's armored regiment some 9 miles northwest of Muong Phanh.

Kong Le's withdrawal — his second in two days—was not reported caused by a fresh Red attack although two Communist battalions, roughly 800 men, were said to be close behind. It appeared to be that the neutralist general was seeking to avoid a showdown battle.

A government spokesman said Kong Le might try to establish a headquarters at Ban Na, another high-ground position about four miles southwest of Ban Khong.

There was no estimate of the number of men Kong Le still had with him. Before the Communist offensive he was said to command 3,000 to 7,000 troops in the plain area.

RED PINCERS CLOSE

According to the best assessments, Kong Le's forces were badly split by the Communist-pronged Communist attack Saturday on the neutralists' northern and southern flanks. It was chiefly this pincer movement by some eight Communist battalions, supported by heavy mortar and artillery, which caused Kong Le's withdrawal from Muong Phanh.

The only major infantry engagement reported so far was a rearguard action fought by neutralist unit covering the retreat.

Loss of the plain—completing a campaign the Pathet Lao started almost more than a year to squeeze Kong Le out of the region the neutralists and Reds once shared—brought a fresh warning from Premier Souvanna that the Pathet Lao leadership was flouting the responsibility for this aggression and the resulting consequences.

He called it "a shameful lie to pretend that the Neo Lao Haksat (Pathet Lao) has not taken part in the attacks."

He was referring to the Pathet Lao denials of any offensive. The Reds claim dissident neutralists are the source of Kong Le's present troubles.

THAILAND THREATS

Foreign military observers waited to see if the Pathet Lao would push farther west and south, to the borders of Thailand.

In Bangkok, Thai Premier Thanom Kittikachorn described the Laotian situation as "grave as ever." But he said he doubted the Communist forces would cross the Mekong River into Thailand.

Thai troops strengthened their guard on their northeast frontier in what was described as a precautionary measure.

Thanom said he thought the crisis should be taken up by the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), of which Thailand is a member.

Thanom said he would confer with U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin in Bangkok today. He can troops should be sent to Thailand in view of the deteriorating Laotian situation.

QUEBEC (CP)—The Brossard Royal commission in the Coffin case won't be calling Perry Mason creator Erle Stanley Gardner to testify—but it has the mystery writer's views on record anyway.

Commission Lawyer Jules Deschenes disclosed Tuesday that a letter from the northern Quebec author to the author indicated that neither he nor the Court of Last Resort had any facts that might be of interest to the commission.

The Brossard commission is inquiring for the Quebec government into the preparation and presentation of evidence in the case of William Coffin, 43, a Gaspe prospector hanged Feb. 10, 1956, after conviction for the murder of two of the Pennsylvania hunters found dead in the Gaspe in 1953.

Author of The Last Resort, using a magazine as its medium, did two articles on the Coffin case in 1956.

Mr. Deschenes earlier reported that the magazine had informed him it had no records of Gardner. He had got in touch with Mr. Gardner, who also had little to add.

SHARES VIEW

The author's letter, however, made it clear he shared a view that resulted in establishment of the commission. That Coffin may not have had full justice.

"My own personal feeling in the case, is that they have apprehended the prosecution was in the position that could best be described as 'up a tree' and you find the murderer," the Gardner letter said.

He said since there was evidence Coffin left in his possession some property of the murdered men, the problem beyond all question that Coffin was the murderer.

He never subscribed to that theory

"I don't think it is logical and reasonable that a fair justice should be predicated upon such reasoning."

Mr Gardner said he could remember "too many cases" in which a death sentence was commuted, and later investigation resulted in "new evidence so strongly indicative of innocence the man was released."

Capital punishment was "an irrevocable act."

Mohawks Will Depict Landing In Pageant

The Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte on Sunday will re-enact their annual pageant, commemorating the landing of the original band near Deseronto 180 years ago. The pageant, as in other years, will depict the original landing, near Deseronto and the first Communion service at the site of the present cairn. As at the original service, May 22 of 1784, the famous Queen Anne Communion Silver will be used. The Queen Anne set will also be used at an 11 o'clock service in nearby Christ Church. The annual pageant usually attracts several top government officials and a crowd of thousands.

The original band of loyalist Mohawks left the Mohawk valley in New York State after the American Revolution and came to Ontario via Montreal. The Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte Band, under Chief John Deserontyou, landed near the town of Deseronto while the rest of the group continued to a site near Brantford.

Municipal Park At Frankford To Be Improved

TRENTON — Frankford council last night voted to improve the facilities in the municipal park, on the river front. The fire-acre park is a source of income to the village in the summer months.

Tourist trailers parked there during the summer, return $1 a night or $5 a week.

Trailers are permitted to stay in the park for a four-week period and longer, unless other campers need the parking space.

A full time attendant is employed.

Council voted last night to have the electrical wiring to the park extended, to provide more overhead lighting.

If funds permit, a pressure pump for the washrooms will be purchased. Council expects to bring down its budget by the end of this week, and at that time other improvements to the park may be considered.

Two Attending Legion Meet At Winnipeg

TRENTON — Ex-sons commander, Earl Donaldson and past-president Kenneth Craddock of Branch 110 of the Royal Canadian Legion at Trenton are in Winnipeg this week, attending the annual convention of the Legion at the National level.

The two Trenton delegates are understood to have carried with them the one hundred per cent vote from the Trenton branch for the retention of the Red Ensign as Canada's National Flag.

Meanwhile, next Monday night, May 25th, an election for a new branch president will be held at a general branch meeting in the Legion Hall.

Horace Ketchason, the 1964 branch president resigned last week, due to pressure of business.

First vice-president, Victor Burtt has been carrying on as interim president of the branch.

Demolition Of Old Mill Near Completion

TRENTON — The demolition of the 100-year-old Maybee's Mill on Highway 33, Sidney Township is nearing completion, but the new owner, Walter Palsett, doesn't know yet what use will be made of the land.

Mr. Palsett said today he had several ideas for the use of the land but had found himself "hamstrung" so far by zoning regulations of one kind or another.

The old grist mill, first known as Billing's Mill, has been in the Maybee family for almost 40 years.

LAST DAY FOR TENDERS

Today, May 20 is the last day for contractors to submit tenders for the erection of Trenton's new Front St. federal building.

It is expected that an announcement from Ottawa will be forthcoming soon after the tenders are opened and considered and the contractor named.

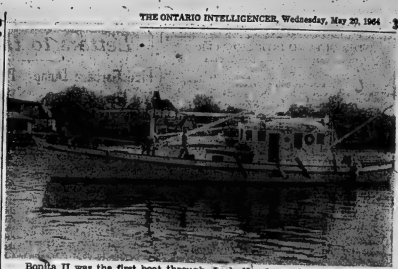
INSPECTION ON

Integration of Canada's three-armed services hasn't become an established fact yet, but Trenton is one jump ahead of the federal government.

At the specific request of His Worship, Mayor James MacDonald, the Sea Cadet Band from RCSCC "Trent" will lead marching music for the annual review of the Trenton High School Air Cadet Squadron, No. 173, on Thursday afternoon.

The inspection will start at 2 p.m. and will be held on the school grounds.

Inspecting officer this year is Wing Commander E. F. Hodgkinson. Pl. Lt. John Bowen is commanding officer of the squadron.



$350 FOR CADETS

The Trenton Sea Cadets cleared $340.07 over the weekend, selling flags in downtown Trenton. This is the best total in a number of years.

READY TO ROLL

Editor Allan Sierolawski and his assistants, Wendy Cuthbertson and Donna Tetrmar of the high school yearbook staff will see advance copies of The Spotlight roll off the presses before the end of this month. The Spotlight will go on sale to students and others by early June.

Meantime, Editor Joanne MacNeil of the Marmora St. Senior Public School bi-annual news bulletin, will also bring out an issue in June.

Bonita II was the first boat through Dock No. 1, on May 15 navigation opening on the Trent. Only one other boat made it through the lock over the weekend. Boat traffic is discouraged by the fact that the lock at Campbellford is being repaired.

Plans are in the making for the enlargement of the entrance to Trenton Memorial Hospital. The downstairs section, enlarged, will provide more room for patients' friends and relatives to wait before going up to the rooms. The upstairs part of the new, enlarged section, will be used as a sun room for ambulatory patients.

Two Windsor Men Given Prison Terms

WHITBY—Two Windsor men arrested in Belleville were sent to prison yesterday for possession of stolen Dominion of Canada bonds valued at $20,000.

Ronald Munro, 29, was given three years in Kingston Penitentiary and Donald McMullen two years less a day in reformatory.

They were arrested after Munro tried to cash a traveller's cheque in the Royal Bank at Belleville May 1st. A cashier became suspicious and called police.

It was later discovered the pair had cashed bonds here in exchange for the cheques.

Both men pleaded guilty here yesterday. The bonds were stolen from a house in Waterloo February 15th.

Liberals Have Wide Choice

Ontario Liberals are going to have a variety of choice when they choose a new leader.

For the party, this is both encouraging and dangerous—encouraging because it will almost certainly be possible to select a man who possesses both the ability and the popular appeal needed for success and dangerous because, amongst so many, it may be difficult for such a man to gain attention.

Two of the latest aspirants are amongst the most interesting.

One of these is Robert Nixon. He is the son of a famous father, both an asset and a handicap. Harry Nixon, to whose Brant seat in the Legislature the son succeeded, went to the Legislature a young man as a representative of the United Farmers, became a Progressive, joined forces with Mitchell Hepburn to defeat George S. Henry and end a long term of Conservative rule, headed a caretaker government after Hepburn's retirement and ended his years as one of the mainstays of each new Opposition. That makes the Nixon name familiar; it also has the disadvantage of linking the young member for Brant with the latter years of Liberal frustration, for few nowadays will recall the Nixon who was second only to Hepburn in taunting and jeering an entrenched Conservative regime into the shade of the Opposition seats.

Another contender is Gordon Templeton, a man of an entirely different stamp. Where Robert Nixon presents a historic family background, Templeton offers the variety of a brilliant man who does not always seem to have known his own mind. Once a crowd-stirring evangelist, a Canadian Billy Graham, he essayed a study of theology when he left the city as established name in the pulpit—and lost his faith in the process. From there he turned to broadcasting and had his second career well established when he was "unconverted" again, this time to the power of the printed word, and became one of the group of young men who were quietly transforming the Toronto Star from the acme of sensationalism into a sort of Canadian version of the Manchester Guardian—without letting the change become so obvious to reduce circulation.

The same day that Nixon and Templeton announced their candidature brought word of a possible third entry, a decided "dark horse," Eddie Sargent of Owen Sound. Though a rank novice in the Legislature, Sargent has had a long—one might almost say a life-long—career in municipal politics, having been mayor of Owen Sound off and on, whenever he chose, for almost two decades. He has achieved this by a penchant for the colorful word and deed.

A Poor Suggestion

Magistrate J. R. H. Kirkpatrick of Kitchener has suggested that passengers in cars driven by impaired drivers be charged as "found-ins."

The Canadian Highway Safety Council is studying this proposal.

The Ottawa Journal considers this plan and decides that, while "it might be hard to be both dandiacal and just in enforcing (such) a law," "there is something here for the Council to study."

Precious little, it seems to us.

The Journal refers to the fact that there are occasions when "the passengers, themselves somewhat 'loaded,' have goaded the driver to 'let's go out, George' or the like."

Where this is really goading, and not an idle suggestion eagerly seized upon by the driver as an excuse to demonstrate how well he holds his liquor, surely some action could be taken under existing laws, or under existing laws suitably modified. This is being on accessory before the fact, in precisely the same way in which a person is an accessory who exhorts anyone to commit any other crime—and drunk driving is a crime.

But to maintain that all passengers in a car driven by a person under the influence of alcohol or a narcotic are guilty of a crime, or even a misdemeanor, is nonsense. Sometimes the driver is not drunk when the drive begins but becomes so, either through alcohol consumed just before the drive taking effect or through additional imbibing when the car is in motion. Sometimes the passengers go along as the only hope of averting a tragedy for a man whom they are not physically capable of controlling—many a wife has played this role. Sometimes the passengers hope that the driver may be induced to surrender the wheel to them when his condition makes itself evident to him. Sometimes there seems no other course but to ride along and hope for the best.

All art constantly aspires towards the condition of music.—Walter Pater.

Letters to the Editor

Find Garbage Dump Not Health Menace

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

The other evening we noticed a letter in your paper from Mrs. E. Smith, R.R. 1, Foxboro, Ontario, complaining about certain garbage being dumped near her home. As Mrs. Smith has brought this matter to the attention of the general public, many of whom may not be familiar with the situation, we would appreciate space in your newspaper to offer a reply to her accusations.

The only Township By-law dealing with the subject of garbage is Township By-law No. 1644, which prohibits the dumping of refuse, glass, paper or any filth of any nature on any highway or bridge. The garbage to which Mrs. Smith referred is on private property and therefore does not constitute a breach of the By-law. However, under the Public Health Act, which is a Statute of the Province of Ontario, there is no exemption and the person shall within the municipality suffer the accumulation upon his premises, or deposit or permit the deposit upon any land there owned by him of anything that may endanger the public health or deposit upon, on or into any street, square, lane, by-way, watercourse, bay, lake, pond, bank, harbor, river, stream, sewer or water, any manure or other refuse or vegetable or animal matter, or any filth. In short the intention here, we believe, is that no one shall dump or permit to be dumped any refuse on his property that constitutes a public health hazard.

Both the Township Medical Officer of Health, Dr. A. A. Hooper, M.D., and the Sanitary Inspector, Mr. John Shurie, have inspected the garbage in question and find nothing in it that is injurious to public health.

The location of the garbage is in a rough semi-wooded area of the Township in a depression where hollow has always been taken out many years ago, and is barely visible from the highway. We have been told by Mrs. Smith when going to and from her property to travel over private property for the one else, i.e., the same owner that land on which the garbage has been placed.

It is our contention that Mrs. Smith has exaggerated the matter out of proportion to the real facts. Both Council and the Local Board of Health gave every consideration to Mrs. Smith's complaint, but in view of the reports of the Medical M.O.H. and Sanitary Inspector, it was decided that there were no grounds for proceeding with an action.

As far as Mrs. Smith's contention that the municipal employee was restrained from carrying out his duties either as M.O.H. or Democratic Party financial critic, said the magnitude of about a private bill now before the Senate to incorporate the Bank of British Columbia, because of the "personalities" involved.

He said he did not like a provision under which the Social Credit government of Premier W. A. C. Bennett could own up to 25 per cent of the $100,000,000 capital of the new bank.

Mr. Cameron and Social Credit Leader Thompson both asked the government to outline its bank policy before proceeding with the one-year extension.

Creditiste financial critic Gilles Gregoire said he is strongly tempted to block the legislation so as to force the banks out of business temporarily after July 1. This would force the government to take over the creation of credit from a "handful of big capitalists."

CARRIED ARMS

Dion said he carried arms in both armory robberies, held up a guard at the Shawinigan robbery Feb. 20 and helped tie up a dozen persons in Les Fusiliers Mont-Royal armory in Montreal Jan. 30.

Co-accused Andre Wattier, 23, Jean LeSalle, 22, Pierre Nadon, 19, Robert Hudon, 20, Jean Gagnon, 26 and Claude Perron, 20, were silent in the prisoners' dock during Dion's testimony.

They had smiled and exchanged jokes, particularly during cross-examination, at previous sessions of Hudon's preliminary hearing on an armed robbery charge arising from the Shawinigan raid. Dion said both armory raids were planned in an east-end Montreal apartment occupied by himself, Hudon and Perron.

The seven suspected ALQ terrorists face more than 60 charges arising from the armed robberies. Dion asked for protection of the court when he took the stand, meaning his evidence cannot be used against him.

Liberals

from Mr. Douglas Nov. 7, 1961.

Labor and social welfare legislation under the CCF led the way for other provinces.

CLAIMED CREDIT

The CCF brought in the first bill of rights in Canada and claimed credit for a tremendous expansion of communications facilities. The economy, based largely on agriculture in 1944, was diversified.

Mr. Thatcher has claimed in his five years as leader of the Liberals that economic diversification was slowed because industry was shy of a government with a socialist aura.

The CCF was the only socialist government in North America.

All 10 provincial governments in Canada went to the electorate in the last 18 months and the CCF in Saskatchewan was the only government defeated.

The Liberals won the election with 40.1 per cent of the votes cast, the CCF 40.6, the Conservatives 18.8 and other parties .4 per cent.

In three seats won by the CCF and five won by the Liberals, the winning margin was less than 100 votes. Recounts providing voting irregularities could upset the results in any of these seats, but Mr. Thatcher is almost certain to hold on to a working majority in the assembly.

END SPECULATION

Mr. Lloyd's announcement Tuesday ended a month of political speculation that he might stay in office until recounts ruled out any possibility he could form the next government.

His announcement followed a morning round of talks with Lieutenant-Governor R. L. Hendridge and Mr. Thatcher and the final regular meeting of his cabinet, including five defeated ministers.

Mr. Thatcher, who was to meet with Mr. Hanbidge today to discuss the changeover, said he hoped to select his cabinet by Thursday evening and have it sworn in Friday afternoon.

He said the cabinet would number 13—three less than Mr. Lloyd's. Deputy Party Leader A. JE. McDonald, member for Moosomin, would be deputy premier and hold a senior portfolio.

Six "parliamentary assistants" would be appointed to aid senior cabinet ministers.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The United States dollar in terms of Canadian funds was unchanged at $7.98 3-32.

Pound sterling was unchanged at $3.02⅝.

Want Province To Help Study Salt Corrosion

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto's transportation committee proposed Tuesday that the province share in the cost of a two-year experiment to find a chemical to reduce or eliminate corrosion caused by salt used in snow removal.

THE BEAST FROM THE SWAMP crawls down Front St.

in Belleville, at night. Giant water bugs, one of the largest insects in these latitudes, are flying at this time of year. Often called "electric light bugs" because they are attracted to lights, these bugs are usually two or three inches long in Canada, and a six-inch bug of similar appearance has been reported in Brighton. Vicious killers, they spend most of their lives in water living on insects and small fish. The ones flying about now are mostly males, carrying eggs attached to them by females of the same species. Tropical versions of this bug commonly grow to four or five inches long, according to R. W. Smith of the Entomology Research Institute here. Size of this bug is indicated by the AG-1 flashbulb beside it.

PROFITS RISE

TORONTO (CP) — Profits of Canadian manufacturers rose to 5.4 per cent of sales in 1963, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association said Tuesday. Profits were 5.1 per cent in 1962. Last year was the third consecutive year of recovery from a low of 4.4 per cent in 1960, the association said in its annual profit survey.

Read how a young man can double his money and protect his family with London Life Jubilee Insurance.

A few financial facts from London Life for the young man who is thinking of investing

Should you put your money in stocks, bonds, property or London Life insurance? Knotty problem. Here are nine reasons why you're wise to start off with a London Life Jubilee policy:

If you are a young married man with a family, bear in mind the old adage, look before you leap. Consider these facts:

(1) While a Jubilee policy builds savings, it also protects your family more soundly than any other investment. (Protection should always be the cornerstone of a young man's investment program.) If you die, the policy is immediately worth much more than you have paid in premiums. Many investments must be sacrificed when the owner dies.

(2) A London Life Jubilee policy avoids the hazards of investment risk. The amount of your insurance and the cash value of your policy are guaranteed in writing.

(3) A Jubilee policy is not affected by market fluctuations. It is just as safe as high-grade bonds and much safer than most common stocks.

(4) Your investment in Jubilee insurance can be tailored to fit your budget. You can spread the yearly premium out over 12 monthly payments. (Few other investments let you start on such a modest scale.)

(5) A Jubilee policy is about the soundest investment you can make. It climbs steadily in value. The cash value is guaranteed. And because it's a London Life profit-sharing policy, you earn dividends each year.

If you buy young and leave your dividends to grow with the Company, you can actually double your money before you retire.

Example: If you are 25 and in good health, you can buy a $10,000 Jubilee whole life policy for $13.09 a month. To age 65 you will pay in $6,283.

How much will you get back?

At age 65 you will have built up savings of about $13,170—more than double the amount you have paid in premiums.

(This figure of $13,170 is made up of $5,580 in guaranteed cash value and $7,590 in accumulated dividends. These dividends are based on London Life's current dividend rate. While they are not guaranteed, the Company has had an outstanding record of dividend growth for over 50 years. For example, since 1951 the dividend rate has been increased seven times.)

(6) London Life dividends are high because, among other things, the Company invests wisely and profitably in Canada. In 1963, the Company earned 5.54% on its investments—after investment expenses.

(7) The London Life Insurance Company operates only in Canada. One reason premiums are low is because Canadians, on the average, are long lived.

(8) When you are ready to retire, your Jubilee policy is a surprisingly flexible investment. You can:

(a) carry on with your plan for protection and savings

(b) stop paying premiums and take a paid-up policy for an adjusted amount

(c) stop paying premiums and withdraw your savings either as a lump sum or as a monthly income.

Ann Landers

Low Enough Standards Will Always Attract Some Men

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am 36 years old, have a good job, a well-furnished apartment, a car of my own and some money in the bank.

I have a pretty face but have battled the weight problem all my life — and lost. When I get frustrated I eat, and I've been frustrated for 10 years. Three men have taken my time and my love and left me flat. The last man actually stood me up at the church.

ANN LANDERS

Six months ago I met a very attractive musician. He doesn't like to work and has admitted that he hasn't had to work much because women have always been happy to let him move in. He has been married once and is now divorced.

The man is intelligent, good company and I am sorely tempted. When I told him he could not move in unless he married me, he said "O.K., but don't expect me to be faithful more than a few months because it's not my nature."

I want desperately to show my friends that I can get a husband. Give me your opinion and please be kind. — ALETTA.

DEAR ALETTA — I hate to deflate you, Toots, but there is not a woman alive who can't get a man to marry her if she sets her standards low enough.

This man has nothing whatever to recommend him. If you want to pile up some Brownie points with your friends why don't you show them you can pass up an offer of marriage? This is much more impressive than accepting a poor one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — A fine, middle-aged woman sits with our children when we go out for the evening. The children adore "Aunt Maude." She is reliable, warm-hearted and great fun.

Aunt Maude is a deeply religious person. But her religion is different from ours and she confuses our children. Aunt Maude also speaks to them about sin in a way that is not compatible with the teachings of our religion.

Last Christmas Aunt Maude gave the children jewelry with religious symbols. These symbols are not worn by people of our faith.

The children are beginning to argue with us about the differences and since Aunt Maude has presented her views as the only true views, we are in a bad spot. Please advise me.—A MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER — Have a frank talk with Aunt Maude. Ask her not to discuss religion with your children and explain that they are becoming confused.

Let your children know that there are many religions in the world and everyone should believe his religion is the true one. Don't tell them Aunt Maude is wrong — just say her ideas happen to be different.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm going to be married on my 19th birthday. My fiance, Rod, is 21. I am proud of the fact that although I've had lots of dates I have kept myself pure for my husband.

Last night Bud and I had a long talk. I asked him to tell me about his past. Now I wish I hadn't asked him. He went steady with a girl two years ago and they did some things they had no right to do. I was so disappointed in Bud I wept.

Please help me clear up my thinking. I'm very unhappy and terribly confused. Will I ever get over feeling disappointed and let-down? — MARTHA.

DEAR MARTHA — I hope so, Kiddo. Of all the useless, energy-consuming, pastimes — moping over what happened two years ago takes the cake.

Young men who are asked such questions ought to tell the girls not to be so nosey.

when Parliament would see the government-approved flag although it would be in a very short time." The government had no plans to table the designs now being considered, although Opposition Leader Diefenbaker suggested it was a denial of the rights of Parliament not to see the designs that were shown outside.

NOT DENYING RIGHTS

Fa. from denying the rights of Parliament, said the prime minister, the flag legislation will mark the first time that "a matter of this kind" has not been decided by cabinet order.

New Democratic Party Leader T. C. Douglas said he thought it would be a common courtesy to present the designs to Parliament rather than "peddling various designs around the country."

Two basic designs, believed to be in the forefront of cabinet consideration, were shown to a Winnipeg press conference Monday. These, Mr. Pearson told the Commons were "some of a great many" under study.

Mr. Diefenbaker wanted to know whether the designs shown in Winnipeg were among those considered by cabinet or were "they simply an emmanation of his (Mr. Pearson's) own desire to bring about an even greater disunity in Canada than he has succeeded in doing."

"My purpose in the pursuit of this policy," said the prime minister, "contrary to what (Mr. Diefenbaker) has said, is to bring about a greater degree of unity in Canada. In that objective I hope—I am sure—I will get the support of (Mr. Diefenbaker) and of every other honorable member of the House though he may differ as to the means by which that objective can be achieved."

The prime minister said he does not think it would be desirable to change plans at this time for the Queen's visit to Canada this fall.

He was replying to Marcel Lezard (SC—Lac-St. Jean) who asked whether the Queen could be invited to Ottawa to see a new distinctive Canadian flag be raised above the Parliament Buildings.

some information. An intensive review is under way to find out whether "any significant compromise of sensitive information" took place.

UNCOVER DEVICES

Since 1949 the Americans uncovered more than 130 listening devices in the premises behind the Iron Curtain. The latest discover boosts the total to more than 170.

Some of the microphones, vintage of the Stalin era of 1952, were shown to reporters. They were made of heavy metal with a long thin metal tube attached to them. The microphones had been placed well back in the plaster — about eight inches from the interior surface, with the thin tube reaching the inner surface but not penetrating the plaster. Officials found that some of the microphones still worked, capable of picking up conversation eight or 10 feet away.

They declined to say in what rooms they found the equipment but said the Russians had penetrated not only the business quarters of the embassy but also the living quarters below.

LED UNDER STREETS

The microphone wiring was contained in wooden tubes inside the walls, leading down to beneath the streets. Officials presumed the wiring led under the streets to nearby Soviet buildings.

For years American security agents tried so find out whether the premises were "bugged." They swept the rooms with instruments that could detect the present of metal and electronic equipment. Nothing turned up. They ripped out selected parts of rooms. Again they found nothing. Finally, they decided to do a complete job—virtually wreck a whole room. This worked. After finding the first microphone, tracing the others through the wiring was easy. Officials said they should have wrecked a room in the first place, years ago.

REDNER — MacDONALD

Christ Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, May 9, 1964, when Lynda Jean MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward MacDonald, Belleville, became the bride of Gordon Ernest Sydney Redner, son of Mr. Bernard Redner, Carrying Place R.R. 1, and the late Mrs. Redner. The Rev. Everett Smith, assisted by the rector of the church, the Rev. R. G. Fleming, performed the double-ring ceremony before a background of white gladioli, white stock and white snapdragons the guest room.

Traditional wedding music was rendered with Mr. Cort Brinkman, brother-in-law of the bride, as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of nylon organza over taffeta with the bodice featuring a round neckline and accentuated at the waistline with two rows of Chantilly lace, where a detachable train was caught at the back with a large bow. The controlled skirt with semi-fullness was enhanced with matching lace, and embroidery along the hemline. Her headdress was a cluster of simulated 'mums with petals of tulle adorned with seed pearls and holding in place a bouffant shoulder length French illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis mingled with fern.

The matron of honor, sister of the bride, Mrs. Merv (Barbara) Sanders, Belleville, the bridesmaid Miss Andrea Millar, Belleville, and the junior bridesmaid, sister of the bride, Miss Suzanne MacDonald, of Belleville, were identically attired in Romance blue satin peau dresses featuring scooped necklines and fitted bodices where soft small pleats fell into the fullness of the skirts. The backs were enhanced with flowing panels extending from just below the necklines and caught with three petite bows. Their headdresses consisted of a large rosette of nylon in matching shades of Romance blue. Each carried a crescent bouquet of white and pink poms with silver glitter and tulle. The little flower girl, Miss Leslie Ann Sanders, Belleville, niece of the bride, was dressed in soft pink nylon over taffeta dress, edged with pink and white accessories. She wore a headband of pink and white poms with silver glitter and carried a basket of pink and white poms with silver glitter.

Airman Douglas Duiven of Carrying Place was groomsman, while brothers of the bridegroom Messrs. Ronald Redner of Brockville, and James Redner of Redneersville, were the ushers.

The reception was held in Christ Church Parish Hall, where the bride's table was attractively centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with wedding bells, pink lily-of-the-valley and two white doves. Pink and white tapered candles and the bridal bouquets added to the nuptial setting. The bride's mother received the guests wearing a petal pink and white lace sheath dress with matching three-quarter jacket, hat of white organza petals, white accessories and a corsage of pink roses with a white gardenia. She was assisted by the eldest sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Jim MacKay, who wore a turquoise sheath dress with matching jacket, white accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to points west including Niagara Falls and Oakville, the bride chose a melon pink dress of wool boucle and matching coat, a navy wide-brim hat, navy accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Guests were present from Brantford, Oakville, Brockville, Peterborough, Cobourg, Toronto, Stirling, Kingston and from the Province of Manitoba.

The bride was honored at several showers previous to the marriage including a miscellaneous shower, with Beverly Brinkman as hostess and Barbara Sanders as co-hostess, held in the home of Mrs. Ralph Hagerman; another miscellaneous shower with Miss Lynda Fair as hostess and Miss Wendy Watters as co-hostess; also a miscellaneous shower by the Young People of Bethel Chapel and a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Jean Miller as hostess, with Miss Andrea Millar as co-hostess. The staff of the Tweedy Salon of Hair Design presented the bride and bridegroom with a purse of money.

Mr. and Mrs. Redner are residing at Carrying Place, R.R. 1.

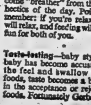
Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 9

Frequent question that pops up in the exam and nursery is: Is baby's first solid food my adorable grandchildren.) Somehow they start the time when you're in closest communication with your baby.



"Are you real, or just a make-believe person?" Well, I'm very much alive, proud mother of five, and a several-times grandmother, too. We're a close and happy family and down to the last one of us, we think babies are the very nicest things that can happen to people.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHY BEACHES LOSE CHARM

There was a time when every red-blooded American boy looked forward to beach-combing. But he's lost the incentive. A stroll to almost any local beach turns up the reason why. So many thoughtless people behave so discourteously toward their fellow sun-seekers that now the average red - blooded American boy yearns to make a fast fistful so he can build his own swimming pool and sun in peace and quiet. Alas, another youthful dream has been shattered.

The once-pristine and brilliant sand dunes that served to inspire lads knee-high to a bunker, now, more often than not, are strewn with litter, despite the desperate efforts of maintenance officials. Signs indicating where ball and other games may be played are disregarded by many, and it's not unusual to find the sign, itself, being used as a backboard for handball.

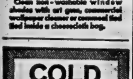
It's not only the public beaches that are so woefully misused. I fled one private residential beach when one of my children was almost beaned by a baseball, and politely declined guest privileges at others simply because of the yellow jackets that swarm around discarded ice-cream cones and candy wrappers strewn on the sand and even on the terrace.

MIND P'S AND Q'S

It takes a comparatively few thoughtless people to throw cold water on the beach - combing dream. If every beach - goer would make a concerted effort to mind his p's and q's, the problem could be cleaned up in no time.

For instance, when you go to the beach, make sure children play ball only in areas so designated. Popping home runs over reclining sun-bathers is not only disconcerting, but downright dangerous.

Bring along containers for refuse and deposit them in receptacles before you leave. If the receptacles are already filled, try not to be impatient. Instead of leaving bags on the ground alongside, why not hold on to them until you find an empty can. After depositing refuse, make sure the cover is on securely to avoid attracting yellow jackets and other unwanted aerial visitors to the scene.



Avoid rough-housing on the sand, especially when the beach is crowded. If you want to play tag or touch-ball to help work off the calories, choose an unoccupied area where flying sand won't be whipped into sunbathers' eyes.

One of the charms of going to the beach is being lulled by the sound of the surf breaking nearby. But, alas, it's often impossible to hear anything except the screeching of the transistor radio owned by the group a few feet away. Try to keep radio sounds more personalized, for the peace of those around you.

If everyone brought his best manners to the beach, along with a picnic lunch, beachball and portable radio, the dream of being a beach-comber might yet be rekindled for posterity.

Spock Tells How to Allay Fears of War

TORONTO (CP) — The best antidote to a child's fears about the nuclear war is an explanation that people he fears are really no different from him, says Dr. Benjamin Spock, an authority on child raising.

To allay fears parents should explain to their children that most Russians are peace-loving, he said in an interview Tuesday.

"A child's hysterical and passive fear of its adversaries is based on the assumption that they are more malevolent and somehow, entirely different."

Dr. Spock, here to speak to a public meeting of the Toronto Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, said he is mainly concerned with the psychological effect of nuclear weapons on children.

He said recent studies in the United States showed that 50 per cent of children up to about age six believed there would be a nuclear war. Among older children the percentage drops to 25.

Albert College Guild Hears of Centennial Plans

In the Old Manor, Mrs. Fred Davidson, presided at the final meeting for this season of Albert College Guild. The report on the final event, the dessert bridge, was most gratifying. Conveyed by Mrs. Fred Wilson, assisted by Mrs. C. W. Smith and Mrs. Hugh McKay it was a success both socially and financially.

The theme of the worship service conducted by Mrs. E. M. Hubbs and Mrs. E. Hubbs was 'the Bible,' the first great book printed in the western world. The Christian's charter, to be read, frequently, slowly and prayerfully.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Fred Wilson introduced Mr. Donald Jose, the guest speaker — one of Belleville's native sons, holding a prominent place in its civic and business affairs. Mr. Jose is president and director of Black Diamond Cheese and at present is chairman of the Parks' Board. The latter involves him in Centennial plans.

The strong committee already operating hopes to soon arrive at a Centenary project that will be of use to as broad a section of the citizens, as possible. One that will be of lasting value. Something specific. The success in finance it will be around $100,000.

The speaker called for the full support of the individual citizen in civic affairs, and impressed on the Guild members their responsibility to participate in the Centennial planning.

Three piano pupils of Miss Marjory Woodward of the Department of Music at the College, contributed to the program. Debbie Moody, Marilyn Williams and Arlene Gill. The latter two won a gold medal at the Stirling Festival.

Miss Winifred Graham, Dean of Women at Albert College, expressed the appreciation of the members to Mr. Jose and others assisting in the program.

There was a social hour over the cups and Mrs. W. H. Finkle and Mrs. H. R. Pettery presided at the tea table with its lovely May flowers.

Speaking Personally

By Gladys Ward

A DOG'S LIFE

It's a good thing Killie, the Scottish terrier can't read or he would turn positively green about a story that appeared in the Toronto Star recently written by columnist Lotta Dempsey about a Scottie dog named McDuff (with a picture, yet) owned by a family also named Ward. This Scottie was so smart that he would wait for the traffic light at the corner of Yonge Street and MacPherson Avenue in Toronto, and if it was red he wouldn't cross the street.

Now Killie wouldn't know a traffic light from a petunia, but he could probably show that McDuff a thing or two about survival in the country.

For instance what city dog has to contend with cows, horses, skunks, rabbits, turtles and assorted fauna; or burs, thistles or poison ivy and assorted flora? Or insecticides, pesticides, or weed killers and assorted poisons?

The other day he could be seen coming home in frantic haste as fast as his short legs would move. Being curious about all this hurry, I went outside to see what it was all about, and a few diminishing lengths behind were two farm dogs in full pursuit. Now while Killie has a stout heart and lots of courage he is not stupid, he knows when he is outnumbered and he prefers not to be a dead hero, or even a mauled one.

I shooed the dogs away, and then Killie turned and barked a few defiant yelps after them. Then he turned to me, and I am SURE he said, "Don't you worry about a thing. I was just hurrying home to protect you."

DRY MIX

Many housewives save time and get good results by mixing dry ingredients for biscuits, muffins, waffles, pastry and quick breads and storing them in containers ready for use. It costs less to make your own mix than to buy them ready made at the store.

A few basic principles make for success in using these mixes. A suitable recipe is needed. This means a recipe which calls for cutting the fat into the dry ingredients or one in which melted fat is added at baking time.

If the recipe says to use melted fat, wait and add it with the eggs and milk when these are stirred in at baking time.

For greatest convenience store the mix in individual batches — the amount in your original recipe. Place each batch in a tight container, such as a glass jar. Nonfat dry milk solids are a natural for baking powder mixes. They add extra milk for better nutrition and dry milk solids are easy to use and they keep well. The mix may be refrigerated or stored in the freezer.

North Hastings District W.I.'s Hold 56th Annual Meeting

The 56th District Annual meeting of North Hastings district Women's Institute was held in Marmora Town Hall on May 14.

Members were welcomed by Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Naylor of the Marmora branch and registration was in charge of Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Gordon. Mrs. Edmond Holmes presided for the event. Mrs. Kenneth Minor was song leader with Mrs. Fred Bailey as pianist.

The minutes of last year's annual and the financial statement were given by the secretary Mrs. Thomas Hinds. The president in her remarks noted that she had visited 13 out of the 14 branches during the year.

An address was given by Mrs. Grant McLaren, representative of the Federated Board. She said that there are now 1431 branches with 36,065 members in Ontario. Seven senior branches have disbanded. She read portions of an article from one of the farm papers pertaining to the "Freedom from Hunger" campaign. The objective for this fund is $50,000 and she said "Let us channel all we can into this fund this year." Those who have pen pals or who sponsor a child were asked to contact Mrs. McLaren before October 1. An invitation will be extended to hold the next national convention in Ontario. There will be a program on farm radio forum entitled "The role of women in Canadian culture," and guides may be received by applying to Farm Radio office. Mrs. McLaren suggested that the branches have a program on safety material on posters is available. She had suggestions for making Canada lovlier in 1967; flowers could be planted in Women's Institute [illegible], or in the form of the flower emblem and trees would be a lasting memorial. Thirty-nine resolutions had been dealt with by the Provincial Board but the three from the Trent Valley area were lost.

VARIOUS REPORTS

The reports from the various standing committees were given and these included the report on agriculture and Canadian industries which was given by Mrs. L. Trotter. The report on citizenship and education was given by Mrs. McLean with the public relations report given by Mrs. Maurice Reynolds.

The financial statement was given showing donations to Institute projects, community projects, health and the various organizations as well as expenses for delegates to conventions, conferences and training school. The total from the district [illegible]. The report on historical research and current events was given by Mrs. Frank Slater and one of the topics in this report was a discussion on a Canadian flag and what the Red Ensign means to Canada and to the world. Mrs. Allan Pigden, gave the home economics and health report and noted that there had been demonstrations by 4-H members, a demonstration on a knitting machine and one quilting with an electric sewing machine.

Speakers had included a representative from the Arthritic Society, the home economist, nurses and a volunteer member of the Belleville General Hospital.

The report on resolutions was given by Mrs. W. J. Barlow, who explained that detailed information on how to draft a resolution could be found on page 70 of the handbook. Four resolutions had been sent in, but when these were dealt with later, only one could be sent to the area.

ANTIQUE DISPLAY

The Rev. J. M. D. McLeod of Marmora United Church, showed an interesting display of antiques. There were many articles of colored glass, candle holders, lamps, teapots and fine china with Mr. McLeod giving a comment on each. From his talk he convinced those present that a number of these articles could be hidden away in attics which would be most valuable and the collecting of them could become a fascinating hobby.

A delicious turkey dinner was served at noon. The afternoon session opened with the ratification of 13 district directors by Mrs. McLaren followed by an address by Miss Elizabeth Spouse of the Home Economics Extension Services, who said that 30,000 women and girls train each year in the courses given by the department. The next project for Hastings will be "More About Finishes."

If more information is desired concerning food forums the secretaries should contact Miss Spouse. She advised taking advantage of short courses and reminded the members that Women's institutes were sponsored to promote education and citizenship and she warned against the dangers of stressing too much the aspects of making money.

THEME FOR RALLY

The theme for this year's rally was "Each day of life is a challenge, let us meet it with courage and gladness". The vice-president of the 14 branches was answered the roll call by giving a one minute talk on the theme.

A basket of flowers was placed on the platform in memory of the deceased members, Mrs. George Alvey, Mrs. Robert Bristol, Mrs. Minnie Wannemaker, Mrs. Clifford Clancy and Mrs. Ed. Wannamaker.

Mrs. Keith Bray, district Tweedsmuir curator gave the branch curators valuable information and helpful suggestions for their Tweedsmuir histories.

The Cooper and Remington branches sang the song which they had prepared for the summary day "Focus on Finishes".

Miss Spouse gave a report of the year's work in the 4-H Clubs and gave the names of the girls who had received county honors and Provincial honors. The Supper Club will be the new club for the fall.

The Farm Safety director Mrs. Percy Carman gave an account of the meeting she had attended including the Farm Safety conference at Guelph. She gave many safety tips to be observed. Those serving banquets or dinners may obtain place mats and serviettes free from the Agricultural Office.

An invitation was extended from the Harts-Riggs branch to hold the 1965 annual there. The area president, Mrs. S. P. Beatty brought greetings from the Trent Valley area to Hastings North.

THE LITTLE WOMAN
"Herbert, wake up!"

ACCEPTED BY NATIVES — Nurse Lynn Houghton (left), who comes from Lac La Ronge, 175 miles north of Prince Albert, Sask., shares a Vancouver apartment with stenographer Rona Temsono (right) who comes from Rarotonga, largest of the Cook Islands in the South Pacific. On a three-month holiday at Rona's home in Rarotonga Lynn was accepted into the family and given the name Ngateina.

Ten Students Finish Home Nursing Study

A pleasant evening was spent recently, in the auditorium of Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital. The occasion was the presentation of badges and certificates to the successful students completing the Red Cross Home Nursing Course.

Mr. Newton Thompson, local president of the Red Cross, gave a short pertinent talk, and the badges and certificates were presented by Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson, of the Red Cross, Mrs. Buchanan, in charge of Red Cross Homemakers, was present and welcomed ladies and friends.

The ladies receiving badges and certificates, looked very smart in white smocks and veils were: Mrs. Edna Bradshaw, Miss Marian Craighead, Mrs. Dorothy Douglas, Mrs. Verna Hammond, Mrs. Mabel Moore, Mrs. Ina Robinson, Mrs. Marjery Thompson, Mrs. Jeanne Trumpour, Mrs. E. Mary Turner, Mrs. Evelyn Wiley.

Miss Sandra Wickens, soprano, accompanied by Miss Karen Wickens, pianist, pleased the group with her beautiful solos.

Refreshments prepared by the ladies of the "Home Nursing Course" were attractively served by the student nurses, Belleville General Hospital.

During the instruction of the course the following persons volunteered their assistance which was greatly appreciated: Lt.-Col. Angus Duffy, co-ordinator Emergency Measures Organization; Mr. W. James, St. John's Ambulance and his assistants; Mrs. Frances Weese, chief dietitian, Belleville General Hospital; Mrs. Doreen Hackett, assistant head nurse obstetric department, Belleville General Hospital.

The instructors for the "Home Nursing Course," were Mrs. Isabella Fletcher, Reg. N., and Miss Sheila Sager, Reg. N.

Special Service At Aiken's Church

Mothers Day service was held at Aikens United Church on Sunday morning, May 10th, with a good attendance. Baskets of lilips and mixed flowers added to the beauty of the service. The pianist, Mrs. Ross Marshall played quiet music. The Junior Choir contributed an anthem. Donna Wilman read the scripture lesson and Garnet Hamilton gave the devotional. Mrs. Ken Bush gave the story "Making Things Right."

The offering is to be given to assist in Christian Education in the Province of Ontario and will make possible the training of leaders for youth work, camps for girls and boys and for church vacation schools. Mr. Gordon Wilman, superintendant of the Sunday School was in charge of the service of worship for Christian Family Week.

Polynesian, White Girl Saving for New Trip

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lynn Houghton was born 24 years ago in Lac La Ronge, 175 miles north of Prince Albert, Sask.

But in a grass shack on the island of Rarotonga she was reborn as Ngateina.

Lynn, a nurse, moved to Vancouver from the Prairies several years ago. Here she met Rona Temsono, a Rarotonga girl working as a stenographer. They saved for a trip to Rona's home.

"It was only going to be a quick trip, but I ended up staying for three months," Lynn says.

She was accepted into Rona's family and given the name Ngateina — the name of Rona's grandmother.

Rarotonga is the largest of the Cook Islands in the South Pacific, northeast of New Zealand. It has a population of about 4,000, including about 250 whites, mostly from New Zealand, who administer the area.

As far as Rona knows, Lynn is the first North American to be accepted by a native family.

The whites ignored me because I lived with a Polynesian family," Lynn said.

"The Polynesians themselves are big, robust, happy people and live off what they can get from the land and sea."

She would like to go back for another visit, but says she's too restless to settle there.

In the meantime, Rona and Lynn are sharing an apartment and saving for a trip to Europe.

Unbaked Confectionlike Cookies for Afternoon Tea

by Mary Moore

We know there are cereal hostesses who yearn to make something but have no spare time to do it.

For these weekend cooks we have a compromise: novel cookies that are assembled then chilled to make them sliceable.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

Clam Chowder; Boston Baked Beans; Boston Brown Bread; Chinese Lettuce and Cucumber Salad with Boiled Dressing; Orange Snow with, Custard Sauce; Coffee.

CHOCOLATE MALLOW SLICES:

1½ cups very fine chocolate wafer, crumbs (about 33 two-inch wafers), 2 cups miniature marshmallows, ½ cup toasted chopped walnuts (cooled), (or ½ cup toasted chopped walnuts, and ½ cup toasted desiccated cocoanut — see below), 2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk, ½ teaspoon peppermint extract.

Chop and toast nuts until golden brown in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. — about 8 minutes. Do not burn. Cool. Crush the cookies with rolling pin until so fine they could be sifted. In mixing bowl mix together 1 cup of the chocolate crumbs, marshmallows, sweetened condensed milk and peppermint and stir well: (if desired divide in half, putting half in smaller bowl. To half add ¾ cup toasted walnuts; to other half add ¾ cup toasted cocoanut.) If all nuts are used, stir them into entire mixture in bowl. Have ready a big sheet of wax paper sprinkled with remaining ½ cup chocolate crumbs. With wet hands shape mixture into 2 "logs" about 2" in diameter and roll them in the crumbs until completely coated and smooth. Roll up in wax paper and chill 4 hours or overnight. With sharp knife cut in 1/3" slices and serve on pedestal cake plate, which has been covered with a paper doily.

NOTE:

I had about half the can of sweetened condensed milk and 12 chocolate wafers leftover. To use them up I made some

QUICK LEMON SQUARES:

Into the condensed milk in can add 8 teaspoons fresh lemon juice and ¾ cup chopped blanched almonds. This thickens as you stir it. Have ready in bottom of 8 x 8" pan the remaining 12 chocolate cookies which have been rolled into fine crumbs. Pour lemon filling evenly over before it stiffens too much. Coax it with your fingertips to make it spread to corners. Cover top evenly with fine thin coating of vanilla cookies crushed, or graham wafers crushed (I used Girl Guide cookies). Chill. When serving time comes, care fully cut into nine squares with sharp knife dipped in hot water. Carefully lift each with pancake turner to individual tea plate and if desired top with little puff of whipped cream or whipped topping, or small scoop of ice cream.

VOW Head Says Rally At The Hague Success

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Kay Macpherson, national president of Voice of Women, said Tuesday she considers the peace rally attended by 1,500 women from NATO countries in The Hague last week a success.

Mrs. Macpherson, who arrived here Monday night en route to Toronto from The Netherlands, told a press conference the rally met with sympathy from the Dutch people encountered by the women, as well as from some government and NATO officials. The rally was organized by the Women's Strike for Peace organization of the United States.

The NATO women's peace rally, scheduled to coincide with the NATO ministerial conference at The Hague May 12-14, got off to a confusing start when several of the women were turned back at the border by Dutch authorities. The women went to protest against the proposed NATO multilateral force to man atomic submarines.

Mrs. Macpherson, one of the first women to be granted entry, said the misunderstanding was not the fault of the Dutch government. Women's group participating in the rally failed to notify Dutch authorities of their intentions far enough ahead of time.

"We should have assured them that we had no intention of lying down in the streets, or planting bombs," she said.

The women were allowed into The Netherlands when embassies and governments began complaining about the incidents, Mrs. Macpherson said. The women were asked to sign a pledge to keep the peace.

Mrs. Macpherson said the 1,500 women paraded silently around the buildings where the NATO conference was being held, carrying paper flowers with "peace" written on one side and photographs of their children on the other.

During the demonstration one woman from each NATO country presented statements at the gates of the conferences, where they were met by a NATO official.

Five women, including Mrs. Dagmar Wilson, president of the Women's Strike for Peace, met the Dutch foreign minister, Mrs. MacPherson said. They carried with them a large bunch of tulips, "to show that flowers were more significant to them than military bulldups."

The Voice of Women representatives met Paul Martin, Canadian external affairs minister, and the permanent Canadian representative to NATO, George Ignatieff.

The women signed a pledge affirming their belief that effective steps towards disarmament now are possible and urgently necessary."

Mrs. Macpherson said the women decided to demonstrate at all subsequent NATO meetings.

Club Activities

AVONDALE NEIGHBORS

The May meeting of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. D. F. Cameron, Wilkie Street. President, Dorothy Maclean, opened the meeting with a reading, Pearl Holmes and Cynthia Wright had charge of the devotional which was in keeping with Family Week and Mother's Day.

A donation to the Red Shield campaign will be made as in former years. The members' week of visitation to the County Home will be May 17 - 23. During that week, the ladies are arranging a bingo for the residents from 7 to 8 p.m. May 21 with small prizes and gifts of fruit to each.

TELEPHONE RUCHRE

The results of the telephone euchre were: lone hands — E. Leggett; high score — E. Hall; consolation — Cathy Lough.

Pearl Holmes introduced the guest speaker Mrs. T. F. Townsend who gave a most interesting and thought inspiring talk on "Family Life" and "Mothers".

She stated that although the cradle is a thing of the past, how true the saying was that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the home. The strength of the nation is in the home A famous writer said recently, "The world is getting weary of mothers trying to hide their years and working so hard to stay young." She urges women! to use and enjoy the years as they come. "The end of life is not at forty years, that is just the real beginning. Wisdom and tolerance, virtue and modesty are the peace corps in Christian homes. Be proud to be a woman and a mother".

As we grow older, how often our thoughts turn to the years we were privileged to enjoy our mother's kindly and self-sacrificing love for us, and so often we are ashamed when we think of what we said — or, didn't say — or did, or didn't do. Have we waited too late to honor our mothers?

In closing, Mrs. Townsend read "The Parable of Womanhood" showing the impressions of a Christian mother leaves with her family after she has left them.

Refreshments were served by E. Davenport, D. Maclean and E. Day and the hostess.

Winnipeg Mother Champions Crusade For Arthritis Victims Across Canada

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Arthritis victims have a vivacious champion in a public Winnipeg mother who brings first-hand knowledge of the disabled to the organized crusade against the crippling disease.

As a professional physiotherapist, Helen Marie Munro, a five-foot-two brunette, has massaged the limbs of the handicapped in war and peace.

Last March the Manitoba division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society broke with tradition by electing her its first woman president. The group began in 1949.

Her governing board is mostly men but this helps make her job "rather fun." The men are co-operative and generous.

Mrs. Munro is known to close friend as Stevie from her maiden name of Stevens.

"The big thing right now," she says, "is to find the answer to arthritis—its cause and its cure." The disease and allied ailments afflict 1,000 000 Canadians, all suffering many.

Early yearnings as a girl to become a doctor finally ended in a degree in science from the University of Toronto for the slim, Vancouver-born wife of a newspaper publisher.

COULDN'T GET JOB

"I wanted to do something to help the ressed people in the best of their condition," she explains, "but physiotherapy seemed to be the answer."

After her 1937 graduation, she recalls, her field was so new she was able to land a job and finally went into private practice at Dunnville, Ont., where she was raised.

Later with the Red Cross, pre-war epidemics gave her a grim introduction to the paralytic perils of polio. All told she treated 1,700 cases.

"Now polio has largely been beaten in Canada with vaccine and this is what we hope for in arthritis disease."

Serving as a nursing sister with the army in the Second World War, Stevie Munro helped rehabilitate wounded soldiers in English hospitals with massage, remedial exercise and other therapy.

Physiotherapists were responsible for returning hundreds of soldiers to their units who otherwise might have been invalided home, she says proudly.

She remembers that soldiers seemed to have a free-wheeling attitude toward army vehicles.

HEADS ARTHRITIS FIGHT — Helen-Marie Munro, a physiotherapist, is the first woman president of the Manitoba Division of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society. She served overseas as an army nursing sister during the Second World War and was mentioned in dispatches for her first-aid work in a safe bomb ing in London in 1941.

(CP Photo)

"We had so many fractures. Those boys on motorcycles!"

CAFE BOMBED

She was in a London night club called the Cafe de Paris on a Saturday night in March, 1941, when a bomb crashed through the roof and exploded on the dance floor. Some 70 persons, including four Canadian soldiers, were killed and many more were injured.

Dazed but unharmed, her uniform tattered and white-starched cuffs blotted with blood, Lieut. Stevens ministered to the injured for more than a hour, binding wounds with tablecloths and clothing and putting broken limbs in make-shift splints. In the absence of first-aid equipment, champagne was poured over wounds as an antiseptic.

Two days later the Canadian Army made Lieut. Stevens available for interviews and Ross Munro, a Canadian Press war correspondent, wrote the story of her heroism, for which she later was mentioned in dispatches. Then he took her out to dinner.

MARRIED YEAR LATER

"He couldn't have been very impressed by me," Mrs. Munro recalls. "In his story he called me dark-haired and blue-eyed. I'm brown-eyed."

They were married the following year. Their only child, Ann, now a 19 - year - old university student, was born during the war. Mr. Munro now is publisher of the Winnipeg Tribune.

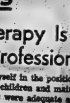
After the war Mrs. Munro worked with arthritics and other disabled, finally switching to an administrative role with the society in Winnipeg.

In her spare time she curls and is "trying to learn how to play golf, but I don't think I will succeed."

She takes conversational French at night school because "this is a bilingual country" and besides "it's good mental exercise."

In her work with the society she wants to see more research done into arthritic diseases. "I just feel every day that maybe the answer will come."

WILL RETURN MONEY



ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — The rummage sale was too successful. Someone purchased a man's windbreaker for 50 cents and Carleton United Church women, who ran the sale, are offering to refund the money if the new owner will return the jacket. It belongs to the caretaker at a union hall where the sale was held.

Successful Living

Occupational Therapy Is Very Rewarding Profession

DEAR DORIS — Last year I found myself in the position of having to wholly support my two teen-age children and maintain our home. I found a job where the wages were adequate and I had the weekends free. However, I dislike it intensely and I want so badly to be doing something constructive.

The only thing I know a good deal about is handicrafts. I've taught this to several children's groups over the years as well as individually to adults. Could you tell me if there are any opportunities to apply this knowledge to a paying position? I would be willing to study. — B.C. MOTHER.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR B.C. MOTHER — The therapy which brings strength back into injured muscles and limbs by means of handicrafts is taught by an occupational therapist, holder of a university diploma (three years) or a degree (five years). Sometimes the course combines both occupational and physical therapy.

More and more these warm-blooded, imaginative therapists are working miracles in the lives of persons crippled or minus a leg, arm, hand, fingers, eyesight.

With your knowledge of handicrafts I'd say you were a first class prospect. Since O.T.'s are in short supply, you might even get work as a helper, while you study. The place to enquire is your general hospital, rehabilitation centre or children's clinic.

Had to Teach French the Hard Way

MONTREAL (CP) — Brig. Nora Brokenshire of the Central French Corps of the Salvation Army finds all the talk about bilingualism a bit amusing.

Brig. Brokenshire learned French in 1929 by teaching French - speaking Protestant children in the Salvation Army mission school here. She taught there for 15 years.

In those days, no provision existed within the Protestant school board to educate French Protestants in their own language and various mission schools took on the task.

Born in Femelon Falls, Ont., just north of Peterborough, of a Salvation Army family, Brig. Brokenshire taught school there before going to Toronto study at the army's training school.

"I had studied French for three years in high school. I could read a little but I was lost on even the simplest conversation and I found myself teaching 45 French - speaking children in all grades from one to seven."

She says that for about two years she lived in "a no-man's land of trying to speak and feeling strange speaking English. I had to rely on written questions and answers for a while, for I found if a student recited an answer quickly enough, he could be saying a nursery rhyme for all I knew."

She is retiring this year after 35 years with the French corps.

Northern Electric Employees Roll Out Welcome Mat for Members of Their Families

Employees of Northern Electric at Belleville rolled out the welcome mat last night for members of their immediate families, who were shown just what makes a modern industrial complex tick.

Approximately 1,000 fathers, mothers, and children toured the local plant on the first evening of a three-day "family night" program.

The "family night" open house will continue tonight and Thursday night with about 1,000 visitors expected each evening. The plant tour is by invitation only.

One of the main features of the Northern family night program is the number of displays set up showing the many finished products manufactured at the local plant.

850 EMPLOYEES

The Northern plant at Belleville, employing something over 850 workers, is primarily a producer of communications systems, ranging all the way from intricate navigational aids for aircraft, to the components of a pay telephone.

And last night visitors saw husbands and brothers, and sometimes mothers and sisters, at work producing the components for the various pieces of electronic and other equipment, which go to make up a day's production at the plant.

In addition to pay telephone components, intricate and costly navigational aid systems, Northern produces such things as the traffic control systems seen at almost every busy urban intersection; radio and studio broadcasting equipment, and fire alarm systems.

WATCH DRAFTSMEN

Not only did they see the actual manufacturing process, but visitors also got an inkling of the myriad of "behind the scenes" operations that go into the production of almost any piece of equipment.

Visitors watched draftsmen and engineers at work over their drawing boards, saw the maze of paper work necessary from the time the firm bids on a particular production job until the customer receives his equipment.

Out in the plant they saw how raw materials of different descriptions are turned into the finished product.

They saw huge metal shaping equipment turn sheet metal into chassis for PBX telephone switching equipment; watched automatic screw machines at work and saw girls machine winding coils and transformers.

Visitors saw how printed circuits for commercial radio equipment were put together and were treated to a practical demonstration of closed circuit TV.

HOW LIGHTS WORK

They were shown how street traffic lights can be set up for operation by autos themselves through under the pavement cable, and how the long distance telephone operator misses away can tell whether it is a dime, nickle or a quarter that is being dropped into the pay telephone.

A recent contract for Northern was the supply of TV broadcasting equipment for CBS in the United States.

At the end of the plant tour visitors were invited to the plant cafeteria to enjoy coffee and sandwiches.

Plant manager T. N. Davidson said that the Northern "family night" was an almost 100 per cent employee venture.

56 DISPLAYS SET UP

Mr. Davidson said that plant executive as much as possible stayed away from the planning which went into the program.

At least 50 displays or demonstrations were set up throughout the plant, some in the main entrance showing many of the end products of something which even many workers themselves may not have seen.

The displays and demonstrations were the responsibility of plant department and section chiefs. Paul Cleary, transformer section headed up the "family night" committee assisted by other selected plant personnel.

FLOWERS DOMINATE THE MARKET at this time of year. In the picture Mrs. Joe Lloyd of Belleville points out her selection to 15-year-old Lyda Boers of R. R. 1 Trenton. Mr. Lloyd looks on. Cut flowers are selling at various prices from 25c a dozen and potted plants, ready for planting, sell for 25c each and up.

South Viet Nam Wants Talks With Cambodia

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A South Vietnamese spokesman at the United Nations says his government wants border talks with Cambodia and would welcome UN help to arrange them.

Pham Khac Rau, charge d'affaires of the South Vietnamese embassy in Washington, stated this position in an interview Wednesday night after the Security Council opened debate on a charge by Cambodia that South Vietnamese raids across its border constituted aggression by South Viet Nam and the United States.

Rau denied the aggression charge. He said the border incidents arose because the Viet Cong Communists fighting to overthrow his government have been able to use Cambodian territory as their sanctuary.

Canadians Plan Assault On High Peak

KARACHI (Reuters) — An eight-man Canadian expedition arrived in this Pakistani city Tuesday to begin an attempt on the unconquered 25,000-ft. peak Hachindar Kish in the Karakoram Mountains.

The group flew from the capital of Rawalpindi to this mountain-ringed town, from where it will travel by jeep to the little state of Hunza.

Hunza is bounded by the Communist Chinese province of Sinkiang on the north, Afghanistan on the west, Kashmir to the east and West Pakistan to the south.

Northern Electric Company officials from Montreal are seen conferring with Belleville Industrial Commission representatives at noon luncheon yesterday. Left to right are E. Kniesel, pro tem president of Industrial Commission, Mayor Jack Ellis, R. H. Keefler, president of Northern Electric, C. B. Woodley, vice-president and general manager of the N. E. Apparatus Division, and J. C. Houston, president of Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Zdenek Kvarda Named Ontario JC Vice-Pres.

At the Ontario Jaycee convention held in Toronto over the weekend, Zdenek Kvarda of the Belleville Jaycees was elected vice-president of the Ontario Jaycee organization. He was also appointed by the Ontario Board to represent Ontario on the National Board. Mr. Kvarda was the charter president of the Belleville Jaycees and last year served as District Six President.

Also attending the convention from Belleville were outgoing president Barry Clegg, president-elect Don Dafoe, director Jack Chapman and incoming vice-president Don Rowe, who was chosen by the Belleville unit as the outstanding Jaycee of the year.

At their regular dinner meeting held at the Shrine Club last night, it was announced that the Belleville Jaycees will sponsor three teams in the city's Minor Baseball League. It was also reported that work on the city animal shelter project will commence this coming Saturday.

The meeting was ended with the handing over of the gavel by outgoing president, Barry Clegg to president-elect Don Dafoe.

Top Officials of N.E. Co. Meet With Industrial Board

Top officials of the Northern Electric Company of Canada from Montreal, were in the city yesterday to visit the local plant and also to exchange views concerning the role of industry in the community with members of the Belleville Industrial Commission.

Mr. R. H. Keffler, president of Northern Electric Company Limited, and Mr. C. B. Woodley, vice-president, and general manager of the N/E Apparatus Division, of which Belleville works is a part, met informally at noon luncheon with Mayor Jack Ellis and a number of key men representing the city as guests of T. The meeting was to exchange views concerning the role of industry in the community.

Mr. Keefler, who is a past chairman of the Executive Council and now Vice-President of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, stated he is particularly interested in those communities in which the Northern have plants or other facilities. He considers the Belleville works to be one of Northern's important operations and is interested not only in the operations but also in the social aspects of industry in the community and the part a local plant can play as a citizen.

Following the brief Belleville visit, Mr. Keefler and Mr. Woodley, flew on to Toronto to visit the Northern plant at Bramalea and also at London.

CBC-TV Calls for Cutback In Canadian-Produced Variety and Drama Shows

TORONTO (CP)—CBC-TV has drawn up its prime-time evening network programme schedule for next fall, and it calls for a cutback in Canadian-produced variety and drama in favor of a Monday night series of one-hour hour comedy, variety and drama shows.

The full schedule, for the period 7:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., divides the number of programs about equally between those produced by the CBC and those purchased from U.S. and British producers. The schedule starts in the first week of October.

The network's afternoon schedule won't be settled for another couple of weeks, but some popular programs, such as Take Thirty, are almost certain to return.

Both Parade, the CBC's 36-episode variety series featuring top United States and Canadian performers, and Playdate, a 36-episode drama series, have been axed. The network will telecast a series titled Show of the Week in the Monday night Playdate time slot.

U.S.-produced shows returning to their same time slots in the fall are The Ed Sullivan Show, Bonanza, The Patty Duke Show, Perry Mason and The Beverly Hillbillies. Returning to new time slots are Hazel and The Defenders, on Thursday nights, and Ben Casey, on Friday nights.

The Garry Moore Show, The Lucy Show and Grindl won't return in the fall.

CBC programs returning to time slots they occupied this season are Flashback, Don Messer's Jubilee, Front Page Challenge, News magazine, Red River Jamboree, Festival, The Serial, Country Hoedown, Telescope, Juliette and the National Hockey League games.

Shuffling of public affairs programming sees Inquiry move from a half-hour Monday night to one hour Sunday night, with The Sixties moving from Sunday afternoon to prime time on a day night. Horizon has been dropped.

Among the imported shows to be seen in the fall is The Danny Kaye Show, which takes over the Ben Casey slot Tuesday night.

Jack Benny, longtime TV and radio favorite who moves to NBC from CBS next fall, will launch Sunday night viewing with a half-hour show.

WILL TEAM UP

Two top public affairs producers will team up to give Inquiry a new look: Patrick Watson, Inquiry producer for the last three seasons, and Douglas Leiterman, producer of programs in the Document series for several years, will work together on an ambitious series of documentary- and topical-type programs ranging the world-wide scene.

Thirty hours of school telecasts have been set aside for next fall and winter. The telecasts are seen each Tuesday and Thursday morning, beginning Oct. 13.

The full CBC-TV network consists of seven CBC-owned and 39 affiliated stations.

Canadians Use Sharp Words To Halt Ambulance Delay

NICOSIA (CP)—A Canadian ambulance carrying a wounded Turkish-Cypriot to hospital Monday was detained briefly by Greek-Cypriots in the village of Koccatis, 10 miles south of here.

The incident was reported in a Turkish-Cypriot information bulletin published Tuesday and confirmed later by a spokesman for the Canadian United Nations contingent on Cyprus.

The bulletin said a patrol of the Royal Canadian Dragoons was escorting the wounded man to Nicosia when stopped by Greek - Cypriots guarding the road.

The Greek-Cypriots said they wanted to search the ambulance and the Canadians had to use harsh words to put an end to the delay, the Turkish-Cypriot source said.

The Canadian spokesman said UN forces need not put up with any interference when they are transporting wounded persons.

"When we are transporting a wounded man, whether Greek-Cypriot or Turkish-Cypriot, we cannot tolerate any interference. We even have the right to open fire on persons who try to interfere with the transport of the wounded.

"The right to open fire extends to every case when we agree to guarantee anyone personal security," the spokesman added.

"When we agree to escort anyone, an attack against that person is interpreted as an attack against ourselves."

'Civic Night' To Be Observed By Chapter

The Quinte Chapter of the Industrial Management Clubs of Canada will be holding their last meeting of the 1963-64 season on Tuesday in the Pinnacle Room of the Hotel Quinte and is designated "Civic Night."

The guest speaker for the evening is Mr. Ron Noble, Industrial Commissioner for St. Catharines, Ontario. His subject will be "Industrial Promotion."

Mr. Noble was born in Hamilton and raised and educated in Toronto. He holds a B.A. degree in Sociology from the University of Toronto and his M.A. degree from the University of New Brunswick. He has spent some years in Adult Education, working with the National Film Board and the University of Alberta.

He began industrial development work in 1956 and worked for the Saint John, New Brunswick, Industrial Commission then moving to the Brantford, Ontario, Industrial Commission prior to proceeding to St. Catharines. He is married and has three daughters.

The subject is of intense interest to this area and it is anticipated that members of the City Council, the Industrial Commission and the Chamber of Commerce will be attending, also members of council of the surrounding townships.

'Health Insurance' for Plants

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

While you are hardening off those plants you bought in flats or grew in the cold frame prepare the bed for them. Plants need moisture and food to thrive and a thrifty plant resists pests. In other words put health insurance into the soil before you plant and you will need to do less spraying to fight plant pests.

Humus acts as a sponge to hold moisture readily available for plant roots. Dig in plenty of humus such as peat, ground cornecobs, leaf mold or compost. Spread it on the ground and broadcast a general purpose plant food over it. Turn under the humus as you dig and break up the soil to a fine tilth. Clay soil must be dug when fairly dry or it will bake in lumps and be unmanageable all summer. Large quantities of humus will help to correct this fault and prevent formation of a crust.

Flats of plants can be left outdoors in a sheltered place with light shade. The east side of a house or fence offers the benefit of the morning sun and protection from strong west winds. Place newspapers over tender plants during the morning for a few days until they gradually harden somewhat. Cover at night if frost is threatened.

Snapdragons and most of the perennial plants can be set out now but the tender annuals should not go in for a week or two.

Our present warm weather has brought all garden plants in a hurry but don't take a chance in setting out tender plants without hardening them. Large well-grown geraniums, coleus, dwarf dahlias and other bedding plants will be quickly injured in strong sun and wind even if the temperatures are well above freezing. Two to three weeks in light shade with protection from north and west wind is necessary if these plants came from the greenhouse.

Aphids appear with the first leaves on the roses. Spray every week to combat these pests. They suck the sap from the new growth and spread virus spores. Use a combination spray or dust which includes an insecticide and fungicide. Systemic poisons are useful. They eliminate the disfiguring residue of powder or spray. No rain can wash them off as they are in the plant tissues.

When transplanting flowers or vegetables water them an hour or two before replanting. Use a cupful or two of liquid plant food around the roots before firming down the soil.

New growth on clematis is quite brittle, and easily broken by the wind. Tie vine at frequent intervals to keep it from wind damage. Use soft string and tie with a knot to trellis then tie in the vine with enough slack to allow for growth.

Tuberous rooted begonias should have the flower buds nipped off until the plants have a mass of roots and good top growth. This throws the strength into building sturdy plants which will produce a steady supply of large and numerous blooms. Feed weekly with liquid fertilizer.

Before people had soap to clean their skins, they used oil or ashes, or rubbed with sand or pumice, a volcanic rock.

Youth Amazes Badminton Fraternity With His Ability

CALGARY (CP) — "He has the skill and determination to be the best," says badminton professional Dave Follinbee.

Object of his praise is Jamie Paulson, a shy, pint-sized 15-year-old who amazed the badminton fraternity last winter by emerging from the ranks of the unseeded to become the youngest-ever Canadian junior champion.

Jamie, a Calgary high school student, says his game is one of "keeping my opponent off balance." His instructors describe it as amazingly sound, especially in defensive manoeuvres.

"There is no doubt that Jamie worked harder than anyone I can recall for the junior championship and if he continues there's no telling how far he will go," says Follinbee, pro at the Calgary Glencoe Club.

Paulson has set his immediate sights on a spot as a member of Canada's 1968 Thomas Cup team in international competition.

"The junior title has been my goal since I started last year but now that I have achieved that I would like to play for Canada," he says.

UPSET TEAM MEMBER

The 124-pound dynamo says he would like to remain in junior competition for two more years, figuring he'll be stronger and better developed when he enters big-time competition at 17.

In the Canadian championships in Toronto in March, Jamie rolled through three convincing upsets in the men's open competition, knocking over Thomas Cup team member Bruce Rollick before losing to Torben Kops of Denmark in the men's competition ahead of his fourth round.

Out of senior play, Paulson continued his march in the junior competition. In the quarter-finals he met and defeated Calgarian Ken Delf, fourth-seeded player who earlier had beaten him in the city championship.

"This was my toughest match," he says. "It lasted 90 minutes and I won the final set 18-16."

From there it was through the semi-finals and finally a three-set victory over second-seeded Yves Pare of Montreal. Losing the first game as he had almost all through the competition, Paulson wore out his 19-year-old opponent and finished off with a 15-6 triumph.

TRAINING PROGRAM

Paulson and a crew of other Calgary youngsters including Delf owe much of their success to a program initiated by Follinbee and his staff during last summer's school holidays.

The training program was designed to teach shot-making skills and proper practice methods, conditioning the juniors so as to shorten the normal development period.

Paulson was one of 25 keen students willing to spend their spare time hitting badminton birds. First indication of success of the program came in February when Glencoe juniors captured nine of 10 trophies, Delf winning the Alberta junior crown.

It was around the beginning of this year, after less than 12 months, that Paulson began to show championship promise.

"Jamie has the potential to be the finest player in Canada if he is properly brought along," says Follinbee. "He mustn't burn himself out, however. It is possible for a player to develop too quickly, step into ability and ruin his game."

PENRHYDDUDRAETH (AP) With a few friends gathered about him, philosopher Bertrand Russell celebrated his 92nd birthday Monday at his home in this Welsh town. In a birthday statement issued in advance, Russell deplored U.S. policy in South Viet Nam, saw some hope in an easing of East-West tension but expressed fear of a nuclear war between Israel and the United Arab Republic.

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

They're back again!

Gentleman Jim Hady leads a troupe of wrestlers into town on Friday evening to usher in another season of the battling Behemoths.

Gentleman Jim, one of the nicer guys in the muscle-mess sport, is pitted against a Japanese gentleman of the mat by the name of Professor Hiroi.

From what we have seen of Japanese wrestlers in the past, Mr. Hady will have his pinkies full. The Nipponese are well versed in the noble art of muscle-twisting, bone-cracking catchholds and I have no doubt that the latest newcomer, Prof. Hiroi, is but a reasonable heavyweight copy of his noble predecessors.

Another favorite of this corner is Billy "Red" Lyons, who hails part-time from Hamilton. Billy tackled a stranger in this column, one Ilo Eskinson.

The ebony parbed "Black Destroyer" makes an early debut. He tangles with a reportedly unethical character, Chief Sumi Warcloud, a red brother who appears in all the brilliant habiliments of an Indian Chief.

Wrestling, following the trend of other sports in this city has not been overpoweringly successful because of the past few years. Time was when John Kaias, the Masked Marvel, Earl McCready, Lord Layton, Fred Atkins, The Whipper, and a dozen or so well-known tag teams would pack a couple of thousand howling fans in the area.

It's a good way to spend an evening if you're looking for sheer fun and entertainment. But don't keep your eyes glued on the big boys all the time. There's plenty of fun outside the ring.

Just watch the fans. That's the secret of how to enjoy yourself at a wrestling hassle. Because the dyed-in-the-wools can get more worked up than Leo Durocher arguing with an umpire.

The Joes and Janes in the pews have their favorites and it doesn't take you long to find out who's who. Just let some hairy-browed behemoth try to gouge an eye out of Whipper Billy Watson and the devil breaks loose.

Numerically and emotionally the gals who attend these muscle soirees surpass the males of the species when the going gets rough for their heroes.

They rise up in their seats screaming at the referee, and the alleged "villain" of the piece. Some of the harsher type will grit their teeth, stare or otherwise end dash to the ring spree to recite their opinions. With little to do in the air they hurl epithets at the referee and naturally the "villain."

I remember some years ago a very excited redheaded teener who carried a cane with her, rushed ringside and jabbed the villain in buttocks. He jumped a foot or so and whirled around to face his attacker. What I didn't know at the time was the young lady had inserted a pin-point-ist in the end of the cane.

I have seen other members of the fair sex toss boxes, shoes, and on occasional purse in the general direction of the ring.

And should the villain perchance win the bout, there's where mischief shines. She will rush to the avenue where the wrestlers are known to reach the dressing rooms and berate the bad guy in no uncertain terms. Some of the braver ones might clobber him with a purse or a folded newspaper.

One, I recall, attempted to "douse" a lighted cigarette on a prominent part of a "villain's" anatomy. She hit the target and the wrestler hit the rafters.

The law intervened and escorted the gal out of the arena, but if I ever saw what they call "the look of the cat that ate the canary," that lady wore it.

Opens Here June 15

Eastern Senior Baseball

The Belleville Senior Baseball Club will open its 1964 Eastern Ontario Senior League schedule at home against the Oshawa Merchants on June 1, it is announced this morning.

Oshawa won the Lakeshore group title last season, ousting Belleville in a hard-fought series, and the local boys will be out for some measure of revenge in the opener here.

Belleville plans on playing most of at least some home games on Monday nights this year, hence the Monday, June 1 opening date. Game time will be 8.15 under the lights at the Fairgrounds.

The league schedule will open on Saturday, May 30, with Ajax visiting Cannifton. Only the first week of the schedule has been drawn up at this time and plans call for the remainder to be arranged during the first week of June.

Teams participating in the league are Ajax, Oshawa, Little Britain, Cannifton, Brockville and Belleville.

The Belleville club, which has another open practice scheduled for the Fairgrounds tomorrow (Thursday) night at 6.15, is presently selling season's tickets at $5 each to help cover operating expenses. Tickets are available from any team player or can be secured downtown at Maher's Shoe Store.

A team spokesman said this morning that the club is shaping up well in workouts but "we are still holding open practices and wishing to try out."

As things look now, the Seniors have a four-man pitching staff consisting of Bill Latchford and Gordie Vaughn, both from last year, plus newcomers Bill Barberstock and Brian Beatty. Barberstock, a big, hard-throwing chucker, was with the Ontario finalists, Belleville Jones Motors, last year.

Larry Mawby will be handling the catching chores, ably backed up by Bob Moon, the latter of which will also see action in the outfield.

Moe Hunter, Pat Anastine, Pete Weston, Mike Chatland, Dick Hurst and Gord St. Louis make for an interchangeable infield at the present time with Hurst also likely to see outfield action.

Outfielders will include Larry Soule, Stu Muirhead, Duffy Follwell, John McKibbon, Don Leitner and possibly Rick Locke.

The appointment of a manager and coach is expected shortly.

Sanford Tosses 4-Hit Shutout

Giants Regain Lead From Phillies

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco Giants are wild in a scoreless duel with Dennis Bennett until the seventh when Bennett walked his third batter, followed his third hit, moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Del Crandall's single. Sanford drove Crandall in with the second run of the inning, stroking a single that was bobbled by Wes Covington.

Hart went 4-for-4 on the night, driving in the final run in the eighth after Willie Mays walked. Mays walked three times and was 0-for-1 officially as his average dipped to .404.

Sanford's the help from Broglio in the seventh, the Cubs got some help in the eighth, scoring what turned out to be the decisive run when Ron Santo reached base on Dick Great's error and eventually scored on Dick Bartell's single. Santo drove in four runs for the Cardinals, two with a homer. Billy Williams and Santo homered in support of Ellsworth, 3-4.

SANFORD GOT HOT

Tracewski singled to the two runs with the bases loaded in the ninth for the Dodgers, then doubled and scored in the sixth. Tracewski's key single provided Phil Ortega with a 5-1 lead and he held on a ninth-inning rally for the late innings. The Dodgers Ron Perranoski in the first without a hit, using an infield out and a pair of walks.

Spahn and Sam Ellis of the Reds were locked in a 1-1 tie until the eighth when Milwaukee pulled in front on homers by Lee Maye and Joe Torre. Rico Carty homered in the ninth for the Braves while Gordy Coleman connected for the Reds. Spahn allowed only six hits in bringing his record to 3-3. Ellis is 3-1.

The Colts had not scored in 25 innings when Al Spangler hit a two-run single in the fifth inning. Walt Bond homered in the sixth accounted for the other run. Bob Bruce won it for a 3-1 record.

Sanford, now 4-3, was locked

Defeats Lightfoots 4-1

City Hotel Wins Opener

City Hotel scored all their runs on home runs while clipping Lightfoot Construction 4-1 in the opening game of the Belleville Commercial Softball League last night.

Dave Feeney pitched a four-hitter to smother last year's championship Lightfoots crew and he got all the support necessary on two-run homers by veteran Doug Hull and Jack Martin.

The winners scored their first after Jack Martin got aboard via a walk, stole second, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Hull's single.

Hull added a double and a single to his homer for the night's top hitting honors. Doug Hull had his circuit smash with singles going to Gord Smith, Ed Donovan and Dave Feeney to complete the City Hotel hit total.

Don Smith collected a two-bagger for the losers and singles went to Rusty Garvin, Don Dolan and Ken Brooks.

A strong wind blowing across the Prince Charles school grounds made the task of catching fly balls a most difficult one with several of the games hits aided by the breeze.

Two games tonight have Tu-Haar Daubers at Point Anne while Belvedere Hotel meets Bleed Diamond Cheese at the Alemite.

Addresses CAHA

'Bunny' To Explain 'Fourth Place'

By STUART LAKE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association tidies up its plans for a national team today.

It's also the day when J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, is expected to explain his mathematics which resulted in Canada being relegated to fourth and not third place in the 1964 Olympics.

Tonight, delegates and guests to the 20th annual meeting of the CAHA will put aside their differences to attend a jubilee banquet. Prime Minister Pearson is to be guest speaker.

Tuesday's sessions were devoted to amending some of the association's regulations and rules, and to the presentation of financial and other reports.

URGE CONFORMITY

Delegates also made another bid to force National Hockey League-sponsored teams playing in CAHA ranks to follow the same icing-the-puck rule as other amateurs. Such a motion was passed to have all teams follow the rule that play stops when the puck passes the goal line. The pro teams have insisted that play sponsored clubs follow the NHL rule that a defending player must touch the puck before play is blown.

Secretary - manager Gordon Juckes said in his financial report that the CAHA expects a $60,000 drop in gross revenue from the 1964 Memorial Cup playoffs. Operations in the year ending Dec. 31, 1963, resulted in net loss of $7,228 and the 1964 deficit probably would be blacker in the 1961 report.

Juckes also said that he was concerned about the decrease in the numbers of older boys playing hockey. While registration of players increased by 1877 last season, most of them were concentrated in the younger divisions—Bantam and midget.

Ontario, Alberta and the Maritimes suffered declines in membership. The other branches reported increases and Quebec was the bright spot with almost 7,000 new registrations.

SALES AHEAD

EDMONTON (CP) — Season ticket sales for Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference have reached 6,700, "just a little ahead of last year," Norm Mitchell, assistant general manager, said Tuesday. Eskimos, cellar-dwellers with a record of two wins and 14 losses last year, sold 8,300 tickets before the 1963 season.

Finlay Sues For Lease, Fireworks

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley began court action Tuesday to reinstate an old lease covering use of Municipal Stadium by his Kansas City Athletics baseball club and to permit resumption of firework displays at the stadium.

His attorney, Charles C. Shafer of Kansas City, filed the documents in Jackson County circuit court as part of Finley's continuing fight with city council.

One document asked that the court enforce a seven-year lease for his use of the stadium instead of the four-year lease he signed after the American League ordered him to reach an agreement with the city. The seven-year lease contained a clause permitting Finley to move the team any year the attendance fell below 850,000. The present lease contains no escape clause.

He also filed a notice to city officials that he was seeking a writ of mandamus which would require issuance of a license for fireworks. Having received protests against the sleep-disturbing noise, the council stopped the fireworks which had been set off to celebrate Kansas City victories and home runs.

Palmer Tops Loot List

Dunedin, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer's victory in the Okiehoma City Open Monday moved him within $2,000 of his accustomed seat at the top of the PGA money-winners' list.

The $7,000 he picked up gave him a total of $44,298. Jack Nicklaus, second to Palmer last season, compared to $46,925 for the leading money winner, Jack Nicklaus.

In third place was Bill Casper, who has won $30,891, followed by Dave Marr, $23,344; Juan Rodriguez, $22,171; Mason Rudolph $22,032; Al Geiberger $18,299; Tommy Jacobs $17,437; Julius Boros $17,113; and Gary Player $17,000.

Tradeaus Trim Trenton

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Tradeaus Motors, scoring early and often, ran their B. and D. Softball record to 3-0, with a loosely-played 13-8 victory over the Trenton Community Printers at the CNRA Park last night.

Trenton makes its home debut in an 8.15 start against Belleville Juniors at Bay Shore Park tonight.

The losers fielded almost the exact team which captured the league pennant last season but the Printers were no match for the hit-happy Tradeau squad. Errors and a playing field that left much to be desired, especially the long outfield grass, did little to help the matter from the player's or spectator's viewpoint.

Tradeaus scored four runs in the first inning with the ball around and allowed Trenton to get those back in the second but then moved ahead to stay. They potted two runs in the second, three in the fourth and again in the fifth and eighth innings. The losers scored twice in each of the sixth and ninth.

Bobby Green pitched the route on the Tradeau billhop. He ended up with a seven-hit effort, three of them coming in the ninth. The veterans southpaw struck out four and walked six.

Bob Butterfield was the Trenton starter and loser. He allowed nine runs and nine hits in 3⅓ innings, fanning three and passing two. Howie Cole cleaned up, tagged for six more hits while whiffing three and walking three. The 15 hits gave Tradeaus a total of 28 in two games.

Bert Faulkner was the top man at the plate for Harold Reid's Tradeau squad, with a double and three singles and four runs batted in. Bobby Green, Bill McGuire and Bob Wannamaker each collected a double and single while Rick Locke rapped a pair of one-baggers. Gary Duggan, with a home run, Paul Zokos, with a triple, and Ralph Plane, with a single, rounded out the attack.

Don Cole had two doubles, Al Beausgrand two singles, Roger Tenks and Will Kennedy a triple each and Len Mowatt a double to account for the Trenton safeties.

A disputed call at second base and Duggan's home run down the right field line were the key plays for Tradeaus in the first frame. Two walks, two errors and Beausgrand's base hit helped Trenton tie it. Doubles by Faulkner and McGuire, Wannamaker's single and another error showed the winners ahead to stay in the second. Green, Locke, Wannamaker and Faulkner hit safely in the three-run fourth and after that it was never in doubt.

Drake's triple off the tip of Zakos' glove plus back to back doubles by Cole and Mowatt put the pressure on in the ninth but Tradeau's turned a liner to third and a double play to wrap it up.

Trenton—Taylor ss; Drake 1b; D. Cole c; Mowatt rf; L. Wannamaker cf; Beausgrand 2b; Kennedy c; Simmons lf; Butterfield p; Cole p.

Both Sparks and Ross are rated in the top 10 in the Canadian welterweight lists.

Twins Whip Yankees In 13 Innings

Score Was 7-2

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Charley Finley, who is busy suing Kansas City, these days, ought to start his legal beagles working on an indictment against an ex-employee on hit-and-run charges.

Finley may not have had time to notice but his ballclub ran into an old friend in Baltimore Tuesday night and the collision was devastating—for the Athletics.

Norm Siebern, who used to do his stuff in Finley gold and green, saw his ex-mates for the first time and he gave them plenty to tell the old boss about.

The rangy first baseman stroked three hits, the last one a game-winning homer in the 10th inning, as the Orioles slipped the Athletics 3-2. His first-inning single drove in another run and he scored the Orioles' other marker on Boog Powell's double after walking in the eighth.

The three hits ran Siebern's average to .336. Jim Gentile, the man Finley got for Siebern, went 1-for-4 for Kansas City, propping his average to .267. As they say in court, "next case."

BOSOX WIN.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston Red Sox pushed across four runs in a weird ninth inning to nip Los Angeles Angels 4-3, Chicago White Sox outlasted Cleveland Indians 6-5, Detroit Tigers topped Washington Senators 5-2 and Minnesota Twins went 13 innings before whipping New York Yankees 7-2.

Sieb ern connected against John Wyatt leading off the 10th to win it for Dick Hall. Baltimore's third pitcher. Orioles' starter Bob Roberts carried a 2-1 lead into the ninth but Manny Jimenez doubled and Charley Lau singled to tie it before Stu Miller came on and halted the rally.

Bo Belinsky was breezing with a three-hitter for Los Angeles when the Red Sox staged a Hollywood ending to pull their victory out.

Leading 3-0 with two out and bases on in the bottom of the ninth, Belinsky seemed home free. But he walked Dick Stuart and after Tony Conigliaro doubled, it was a rage by Bill Rigney brought in Barry Latman.

Latman walked Bob Tillman and then forced in a run by hitting Roman Mejias. In came Don Lee and pinch hitter Dalton Jones rocked his 3-2 pitch for a base-clearing double to win it.

ENDS RALLY.

Don Mossi fanned pinch hitter Johnny Romano to end a Cleveland rally in the ninth inning and preserve the White Sox victory. The Indians came up with two runs on only one hit in the sixth, knocking out six starter Early Wynn and reliever Roy Wilhelm before Mossi ended it. Detroit stretched its winning streak to four straight as Jim Wickersham became the first Tiger pitcher to win five games. Norm Cash and Bill Bruton homered against Washington loser Russ Nixon. Don Zimmer homered for the Senators.

Minnesota and New York struggled through 12 innings tied at 2-2 before the Twins finally broke open the 13th. An RBI double by Rich Rollins, who had homered earlier, and a sitting of 18 1-3 scoreless innings snapped by the Twin rally.

Every Race Is A Drama!

By STEPHEN SCOTT

VANCOUVER (CP)—With an audience of thousands eavesdropping, Jack Short pursues a love affair that began when she was 12.

To a generation of racing fans on the Pacific coast, Short has been a perennially youthful voice with a sultry "and away they go-o-o . . ." on the track public address system heralds the start of another horse race.

But for Short every start is the beginning of a little drama, the umpteenth such he has observed up and down the coast since he ran away from home at 12 to "harnastorm and gyp" with horses. ("I lied about my age—I said I was 14.")

Short, a pioneer in the field, has been broadcasting races here for track crowds and over radio for 31 years. The first year he was a simulated recreation with sound effects from a broadcasting studio. For the last 20 he has broadcast from cubicles on the roofs of racetrack stands, hat on the back of his head, description flowing from beneath a trim mustache.

The consistently high level of his broadcasts reflects a personal excitement that is contagious.

"I love thoroughbreds," he says simply.

EACH A DRAMA

"Each race is a drama. I know what is going on down there," he says, speaking from 40 years experience with horses and horsemen.

"A rider may have to win for some reason. An owner may need a win to meet a feed bill. I know horses. I live with horses. I know that some are courageous and some not so courageous. These make the race interesting."

Short's love affair started when an owner in his native Victoria let kids ride his horses in exchange for performing light chores. Soon Short was spending more time at the stables than at school and eventually he ran away to follow the horses.

He was a jockey at tracks from B.C. to Mexico until he became too heavy.

"In those days you lived and slept with the horses. This was the gypsy life. . . . I loved the life. It got in my blood. There were no phone bills, no taxes to pay."

TRIED DANCING

When he had to give up riding for a living the gypsy life led him briefly into stage dancing along the fairs circuit followed by the horses.

Soon he became the youngest horse trainer in North America, then an owner-of a horse called Mary Dear.

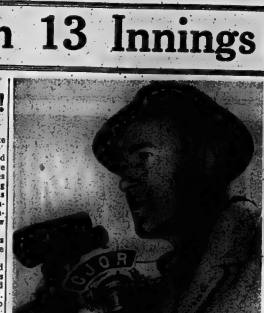
Once he put his entire savings of $500 plus $9 pocket money on Mary Dear to win. She came second.

"I didn't have a nickel to bet two weeks later when the horse was due and said $2 on a $2 bet."

After roaming the race circuit, sometimes with hundreds of dollars in his pocket sometimes flat broke, Short landed in San Francisco in 1930 with total assets of 25 cents.

"I was really frightened for the first time in my life and I asked myself 'What am I doing with my life?'"

BECAME MAESTRO



He got a job selling refrigerators and in two years was leading the field in Depression-hit northern California. In his spare time he organized a dance band known as Jack Short's Cavaliers.

"The fact that I couldn't read a note of music was strictly coincidental. I waved a baton before seven or eight of these guys and got by."

Then, U.S. immigration authorities got tough and he returned to Vancouver, landing a job selling time on radio for sponsors.

He started broadcasting one race a day, one of the first regular radio race broadcasts in North America, although at first it was a studio recap.

"Sometimes the sound effects man didn't realize what kind of noise racing fans make and the broadcasts would sound like the second battle of the Somme," he recalls.

"EACH RACE IS A DRAMA" — Vancouver race-track broadcaster Jack Shortt is no less excited than his listeners as the horses charge toward the finish line, despite more than 40 years of association with racing. A former barnstorming jockey, Short started doing radio recreations of races, with crude sound effects, in 1933 and next year was made public address announcer at the track. (CP Photo)

'Little Voice' Tells Him

Patterson Clay's Next Rival

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—World heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay says the little voice that tells him when an opponent will fall now tells him his next rival will be ex-champion Floyd Patterson.

Clay said, however, that he doesn't always listen to the little voice.

"He'll fall in round one," the voice says. "If you don't get him in one, make it two." Clay added.

At a press conference at the Ghana Press Club, Clay said rather more seriously that he would defend his title early next year because of United States taxation and that he would welcome an arrangement enabling him to defend the title in Ghana but he didn't know his next opponent.

Asked what he thought about a separate black state in America, Clay said: "It's, the only way which we can get respect. We don't want segregation; we want separation. Nations won't let black and white mix. Our leader, Elijah Muhammed, teaches us—and I believe he's right—that the integration programs are not effective."

Minor Baseball Results

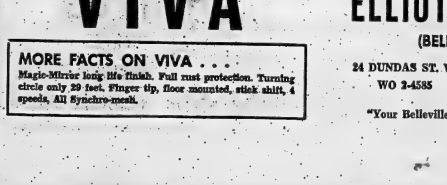
Fountain Park Drive-In edged the Bad Boys 4-3 in the Peewee division of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association last night.

Meanwhile, the Tyke group was under way with Jaycees clobbering the Yankees, 16-1.

In the Peewee game, at Parkdale, Fountain Park scored all four runs in the second inning. Bad Boys got one in the second and two in the third and had two men cut down trying to steal home in the last inning.

Jim Woods pitched three hit ball for the winners, with Lovelace catching, while Wayne Farrell also threw a three-hitter for the losers. Ron Jury, who cracked a double, was his batting mate.

S. Buck collected two Fountain Park hits and Christopher got the other.



In the Tyke, Jaycees banged out 11 hits, three of them by center Tom Morgan. R. Baker and D. Loucks combined to pitch three-hit ball and struck out 15 between them.

Barry Lee and Martin Theal formed the Yankee battery.

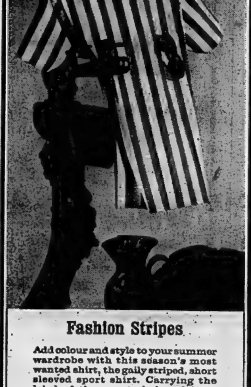
TAKE FIFTH WIN

MONTREAL (CP)—The touring Scottish international rugby team marked up its fifth straight in Canada, finishing its Canadian tour by crushing Quebec province all-stars 45-3 Tuesday night. The visitors held the edge over the Quebec team on every play, slashing through and around them on the ground, overpowering them on the length and accuracy of their forward kicks and coming up with the ball on nearly every scrum and lineout.

Canadian Champion To Retire



QUEBEC (CP)—Marcel Gendron, Canadian junior lightweight boxing champion and former bantamweight titlist, has decided to retire, it was learned Tuesday night.

His June 4 match in Cornwall against Montreal's Gaby Mancini has been cancelled.

Louis Belanger, Gendron's manager, said the 25-year-old fighter had been thinking about retirement for some time. He plans to get married in the fall and wants to concentrate on getting a promotion with the brewery that employs him here.

Gendron has a record of 36 wins—16 by knockout—and six losses in 30 professional fights.

The junior lightweight division —with a 130-pound weight limit —was created in 1962 and Gendron became the first titleholder Feb. 19 that year with a unanimous 15-round decision before a hometown crowd, over André Milette of Sorel, Que.

'Eagle' Cost $250,000
'Cup' Yacht Is Launched

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)— The 12-metre yacht American Eagle, built at a cost of $250,000 for the sole purpose of winning the America's Cup, was launched Tuesday before a crowd of 2,000.

Flags of every hue fluttered from the rigging above her gleaming white hull. A cheer went up, but six-year-old Elise du Pont, her face and dress spattered with champagne, burst into tears.

Elise dropped the bottle on her first swing at the bow of the 65-foot yacht. Her grandmother, Mrs. Pierre du Pont of Wilmington, Del., picked it up and helped her swing again, but the bottle refused to break. Then Pierre du Pont, head of the 41-member syndicate that is financing the Eagle, lent a hand and the bottle broke with a great splash all over Elise.

Skipper Bill Cox and his crew of 11 hope to have the Eagle under sale Thursday. The Eagle must outsale three other American yachts to qualify for the cup races against the British entry expected to be either Kurrewa V or Sovereign.

The 115-year-old event will begin Sept. 15 off Newport, R.I.

Top Sportsman Dies at 64

TORONTO (CP) — Funeral services will be held Thursday for Arthur Jennings Halliwell, 64, one of Canada's top sportsmen, who died Monday night.

Born in Manchester, England, he came to Canada at the age of six. He was known as one of the best soccer players ever developed in Canada and played professionally in Scotland, the first Canadian player ever signed by a United Kingdom team.

Horseracing was his second love and Halliwell became one of the top owners of thoroughbred racing horses in Canada. In 1961, when he retired from the racing business, he owned 31 horses.

Announce Changes In CNE Swim

TORONTO (CP)—George Duthie, manager of the Canadian National Exhibition sports department, Tuesday announced some changes for the revived swim across Lake Ontario opening day of the CNE Aug. 21.

Duthie said the starting time of the 32-mile swim has been changed to 6 p.m. Aug. 20, six hours earlier than previous lake swims, in hope of "avoiding the chaos and confusion that prevailed in other swims."

Each swimmer will be provided with a boat. Five navy ships, all lit up, will help the swimmers stay on course.

Duthie also announced a $50 entry fee from each swimmer in a move to restrict the swim to legitimate contestants and discourage publicity seekers.

Starting point will be the Fort Dalhousie Beach at St. Catherines. If swimmers move in a straight line across the lake they will cover about 32 miles before reaching the CNE shore here.

There will be $17,500 in cash prizes—$7,000 to the winner.

CAHA Lost $57,896 On Magazine

OTTAWA (CP) — Secretary-manager Gordon Juckes said Tuesday the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association suffered a loss of $57,896 on its magazine Hockey Monthly.

The magazine discontinued publication last year after CAHA branches indicated dissatisfaction with the association collecting subscription fees in connection with the issuing of playing cards.

Juckes, presenting his financial statement to delegates attending the CAHA's 56th annual meeting, also reiterated the association suffered a $7,228 loss on its other operations in the year ended Dec. 31, 1963.

He said expenses incurred by the University of British Columbia team during its training tour and wile in Austria for the 1964 Olympics amounted to about $90,000. Of this, the CAHA contributed $22,500, a government grant of $25,000 and private donations of about $40,000 made up the remainder.

Battling a Big Black Marlin

By RICHARD ALDEN KNIGHT

BAHIA DE PINAS, R.P. — The hourly radio check from Club de Pesca was dull. . . no fish on throughout the fleet that trolled busily along the face of the reef. I sprawled in the fighting chair, eyes half-closed, rocking gently with the ground swell coming off our stern. The port rigger line plunged deep as the live bonito attached to it swam around in the depths looking appetizing . . .

Wheeeeeeeeeeee! squalled the reel as line melted off it from the force of the strike. I grabbed the big rod and clipped my harness to its lugs, freespooling as I settled myself again. Then, as Jaime gunned the Terry Wood II at full throttle, I slammed the tip heavily into the fish three times.

The harness bit satisfactorily into my shoulder muscles and I checked the drag as Fausto, the mate, handed me cotton fighting gloves. I still was convinced it was a big shark . . the fish had not shown itself since being hooked. The fight was deep and heavy with none of the dash and verve of a billfish war. After 10 minutes, I wanted to cut him off but Jaime's pleading kept me from it. Then the line started to rise, slowly at first and then sharply.

OUT OF THE SEA

The fish surfaced at 10:32. . . I had had him on 12 minutes. He reared up out of the sea with jaws gleaming as his massive head slashing a bill about the resembled a billy club. He smashed back in a welter of spray only to show again, a wallowing rush across the surface with blood streaming from his gills.

"It's a marlin!" I shouted. "A great, big, lovely Black Marlin!"

A few moments passed — or did they? I checked my watch and was surprised to find that I had been on the fish more than an hour now. The fury of the sharks crossed my mind . . all that early bleeding might bring them running. Sweat trickled down my chest and back and Fausto hovered behind me, handing cokes and cigarettes to me from time to time.

Weariness in a big game fight shows itself in many ways. In the fish, it is the first time you turn his head when he wants to go elsewhere; in me, the warning prickles of fatigue in the calf and thigh muscles and then that I had better get on top of the fish if I want to win it.

The fish was deep now, swimming heavily in the tide below. His big tail thrashed wearily as he moved us east towards the Club de Pesca. I tightened down on the drag even more now, fighting the fish with my legs and the shoulder harness to save my arms for the heavy work to come. Then the fight changed suddenly. The line cut back towards the boat and only adroit boathandling on Jaime's part saved us a cut-off. The marlin surged off in a deep, determined run and Fausto dumped a pail-ful of water over the hot reel, a second one I bumped in the chair, bucking the fish, watching the big tip pound each time he shook his head. Then he turned.

HEAVY WORK BEGINS

I reared back in the chair and started the heavy work. Pump and reel, pump and reel. Now the line was nearly straight up and down. Bending into the task, I pumped and lifted his huge body from the depths. I eased the drag even tighter, feeling the line twang like a banjo string. Where was the double line? Where was that blasted fish?

I noticed Jaime vault lightly off the flying bridge to take the flying gaff from Fausto. I saw Fausto reach and then set the cable leader. Together they lifted the fish the last fifteen feet. The big tail came out of the water off the stern and flailed. Then Jaime sank the flying gaff hook solidly and I sank back in the chair, Unclipping the harness from the reel, I stood up trying to take the kinks out of my back and shoulder.

They had a tailrope on him now and the two of them hoisted him out of the water with the gin pole tackle. As I admired his length and depth, I checked my watch once again. . .four hours flat!

Accepting the handshakes and the back slaps, I grinned at Jaime as I sipped a coke.

"Take me home, amigo. Take me home!"

Morse Mimics the Cynics

"If It's Done in Canada--Then It Can't Be Any Good!"

By DAVE PIKE

TORONTO (CP)—"If it's done in Canada, it can't be any good," said Barry Morse as he paced a corner of his living room. "Isn't that what most Canadians think?"

Morse, who devotes most of his time now to acting in U.S. TV series episodes, was referring specifically to CBC-TV productions. He used to turn up on the CBC so often he became known as the human test pattern.

"If the CBC does a good show, it tends to be apologetic about it. If a Canadian sees it and likes it, he tends to think that it could have been done better in the States, and that's assuming he believes it's been done in Canada."

One of Morse's favorite stories concerns the time a cab driver was taking him to one of the CBC studios here. "Gee, Mr. Morse, you were real good on that show last night. You had the CBC can't do a show like that." Morse couldn't convince the driver that the show actually had been done by the CBC until he took him into the studio and proved it.

Morse recently taped a one-hour production of Samuel Beckett's Waiting for Godot in which he plays Vladimir. It will be seen on CBC-TV next season.

Neither he nor any other actor could expect to do Godot on any of the ratings-reeled U.S. networks. He praises the CBC for its adventurous productions and their high quality, but takes it I task for "serving up chunks of art in prescribed sizes," suggesting that one would have expected at least a 90-minute production of Godot.

STARS IN SERIES

Morse has little difficulty obtaining work on the various series on U.S. TV. He has acted in almost all of the dramatic ones past and present—so he isn't reluctant about occasionally snapping at the hand that used to feed him.

He has a starring role in The Fugitive, seen weekly on the ABC-TV network and in Canada on CBLT-Toronto. CKCK Regina recently was chosen as TV Guide's favorite new series by the magazine's readers.

Morse appears in about one-third of this season's 26 episodes — this agreement leaves him free to do other work—as detective Lieut. Gerard, the relentless pursuer of Richard Kimble, an ostensible doctor wrongfully convicted of his wife's murder. Morse won't catch him 'this season because the series has been renewed for the fall.

Kimble eats up thousands of miles criss-crossing the continent in search of the real "one-armed" killer. Morse covers a lot of territory himself in real life—200,000 miles a year on acting assignments in Hollywood, New York and Toronto, which he still calls home.

NO TYPE CASTING

Morse first appeared on television shortly after the BBC began telecasting in 1937 and has been on view regularly ever since.

He never plays an Englishman on U.S. TV, despite the fact he was born in Cockney in a London slum in 1920 and has been a Canadian citizen for years. He's it's challenging not to play everything from an Australian scientist on The Nurses to a Chicago gangster on The Untouchables.

Two years ago, his wife, actress Jessie Morgan, estimated he had played more than 2,000 TV and radio roles in his career, and he has done scores since.

The money he earns in the U.S. is good, enabling him to take on choice, and low-paying, roles on CBC.

His wife, whom he met and married in 1939 while touring with a road company in Britain, is a familiar stage, TV and radio actress in Canada—Daughter Melanie, 16, and son Hayward, 16, are youthful veterans on TV. Hayward has "taken vows, as an actor," and sister Melanie has no deathless ambition to act but is interested in the production end.

Although Barry hasn't done the single stage work of late as he would have liked, he will appear in a full-length production of Man and Superman in Boston this summer.

He has always been "desperately interested" in playing at Stratford, Ont., but various complications, one of them being that he doesn't fit it off too well with artistic director Michael Langham, have prevented this.

CONTRACTED YR

Morse, now "doing very well, thank you," was earning 15 shillings a week as an errand boy Add — IF IT'S

Campbell Speaks To RMC Cadets

KINGSTON (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, addressed more than 500 cadets Monday night at the Royal Military College on the importance of athletics.

The only mention remotely connected with his job was when he jokingly said: "I feel a lot safer here than I usually do."

The occasion was the RMC's annual athletics awards night.

Ron Vielleux of Cookshire, Que., was awarded the Prince of Wales Cup, presented to the best all-round cadet during the entire four-year course. Fred Sutherland of Toronto and Rick Savin of Oakville jointly won the Governor General Cup for the best all-round athlete of the current year.

Chicago Franchise Bid Doomed

CHICAGO (AP)—The bid for a Chicago franchise in the American Football League by Nash J. Dowdle, Texas oil man, appears doomed because of his specific preference for Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium as a playing site.

Dowdle, whose wealthy syndicate already has deposited $25,000 earnest money for the franchise, said in a brochure he would withdraw his petition if he could not lease the stadium.

Big Ten commissioner Bill Reed and Northwestern officials immediately pointed out the Big Ten has a regulation against use of conference athletic facilities by pro sports teams. Reed said however, the subject would be discussed during the Big Ten's spring business meeting at Evanston, Ill., Thursday and Friday.

Savior Of British Cricket ?

Meet The Weather Master !

LONDON (AP)—Move over, Adam with Eden's Rock. Make room for the "weather master" from South Africa who wants to improve Britain's notoriously damp winter weather and make cricket wicket's less sticky.

He turned up in response to an effort by the Warwickshire Cricket Club to find an effective way to protect the wicket in bad weather.

For the uninformed, the wicket is an oblong stretch of fine grass on which the cricket ball is bowled toward the batsman. The wicket also is the name of the stumps, topped by cross pieces, at which the bowler aims.

Rain can affect the wicket—the grass, that is. And either wicket is considered most undesirable by cricketers.

The Warwickshire club had offered a $1,400 prize in a national competition to find an effective cover for the wicket.

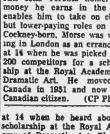
The unnamed South African said he'd like to come to England to start a weather company to give more sunshine in winter and summer. I do not think it would be difficult to master England's weather."

BENEFITS COUNTRY

The letter said his International Sunshine Company could help solve the Warwickshire problem but also would be of benefit to Britain.

The writer added that Britain's freezing spell last year took place because the British weather bureau refused him financial aid.

He said he was taught how "to master the cold" by studying the master from England" in 1927.



"If drift the smog and surplus rain and I break up diseased and malformed clouds," the weather master explained.

"For many years I have fetched surplus rain clouds, smog, etc., from Canada, America, the British Isles and Europe and have broken droughts in Africa, South America, Australia, China and India. I give you better sunshine by taking away the surplus clouds."

Sidney Harkness, assistant secretary of the cricket club, said he felt he should not reveal the weather master's name because of competition regulations.

And, keeping his umbrella tightly rolled, Harkness added he did not think the proposition would fall in with the main aim of the competition, which was to cover the pitch with an easily moved unit.

POINTS TO REE

OTTAWA (CP)—Gordon Aiken (PC — Parry Sound - Muskoka) said Tuesday night that Canada's cost of living last year showed a greater increase in five years and he hoped the government was concerned. E. J. Benson (L—Kingston), parliamentary secretary to Finance Minister Gordon, replied that while the cost of living didn't rise in the Conservative years from 1957 to 1961, unemployment "increased rather tragically."

The Tom Dooley Story Will Have Dean Jones as Star

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Alabama-born Dean Jones leaves next month for Madrid and South Viet Nam to play the leading role in The Tom Dooley Story. It's the best chance of his career, but he was reluctant to take it.

"How do you portray a saint?" asked Jones.

Dooley, a dedicated navy doctor, turned his back on the prospect of a prosperous practice at home to return to Laos and try to lead medical assistance.

"I found out that Dooley was an intensely human being," Jones said. "He had a whale of a temper and an ego that was as big as a barrel. I repeatedly tried to use his altruistic nature behind a flip image. He seemed to be afraid that people would get maudlin about him.

"I had worried that he would have been cast to be a one-dimensional character. He isn't that at all."

READ ALL HIS BOOKS

Jones has read all Dooley's books. He has seen all the film on Dooley he could find, including two television documentaries and some navy footage.

"The navy stuff was the most useful" said Jones, "because it caught him unposed. The camera panned around and there he was, treating a wound with bound feet. That gave me a chance to observe the real essence of the man."

Dooley was only 34 when he died of cancer in a New York hospital Jan. 18, 1961.

An Asian village has been constructed on the plains outside Madrid, and most shooting days for Tom Dooley will take place there. Interiors will be made at the Bronston studios in Madrid, with a few weeks of exteriors in South Viet Nam and Bangkok, Thailand.

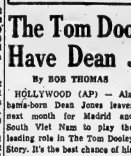
Negro Performers Getting More Work in TV Dramas

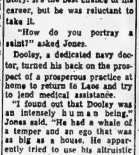
By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1962-64 television season has just about run its course.



It will be well-remembered for the coverage of the terrible events following the assassination of president Kennedy Nov. 22.

But it can be a memorable year for another reason: Negro performers began to turn up frequently in television dramas and sponsors began using Negroes in commercials.



Last week, West Side, cancelled after a season, had a Negro actress as a prominent regular. A teacher in the Mr. Novak series was a Negro.

Reginald Rose, creator of The Defenders, which always has used Negro performers as principal characters, said recently there still was a way to go. He said he does not feel free "to cast a Negro in a villainous role" and suggested the Negro's position would be secure only when such casting does not draw complaints.

The two-network boycott of next Monday's Emmy awards show on NBC is not expected to interfere with the star-casting aspects of the program. NBC expects all nominees for awards except for 13 ABC and CBS employees nominated in the news,

AT THE PARK — Tony Randall in "The Brass Bottle" which opens at the Park Theatre today and continues for a week. Randall appears in the role of Harold Ingledew, who accidentally releases a genie (Burl Ives) from a brass bottle. Ingledew and the genie find fun in the Universal picture in color. Starting Thursday at the Park Theatre for its first show, Ingledew is seen with Barbara Eden as Jeannie. "Mr. Ed" Ed Kemmy Down on the Farm."

AT THE PARK — Marjorie Main as "Ma" and Pa Kettle Down On The Farm," with Percy Kilbride, continues at the Park Theatre for the same program. Starting Thursday at the Park Theatre for its first showing, Tony Randall, Burl Ives and Barbara Eden.

Track Will Keep 50 Race Dates

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Miles Park officials said Tuesday they probably would be able to run their scheduled 50-day summer racing meeting beginning Friday despite a fire that killed at least 29 thoroughbreds.

Horace Wade, general manager of the track, said sufficient horses would probably be available for the meeting.

He said 22 horses were killed Monday in the flames that swept 13 barns. Six others died when they were destroyed because of injuries. One horse, Sizzling Will, fell dead in his stall after pandemonium gallops around the grounds. Five to eight others remained to be accounted for.

Physical damage to the barns was estimated at $150,000. There is no estimate of the cost of the dead animals.

Pleads Guilty To Charge Of Procuring

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Theresa Ethel, 36, of St. Catharines pleaded guilty Tuesday to a charge of procuring an abortion on a woman from New York state and was remanded to May 29 for sentence.

Magistrate Harley D. Hallett was told the accused charged $300 for bringing about an abortion March 11 for Mrs. Inge Westerfield of Little Falls, N.Y., who died a day later in hospital here.

Mrs. Ethel and her husband Lloyd, 38, were originally charged with manslaughter. Magistrate Hallett said Tuesday it would be difficult to produce enough evidence to proceed against Mr. Ethel.

Detective James Bryan said Mrs. Westerfield had had three previous abortions performed on her, but mentioned no names or places. She and Mr. Westerfield were divorced, he said, but had resumed living together.

Predict Frost For Many Parts of Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Frosts were predicts for many Ontario areas tonight as cloudy skies and blistery winds today ended the province's brief romance with summer.

The Dominion weather bureau here predicted temperature drops to 40 degrees following several days of heat and balmy, particularly in the south where temperatures were in the 80s Tuesday.

Tuesday winds up to 30 miles an hour were expected to move into southern regions, with maximums of 55 to 65 degrees and minimums around 30 degrees forecast for much of the area.

But the bureau had better news for Northern Ont. where temperatures plunged into the 30s Tuesday and added snow flurries swept regions as far south as Georgian Bay.

A high pressure area starting to move across the upper Lakes district today will bring intermittent sunshine and the beginning of a warming trend.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, May 19, 1964

Prime Minister Pearson challenged the opposition to move non-confidence votes in the government on the flag issue.

He said he prefers a flag that will be built around a maple leaf design.

He also said he hopes O Canada can be made the official national anthem during his parliamentary session.

Gilles Gregoire (Social Credit-Lapointe) said Confederation should be reshaped into a loose union of two associate states.

Finance Minister Gordon proposed a three-year extension of existing bank charters which expire July 1.

The Commons completed clause-by-clause study of Income Tax Act amendments.

Judge Sparling said that he hoped "this body will come to a decision that it wants the people of Canada to decide the (flag) matter."

Legion Firm On Stand for Red Ensign

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Royal Canadian Legion stood firm Tuesday on its demand that the Red Ensign be Canada's national flag.

In a shouted voice vote the 1,500 delegates at the legion's national convention approved a resolution favoring the Red Ensign under which many fought.

At the same time the delegates voted to have the convention send telegrams to every member of the House of Commons outlining the legion's stand.

The moves came at the end of Tuesday's sessions, several hours after Prime Minister Pearson disclosed in Ottawa that the federal cabinet had decided on a maple leaf design for the national flag.

The convention decided to put its "Canadian" resolution immediately in view of what one delegate described as the "emergency nature" of the situation. Despite Tuesday's vote, there will be further debate on the resolution at today's session.

READS STORY

Earlier, Judge C. C. Sparling of Winnipeg, national legion president, read from Canadian Press story of the federal cabinet decision on a national flag to assembled delegates.

Judge Sparling said he was bitterly disappointed in the federal move and told the assembly that all legion members and veterans across Canada shared his opinion.

He said veterans will "be particularly disappointed that the prime minister has seen fit to make a decision on the flag of Canada before the veterans have made a definitive statement."

Judge Sparling said that he hoped "this body will come to a decision that it wants the people of Canada to decide the (flag) matter."

UN Diplomats Wonder Whether Cyprus Force Should Be Kept

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The mandate of the United Nations force on Cyprus has another five weeks to run, but UN diplomats already are starting to think about whether it should be kept in action.

For the West, the question is easy. Western diplomats say the force, and the mediation machinery with it, has barely started to function.

And they regard with considerable dismay reports that the Greek-Cypriot government of Archbishop Makarios is negotiating to buy war planes, torpedo boats and other heavy weapons.

The UN force, now with a strength of 7,000 men, went into action officially on March 27. It is authorized to stay until June 27, but no one seriously expects that period will be settled over the stormy little island by then.

Diplomats are looking to a Security Council debate mid-June, or a little earlier, to renew the mandate, probably for another three months.

There is no indication yet whether the Western parties involved will be content with the same terms under which the force now is operating.

HARDER TO DEAL WITH

The Soviet Union, which approved the original March 4 resolution of the council setting up the force, may be a little harder to deal with this time, especially if Makarios is unhappy with the work of the force.

Countries contributing men can be expected to ask for tougher terms of reference for the force, and a wider financing base.

By and large, the western countries are well satisfied with the result produced by the UN operation in its first eight weeks.

Fighting has not been eliminated, but this is no cause for surprise. And the worst fear in the West, that all-out fighting would flare up and involve NATO allies Greece and Turkey, has been avoided.

While the force went into Cyprus with the aim of avoiding clashes, it has shown itself ready to fight when the occasion demands. And its commander, Lt.-Gen. Prem Singh Gyani of India, has demonstrated clearly that he is not working for either side in the struggle between the Turkish and Greek communities.

LESS SUCCESSFUL

The work of Finnish mediator Sakari Tuomioja has been less successful, but that also of causes no surprise. From the start the task of finding a basis for settlement that would be acceptable to both sides was considered near impossible.

Western sources in the UN take a somewhat more hopeful view of the chances of the second UN mediator on the scene, Dr. Plaza Lasso of Ecuador. He is charged with negotiating the removal of roadblocks and fortifications and the reintegration of Turkish - Cypriots into public services.

The hope is that a return to relatively normal conditions, along with an extended UN presence, can eventually produce a climate in which the two factions can find a meeting ground.

Barbiturate Poisoning Cause of Death

CORNWALL (CP)—The death of Adrien Couture, a resident of Hawkesbury man sought for two weeks on charges of impersonation, was due to a drug caused by "poisoning by barbiturates," Prescott County Coroner Dr. Peter Turner said Tuesday.

Dr. Perrier said Couture, whose partly-decomposed body was found Sunday in a field five miles east of here, probably committed suicide. He said an autopsy performed by pathologist Dr. W. J. Shannon in Cornwall Sunday night showed the man had been dead more than 48 days.

Couture interned for almost two years at a Burlington, Ont., hospital suffering from insane Couture. He was last seen May 2 when he left his wife and children at their home at Hawkesbury, Ont., and said he was driving to Burlington to dispose charges he had posed as an imposter. His body was found lying on a blanket near a small creek Sunday by two local fishermen.

Couture joined the staff at Brant Memorial Hospital at Burlington in March, 1962, as a junior doctor and left that January to carry out a general practice with an older doctor at Hilbrie, a small village north of Burlington. He stayed only a short time at Kilbride, leaving after a disagreement with the local police department. At Hawkesbury with his wife and two sons, aged five and two.

Police officials at Burlington said Couture had papers showing him to be a graduate of the University of Bologna in Medicine and a "limited license" to practise issued by the College of Physicians and Surgeons. They said he had always worked under supervision at the hospital.

After a detailed investigation by the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons, a warrant was sworn out at Burlington charging Couture with impersonating a doctor. The only Dr. Andre Couture listed in the Canadian Medical Directories at Chicoutimi, Que., and says he has never been in Ontario and none of his credentials had been stolen.

Tomato Plants Out Earlier This Season

PICTON (Staff) — Tomato plants will be out earlier this season. In an attempt to extend the growing season past the frost stage, East Lake Canners have started to let out tomato plants to growers earlier than ever before. Usually it is at least the 24th of May before the plants are set out. This year some were out by May 11th.

All last week growers were trucking plants from Greenhouse where the East Lake Canning Company buys its plants.

Another Wellington greenhouse, that of Jim Cleminson's, will start letting out plants this week for Baxter growers.

Mr. Cleminson raises about a million and a half plants, the leading variety being the Vicedor type. Vineland Red and Heinz 1350 come next in line.

"My plants have never looked better," remarked Jim Cleminson, last week.

Independence Day Is Calm In Havana

HAVANA (Reuters)—Havana was outwardly calm today—National independence day—amid conflicting reports from Miami of sabotage by exile forces on Cuban territory.

(A report by Cuban exile sources in Miami, Florida reached city Tuesday that anti-Castro raiders had blown up six bridges in Cuba.

(The raiders were led by Manuel Artime, leader of the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion in April, 1961, the sources said. (The exiles, who are connected with Artime's Revolutionary Recovery Movement (MRR), said the leader would issue a communique about the operation shortly from "somewhere in Central America."

Observers, the report caused confusion among spokesmen for the exile group in Miami. Helga Supe, chief press officer of the MRR, said: "We know nothing of this.")

(In still another report Manuel Ray, another prominent anti-Castro leader, said on his way to Cuba with highly-trained saboteurs and intelligence.

Cuban newspapers and radio and television stations did not carry the slightest hint of hostile activity.

Minister of Industries Ernesto (Che) Vuevara said in a speech Sunday that further raids by exile groups could be expected because "the United States is behind them."

TAX RATE SET

PICTON (Staff)—Residents of Ameliasburgh township will pay 41 mills on their commercial assessment, and 38.3 mills on their residential and farm assessment this year.

Public school rates are to be struck at a special date, but clerk-treasurer William Nightingale says there is little difference from those of last year.

The rates last year, 44.98 and 41.79 mills, are higher because council budgeted to eliminate a deficit of $3,300, and to provide a surplus of $2,000 to be used for working capital.

The new rate provides 16.6 mills for the county; 15.1 mills for the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, and a general purpose levy of 9.2 mills commercial, and 6.8 mills residential.

Local Radio Station CJBQ Given Permission to Carry Football Games With CFRB

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors announced Tuesday that it will hold another public hearing on color television this fall with a view to determining what color TV can be introduced into Canada.

The board said in a statement it will receive briefs and representations on color TV at its public hearing opening here Nov. 3.

"The board is interested in receiving the views of broadcasters, the manufacturers of color receivers and other interested persons concerning the development of color telecasting techniques and the date on which color telecasting might begin in this country," the statement said.

Following a public hearing in January, 1963, the BBG announced that the time had not yet arrived when it could recommend a start on color TV in Canada.

Since then, the board says it has maintained its study of the color TV situation in the United States and has held discussions with Canadian broadcasters concerning a possible target date for introduction of color TV here.

The board announced amendments of its TV regulations to allow the Canadian content requirement for TV stations to be reduced temporarily during the summer months from June 21 to Sept. 30 to 45 per cent from 55. This practice has been followed in previous years.

The BBG turned down an application to establish an FM radio station by Tillsonburg Broadcasting Company Limited on the grounds that the board did not think the application was well-conceived. The BBG also was not satisfied that a station, as proposed, could operate successfully in Tillsonburg.

A power increase to 10,000 from 5,000 watts in the daytime was approved for radio station CKEY Toronto. The BBG considered the increase would provide an improved service to listeners.

Formal approval was given for radio station CFPL and CFPL-FM London to move its studio location to 353-381 Fourth Street, London.

A CBC application to set up new power relay radio transmitters at Terrace Bay and Kapuskasing, and to change frequency of CJBQ Belleville River to 1,010 from 1,340 kilocycles was endorsed.

Radio station CJBQ Belleville was given authority to form a network with CFRB Toronto to carry football games of the Eastern Conference playoff football games this fall.

Crediteuse House Leader Wants 2 'Associate States'

OTTAWA (CP) — Crediteuse House Leader Gilles Gregoire (Social Credit-Lapointe) said the country must choose between separatist terrorism and demonstrations will continue in Quebec and Confederation should be reshaped into a loose union of two "associate states."

He also told the government's decision to proceed soon with a distinctive national flag comes too late for Expo 67 celebrations.

What French Canadians wanted was much more fundamental—an autonomous, self-governing state."

Mr. Gregoire sought unsuccessfully to secure a statement to the government income tax legislation that will increase the provincial share of tax fees by about $200,000,000 by 1966.

Under his amendment, the federal government would withdraw entirely from the fields of personal and corporate income taxes and death duties by 1967.

GORDON COMMENTS

Finance Minister Gordon, who was piloting the tax amendments in committee of the whole, commented that to give the provinces sole power over all the taxes would weaken the federal government to the point where it would be unable to fulfil its responsibilities.

The government had no intention of abdicating these respon-sibilities. He said the federal government occupied the direct tax field before the provinces did.

Jean-Luc Pepin (L—Drummond - Arthabaska) remarked that Mr. Gregoire is "sick."

He asked how the federal government could continue to ex-ercise its responsibilities if it turned over all direct taxes to the provinces. What sources of revenue would be left?

Mr. Gregoire replied that the federal government would have to withdraw from education, highway construction, hospital insurance, agricultural forestry and other "provincial fields" it had invaded in violation of the constitution.

ASKS REBUILDING

"Let us rebuild Confederation in such that we will have two associate states — English and French.

Quebec wanted "total autonomy," "self-government." The government's plan to give provinces a larger share of income tax was too little, too late.

Earlier, Mr. Gordon told his colleagues, Gerald Fauteux (PC—Digby-Annapolis - Kings), that the proposed Canada Pension Plan will not increase the revenue of the federal and provincial governments, on the contrary it will mean contributions to the plan would be tax-deductible.

But this would be offset by the large investments drawn from the pension plan fund, which would stimulate growth.

Highway of History

Columbia River Will Be Soon Broken Forever To the Hydro Harness

By DAVE STOCKAND

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Columbia is a highway of history through the great northwest of Canada and the United States as well as the kilowatt and cash - on - the - barrelhead river of 20th century treaty-makers and power-developers.

Now that storage dams are coming to its Canadian waters, new great stretches of the bronco - wild river of David Thompson, Lewis and Clark and a supporting cast of river-men, rogues and redskins will be broken forever to the hydro harness.

The fur trade brought the first white men to the Columbia, its entrance hidden by bar and breakers until the Yankee Captain Robert Gray found passage through the barriers with his merchantman Columbia on May 11, 1792.

This, then, is mainly about the early explorers and the river that beckoned them in the days before salmon had to take escalators to reach their spawning grounds, scenery wasn't submerged by seas of stored water, and sewage and pollution problems weren't even a sniff on the far horizon.

First, the river:

The Columbia begins its 1,200 miles of majestic confusion leading to the Pacific in a small mountain lake in British Columbia some 80 miles northeast of the point where Idaho, Montana and B.C. meet.

FLOWS NORTH

The young squirt of a freshet will eventually empty as a giant into the ocean at Astoria, Ore., but in the beginning it strikes north from its Columbia Lake headwaters between the Selkirk and Rocky Mountains with an urgency that suggests an important appointment in the High Arctic.

The Columbia flows north for more than 200 miles before escaping around the western barrier of the Selkirks and taking a sudden lance-thrust south at a 130-mile respite in the beauty of B.C.'s Upper and Lower Arrow Lakes.

Byond the Arrows the Columbia is a river once more.

It flows meandered 200 miles through B.C., and soon it will be an American river. But for all its wandering, when it crosses the Washington state border just south of the smelter city of Trail, B.C., it is less than 100 air-miles from its Columbia Lake source.

As it continues south into Washington, the Columbia becomes a lake again in the 150-mile-long-reservoir backed up by the Grand Coulee Dam—that monolithic symbol of hope started in the Depression 1930s by the Roosevelt administration.

FORMS BOUNDARY

Even with the spillways of the Grand Coulee behind it, the Columbia is still a wanderer. Lava beds force it to make a great bend westward just below the mouth of the tributary Spokane River.

Then the course is south, once more, until—after its juncture with the Snake River—the Columbia makes a final thrust west in which it serves as the boundary between Oregon and Washington on its way to the sea.

Only two North American rivers—the Mississippi and the St. Lawrence—carry more water than the Columbia. It is nourished along the way by powerful tributaries: The Kicking Horse, Kootenay and Pend Oreille in Canada; the Spokane, the Okanogan, the Snake in the United States.

It carries water from a drainage basin of nearly 260,000 square miles which includes a chunk of British Columbia, nearly all Idaho, most on Washington and Oregon, western Montana and smaller areas in Wyoming and Nevada and the northwestern tip of Utah.

The tributaries caused considerable confusion in days gone by when there were great gaps on the maps.

BRITISH-U.S. QUARRELL

Some Americans hit upon the theory that the Columbia began with the Pend Oreille which has its headwaters not far from Butte, Mont., and which joins the Columbia, the true Columbia, just above the Canada-U.S. border.

Tidy as the theory was, it didn't hold water. And it would have left the Americans high and dry in the days ahead when the Columbia's upstream bonefide became the subject of international power negotiations.

Discovery of the Columbia in 1792 opened a quarrel between the United States and Britain—"54-40 or Fight" and "Manifest Destiny" were the American battle cries—that was settled only when joint occupancy of the area in 1846 and the Canadian boundary was fixed on the 49th parallel.

Robert Gray, the American, came to the Columbia in May, 1792. Britain staked a claim in October when Lieut. William R. Broughton also navigated safe passage as one of Capt. George Vancouver's commanders.

Despite Gray's visit—admittedly Gray was interested in furs not territory—Broughton formally took possession of the river and the country in the name of King George—"having reason to believe that the subjects of no other civilized nation or state had entered the river before."

REPORT TO PRESIDENT

But the Americans had ideas of their own. The American explorers William Clark and Merriwether Lewis came overland to the mouth of the Columbia, starting down the great river where it is joined by the Snake.

"Ocean in view," Clarke wrote on Nov. 7, 1805. "O! The Joy."

The Lewis and Clark party wintered in a soggy camp at the Columbia's mouth on a diet of salmon and superannuated elk.

When no ships happened by—the history of the early Columbia seems at times to be populated entirely by people waiting for ships that didn't arrive—they made their homeward journey overland to report to President Thomas Jefferson.

None of the early explorers lacked for company — sometimes hostile The Columbia country was the home of a swarm of Indian tribes with a one gabble of tongues and a grab-bag of customs.

There were, for instance, the wily Wishram. In his book Columbia, Murray Morgan writes:

"Unlike their neighbors, the Wishram always sent word when they intended to attack. This habit often resulted in their being met by superior forces. When confronted by a larger army, the Wishram invariably withdrew. Thus, though they often declared war, the Wishrm were seldom involved in actual conflict."

FOUND HEADQUARTERS

The next chapters in Columbia history were written by the men of the immigrant American John Jacob Astor and David Thompson of the Northwest Company, explorer and astronomer and the first white man to see the headwaters of the geolumbia,

When Astorians who had come by sea were camped at the mouth of the Columbia in 1811, they were heartened by the sight of a canoe coming down the river carrying a white man.

They thought a long-overdue overland party had finally made it. Not so. It was Thompson out on one of his continental rambles—this time a "Voyage to the Mouth of the Columbia, by the Grce of God, by D. Thompson and Seven Men."

Astor's plan was to trade for furs and sell them in China where they fetched enormous sums. The Norwesters, later swallowed up by the Hud-on's Bay Company, were building up their own stake in the Columbia country with Thompson as their pathfinder.

The War of 1812 gave the Norwesters the upper hand and despite the hostilities commerce got top priority from the rival traders.

SENT WARSHIP

The Norwesters reported that a British warship was on its way to capture Fort Astoria, and suggested that the Astor partners sell the post and business to the Northwest Company, a Canadian outfit, rather than be blown to pieces by the Royal Navy.

This was done and when the warship Raccoon arrived loaded for bear a disgruntled captain and crew found the fort already in British hands

The joint occupancy of the Oregon territory which Britain and the U.S. agreed upon when the fighting had stopped gave way subsequently to the pressures of the American population flow westward.

In the book The Columbia, one of the Rivers of America series, author Stewart H. Holbrook noted:

"The covered wagon- of 1845 with their 3,000 immigrants must have indicated which flag was to fly over the Oregon Country. It mattered little that American immigration in the INTERNATIONAL RIVER — Flowing 1,200 miles through southern British Columbia and the United States northwest, the Columbia River originates in a small mountain lake in British Columbia some 80 miles northeast of the point where Idaho, Montana and B.C. meet. It flows north for 200 miles before turning south to continue its journey to Astoria, Oregon.

(CP Newsmap)

Following year dropped to half that number, for in that year joint occupancy came to an end. The boundary was fixed at the 49th parallel."

Physically, the Columbia changed little until the dam-building boom of this century which has given the U.S. the Grand Coulee, the Bonneville, the Dalles, the McNary and Chief Joseph dams—and fed the great controversy of public versus private power.

In an estimate of a few years ago projects on the Columbia and its tributaries—some constructed, some under construction, others authorized or merely proposed—were said to number more than 200.

Now it's Canada's turn.

Finnish Soldier Killed In 2-Hour Fight With Turks

Patrol Car Guarding Farmers Is Attacked

By ALEX EFTY

NICOSIA (AP) — Turkish Cypriots were blamed today for the first fatality in the UN peace force on Cyprus.

UN headquarters announced a Finnish radio operator, Juhanu Matikainen, 37, was killed Wednesday night in a two-hour battle between Turkish - Cypriots and Finnish patrols.

A UN statement said Matikainen was hit by three bullets while sitting in his patrol car in fields near the Turkish village of Kaoli, six miles northwest of Nicosia.

The car had accompanied a recovery team to aid another Finnish vehicle that broke down while providing an escort for farmers bringing in their harvest.

Turkish positions fired about 30 shots at the Finnish vehicle, the UN statement said. Lt.-Col. U. Kettinen, commander of the Finnish battalion, hurried to the area with a platoon and two armored personnel carriers in response for a radio plea for help.

Though the Finns called out their identities, the shooting continued. The Finns returned the fire.

Matikainen was struck once in the head and twice in the chest. The firing stopped after he was hit.

Umit Suleyman, a representative of the Turkish Cypriot Leader Fazil Kuchuk, expressed "deep regret" at the incident. He said he would conduct a full investigation and report to the UN force.

The Finnish soldier's death came after Kuchuk expressed shock that President Makarios, the Greek Orthodox archbishop, was unable to trace 35 to 45 Turkish - Cypriots reported abducted since shooting incidents in the port of Famagusta 10 days ago.

Kuchuk also said an additional 223 Turkish-Cypriots were missing since the communal strife began in December.

Troops of the international force force have been fired on a number of times since they took up their task on Cyprus in March, but heretofore the few casualties have only been wounded.

A British soldier was shot in the leg in Nicosia April 24 and two other Britons were injured

Big Trade Surplus For Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada had surplus of $120,000,000 in its world-wide trade in the first three months of this year. This was sharply higher than the $71,900,000 surplus in the same period of 1963.

The figures released Wednesday by the bureau of statistics were significant, however, in indicating a strong pull on imports exerted by demands in the rising domestic economy. These added imports outstripped export gains in trade with the U.S.

The bureau estimated that the Canadian trade deficit with the United States grew in the first quarter to $247,000,000 from $153,400,000 in the corresponding 1963 period. In March alone the deficit rose to $79,600,000 from $53,400,000 a year earlier.

This has occurred although government policy in correcting the chronic overseas account deficit in the balance of international payments has been aimed almost exclusively at whittling the deficit in the U.S.

In the January-March period this year imports from the U.S. climbed by 17.5 per cent to $1,211,300,000 from $1,030,800,000 in first-quarter 1963. Exports in the same period to the U.S. rose by a smaller amount—up 9.8 per cent to $964,300,000 from $878,-400,000.

Partly offsetting that deficit was a growing surplus in Canadian trade with Britain. While imports from Britain were up 21.6 per cent in the three-month period, sales to Britain advanced even faster by 37.3 per cent to swell the surplus to $141,800,000 compared with $106,800,000 a year earlier.

In trade with the rest of the Commonwealth, Canada increased its first-quarter surplus to $31,100,000 from $25,300,000 a year earlier.

Trade with all other countries saw Canadian exports about up by 45.8 per cent while imports advanced 18.4 per cent. This meant an over-all trade surplus with this group of $94,300,000 in the three months—more than double the $62,300,000 surplus a year earlier.

Jack Frost Beats Quick Retreat Under Onslaught by Farmers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack Frost appeared to have beaten a quick retreat today under a combined onslaught by aircraft, smudge pots and sprinkler systems.

The first frost of the year early today threatened thousands of acres of tomato and fruit crops in parts of southwestern and southern Ontario, but farmers were confident they had beaten the danger.

In Kent and Lambton counties north of Chatham where temperatures dipped to 25 degrees, 29 planes early today swooped over tomato crops and orchards to churn the air and mix warmer upper levels with the cold ground-level air.

Warm smoke from smudge pots drifted across the land and many farmers turned on their irrigation systems to wash the frost from their crops.

In the Niagara Peninsula, where temperatures dropped on a number of times since they took up their task on Cyprus in March, but heretofore the few casualties have only been wounded.

12-Mile Zone Is Accepted

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—The proposed 12-mile fishing zone, a hot issue in the 1960 and 1963 election campaigns on the east and west coasts, was discussed in the Commons Wednesday in cool, almost non-partisan tones.

External Affairs Minister Martin opened the debate by praising the former Conservative government for its "most strenuous efforts" to enlist support abroad for the 12-mile zone.

J. Angus MacLean, former Conservative fisheries minister, responded with general support for the objectives of a government bill giving the cabinet authority to extend the fishing limit to 12 miles from three.

There were only two speakers as debate began on the bill's second reading, approval in principle.

NDP IS CRITICAL

New Democrats have attacked the bill outside the House for giving the cabinet too much discretion in drawing the baseline from headland to headland. The straight limit is three miles from the shoreline, with due account taken of bays and inlets.

Today, the Commons considered an interim supply bill to pay the government's routine expenses in June. Next on the order paper is a measure to extend the charters of nine commercial banks for a year until July 1 and the fishing limit bill.

The banking legislation was given first reading Wednesday but second reading was blocked by Creditiste and Social Credit MPs who are pressing the government to apply Social Credit monetary theories.

The House gave final approval to budget changes in the Income Tax Act over the opposition of Gilles Gregoire, Creditiste financial critic. He again accused income tax inspectors of persecuting Quebec taxpayers who claim deductions for charitable donations to the Roman Catholic Church.

Tex Johnson Evaluated

Bouncy as Teddy, Bolder Than Harry

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson, who will be in the White House another year Friday, is the bounciest president since Theodore Roosevelt and more willing to stick his neck out than any president since Harry S. Truman.

He went into the heart of the segregation country — Atlanta — to make a speech on civil rights and was almost mobbed by happy Georgians.

He promised to shut down needless military bases and got surprisingly little bad reaction,

GET VIEWS ON FLAG — Muriel Howe, a secretary in the prime minister's office at Ottawa, sorts some of the 300 telegrams received from across the country commenting on the government's new Canadian flag design. About 70 per cent of the messages received favored the maple-leaf design announced by Prime Minister Pearson. (CP Wirephoto)

New Flag Will Not Get Any Argument From Experts

OTTAWA (CP)—If the government brings in a new Canadian flag featuring three red maple leaves on a white background, there isn't likely to be any arguments from the experts in heraldry.

Canada's official emblem is three maple leaves conjoined on a single stem. The country's national colors are white and red. And the combination of colors and leaves have been used in various ways on distinctive Canadian devices since 1867.

Although there's no authoritative explanation, the three-leaf idea is suggested as symbolizing the unity of English, French and other ethnic groups in a single Canada.

The heraldry enthusiasts are more likely to raise their voices in protest if the flag is decorated with two blue bars at each side—a design Prime Minister Pearson has said he has a "hankering" for although he agrees it's not proper from a heraldry viewpoint.

One long-time student of heraldry has written to a member of Parliament saying it would be "unthinkable" to add blue to the official red and white. Anyway, says the letter, two vertical blue bars do not represent the "sea-to-sea" motto—that job is done by a wavy horizontal line.

And to complete the argument against the blue, he says: "The assumed 'distinction' of extending from sea to sea is shared by 42 other nations."

But Parliament can adopt any design it wants, regardless of heraldry.

Special Hospital Services May Cost Patients Extra Fee

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal placed before the Canadian Hospital Association's annual convention Wednesday suggests that government hospital insurance plans be amended to permit hospitals to charge patients a daily fee of up to $3 for special services.

George McCracken of Toronto, assistant director of the association, said the proposal would provide extra revenue, above that received under the federal - provincial insurance plans, for hospitals that wished to provide special services.

These services were not defined in the proposal, but association officials indicated that they could be whatever new facilities the individual hospital wished to have installed.

If, for example, a hospital board wished to purchase a cobalt therapy unit for cancer treatment if it could use funds raised by the fee.

The fee would be charged to all patients entering that partic-

U.S. Will Aid Foes Of Reds

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson pledged today that the United States will continue to defend Southeast Asia against Communist attacks as long as the people of the area are determined to preserve their independence.

The chief U.S. delegate charged that the clear aim of the Indochinese Communist party and the Communist leadership of North Viet Nam "is to take over control of all Indochina."

Stevenson, who rushed back Wednesday from a European tour, told the United Nations Security Council that the United States has consistently come to the aid of peoples attacked from the outside.

And it will do so again, he said, "unless the lesson is learned once and for all by all aggressors that armed aggression does not pay—that it no longer works—that it will not be tolerated."

TURN FOR THE WORSE

He asserted that the crisis in Southeast Asia "has taken a turn for the worse."

"My government takes a very grave view of these events," he added. "Those who are responsible have set foot upon an exceedingly dangerous path."

The council debate originally was sparked by a Cambodian charge that the U.S. and South Viet Nam had committed aggression in recent border inci-

Govt. Appears Certain To Win Vote In House

Pearson Will Describe Design to Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today the cabinet has agreed unanimously on a new flag design, which he will describe to the Commons. He did not say exactly when he will do this.

Mr. Pearson said the government's decision will be embodied in a resolution which he hopes to put before the Commons next week.

However, he told reporters, he would describe the new flag in general terms if asked about it when the Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. EDT today.

OTTAWA (CP)—The government appeared as the result of party caucus meetings Wednesday to be virtually certain of winning any House of Commons vote that comes up on Prime Minister Pearson's intention to introduce a maple leaf flag for Canada.

Mr. Pearson reiterated in the Commons after the caucus meetings that he does not intend to hold a national referendum on the subject, but to stand or fall in the Commons on his cabinet's decision on the flag design.

While the flag issue was discussed — sometimes heatedly — in the private party caucuses Wednesday, spokesmen were reticent about describing the debates in detail.

WILL GET VOTES

Putting together the bits of information that did leak from the caucus meetings, it appeared the government will pick up enough votes from opposition party members to sustain it even if some Liberal MPs vote against the prime minister's choice.

An overwhelming number of Mr Pearson's Liberal followers are expected to support the new flag design in whatever final form it emerges.

In Conservative ranks, feelings cut through any feelings of loyalty to the party stand, whatever it may be when crystalized. Quebec and western Conserva-

Veterans Ease Stand On Transfer

By KEN CLARK

Winnipeg (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion Wednesday eased its stand against operational transfer of veterans' hospitals to local civilian control, but called for safeguards in the event of changeover.

A resolution approved at the national convention asked the legion be consulted by the veterans affairs department at the outset of any negotiations for transfer.

The department runs the 11 veterans hospitals in Canada. The resolution said the legion and the department should reach "mutual agreement" on any transfer.

At the same time the resolution asked that no transfer be effected until adequate domiciliary care elsewhere is actually in being.

Moreover "if and when any active treatment hospital facilities are shared with civilian authorities, the department of veterans' affairs must control the admission, the care and the discharge of all veterans and provision must be made for their admittance regardless of the pressure of civilian demands."

APPROVED IN VOTE

The resolution was approved in a voice vote by the 1,500 delegates.

Veterans Minister Teillet first announced federal plans to transfer some hospitals March 16. The decision brought strong legion protests.

At the convention a resolution was proposed to place the legion against any changes, but delegates reached it in the wake of an explanatory speech by Mr. Teillet on Monday.

The apparent demise of the hospital issue still left the question of Canada's national flag alive and kicking on the convention floor.

Head-table officials indicated a flag resolution prepared by the resolutions committee will be presented today. Delegates made repeated attempts Wednesday to raise the question.

One floor resolution called for

Nasser and Khrushchev Debate What Is Best for Arab World

CAIRO (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Egyptian President Nasser engaged in a public debate Wednesday on what is best for the Arab world. The Soviet leader then tried to patch up differences with Nasser.

It was the first open break in the overwhelmingly friendly atmosphere that had prevailed since Khrushchev arrived May 9 to win friends in the United Arab Republic on a 17-day state visit.
